of the new leaders without a murmur. The city was wild with excitement, for all believed that the war was upon them. There was but one shadow overhanging the glorious optimism of Graustark—the ugly, menacing attitude of Axphain. Even the Duke of Mizrox could give no assurance that his country would remain neutral.

Colonel Quinnox came to the castle in haste and perturbation. It was he who propounded the question that Yetive and Beverly were expecting, "Where is Baldos?" Of course the flight of the suspected guard was soon a matter of certainty. A single imploring glance from the princess, meant for the faithful Quinnox alone, told him as plainly as words could have said that she had given the man his freedom. And Quinnox would have died a thousand times to protect the secret of his sovereign, for had not twenty generations of Quinnoxes served the rulers of Graustark with unflinching loyalty? Baron Dangloss may have suspected the trick, but he did not so much as blink when the princess instructed him to hunt high and low for the fugitive.

Marianx came at 11. Under the defiant calmness of his bearing there was lurking a mighty fear. His brain was scourged by thoughts of impending disgrace. The princess had plainly threatened his degradation. After all these years he was to tremble with shame and humiliation; he was to cringe where he had always boasted of domineering power. And besides all this Marianx had a bullet wound in his left shoulder! The world could not have known, for he knew how to conceal pain.

He approached the slender, imperious judge in the council chamber with a defiant leer on his face. If he went down into the depths he would drag with him the fairest treasure he had coveted in all his years of lust and desire.

"A word with you," he said in an aside to Beverly as she came from the council chamber, in which she felt she should not sit. She stopped and faced him. Instinctively she looked to see if he bore evidence of a wound. She was positive that her bullet had struck him the night before and that Marianx was the man with the cloak.

"Well?" she said coldly. He read her thoughts and smiled, even as his shoulder burned with pain.

"I will give you the chance to save yourself. I love you. I want you. I must have you for my own," he was saying.

"Stop, sir! It may be your experience in life that women kneel to you when you command. It may be your habit to win what you set about to win. But you have a novel way of presenting your devoirs, I must say. Is this the way in which you won the five unfortunates whom you wept me to succeed? Did you scare them into submission?"

"No, no! I cared nothing for them. You are the only one I ever loved"—

"Really, Count Marianx, you are most amusing," she interrupted, with a laugh that stung him to the quick. "You have been unique in your lovemaking. I am not used to your methods. Besides, after having known them, I'll confess that I don't like them in the least. You may have been wonderfully successful in the past, but you were not dealing with an American girl. I have had enough of your insults. Go in and face"—

"Have a care, girl!" he snarled. "I have it in my power to crush you."

"Pooh!" came scornfully from her lips. "If you molest me further I shall call Mr. Lorry. Let me pass!"

"Just glance at this paper, my beauty. It goes before the eyes of the council unless you"— He paused significantly.

Beverly took the document and with dilated eyes read the revolting charges against her honor. Her cheeks grew white with anger, then flushed a deep crimson.

"You fiend!" she cried, glaring at him so fiercely that he instinctively shrank back, the vicious grin dying in his face. "I'll show you how much I fear you. I shall give this revolting thing to the princess. She may read it to the cabinet, for all I care. No one will believe you. They'll kill you for this!"

She turned and flew into the presence of the princess and her ministers. Speeding to the side of Yetive, she thrust the paper into her hands. Surprise and expectancy filled the eyes of all assembled.

"Count Marianx officially charges me with—with—read it, your highness!" she cried distractedly.

Yetive read it, pale faced and cold. A determined gleam appeared in her eyes as she passed the document to her husband

"Allods," Lorry said to an attendant, after a brief glance at its revolting contents, "ask Count Marianx to appear here instantly. He is outside the door."

Lorry's anger was hard to control. He clinched his hands and there was a fine suggestion of throttling in the way he did it. Marianx, entering the room, saw that he was doomed. He had not expected Beverly to take this appalling step. The girl, tears in her eyes, rushed to a window, hiding her face from the wondering ministers. Her courage suddenly failed her. If the charges were read aloud before these men it seemed to her that she never could lift her eyes again. A mighty longing for Washington, her father and the big Calhoun boys rushed to her heart as she stood there and awaited the crash. But Lorry was a true nobleman.

"Gentlemen," he said quietly, "Count Marianx has seen fit to charge Miss Calhoun with complicity in the flight of Baldos. I will not read the charges to you. They are unworthy of one who has held the highest position in the army of Graustark. He has"—

"Read this, my husband, before you proceed further," said Yetive, thrusting into his hand a line she had written with feverish haste. Lorry smiled gravely before he read aloud the brief edict which removed General Marianx from the command of the army of Graustark.

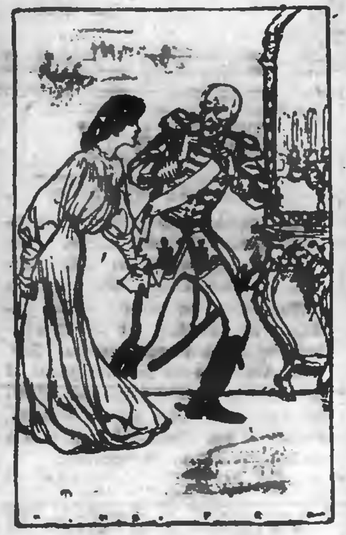
"Is this justice?" protested Marianx angrily. "Will you not give me a hearing? I beseech"—

"Silence!" commanded the princess. "What manner of hearing did you expect to give Miss Calhoun? It is enough, sir. There shall be no cowards in my army."

"Coward?" he faltered. "Have I not proved my courage on the field of battle? Am I to be called a"—

"Bravery should not end when the soldier quits the field of battle. You have had a hearing, Count Marianx. I heard the truth about you last night."

"From Miss Calhoun?" sneered he viciously. "I must be content to accept this dismissal, your highness. There is no hope for me. Some day you may pray God to forgive you for the wrong you have done your most loyal servant. There is no appeal from your decision, but as a subject of Graustark I insist that Miss Calhoun shall be punished for aiding in the escape of this spy and traitor. He is gone, and it was she who led him through the castle to the outer world. She cannot deny this, gentlemen. I defy her to say she did not accompany Baldos through the secret passage last night."



"You fiend!" she cried.

"It will do no harm to set herself right by denying this accusation," suggested Count Halfont solemnly. Every man in the cabinet and army had hated Marianx for years. His degradation was not displeasing to them. They would ask no questions.

But Beverly Calhoun stood staring out of the window, out upon the castle park and its gay sunshine. She did not answer, for she did not hear the premier's words. Her brain was whirling madly with other thoughts. She was trying to believe her eyes.

"The spy is gone," cried Marianx, seeing a faint chance to redeem himself at her expense. "She cannot face my charge. Where is your friend, Miss Calhoun?"

Beverly faced them with a strange, subdued calmness in her face. Her heart was throbbing wildly in the shelter of this splendid disguise.

"I don't know what all this commotion is about," she said. "I only know that I have been dragged into it shamelessly by that old man over there. If you step to the window you may see Baldos himself. He has not fled. He is on duty!"

Baldos was striding steadily across the park in plain view of all.

CHAPTER XXVII.

BOTH Yetive and Beverly experienced an amazing sense of relief. They did not stop to consider why or how he had returned to the castle grounds. It was sufficient that he was actually there, sound, well and apparently satisfied.

"I dare say Count Marianx will withdraw his infamous charge against our guest," said Lorry, with deadly directness. Marianx was mopping his damp forehead. His eyes were fastened upon the figure of the guard, and there was something like awe in their steely depths. It seemed to him that the supernatural had been enlisted against him.

"He left the castle last night," he muttered, half to himself.

"There seems to be no doubt of that," agreed Gaspon, the grand treasurer. "Colonel Quinnox reports his strange disappearance." Clearly the case was a puzzling one. Men looked at one another in wonder and uneasiness.

"I think I understand the situation," exclaimed Marianx, suddenly triumphant. "It bears out all that I have said. Baldos left the castle last night, as I have sworn, but not for the purpose of escaping. He went forth to carry information to our enemies. Can any one doubt that he is a spy? Has he not returned to carry out his work? And now, gentlemen, I ask you—would he return unless he felt secure of protection here?"

It was a facer. Yetive and Beverly felt as though a steel trap suddenly had been closed down upon them. Lorry and Anguish were undeniably disconcerted. There was a restless, undecided movement among the ministers.

"Colonel Quinnox, will you fetch Baldos to the veranda at once?" asked Lorry, his quick American perception telling him that immediate action was necessary. "It is cooler out there." He gave Beverly a look of inquiry. She flushed painfully, guiltily, and he was troubled in consequence.

"As a mere subject, I demand the arrest of this man," Marianx was saying excitedly. "We must go to the bottom of this hellish plot to injure Graustark."

"My dear count," said Anguish, standing over him, "up to this time we have been unable to discern any reasons for or signs of the treachery you preach about. I don't believe we have been betrayed at all."

"But I have absolute proof, sir," grated the count.

"I'd advise you to produce it. We must have something to work on, you know."

"What right have you to give advice, sir? You are not one of us. You are a meddler—an impertinent alien. Your heart is not with Graustark, as mine is. How long must we endure the insolence of these Americans?"

The count was fuming with anger. As might have been expected, the easy going Yankees laughed unreservedly at his taunt. The princess was pale with indignation.

"Count Marianx, you will confine your remarks to the man whom you have charged with treachery," she said. "You have asked for his arrest, and you are to be his accuser. At the proper time you will produce the proof. I warn you now that if you do not sustain these charges the displeasure of the crown will fall heavily upon you."

"I only ask your highness to order his arrest," he said, controlling himself. "He is of the castle guard and can be seized only on your command."

"Baldos is at the castle steps, your highness," said Colonel Quinnox from the doorway. The entire party left the council chamber and passed out to the great stone porch. It must be confessed that the princess leaned rather heavily upon Lorry's arm. She and Beverly trembled with anxiety as they stood face to face with the tall guard who had come back to them so mysteriously.

Baldos stood at the foot of the stone steps, a guard on each side of him. One of these was the shamefaced Haddan, Dangloss' watchman, whose vigil had been a failure. The gaze of the suspected guard purposely avoided that of Beverly Calhoun. He knew that the slightest communication between them would be misunderstood and magnified by the witnesses.

"Baldos," said Lorry from the top step, "it has come to our ears that you left the castle surreptitiously last night. Is it true that you were aided by Miss Calhoun?" Baldos looked thankful for this eminently leading question. In a flash it gave him the key to the situation. Secretly he was wondering what emotions possessed the slender accomplice who had said goodby to him not so many hours before at the castle gate. He knew that she was amazed, puzzled by his sudden return. He wondered if she were glad. His quick wits saw that a crisis had arrived. The air was full of it. The dread of this very moment was the thing which had drawn him into the castle grounds at early dawn. He had watched for his chance to glide in unobserved and had snatched a few hours' sleep in the shelter of the shrubbery near the park wall.

"It is not true," he said clearly in answer to Lorry's question. Both Beverly and Marianx started as the sharp falsehood fell from his lips. "Who made such an accusation?" he demanded.

"Count Marianx is our informant."

"Then Count Marianx lies," came coolly from the guard. A snarl of fury burst from the throat of the deposed general. His eyes were red and his tongue was half palsied by rage.

"Dog! Dog!" he shouted, running down the steps. "Infamous dog! I swear by my soul that he"—

"Where is your proof, Count Marianx?" sternly interrupted Lorry. "You have made a serious accusation against our honored guest. It cannot be overlooked."

Marianx hesitated a moment and then threw his bomb at the feet of the conspirators.

"I was in the chapel when she opened the secret panel for him."

Not a word was uttered for a full minute. It was Beverly Calhoun who spoke first. She was as calm as a spring morning.

"If all this be true, Count Marianx, may I ask why you, the head of Graustark's army, did not intercept the spy when you had the chance?"

Marianx flushed guiltily. The question had caught him unprepared. He dared not acknowledge his presence there with the hired assassins.

"I—I was not in a position to restrain him," he mumbled.

"You preferred to wait until he was safely gone before making the effort to protect Graustark from his evil designs. Is that it? What was your object in going to the chapel—to pray? Besides, what right had you to enter the castle in the night?" she asked ironically.

"Your highness, may I be heard?" asked Baldos easily. He was smiling up at Yetive from the bottom of the steps. She nodded her head a trifle uneasily. "It is quite true that I left the castle by means of your secret passage last night."

"There!" shrieked Marianx. "He admits that he"—

"But I wish to add that Count Marianx is in error when he says that Miss Calhoun was my accomplice. His eyes were not keen in the darkness of the sanctuary. Perhaps he is not accustomed to the light one finds in a chapel at the hour of 2. Will your highness kindly look in the direction of the southern gate? Your august gaze may fall upon the reclining figure of a boy asleep there in the shadow of the friendly cedar. If Count Marianx had looked closely enough last night he might have seen that it was a boy who went with me and not"—

"Fool! Don't you suppose I know a woman's skirts?" cried the Iron Count.

"Better than most men, I fancy," calmly responded Baldos. "My young friend wore the garments of a woman, let me add."

Lorry came down and grasped Baldos by the arm. His eyes were stern and accusing. Above, Yetive and Beverly had clasped hands and were looking on dumbly. What did Baldos mean?

"Then, you did go through the passage? And you were accompanied by this boy, a stranger? How comes this, sir?" demanded Lorry. Every eye was accusing the guard at this juncture. The men were descending the steps as if to surround him.

"It is not the first time that I have gone through the passage, sir," said Baldos, amused by the looks of consternation. "I'd advise you to close it. Its secret is known to more than one person. It is known, by the way, to Prince Gabriel of Dawsbergen. It is known to every member of the band with which Miss Calhoun found me when she was a princess. Count Marianx is quite right when he says that I have gone in and out of the castle grounds from time to time. He is right when he says that I have communicated with men inside and outside of these grounds. But he is wrong when he accuses Miss Calhoun of being responsible for or even aware of my reprehensible conduct. She knew nothing of all this, as you may judge by taking a look at her face at this instant."

Beverly's face was a study in emotions. She was looking at him with dilated eyes. Pain and disappointment were concentrated in their expressive gray depths; indignation was struggling to master the love and pity that had lurked in her face all along. It required but a single glance to convince the most skeptical that she was ignorant of these astounding movements on the part of her protege. Again every eye was turned upon the bold, smiling guardsman.

"I have been bitterly deceived in you," said Lorry, genuine pain in his voice. "We trusted you implicitly. I didn't think it of you, Baldos. After all, it is honorable of you to expose so thoroughly your own infamy in order to acquit an innocent person who believed in you. You did not have to come back to the castle. You might have escaped punishment by using Miss Calhoun as a shield from her highness' wrath. But none the less you compel me to give countenance to all that Count Marianx has said."

"I insist that it was Miss Calhoun who went through the panel with him," said Marianx eagerly. "If it was this boy who accompanied you, what was his excuse in returning to the castle after you had fled?"

"He came back to watch over Miss Calhoun while she slept. It was my sworn duty to guard her from the man who had accused her. This boy is a member of the band to which I belong, and he watched while I went forth on a pretty business of my own. It will be useless to ask what that business was. I will not tell. Nor will the boy. You may kill us, but our secrets die with us. This much I will say: We have done nothing disloyal to Graustark. You may believe me or not. It has been necessary for me to communicate with my friends, and I found the means soon after my arrival here. All the foxes that live in the hills have not four legs," he concluded significantly.

"You are a marvel!" exclaimed Lorry, and there was real admiration in his voice. "I'm sorry you were fool enough to come back and get caught like this. Don't look surprised, gentlemen, for I believe in your hearts you admire him quite as much as I do." The faint smile that went the rounds was confirmation enough. Nearly every man there had been trained in English speaking lands and not a word of the conversation had been missed.

"I expected to be arrested, Mr. Lorry," said Baldos calmly. "I knew that the warrant awaited me. I knew that my flight of last night was no secret. I came back willingly, gladly, your highness, and now I am ready to face my accuser. There is nothing for me to fear."

"And after you have confessed to all these actions? By George, I like your nerve!" exclaimed Lorry.

"I have been amply vindicated," cried Marianx. "Put him in irons—and that boy too."

"We'll interview the boy," said Lorry, remembering the lad beneath the tree.

"See; he's sleeping so sweetly," said Baldos gently. "Poor lad, he has not known sleep for many hours. I suppose he'll have to be awakened, poor little beggar."

Colonel Quinnox and Haddan crossed the grounds to the big cedar. The boy sprang to his feet at their call and looked wildly about. Two big hands clasped his arms, and a moment later the slight figure came pathetically across the intervening space between the stalwart guards.

"Why has he remained here, certain of arrest?" demanded Lorry in surprise.

H. J. BRYAN'S COMEDY SUCCESS

"Our Boys" to be Presented Here Next Thursday, April 30th by the Royal Alexandra English Players

If E. S. Willard, the celebrated English actor should suddenly enter the Grand Opera House on the evening of April 30th during the Royal Alexandra English players' sparkling performance of "Our Boys" what a surprise would be in store for him.

In this clever company there are practically all of Mr. Willard's principal support. Mr. William Sauter, leading man and director of the players was Mr. Willard's leading man, playing principal roles in all of the great actor's plays. Mr. Ivan Simpson, of the players, was at the same time, Mr. Willard's leading character actor, while Ernest Stallard is famous as the greatest comedian that Willard ever had, in his support. This is perhaps the greatest recommendation that comes with the players from their home in the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto.

Plan opens tomorrow, Tuesday, morning at 10 o'clock.

HONOR ALL MEN AND LOVE THE BROTHERHOOD

Subject of Sermon by Rev. Canon Davidson at St. John's Church Last Evening on Occasion of Annual Church Parade of Local Lodges of Oddfellows.

"Honour all men, love the Brothhood, Fear God and Honour the King" was the message conveyed to the Peterborough Order of Oddfellows and the Daughters of Rebekah who attended divine service at St. John's church last evening. Over two hundred, including about forty Rebekhas attended and a forcible and inspiring sermon was delivered by Rev. Canon Davidson. The edifice was crowded and chairs had to be placed in the aisles to accommodate all those who desired admittance. The service was entered into with the greatest enthusiasm, the responses, and the singing of the hymns being joined in heartily by everyone present

At 7.45 the Oddfellows assembled at their hall and marched in a body to the church. They were marshalled by Lieut.-Col. Miller. The Daughters of Rebekha gathered at the church and walked in with their brethren.

The familiar hymn, "All hail the Power of Jesus' Name" was the opening one. The first lesson was read by Lieut.-Col. Miller. During the offertory Mr. C. H. Chandler sang "Be faithful unto death."

THE SERMON

Prefacing his remarks Canon Davidson extended a welcome to the visiting orders on behalf of the congregation and took occasion to congratulate them on the magnificent work they were carrying on.

Speaking from the words found in the 17th verse of the second chapter of the first book of Peter, "Honour all men, love the Brotherhood, Fear God and Honour the King," the reverend gentleman impressed upon his hearers the duty they owed to their fellowmen and to God. He stated at the outset that despite the fact that so many times these words have been used as the basis for addresses to lodges, he was impelled as one placed under the Most High to use them on this occasion. "They are valuable words and are as the pendulum of a clock, they tell us our duty" said the speaker. "Just as the workman carries in his pocket his rule, the traveller his compass, the speaker his dictionary, so ought every Christian be armed with the words of the text, as a condensed form of his religion. He should keep them before him. A man that is built on his duty looks out to his fellowman. He recognizes his duty to God and that same duty is one of his greatest assets. It is valuable to himself, to his fellowman and to his God. No friends applaud him but he realises that he is an honest man doing his duty."

"What is our duty," asked the reverend speaker. "It is to honour all men. The world honours men of high position but the apostle says to honour all men, no matter whether he be poor or rich. It is often that those holding the most menial positions are the most courteous and honourable.

Where are we to practice these injunctions? It is in the lodge room. The ritual in which a man is trained as he becomes a member of a society has an elevating influence. It has an indirect good effect on the character.

Then let the splendid training you receive in your lodge fit you for fellowship in the church. Love the brotherhood and get rid of the coldness that exists in many of our religious sects. Teach your fellowman the communion and brotherhood and let strive to practice in our daily lives the words of the text.

It is not necessary to speak about honouring our King. Every member of the society is a patriot and it is needless to dwell upon the duty we owe our sovereign.

We are, as a matter of duty, to fear God. Fear God and keep His commandments. Honour His Holy name and speak of it with reverence. By practicing in our daily walks of life, the message given to us in the words of the apostle, we are honouring God and paying Him that duty due Him."

VOTE OF THANKS

At the conclusion of the service the members paraded back to their hall and votes of thanks were passed to the rector and wardens of St. John's church. Bro. Lieut.-Col Miller, who made the motion expressed the thanks of the order for the warm reception extended them at St. John's church. They had listened to a thoughtful and profitable sermon. He was sure all had enjoyed the service. The motion was seconded by Past Grand Bro. Wm. Hill.

Canon Davidson, who is a member of the order was present and conveyed to his fellow members the pleasure it gave him to deliver them the sermon on the occasion of their annual church parade.

Votes of thanks were also tendered the choir, Col. Miller who has for many years marshalled the Oddfellows, and to the Daughters of Rebekah for the splendid manner in which they turned out.

THOUGHT THE BOTTOM HAD FALLEN OUT OF PARK-ST.

Some people thought that the bottom had fallen out of Park street on Saturday. When a heavy waggon was passing at the corner of Park and Lake streets the wheels broke through the roadbed and sunk to the hubs. The surface of the street was hard, but underneath the crust the earth was very soft, and once the top caved in, the wheels dropped as if there was nothing beneath them. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the waggon out, but it was removed at last and the street commissioner was notified of the condition of the thoroughfare. The necessary repairs were made Saturday afternoon.

SIXTY PER CENT. OF BATTERY STRENGTH FOR QUEBEC TRIP

Major Young, commanding officer of the 24th Field Battery, received word on Saturday that he could take 60 per cent. of the corps to Quebec for the tercentenary celebration there next July.

It had been first decided that only fifty per cent of the strength could be taken, but this order has been revoked and another one made, allowing sixty per cent to be taken. This will be gratifying news to the members of the Battery.

CURRENT UNDERMINES CLAY; DAM WAS NOT SWEPT AWAY

There was a big rush of water in the Otonabee yesterday and it undermined the big mass of clay at the foot of the sawdust pile opposite the power house of the Peterborough Light and Power Company and just a few feet above the plant of the Quaker Oat Company.

The clay had been dumped there while the river was being dredged out and tons of it were washed back into the dredged channel, while a pile of considerable proportion farther down was washed away altogether. The current is still having its effect on the big pile of mud at the foot of the sawdust pile.

Yesterday the river near where the mud was being washed away was noticeably dirty.

There was a rumor afloat this morning that a dam in the river had been swept away causing the river to rise below it and caused the strong current. However, the rumor was found to be without foundation.

MISS GLADYS SEWARD'S RECITAL A WONDERFUL PERFORMANCE

The piano recital by Miss Gladys Seward, a girl of 13 years of age, at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday evening was a great success. The young performer gives evidence of real genius, of being, indeed, a veritable wonder-child. Her first number, the Waldstein Sonata, was her masterpiece, and was wonderfully well played. A fine tone and great dignity of movement characterized it. The valse was full of freshness and freedom with a touch of that peculiar quality which gives it its name. The singing tone of the Chopin nocturne was a revelation and the ballade was very sweetly played. The valse carnavalesque is a descriptive series and was of course well played. Miss Seward has a wonderful technic and exceptional musical memory and a brilliant future in store for her. To Mrs. Collins her teacher and mentor she owes much. Miss O'Shea has a high soprano voice of excellent quality. She is a pupil of Herr Lautz. L'ete of Chaminade was delightfully rendered as was Ave Maria. The programme was an exacting one, but was successfully carried out in every particular.

"VAGS." GIVEN TWO HOURS TO LEAVE CITY

Geo. Valvis and Jas. Lang Appeared Before the Magistrate This Morning

Two vagrants, Jas Lang and Geo. Valois were before His Worship Magistrate Dumble this morning. Two witness, residents on Nicholls Oval, stated that these fellows were hanging around their house and were a source of annoyance to the women and children of the place. Both Lang and Valois denied having begged for their meals. They came from Toronto last Wednesday looking for work but from their actions did not show any great ambition to obtain it.

"Why I have forty cents yet in my pocket," said Valois.

"I'll give you two hours to get out of the city," said His Worship "If you are found here tomorrow you will have to take your medicine," he added.

"We will get right out of here," said Valois, as the two pals left the court.

CHURCH AT GRAFTON WAS DESTROYED

Building Was Completly Burned —Loss a Heavy One

Canon Davidson received word this morning that the church of England at Grafton had been totally destroyed by fire on Saturday morning. Rev. C. H. Brooks is the rector in charge and it was about 2 o'clock Saturday morning that one of his family discovered that the church was burning. The origin of the fire is a mystery as no fire has been used in the church for several days.

It was a very old edifice having been opened 64 years ago and was thoroughly repaired only a short time ago. It was only insured for $1000, so the loss will be heavy.

UNRULY SPIRITS.

The Story That Comes From Italy About a Haunted House.

Italy is steadily producing the champion "spirit" yarns of the decade. The following comes from Ancona and is given in the language of two brother lawyers, the sons of Signor Marracini, public prosecutor:

"Since several days the strangest events have been taking place in our house. Last night we heard repeated knockings and the moving of furniture in uninhabited rooms. Hurrying thither, we heard a rustling and nothing more. Meanwhile there was a curious disturbance in the electric wires, and all the bells in the house began to ring, making a horrible din. Believing that the wires had somehow got into contact, we had the whole installation examined by a competent person, but everything was in order. But the most remarkable thing was the discovery of jets of water springing from the walls and almost flooding the floors. These were seen not only by us, but by other persons as well. Shortly afterward we were in the dining room when we saw milk coming up through the floor. We reported the matter to some workmen, who examined the walls, broke up the floors, raising the blocks, but they did not find the least trace of milk, water or any other liquid.

"Still the prodigies were not finished, as was shown by the appearance in the dining room of a cup filled with milk. One of us who happened to be close to the spot on the floor where the cup appeared drew a little nearer and saw a cup of coffee and milk arrive. Our father then cried jokingly: 'Coffee and milk? Bah! I should prefer wine.' Shortly afterward, while the table was being cleared, we saw a liquid running from the walls. It was wine. A little while ago a pear appeared, and then we recalled that our sister had asked at table for a pear, but was refused, as she had already eaten enough fruit. The pear was on a dish, which was locked away in the glass sideboard. When the latter was opened the pear was no longer there.

"We then thought that some mysterious mediumistic force might be exercised by our sister, so we watched her every movement carefully and followed the child when she rose from the table. When she passed close to a bookshelf where there were two volumes on spiritualism, one of the books was raised in the air as though by some supernatural force. It hit the girl several times on the shoulders, then danced for a few moments in the air and was then clapped against the wall at the very spot whence the milk had issued."—Chicago News.

Penalizing Night Buyers.

By a special order of the ministry of the interior persons who ring the night bell at the chemist's between 10 o'clock at night and 6 o'clock in the morning will have to pay a tax of 50 hellers (fivepence) in addition to the cost of the medicine or other articles they wish to obtain. The object of the order is not to increase the chemists' receipts nor to burden the public with any new taxes, but merely to induce the public to get medicines and drugs during the hours the shops are open—that is, from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

In urgent cases the fivepence will not be charged, the physician marking the prescription E. N. (Expeditis nocturna). The chemists have agreed to allow the assistants on night duty to keep the moneys received from the new tax as some reimbursement for their extra labor.—Vienna Dispatch to Pall Mall Gazette.

Costly Royal Funerals.

Some foreign papers have been discussing the cost of the recent funeral of King Carlos and the crown prince of Portugal, incidentally recalling the reported outlay on other royal obsequies. Tit-Bits says that no modern ruler has been buried at the cost of Alexander the Great, at whose funeral $5,000,000 was spent, part of the money going toward providing a solid gold coffin for the dead ruler. Emperor William of Germany was buried at a cost of $125,000, and the last rites of the Grand Duke Nicholas used up about $200,000. At the funeral of President Carnot $30,000 was spent on flowers alone. When the Duke of Wellington was laid to rest in 1852, $350,000 was spent, giving him what has been described as the most splendid funeral of the nineteenth century.

New Flags.

The professional flag maker was asked what becomes of all the old flags when a new star, representing a new state, must be placed in the union. "The cheap printed flags," he replied, "are almost a total loss. Of course we keep track of legislation as well as we can and anticipate to a large degree the dawning of the new star, while we work off old stock as fast as possible. In expensive flags we cut out the stars and arrange them, with the addition of the new one, in a new union, according to designs made by congress or the war department. The stripes of course never change. Personally I should like to see the union reformed. Why not our national emblem, the eagle, in the center, surrounded by all the stars in one, two or three circles?"—New York Press.

A New Spelling Fling.

"The Nu Spelin Leag of Amurrika has," says the Glasgow Herald, "just added seventy-five more wurds to the langwage. 'Tisis' and 'tung' are two of the wurst. It wood giv us a sik feelin about the diafram to eat an eg spelt with wun 'g.' We get a numness thru all our lims at the site of such foren wurds as 'agast' and 'gard,' 'lam' and 'indetted.' There are about sixty more, but these are more than enuf for wun parragraf."

The Six Nations Indians want the elective system instead of hereditary chiefs to run their affairs.

OVEREATING.

Dr. Wiley Says It Causes Less Trouble Than Undereating.

Blessed is the man who does not know how he eats, says a doctor. A mouthful of food should pass on its way automatically and without the knowledge of the man who chews it. He who mixes mathematics with his food by counting twenty-eight times on each bite is on the road to emaciated, sad faced dyspepsia. Life has nothing that is worth while for him. I fail to see the use of wasting too much time on one bite while there is another just behind it inviting attention.

Some one quoted me as advising meat eaters to bolt and not chew their meat. I did not give such advice, but I pointed out two undeniable facts—the herb eating animals devote much time to chewing, while the flesh eaters do very little of it. A conclusion may be drawn from these facts.

Overeating causes less trouble to the system than does undereating, and were the score even between the two it would be the part of philosophy to lean to the side of the partaker of much food, for a goodly part of life's happiness is found at the table with a normal appetite. I am against the capsule men. The time will never come when they will have a place in the world as caterers to palate under ordinary conditions. It is entirely possible to condense the nourishment of a whole meal into a few pellets, and these have their place—as, for instance, when it becomes necessary to make enforced marches with the lightest possible burden. But the system would not thrive for long on such a diet, for there must be the necessary bulk to supply the tissues and flush the system.

Diamond Bearings.

In the course of a year the General Electric company uses many thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds and sapphires which are being constantly shipped in from Australia, Holland, London, Paris, Brazil and New Zealand. The stones are used for bearings in electric meters such as are employed to register the number of kilowatt hours of energy used in the home. In order that the meters shall be accurate there must be practically no friction in the bearings. The mechanism of a meter turns in proportion to the amount of light burned or energy used. The wearing parts must be as hard as possible, that constant use will not wear and create additional friction, consequently diamond and sapphires have to be used in the shaft bearings. The diamond is the hardest substance in the world, and the sapphire ranks a close second. The bearings made of these precious stones have a long life, and, though they originally cost more, they are the cheapest in the long run.—New York Tribune.

Visibility of Lights.

The result of the experiments in light visibility conducted by Germany and the Netherlands working in harmony are given as follows: A light of one candlepower is plainly visible at one mile and one of three candlepower at three miles. A ten candlepower light was seen with a binocular at four miles, one of twenty-nine at five miles, though faintly, and one of thirty-three candlepower at the same distance without difficulty. On an exceptionally clear night a white light of 3.2 candlepower could be distinguished at three miles, one of 5.6 at four and one of 17.2 at five miles.

The experiments were made with green light, as it has been conclusively proved that if a light of that color fills the required test a red light of the same intensity will more than do so. It was found that the candlepower of green light which remained visible at one, two, three and four miles was 2, 15, 51 and 106 respectively.—Philadelphia Record.

Charged With Electricity.

"Have you noticed," asked the professor, "how often you get a slight shock these days whenever you touch the radiator or the gas jet or any other body of metal? It was not so when we were young. Thirty years ago such shocks required long and industrious tramping up and down the carpet and could be produced only by certain people. Now they are almost universal after the slightest movement and are felt by every one. The reason is that we use such enormous quantities of electrical force, all of which is dissipated into our surroundings, that everything in a large city gradually becomes charged with electricity. It is not so in the country. If any one could devise a means of collecting this wandering electrical energy, it would be very valuable."—New York Sun.

A Brazilian Convict Colony.

The penal colony of the state of Pernambuco, Brazil, is on an island 800 miles off the coast. There are 600 convicts at present. They arise at 6 a. m. and work till 2 p. m. for the state, cultivating cotton of a superfine quality. After 2 o'clock they work for themselves. The island is one of the most orderly and productive bits of soil in Brazil. It is a model convict colony and the cheapest of any in the world. The group of islands to which the penal one belongs is where the equatorial and south equatorial currents divide, and it is surrounded by a triangular sheet of quiet sea full of all kinds of fish valuable commercially.—Chicago Tribune.

The walking olympiad, which was brought to a conclusion Saturday night was the most successful athletic event ever held in Peterborough. All through the week the patronage given the walk has been a most liberal one, and the walkers, the public and the management are more than pleased with the result.

SATURDAY'S JAM.

The biggest crowd by far that ever assembled in Brock street rink saw the finish of the race on Saturday night. The management anticipated a big day and were prepared for the record-breaking business of the week. Judging from Wednesday's receipts, which were $234, it was thought that possibly $400 might be taken in at the gate, but even the most optimistic didn't think of placing the figures any higher than that. To the surprise and delight of the management and walkers an even $600 represented the day's receipts.

SPASMODIC RAINS.

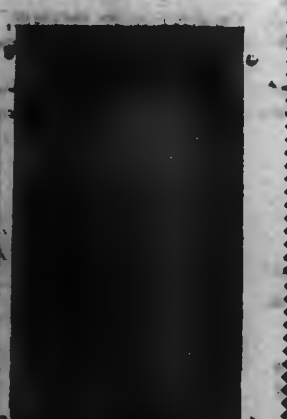
It rained a little during the day and it was thought for a while that there might be a shower of some duration, which would have the effect of hurting the attendance. However, the audience in the afternoon was a large one though not so enthusiastic as the one on Wednesday afternoon the other day of the ten hour grind. The racing was not so interesting, however, on Saturday, as it was on Wednesday, but the huge mass of humanity were most enthusiastic on Saturday night and every worthy stunt of any of the walkers elicited much applause.

SAW ONLY LAST NIGHT.

There were hundreds of people on hand on Saturday night who had not seen any portion of the race before, and who had in fact, never seen one before in their lives. This too, applies pretty well to everybody who attended the tournament at all. There was very little of a sensational nature to Saturday night's walk on account of all the men, with the exception of Hoagland, the wizzard walker, being very much fatigued on week.

HOAGLAND, A MARVEL.

And of Hoagland there is nothing much more can be said. The sporting writers of the local papers have used their entire vocabulary in endeavoring to describe this marvellous pedestrian and yet there seems a great deal about him that is unexplained. His walking simply defies description.



W. A. HOAGLAND

Who Has Been a Six Days' Wonder and Easy Winner of the Big Walk.

On Saturday night he walked around at a clip that the spectators would not have expected from him on any occasion, but the opening night. He was fresh and strong all the time and was the life of the race as Harrison and Blake were trudging along in the same places as ever and at a never-changing rate.

Stevens and Graham in fourth and fifth money and Stenner and Fenton outside the 162 mile limit and walking in the order named.

MANY LADIES PRESENT.

During the week a large number of ladies attended the walk and this was feature that pleased the management, who were delighted to see their efforts to put on clean and interesting sport appreciated by the fair sex. On Saturday night they were there in hundreds and showed a great interest in the race. In fact they have been most appreciative during the entire week and many of them were present on every occasion of the walk.

AFTERNOON CROWD.

At 1.30, when the men started for the last day of the race, the crowd was a good sized one, but not so large as had been expected. Up to six o'clock the spectators kept coming and going and a gate of about $90 was realized. This was regarded as only fair for the afternoon and judging from the afternoon attendance the estimate of that of the evening was not placed at anything as large as it turned out to be.

CAME IN LARGE NUMBERS.

About seven o'clock the people commenced to enter in large numbers. Special policemen had been engaged for Saturday night and handled the people to perfection as they came in. There was not the least confusion and they filled first one section and then the other until shortly after eight o'clock the seating accommodation was pretty nearly all taxed.

NO STANDING ROOM.

About nine o'clock there was no standing room left. The management realized that they would have to relax the rules that nobody would be allowed in the inner ring, but the officials, trainers and ex-walkers and threw it open to the general public. This was done and the people flocked in as fast as they could get through the door. In a short time the arena was filled and the police were kept busy keeping the track clear between the ring and the door.

STILL KEPT COMING.

About 9.30 when the people had done their shopping and the clerks commenced to leave the stores a little later the crowd increased in volume and the atmosphere became somewhat close and stuffy. The walkers went along, however, as if they were not effected by the conditions, although later in the evening Graham became rather weak and it was thought he had fainted. The genial ped picked up, however, and finished in as good shape as could have been expected.

It was a pretty well conditioned field, considering the strain through which they had been, that started at 1.30 on Saturday afternoon for the last day of the big athletic event, the success of which has surprised the most sanguine. The starters were Hoagland, Blake, Harrison, Stevens, Graham, Stenner and Fenton.

NO CHANGE IN PLACE.

There was not much excitement during the afternoon. The men walked along steadily, retaining the positions they had held the day previous. Hoagland was always in the lead, with no opposition whatever, and he didn't even have any company in any of his whirlwind dashes, which he tore off every now and again for the accommodation of the crowd.

NO FIGHT FOR SECOND PLACE.

Contrary to expectations there was no fight for second place, for which Blake had a lead of a mile and a lap from the last scoring. Harrison got away with his steady, unvarying pace, and the negro followed him closely with a dogged persistence and was determined to stay with him until the last.

ONLY RACE FEATURE.

The only race feature that was the duel for second money between Blake and Harrison, and as this did not materialize, there was really no race at all, but only an interesting procession. Harrison didn't sprint at all, but walked steady and at a good speed. The band struck up southern melodies and the crowd coached to get the negro to let out, but he refused to do so and wouldn't take any chances.

"I'M SATISFIED."

Hoagland, who, besides being a great walker, likes to see the crowd entertained as much as possible, spoke to Blake one time and advised him to make a sprint and give the people a little entertainment. The move would have been a good one, and had Blake broken away from Harrison, the latter would have got right after him. In all probability, and then there would certainly have been something doing that would have put the crowd on tip toes. But Blake wouldn't attempt to take the pace for a minute, and remarked to the champion, "I'm satisfied, Mr. Hoagland; I'm satisfied."

EACH GETS A POSEY.

Between five and six in the afternoon Mr. James Simmons, who had a front seat on the east side of the building and a few seats away from the timers' table, stopped the different starters and pinned a carnation on each of the seven walkers. The flowers made the walkers' uniforms look considerably gayer. The walkers all wore their flowers until the finish, with the exception of Hoagland, who handed his to his little daughter during the evening.

STEVENS MAKES LIMIT.

At eight o'clock, Charlie Stevens, the boy wonder, made the limit, 162 miles, thus getting within the money. The announcement of the feat was made to the crowd, who cheered him to the echo as he stepped jauntily over the sawdust. It was the biggest cheering of the evening, and showed what a real interest the audience had in the success of Peterborough's game little representative.

GRAHAM AT 10.30.

The only other man who made the limit was Graham. Stenner and Fenton found it impossible to make the distance. Graham, who has been a favorite with the crowd, was given a hearty ovation when he got within the money.

SLATER COMES ON.

During the evening Tom Slater came on and it was quite a treat to see the crack Oswego pedestrian in his racing outfit again. He and Hoagland walked fast in an excellent burst of speed and gave the spectators their money's worth. Slater had come on the track before wearing a sweater on account of his cold, but on Saturday night he wore a sleeveless jersey. His arms and shoulders are magnificently developed and his muscles worked beautifully as he reached out in the approved form of Hoagland and other good walking men.

CHICKEN FOR BLAKE.

A funny feature of the night was the presentation of a game chicken to Blake. The spectators applauded freely as the Syracuse man took the bird. He carried it around under his arm for a couple of laps and then left the feathered one with his trainer.

CROWD ON EDGE.

Throughout the whole night the crowd was on edge. Everyone present was ready to hand out all the appreciation possible to the walkers, and each one was well recognized when he performed anything of a special nature.

HARTLEY AND HATTON.

The fascination of the track was too much for Davy Hartley, and he came on again during the night. After Hartley had traversed several laps Hatton came on and the two raced around at top speed, the local man winning.

QUIT AT 10.30.

At 10.30 o'clock the walkers quit. All were within the money and a mutual agreement was arrived at to leave the track as a change in the position of the men before 11.30 was practically an impossibility, had they continued walking.

A CONCLUDING SPRINT.

As they came down the stretch for the last time Harrison and Blake sprinted. It was a pretty go and the crowd craned forward to see it. Stenner and Fenton came along shortly afterwards. The walkers donned their coats and sought their dressing rooms and the race that has made the people of Peterborough sit up and wonder was over.

HOAGLAND STAYS.

Hoagland did not quit with the others. He kept on going until 11 o'clock. He walked very fast considering the fact that he had been on the go for 36 hours.

WALKERS SPEAK.

At the conclusion of the walk short speeches were delivered by Messrs Slater, Hartley, Stevens and Graham. They expressed their appreciation of the treatment they had received at the hands of the audience and their general approval of the way in which the tournament had been conducted. Their remarks were punctuated by frequent outbursts of applause.

WE'VE sped the parting guest, "WINTER" and we turn to make our bow to "SPRING" embodying among other new things the latest evolution of Men's Suit Styles:—

This year we've struck out and away from the beaten path and have distanced all our past accomplishments. All lines making up the new Spring styles combine to spell "GRACE." No angular corners; instead they're softly rounded—the lapels sweep gracefully down over the chest, while the question of button arrangement is answered in a variety of ways

From now on we'll present, from time to time, the proper styles for men, which it will pay you to look over Sir, if you're at all interested in nobby clothes

C.G.E. Company Secures Judgment Against an Employee—Aftermath of Recent Case

In the Division Court on Friday a judgment was given which is of interest, both to employers and workmen.

Some time ago the Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, had occasion to have several of their employees arrested for petty pilfering. In one case the accused was acquitted. However the Company retained from his wages the value of the material that had come from their factory. The party sued the Company for this material as well as the labor put on same by the accused while he was working in the factory, and Friday the Company obtained a judgment against the party for the value of the material and labor in full.

ADDRESSES TO YOUNG PEOPLE YESTERDAY

Epworth League Sunday at Charlotte St. Church---Revs. E. A. Pearson and H. J. Keith the Speakers

Large congregations were present both morning and evening at Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday. It was Epworth League Sunday and at both services the members attended in a body occupying the centre pews of the church. In the morning Rev. A. E. Pearson of George street Methodist church preached an earnest and forcible sermon on the "Young People's attitude to practical religion." The chief idea expressed in the speaker's address was that nowadays it was the practical religion not the sentimental or emotional, that the young people wanted and especially the young men. At this service, Master Sam. Richards sang a solo which was much enjoyed.

In the evening, Rev. H J. Keith delivered a strong address and his remarks proved intensely interesting.

Joseph Gauthier was killed at Montreal by a block of stone of 800 pounds falling from the new Credit Foncier building.

Mr. Robert McMurdo, evangelist, of Scotland, who has been in Canada for some months doing evangelistic work (with a large measure of success) will visit Peterborough this week. The first meeting will be held in Gospel Hall on Tuesday night, then on Wednesday and Friday night. All are cordially invited to hear this gifted speaker. Mr. H. A. Fife met him at the big conference in Belleville on Easter, and speaks in very glowing terms of his ability.

THE MUSIC AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

The Easter festival came to an end yesterday morning, the choral matins being splendidly rendered by the choir and Barnby's anthem, "Christ is Risen" was beautifully sung. A special feature of the morning service was the singing of the Psalms which were chanted accurately and in beautifully balanced tone.

The evening service which was crowded on the occasion of the Oddfellows attendance was of a hearty character. Mr. George Chandler sang the solo, "Be thou faithful unto death," from St. Paul's, Mendelsohn. Both solo and organ accompaniment were faultlessly rendered, Mr. Chandler's fine voice being heard to great advantage.

REV. MR. POTTER WAS SPEAKER

At Men's Meeting at Y.M.C.A.---Other Notes of the Association

Rev. J. G. Potter gave a stirring address yesterday afternoon at the YMCA on "The Real Heroism of a young man's religion." The speaker took his text from the 3rd chapter of Proverbs and the words, "In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths." He said heroism usually brought to mind military circles and the soldier and the call comes to young men to serve their country and go to battle and we think of the deeds they do and call them heroes. There is another call to young men today though which requires heroism. That is the call of the text, viz., to acknowledge our Maker at all times and in all walks of life. There is a false heroism in Christianity. It is easy to acknowledge God in some places and at certain times, but the real heroism comes when under conditions which are not congenial or even hostile, we are called upon to acknowledge our Lord. The greatest hero was Christ and there can be no substantiate in our lives for Him. No one can take His place and if we are to acknowledge God, we must acknowledge Christ, our Saviour. We should do it at all times. In our success and in our sorrows. It will lead to peace.

Mr. Potter closed with an appeal to men to have a singleness of purpose and above everything to acknowledge our Saviour and our God.

The Strangers' Fellowship Club held their monthly tea for strangers at 5.30 yesterday afternoon to which quite a number were present.

The property committee meet tonight at 8 pm. The committee is composed of Messrs. A. McFarlane, chairman; H C Stabler, G M. Roger and E. M. Best.

THE SOLDIER'S FRIEND.

Sagacity Shown by Trained Dogs as Part of an Army.

For dogs to be enlisted in every great army of the world, either in the ambulance department or as scouts and dispatch bearers, is surely something of a novelty.

In the Franco-Prussian war out of 129,000 killed and wounded 13,000 were returned as "missing." And who shall say what these men endured? Every war of the future, however, will see the dog lessening its horror. In Germany his education is at this moment being taken in hand by a voluntary society with nearly 2,000 members, among them some of the most able officers in that country's great army. The war dog proper is used for sentry, messenger and scouting service, while the ambulance dog's training inclines him only to scour the battlefield in search of the wounded and missing.

The needs of modern warfare not only call for vast enlarging of the battlefield, but also compel the troops to take every advantage of natural cover. This and the fact that wounded men will use their last strength to seek protection from artillery fire, cavalry charges and the wheels of guns by crawling into thick bushes, ditches and natural holes will show how difficult it is for the overworked stretcher bearers of the Red Cross department to notice prostrate figures not readily seen. Moreover, modern warfare is carried on largely by night attack, and at night, too, the wounded have to be collected. The ambulance dog, however, is independent of artificial light and relies only on his power of scent.

Recently during the great Austrian maneuvers 200 men were left lying on the field to represent the wounded, and the stretcher bearers, working against time, overlooked thirty-eight of these. Within twenty minutes the Viennese dogs had found them all. Each dog had about his neck a flask of brandy or soup and a roll of bandages. The wounded man, having made what use he can of this relief, gives the dog his cap or belt, and the animal races off with it to the ambulance attendants, whom he then conducts to the spot.—W. G. Fitzgerald in St. Nicholas.

Billions In a Mountain.

There is a strange mountain in the Death valley region of Nevada. It is known as Mount Blanc and consists entirely of borax. Mount Blanc is approximately 1,500 feet high and two miles in diameter. Frank M. Smith of Oakland owns the mountain absolutely and thereby is said to control the visible supply of borax in the world. The market value of this borax where it lies is something more than $100 a ton. Experts estimate that the mountain has at least 3,000,000,000 tons of borax in it. This mountain, standing at the north end of the Funeral range, within a stone's throw of Death valley, says a western writer, "makes Smith easily the richest man in the world, from a point of resources. But this borax deposit is merely a lining for a pot of gold that rests in the Funeral range."

Gyroscope and Bicycle.

One of the most wonderful instruments in the world is the gyroscope. Some of the facts in connection with this scientific toy have been the cause of much investigation and study among men of science. A bicycle really consists of two gyroscope-like wheels. When these are in rapid rotation it requires considerable force to change the direction of either axle. But that is the same thing as saying that it requires considerable force to tilt either wheel, and this, combined with the onward motion, is the reason that the rider has no trouble in balancing himself and avoiding a fall to either right or left. So you see that the gyroscopic principle is of great importance in bicycles. In fact, there could be no real bicycles if it were not for this principle.—J. F. Springer in St. Nicholas.

Austria's Jubilee Stamps.

The imperial post of Austria has issued the jubilee stamps commemorative of the sixtieth year of the reign of Franz Josef. There are eight stamps, and these form a miniature portrait gallery of seven of Austria's rulers. The stamp of the lowest denomination—1 heller—bears the portrait of Charles IV., Maria Theresa's picture is on the two heller stamp and Joseph II., Leopold II., Franz and Ferdinand on the three, six, twelve and twenty heller stamps respectively. The thirty heller stamp has a portrait of Franz Josef as he appeared when he ascended the throne sixty years ago, and the five heller stamp bears the profile portrait of the emperor which was taken shortly before his recent illness.

A Modest Artist.

William P. Frith, the English Royal academician, whose painting of "Derby Day" made such a sensation in its day that when it was first exhibited in London an iron railing had to be placed around it to prevent the admiring public from damaging the picture and the policemen were stationed by it to keep the crowd in order, was recently decorated with the commandership of the Victorian order by King Edward on the occasion of his entering his ninetieth year. Of course Mr. Frith was interviewed, and he confessed: "I know very well that I never was nor under any circumstances could have become a great artist. But," he added, "I am a very successful one."

Prosaic Maid.

He was a gallant troubadour
And to her golden notes did pour—
Yes, golden notes in plenty.
Alas, she spurned the notes he gave
And told him with a farewell wave,
"The only golden note I crave
Is the golden ten or twenty!"

With Allowance.

There is an editor in a little New York town who has a well developed streak of gentle humor and a fondness for gardening. Not long ago his man of all work left him, and the editor advertised for some one to fill his place. Among the applicants for the position was a man who seemed to know his business thoroughly, but who failed to produce references as to character when requested. Moreover, his eyes were somewhat shifty.

"You say you have no references?" the editor asked.

"No, sir, I have not," the man replied in a tone of humble pride, "but I think, sir, that you will find honesty printed on my face."

The owner smiled a little. "Well—er—perhaps," he admitted—"that is, allowing for typographical errors."—Denver News-Times.

A Case For Sympathy.

First Suburbanite—Did you attend the indignation meeting of the commuters last night?

Second Suburbanite—No; I'm too sorry for the railroad. Why, I would just as soon hold an indignation meeting over a deaf, dumb and blind man.—New York Life.

SPORTING NEWS

THE BIG WALK FROM A SPECTATOR'S STANDPOINT

Written for the Review.

Outside the band is playing a spirited quickstep. Through the doors of the entrance pours a crowd of men, youths and boys, with a sprinkling of ladies, for all the world loves a contest. We dearly like to see our fellow man exerting himself in the cause of athletic progression and the physical betterment of the human race. For that is the alleged reason why athletic contests are perpetrated.

Inside the big rink is ablaze with electrics that cast dark shadows among the spectators, but fill the arena with a blinding glare. The track is roped off and inside is a space sacred to the faithful who are fosting the affair. They move about restless, excited and anxious. In the narrow track are figures of men, silent, eager, strenuous. The sawdust under feet is beaten to a smooth path by the tread of the feet of the walkers. It is an interesting procession, the figures changing their places, stepping ahead and dropping back as spurred on by individual effort. Over all comes the hum of thousands talking, shouts of encouragement and applause burst out from time to time. The race is on.

From early evening until after 11 seven weary men plod around the track. It is no novelty. All week the grind is on, four hours one night ten hours the next day. The faces of the walkers drawn and pinched, for the more physical exertion is telling fearfully. The intervals of rest are not sufficient to bring to the track men thoroughly refreshed and the heavy feet have to be driven onward in the ceaseless tread by pure grit and determination. At one side set the time-keepers, tallying each lap, with relentless accuracy, for on one lap may depend the walker's winnings. Over the edge of the gallery the score clerk hands a numbered card telling of the position in the race held by each contestant.

Watch the stride of the man coming towards us, down the track. Of the name of Harrison. He moves like a machine, a long, regular even that seems to tell of power and confidence, and possibly a confidence born of inexperience, for this is his first race. He is doing well, and if he can sustain the pace, promises to be among the winners and well in front. Here comes a bunch of three, careful not to jostle each other as they pass, for a spirit of fairness prevails among the contestants. There is no attempt to take any advantage other such as legitimately belongs to those who may. Blake is coloured, from the sunny south, away down in Georgia, where they do not breed walkers, except in the mountain districts, among the "crackers." He walks with a perceptible limp, possibly not a limp, but an unconscious effort to throw the body forward and lengthen the stride. He looks neither to the right or left but pins his gaze on the back of the man in front.

A figure in a blue sweater comes darting along, followed by a roar of applause. It is Hoagland, making one of his famous sprints as the band strikes up a cheering fusilade. Winner at Kansas City, winner wherever he has gone on the track, his movement shows the result of training and a well thought out system. There is no waste of effort, except a swinging of the arms may have a tendency to exhaust. Slim, muscular, light on foot with a stride that is deceptive, because so long and so easy, he covers the path with apparently marvellous ease. An official wishes to speak to him and has to trot pretty lively to keep up. Unless some accident intervenes Hoagland is sure of first money.

The prettiest walker is Graham. Smooth, even, gliding and continuous. He's a little man, and barring accident, a good little man seldom beats a good big man. The inches difference that his stride lacks may loose him a first position, but not that he lacks effort, a determination to win.

Slater comes along in a red sweater. Walks with energy and precision. Experience should count, and Slater has been there before and has good generalship.

Stevens, a local boy, has grit. Only eighteen years of age, he has picked up like a veteran and walks nicely and doggedly, bound to be in the front rank. Here comes the local winner of road contests, Hartley, doing forceful work, but clearly outclassed.

And so the work goes on, and it will continue until Saturday night brings its end and relief to the walkers and the suspense is over.

BENEFIT FOR PEDESTRIANS

Big Athletic Event at Brock St. Rink To-night

A big benefit will be given at the Brock street rink tonight in aid of those walkers who didn't get within the money. A most interesting programme of the week in which all the walkers, including Hoagland, Slater, Blake, Harrison and Graham will take part will be held.

Doors open at 7 o'clock; first event at 8 o'clock. The full 57th Regimental band will be in attendance. Full particulars are announced on handbills.

KENNEDY HERE TO GET IN SHAPE

Will Complete His Training for Bout With Hurtubuise

Kennedy, the American wrestler, who is to meet Hurtubise at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday next, has arrived in the city, accompanied by Garnie Marsh, and will complete his training here for the big bout.

Two first class preliminaries will be put on, one between J. Crough and Wilson, for the 145 pound championship of Peterborough, and another between Bob Long and G. Crowe for the 135 pound championship of the city. A three-round boxing bout will also be pulled off between Corney Burns and "Nobber" Grover.

Thirty-eight applicants ask to be appointed city engineer in Hamilton.

"Speculation."

President Hadley of Yale defines "speculation" this:

"Speculation, in the narrowest sense of the word, is the attempt to make money out of the fluctuations in the value of property as distinct from its earnings. In a wider sense speculative business is that business which involves large risks for the chance of large gains."

More picturesque is the explanation of the German economist Cohn, who says that speculation is the struggle of well equipped intelligence against the rough power of chance.

Justice Holmes of the United States supreme court in one of his decisions makes an interesting contribution when he says:

"Speculation by competent men is the self adjustment of society to the probable. People will endeavor to forecast the future and to make agreements according to their prophecy."

Then again speculation has been said to be "two-fifths irreconcilable facts and the rest plain guessing."—Metropolitan Magazine.

Chinamen and Guns.

One peculiar fact, says the Boston Herald, developed in the course of the trial in the superior court of nine Chinamen charged with the murder of one of their countrymen, and that is no Chinaman when using a revolver levels it straight at a person or at an object, but rests the muzzle of the gun on his left forearm and with the right hand holding the butt discharges the weapon.

Counsel wanted an explanation, but could not obtain it, and later a member of one of the tongs in the corridor was asked for a reason.

"Don't know why a gun is used in that manner," was the response, "unless it insures more secrecy than the American way. For instance, a Chinaman may wrap the gun in the folds of his sleeve, leaving only the barrel hole free. Then a shot may be fired when it would appear as though the one who discharged the weapon had his arms folded. There would be no glint of steel and nothing but a curl of smoke to tell who discharged the weapon."

SUGAR WILL LIKELY BE DEARER IN PETERBOROUGH, 'TIS SAID

Poor Crops in Country of Production Greatly Affect the Supply—Some Information of Interest.

Peterborough householders who have noticed the gradual but steady in the price of two important essentials—sugar and molasses—may expect a continued rise, because owing to the dry weather which has prevailed throughout the West Indies since last autumn. It is estimated that the sugar crop will fall short about 15 per cent.

In Barbadoes which supplies much of the demand in Canada, the rainfall has been the smallest for sixty years. It is now known that the crop will fall nearly 5,000 tons below last year's.

Sugar has gone up one-half cent per pound in the last six months. While the rise seems small, it appears large indeed when the amount is reckoned as 50 cents a hundred. Molasses has gone up three and one-half cents per gallon within the last month, and a further rise can be expected.

The Barbadoes now supply Canada with three-fifths of the molasses imported from the West Indies. The shortage in the sugar crop there will re-act on the molasses crop.

A government commercial agent, reporting from the Barbadoes with reference to sugar and molasses, says that in Demerara the crop shortage will probably average 15 per cent. In St. Kitts the crop has been further reduced by a heavy gale which visited the island last March, and which did considerable damage to standing cane. The damage to the young cane cannot yet be accurately estimated.

Reports from Trinidad show a large general crop and a prosperous year, but a general shortage in sugar due to unfavorable weather conditions since the 1st of January. The drought was accompanied with considerable heat, which dried up the cane. Shipments up to March 1 are heavier than last year, which, however, was below the average of other years to that time, but are over 30,000 bags less than in 1906. Antigua suffered somewhat from the gale in March, but it appears that the crops are but little damaged by it and that the sugar crop will be up to the average.

Jamaica exports also show a decrease of about ten per cent.

The Cuban supply, which controls prices on this continent, is also estimated to be from 275,000 tons to 300,000 below last year's.

LITTLE VILLAGE WAS WIPED OUT BY GREAT AVALANCHE

Victims Suffered Greatly—Mrs. Lapointe Lay For Two Hours on Cake of Ice—Thirty-Three Lives Lost in Landslide—Survivors Tell Story.

Ottawa, April 28.—Thirty-six lives ere lost in the landslide disaster at he Quebec hamlet of Notre Dame e la Salette.

There were eleven in the house of rs. Emmanuel Lapointe. Of these ight were killed and three were resued. As with all the other families hich met death in this calamity, his family were asleep when the lide came. This house was on the est side of the Lievre river, on the ame side as the slide began, and herefore the house was one of the ry first to be crushed by the great ush of ice forced up by the mass f clay. It was crushed into innumrable pieces and the inmates were rown in every direction as the strucre fell.

Mrs. Camille Lapointe, Jr., when e came to herself from her dazed ondition, was on a large cake of ice ing forced before the rush of that ighty mass, and as it struck the ver bank the cake was forced up to the lake formed by the damming f the Lievre river. The ice cake rifted into the centre of the body f water and there remained, while e victim snatched from the avalche crouched on an ice float with ly a very few night clothes on, and aited for two hours for her resers to reach her. When taken from e ice she was benumbed with cold d with some difficulty was revived.

On an adjacent piece of ice were r two children, one a boy of 15 ars old. On this large cake of ice as a small hay stack, and into it e two children crept, and were thus rotected from the ice-cold winds nnl help arrived, and did not suffer so uch as did their mother.

The old lady, Mrs. Emmanuel Lainte, was 80 years of age, and is idently under the mass of ice and ay, together with the seven grandildren.

The entire family of Napoleon arron are dead. The father was the Blind river, too, and his wife and three small children were all in their home asleep when the house was struck and no one is alive to tell the story of their death.

The Desjardines Hotel was a complete wreck, and at least Mrs. Desjardines and two boys were killed.

There is a belief that as well there are dead somewhere in the hotel ruins two English-speaking travelers, who were staying there. There is a possibility that they left the night before for another town. Up until the present there is no word of them, and it is the general belief that they also are dead.

In the eddy just above the Maclaren mills at Buckingham yesterday a body was found, it having been washed down the twenty miles of river. The mill race is full of pieces of houses, furniture, bales of hay, wagons, fences, that have been carried down from the ill-fated village. The river is a dirty blue clay color. It has eaten its way through the landslide, and is now back in its regular channel.

"The estimated damage to the village, outside of the lives lost, is about $50,000.

"The village is situated about 20 miles north of Buckingham on the River Lievre. It lies in a hollow with high hills on every side. Through the centre of the village, which is about a quarter of a mile long, the river threads its way. At this time of the year it is very high, owing to the spring rains.

In almost less time than it takes to tell it the water had reached a level of thirty feet above the banks of the river. Then it found an outlet at the lower end of the village, and, carrying with it houses, furniture, bodies, hay, barns, fences, etc., swept relentlessly down through the hills, seeking further prey. Fourteen houses out of thirty were completely demolished.

It was all over in a few minutes, but the havoc created was terrible. It was just as though the place had been blown up by dynamite. Scarcely a stick was standing where a few minutes before had been a snug little colony of happy homes.

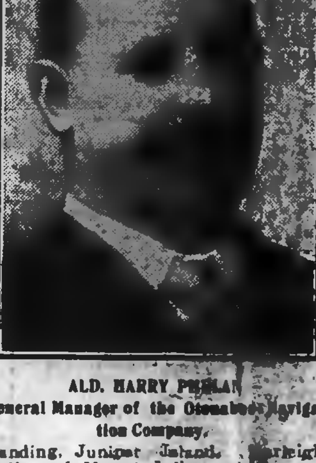
OTONABEE NAVIGATION CO. HAS NOW COMPLETED PLANS

For Handling Traffic for the Coming Season---Three Boats Will be in Service---One Will Make Daily Trip to Stony Lake---"Otonabee" Being Overhauled.

The Otonabee Navigation Company have completed arrangements for the boat traffic for the coming season. Ald. Harry Phelan has been appointed general manager of the company, and is now hard at work getting everything in shape. The company will have three boats in service, the Otonabee, Monarch and Water Lily. The Otonabee will be used entirely for the excursion traffic, while the Monarch will handle the Peterborough—Rice Lake end of the business, and the Water Lily will make daily trips from Peterbor- to Stony Lake during the summer months. The latter will be a new feature and should prove exceedingly popular.



ALD. HARRY PHELAN
General Manager of the Otonabee Navigation Company.

The steamer Monarch will leave Peterborough for Rice Lake every morning at eight o'clock, and will call at intermediate points, including Gore's Landing and Harwood. Idyl Wyld will be reached in time for dinner. The boat will arrive back at Peterborough at 8.30 o'clock in the evening.

The prospects for a busy season down the river and at Rice Lake were never brighter, and the Navigation Company should have a most successful year.

THOUSANDS AWAITED FUNERAL OF THE LATE BRITISH PREMIER

London, April 28.—The funeral service of the Church of England was solemnized in Westminster Abbey at noon yesterday over the body of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the late Premier of Great Britain, who died April 22, in the presence of a large gathering, representing the political life of England. After the service a short procession moved from the abbey to Euston station, where a special train took the coffin to Scotland.

It was a typical gloomy London day, and a dismal rain was falling when the simple cortege made its way through the streets.

Scores of the former Premier's political associates were present, but his two predecessors in office, Mr. Balfour and Lord Rosebery, were unable to attend.

Yesterday was the first time that the funeral of a Premier or an ex-Premier has occurred from the historic residence of the British Prime Ministers in Downing street. The pall-bearers were the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Duke of Fife, H. H. Asquith, the present Premier; Lord Loreburn, the Lord High Chancellor, Herbert Gladstone, Secretary of State for Home Affairs; John Morley, Secretary of State for India; Lord Tweedmouth, formerly First Lord of the Admiralty, now Lord President of the Council; the Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and Walter Long, John Sinclair and Thomas Burt, members of Parliament.

The Dean of Westminster Abbey and the clergy led the procession to the centre of the edifice, where the casket was placed upon a temporary bier. Among those who attended the service were the Prince of Wales, who represented King Edward; Baron Stum, who was present on behalf of Emperor William; Premier Clemenceau, who represented the French Government, and Whitelaw Reid, the United States Ambassador.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the coffin was taken to Euston station, proceeding at a walking pace through the densely-crowded streets.

THE BOY OR BEER BARREL, WHICH?

Scott Act Campaign at Fever Heat in Fredericton, N.B.

Fredericton, N.B., April 28.—Excitement here is at fever heat over the election to take place next Thursday to decide whether the Scott Act shall be repealed in favor of the license law. Local ministers, with one exception, are putting up a great fight in favor of the Scott Act. Dean Schofield, however, in a sermon at the cathedral Sunday, declared he had seen more drunken men in Fredericton under the Scott Act than he ever noticed in license towns a great deal larger. He appealed to citizens to vote conscientiously, as it was not impossible that the cause of temperance could be advanced quite as much under license as under the Scott Act.

In the Methodist Church the minister had on the platform near him a boy and a beer barrel, and declared the congregation had to choose between them.

Collision at Streetsville.

Streetsville, April 28.—A rear-end collision occurred at Streetsville Junction on Saturday afternoon that caused some damage to rolling stock and some interruption to traffic, but was fortunately unattended by loss of life. A freight train stopped at the Junction to pick up cars when another freight train proceeding in the same direction overtook it and crashed into the caboose. The crew of the colliding engine jumped to safety and fortunately none of the crew of the other train happened to be in the caboose. The caboose and the freight car adjoining were demolished, and the pilot of the second engine was slightly damaged. Another flat car in the first train was thrown up in the air and fell uninjured on a car of lumber. The wrecking train from West Toronto was sent out and repairs were made. The caboose and injured freight car were so badly damaged that the wrecking crew burned them.

CIGARETTE LEGISLATION IS TALKED ABOUT AT OTTAWA

Hon. Mr. Fielding Hints That Something is Coming—Major Hodgin's Enquiry—Mr. Borden Wants Scope Enlarged---Sir Wilfrid Delays.

Ottawa, April 28.—In the House of Commons yesterday Claude Macdonell was informed by the Postmaster-General that a one-cent drop-letter rate for cities was under consideration.

The Minister of Militia, answering Mr. Macdonell, said the plans for the new barracks at Toronto were under consideration by the Department.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the appointment of Messrs. Carvell, Macdonald (Pictou), Geoffrion, Lennox and Barker as a committee to investigate the charges of Major Hodgins contained in the memorandum of the chairman of the National Transcontinental Railway and papers accompanying the same.

R. L. Borden thought the resolution was hardly broad enough to cover all the charges made by Major Hodgins. What it was proposed to investigate were simply the charges specified by Chairman Parent, whereas the statements of Major Hodgins were set out in the British Columbia papers at great length.

Sir Wilfrid agreed to lay the resolution over until to-day. He said the intention was to deal with all the charges of Major Hodgins.

Mr. Brodeur introduced a bill to vest the harbor of Meaford in the town.

On the third reading of Hon. Mr. Fisher's bill to amend the meat and canned food act, Mr. Marshall (Elgin) objected to an amendment inserted at the request of Mr. MacPherson permitting the first purchaser of canned goods to put his private brand upon the can. Mr. Marshall said the canner had a reputation to maintain and was always anxious to improve his goods.

Mr. Blain, in moving the bill back to the committee to further consider this feature, pointed out that under the amendment the canner who was responsible for the quality of the goods would have no protection. A wholesaler might purchase goods from six different canners and put the same label on all. Thus there would be no guarantee to the purchaser.

Mr. Fisher thought Mr. Marshall had given his own case away when he said the canners bought the goods of other canners and put their own labels on them. Could not the wholesalers do this too?

Mr. Fisher said the name of Cross & Blackwell had been cited by Mr. Marshall as an example of the value of his label to a canner. This firm, bought Canadian salmon and other products in canned form, shipped them to England, put their own label on them and sent them all over the world as their own goods.

Mr. Blain pointed to Mr. Fisher's position last year in regard to the fruit marks act. Then the Minister wanted to put the responsibility on the packer, now he proposes to allow the packer of canned goods to escape responsibility. There was too much tinkering with this legislation.

Mr. Alcorn moved that the amendment include only fish and fish products.

The discussion was continued during the first hour after the dinner session, when Dr. Reid moved that the committee rise. This was defeated by 26 to 44. It was a straight party vote except that Dr. Sproule voted with the Government.

Mr. Bergeron raised a breeze by asking, "What about the 50,000 cans of tainted fish in Montreal?"

The Minister said he did not know anything about the details.

Dr. Reid observed that this was a remarkable confession. "Don't you think," he asked, "that you ought to know something about the case?"

The Finance Minister told the House last night in reply to Mr. Blain that the question of prohibiting the manufacturing and sale of cigarettes was engaging the attention of the Government.

"It may be that before the close of the session some legislation will be brought forward, if not altogether what my hon. friends desires, at least something approaching it on the same lines," he said.

Fall River, Mass., April 28.—The new Bristol County steel bridge across the Taunton river was badly damaged by dynamite. The police investigation showed that a charge of at least 50 pounds of dynamite was placed on a granite pier and fired by a long fuse.

Montreal, April 28.—Rev. SAW THEM DIG HIS GRAVE

Horrors of Haytian Executions Told by French Officers---One Man was Buried Alive.

New York, April 28.—The French cruiser D'Estrees is in port from Hayti, where the ship was sent at the time of the recent attempted revolution to look after French interests. The officers of the ship have many stories to tell of the revolution.

While at Port au Prince, Hayti, the D'Estrees was the haven for eight refugees, and the officers tell of the horrors of the nocturnal execution on March 15 of a group of men accused of attempting to incite a revolution a few days after President Nord Alexis had quelled a rising against his army.

There were not enough graves dug for all the persons who were shot and one prominent merchant had to sit and watch the soldiers dig his future burial place.

The bullets failed to kill him and he was jumbled into the hole, which was too small. Then the grave-diggers pushed him in with their shovels, and while they were covering him he sought to protest by moving his hands.

Choles has been followed 10,000 miles by European secret service men.

The physician, who was summoned by the family, said the young woman undoubtedly committed suicide. It is said that Miss MacLea has shown signs of melancholia of late.

Only an Incident.

London, April 28.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, interviewed by The Mail, said the present setback in Canada was a mere incident. The outlook in the United States did not indicate an early recovery. Regarding the all-red line he said the Blacksod scheme was insane and he deprecated the desire for 24-knot steamers.

EAT ORANGES

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP WELL

Careful tests have proved beyond question that orange juice has clearly defined medicinal virtues. Those who suffer with Indigestion—are compelled "to diet"—find that after eating oranges regularly for breakfast there is no distress, no palpitation.

Where there was a tendency towards constipation, the eating of oranges regulated the bowels.

In skin troubles, those who began the morning meal with an orange were noticeably improved.

There is, however, a quicker way to get better results. This is to take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" tablets at bedtime in addition to the juice of an orange before breakfast the next morning. "Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes, in which the medicinal action is many times intensified by the special way of combining them. Valuable tonics are then added.

Take the juice of an orange before breakfast—take "Fruit-a-tives" at night—and you will quickly be rid of Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Constipation and Biliousness. "Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price by "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

The Daily Review

TUESDAY, APRIL 28, 1908.

THE LOSS OF MANCHESTER

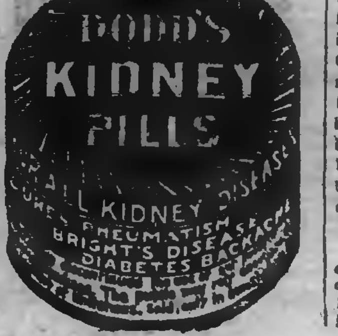
The Morning Post says: "The death-knell of free trade reverberates through the land."

The Daily Telegraph says: "Manchester has rallied to fiscal reform. It is a victory that will resound not only through the country, but throughout the Empire."

The Daily Telegraph even more than the Times represents the great English public. It certifies as did Churchill himself that he was beaten by the desire for "Tariff Reform." The Toronto Globe's headlines read "Education Bill" and "Licensing Bill" as if they were the cause, but there was not one word with reference to them below. What there was below was Churchill's statement regarding Free Trade. Once more Canadians will be called upon to adjust her tariff. Great Britain has "caught on" and is getting ready to get the weather-berth of us as before. All Canadian preferences and substitutes for free trade whatsoever must be got rid of. A keen businesslike administration is badly needed at Ottawa.

WHO PAYS HIS RETAINER?

In justice to the province, which pays Mr. A. G. Mackay, the Opposition leader, his sessional indemnity, we must know how it comes to be supplemented. We would much rather that he got his whole salary from the province as a standing critic than that the larger part of it should be subscribed by outside parties. He was paid already for looking after the interests of the province as a member just as all Opposition leaders before him were paid. But we were informed, and it seems to be true, that a coterie of friends subscribe the sum of about or over $4,000 per annum to keep him at his post, for which he engages, we suppose, to shell the government constantly and thus draw off attention from Ottawa. So far so good or bad. For if the outsiders above referred to should happen to be "interested parties" then Mr. Mackay runs the danger of being suspected, as he certainly is, of being subsidized to betray, when necessary, the interests of the public. We want none of this sort of stuff on either side. The people of this province escaped on January 25th, 1905, from the fetid atmosphere of a political charnel-house. They are too busy enjoying the fresh air to run any more risks just yet. (Who pays Mr. Mackay his retainer? If it is all in the family or a second cousin thrice removed pays it, as a proud relative might do, when he thinks of Mr. Mackay's silence in the House and compares it with his roaring outside on certain questions, notably the C.N.R. guarantee, then we say O.K. But if it is paid by well-known capitalists, what must we say? This suspicion should be removed by a revelation of the history of the whole business. The Examiner might very well undertake this duty instead of "talking big and proper," which doesn't become it, in fact fits it like a pair of grown-up trousers on the boy who does chores around the barn. People can not pose as saints at the last moment. Deathbed repentances are excusable only on the bed of death. A long and equivocal history is no preparation for the church.



THE LEMIEUX ACT

Few of the men who are interested profess to have an accurate knowledge of the provisions of the Lemieux act, under the terms of which a committee of conciliation and investigation might be appointed. It is stated, however, that in the present case there will be no request for the appointment of an investigating committee. According to statements made this morning the Canadian Pacific will not ask for such a committee, since the company has no grievance. The men have a grievance, but they will not apparently ask the assistance of any committee to discuss the matter.—The Globe.

The Lemieux Act is no act at all. Mr. King has to be sent to the scene of action whenever there is trouble and as a rule he holds a commission of investigation. A great triumph of constructive legislation this Lemieux was supposed to be but the fact is there is no patent way of righting wrongs. Disputes can easily be settled in the old-fashioned way. Mr. King has proved himself a very valuable man but the Lemieux Act is worthless.

AN APRIL FROST

The disheartening opening of Mr. Gillespie's campaign at Temperance Hall, 4th Line Smith, last evening, whose forty-one people all told attended including Mr. Gillespie, Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. G. M. Roger, and five boys under the age of 16 years, or 33 without the speaker, is enough in itself to show what the people think of the campaign as opened. There will have to be a different beating of the tom-toms if the Whitney Administration is to be snowed under to any alarming extent in West Peterborough. The evening was fine, but cold, especially inside. Mr. Gillespie is a smooth and agreeable speaker. Mr. Roger is an old politician, but a clear one. What was the matter? Old things have passed away. The large Temperance Hall is an almost exclusively Liberal district. Mr. Thomas Graham occupied the chair. The audience was there all but a couple of hundred who had remained at home. Liberals and Conservatives alike are not the insane partizans of former times. It is more be the country and its interests first than it used to be and those of the crafty politician last, if at all, nowadays. There is hope for the country. Political unity is not one whit less desirable than Christian unity. Mr. Whitney recognized his debt to the Liberals, and where he has come short of their expectations if at all, it is due to his mistakes as a man, not to his double-dealing as a common crook masquerading as a leader and a gentleman. Look out for the people. Every man gets what's coming to him in time. Sow and reap—the wind and the whirlwind. It is only necessary to wait a little.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Failures in U. S. are increasing in number and size. Liabilities so far reported for April are $8,087,805, against $4,965,765 for the same period of 1907.

One of the most amusing and disconcerting incidents of recent campaigns is the statement by Mr. E. B. Pense, M.P.P., the Liberal assistant leader in the Legislature, that he and Mr. Mackay had agreed in conversation that the Whitney C.N. R. deal was all right.

Gladys Seward and her teacher, Mrs. Collins, might very well give a series of afternoon piano recitals. The quality of their music is of such a high character that such a series would be of the greatest possible interest and benefit.

Editorial

Kern, an Ottawa Government favorite, sold land for which he had paid $112,000 at a profit of $150,- to the G.T.P. shortly after. This was brought out in the Public Accounts Committee. If this sort of thing keeps up much longer this administration will be considered insane.

Hon. J. R. Stratton must be a member of the Never Learn Club. To affirm that the Whitney Government is not half so good as the late Ross Government is to bring up painful recollections. By the time he has failed in the future as he has failed in the past he will discontinue making comparisons and will perhaps begin to think that his way of "doing business" is not the desirable one.

F. O. Burbridge, the local manager of the telephone system today received official notification from the Bell Telephone Co. that the system in Alberta had been taken over by the government as a going concern the transfer dating from April 1st.—Lethbridge Herald.

Thus are public conveniences going made to serve public needs. No doubt this may easily go too far but probably it will be seen to. Like all other functions of governments it will bear watching.

So many questions were involved in the North-West Manchester election that Mr. Winston Churchill's defeat will be credited indifferently to the government's education bill, license bill, free trade policy, Irish policy, old age pension policy, and what not, according to the strongest proclivities of each of its critics. It is a way they have in England, where there is little or no patronage in question, to turn by-elections very frequently against whatever party is in power, unless the seat is what is called a 'safe' one, where the the constituency has voted consistently on one side or another for generations. But that does not minimize the importance of the present result. It is as important as Mr. Gladstone's defeat at Greenwich, and Sir William Harcourt's defeat at Derby, in elections which were fought on moral grounds. The 'tariff' reformers in the present instance are naturally elated, as Mr. Joynson-Hicks is a pronounced protectionist, and puts his views uncompromisingly before the electors.—Montreal Witness.

There is no minimizing the trend of affairs in Great Britain. Times in Manchester are hard—just as hard as in the U.S. It is due to expansion beyond limits of capital, whereas in England it is due to Free Trade.

MONTREAL, April 27.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending April 25 were 2321 cattle, 62 sheep and lambs, 2337 hogs, 1382 calves. The offerings for local consumption this morning consisted of 1500 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 1250 hogs and 200 calves. Owing to the supply of cattle being much larger than a week ago an easier feeling developed in the market and prices show a decline of fully ¼c per lb., as compared with this day week. The attendance of local butchers was large and there were also some outside buyers and exporters present. The quality of the cattle was generally fairly good, including some 200 head of northwest ranch stock.

Supplies of spring lambs were also small for which the demand is fair and prices are maintained at from $4 to $7 each. A fairly active trade was done in calves, of which the offerings were ample to fill all requirements and sales were made at 5c to 7c per lb. for good to choice stock and the common ones sold at $2 to $4 each. A somewhat stronger feeling prevailed in the local hog situation this morning and an advance in prices of 25c per 100 lbs. had to be paid in some instances for choice lots over the ruling figure of a week ago. This strength was due more to the late advance in values for Canadian bacon in the foreign markets than anything else, as supplies of hogs here were ample to fill all the wants of the trade. A fairly active trade was done, selected lots selling at $6.75 to $7 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Beverly of Graustark

GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON,
Author of "Graustark"

"He was safer with me than anywhere else, Mr. Lorry. You may shoot me a thousand times, but I implore you to deal gently with my unhappy friend. He has done no wrong. The clothes you see upon that trembling figure are torturing the poor heart more than you can know. The burning flush upon that cheek is the red of modesty. Your highness and gentlemen, I ask you to have pity on this gentle friend of mine." He threw his arm about the shoulder of the slight figure as it drooped against him. "Count Marlanx was right. It was a woman he saw with me in the chapel last night."

The sensation created by this simple statement was staggering. The flushed face was unmistakably that of a young girl, a tender, modest thing that shrank before the eyes of a grim audience. Womanly instinct impelled Yetive to shield the timid masquerader. Her strange association with Baldos was not of enough consequence in the eyes of this tender ruler to check the impulse of gentleness that swept over her. That the girl was guiltless of any wrongdoing was plain to be seen. Her eyes, her face, her trembling figure furnished proof conclusive. The dark looks of the men were softened when the arm of the princess went about the stranger and drew her close.

"Bah! Some wanton or other!" sneered Marlanx. "But a pretty one, by the gods. Baldos has always shown his good taste."

Baldos glared at him like a tiger restrained.

"Before God, you will have those words to unsay," he hissed.

Yetive felt the slight body of the girl quiver and then grow tense.

The eyes of Baldos now were fixed on the white, drawn face of Beverly Calhoun, who stood quite alone at the top of the steps. She began to sway dizzily, and he saw that she was about to fall. Springing away from the guards, he dashed up the steps to her side. His arm caught her as she swayed, and its touch restored strength to her—the strength of resentment and defiance.

"Don't!" she whispered hoarsely.

"Have courage," he murmured softly. "It will all be well. There is no danger."

"So this is the woman!" she cried bitterly.

"Yes. You alone are dearer to me than she," he uttered hurriedly.

"I can't believe a word you say."

"You will, Beverly. I love you. That is why I came back. I could not leave you to meet it alone. Was I not right? Let them put me into irons—let them kill me"—

"Come!" cried Colonel Quinnox, reaching his side at this instant. "The girl will be cared for. You are a prisoner."

"Wait!" implored Beverly, light suddenly breaking in upon her. "Please wait, Colonel Quinnox." He hesitated, his broad shoulders between her and the gaping crowd below. She saw with grateful heart that Yetive and Lorry were holding the steps as if against a warlike foe. "Is she—is she your wife?"

"Good heavens, no!" gasped Baldos.

"Your sweetheart?" piteously.

"She is the sister of the man I serve so poorly," he whispered. Quinnox allowed them to walk a few paces down the flagging, away from the curious gaze of the persons below.

"Oh, Baldos!" she cried, her heart suddenly melting. "Is she Prince Dantan's sister?" Her hand clasped his convulsively as he nodded assent. "Now I do love you."

"Thank God!" he whispered joyously. "I knew it, but I was afraid you never would speak the words. I am happy—I am wild with joy."

"But they may shoot you," she shuddered. "You have condemned yourself. Oh, I cannot talk to you as I want to—out here before all these people. Don't move, Colonel Quinnox. They can't see through you. Please stand still."

"They will not shoot me, Beverly, dear. I am not a spy," said Baldos, looking down into the eyes of the slender boyish figure who stood beside the princess. "It is better that I should die, however," he went on bitterly. "Life will not be worth living without you. You would not give yourself to the lowly, humble hunter, so I"—

"I will marry you, Paul. I love you. Can't anything be done to"—

"It is bound to come out all right in the end," he cried, throwing up his head to drink in the new joy of living. "They will find that I have done nothing to injure Graustark. Wait, dearest, until the day gives up its news. It will not be long in coming. Ah, this promise of yours gives me new life, new joy. I could shout it from the housetops!"

"But don't!" she cried nervously. "How does she happen to be here with you? Tell me, Paul. Oh, isn't she a dear?"

"You shall know everything in time. Watch over her, dearest. I have lied today for you, but it was a lie I loved. Care for her if you love me. When I am free and in favor again you will—Ah!" He broke off suddenly with an exclamation. His eyes were bent eagerly on the circle of trees just beyond the parade ground. Then his hand clasped hers in one spasmodic grip of relief. An instant later he was towering, with head bare, at the top of the steps his hand pointing dramatically toward the trees.

Ravone, still in his ragged uniform, haggard, but eager, was standing like a gaunt specter in the sunlight that flooded the terrace. The vagabond, with the eyes of all upon him, raised and lowered his arms thrice, and the face of Baldos became radiant.

"Your highness," he cried to Yetive, waving his hand toward the stranger, "I have the honor to announce the Prince of Dawsbergen."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

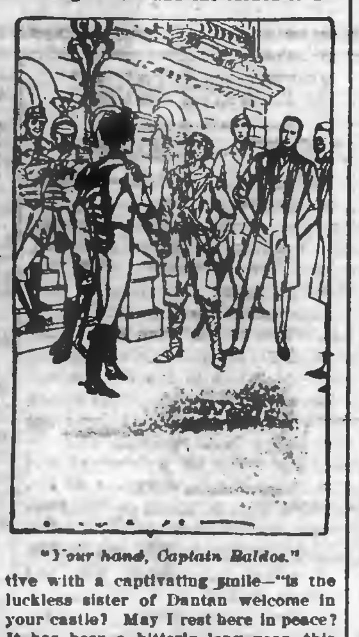
THIS startling announcement threw the company into the greatest excitement. Baldos ran down the steps and to the side of the astonished princess.

"Prince Dantan!" she cried, unbelieving.

He pushed the boyish figure aside and whispered earnestly into Yetive's ear. She smiled warmly in response, and her eyes sparkled.

"And this, your highness, is his sister, the Princess Candace," he announced aloud, bowing low before the girl. At that instant she ceased to be the timid, cringing boy. Her chin went up in truly regal state as she calmly, even haughtily, responded to the dazed, half earnest salutes of the men. With a rare smile—a knowing one, in which mischief was paramount—she spoke to Baldos, giving him her hand to kiss.

"Ah, dear Baldos, you have achieved your sweetest triumph—the theatrical climax to all this time of plotting. My brother's sister loves you for all this. Your highness"—and she turned to Yetive with a captivating smile—"is the luckless sister of Dantan welcome in your castle? May I rest here in peace? It has been a bitterly long year, this past week," she sighed. Fatigue shot back into her sweet face, and Yetive's love went out to her unreservedly. As she drew the slight figure up the steps she turned and said to her ministers:



"Your hand, Captain Baldos."

"I shall be glad to receive Prince Dantan in the throne room without delay. I am going to put the princess to bed."

"Your highness," said Baldos from below, "may I be the first to announce to you that there will be no war with Dawsbergen?"

This was too much. Even Marlanx looked at his enemy with something like collapse in his eyes.

"What do you mean?" cried Lorry, seizing him by the arm.

"I mean that Prince Dantan is here to announce the recapture of Gabriel, his half brother. Before the hour is past your own men from the dungeon in the mountains will come to report the return of the fugitive. This announcement may explain in a measure the conduct that has earned for me the accusation which confronts me. The men who have retaken Gabriel are the members of that little band you have heard so much about. Once I was its captain, Prince Dantan's chief of staff—the commander of his ragged army of twelve. Miss Calhoun and fate brought me into Edelweiss, but my loyalty to the object espoused by our glorious little army has never wavered. Without me they have succeeded in tricking and trapping Gabriel. It is more than the great army of Graustark could do. Your highness will pardon the boast under the circumstances?"

"If this is true, you have accomplished a miracle," exclaimed Lorry, profoundly agitated. "But can it be true? I can't believe it. It is too good. It is too utterly improbable. Is that really Prince Dantan?"

"Assuming that it is Dantan, Grenfall," said Yetive, "I fancy it is not courteous in us to let him stand over there all alone and ignored. Go to him, please." With that she passed through the doors, accompanied by Beverly and the young princess. Lorry and others went to greet the emaciated visitor in rags and tags. Colonel Quinnox and Baron Dangloss looked at one another in doubt and uncertainty. What were they to do with Baldos, the prisoner?

"You are asking yourself what is to be done with me," said Baldos easily. "The order is for my arrest. Only the princess can annul it. She has retired on a mission of love and tenderness. I would not have her disturbed. There is nothing left for you to do but to place me in a cell. I am quite ready, Colonel Quinnox. You will be wise to put me in a place where I cannot hoodwink you further. You do not bear me a grudge?" He laughed so buoyantly, so fearlessly, that Quinnox forgave him everything. Dangloss chuckled, an unheard of condescension on his part.

"We shall meet again, Count Marlanx. You were not far wrong in your accusations against me, but you have much to account for in another direction."

"This is all a clever trick," cried the Iron Count. "But you shall find me ready to accommodate you when the time comes."

At this juncture Lorry and Count Halfont came up with Ravone. Baldos would have knelt before his ruler had not the worn, sickly young man restrained him.

"Your hand, Captain Baldos," he said. "Most loyal of friends, you have won far more than the honor and love I can bestow upon you. They tell me you are a prisoner, a suspected traitor. It shall be my duty and joy to explain your motives and your actions. Have no fear. The hour will be short and the fruit much the sweeter for the bitterness."

"Thunder!" muttered Harry Anguish. "You don't intend to slap him into a cell, do you, Gren?" Baldos overheard the remark.

"I prefer that course, sir, until it has been clearly established that all I have said to you is the truth. Count Marlanx must be satisfied," said he.

"And, Baldos, is all well with her?" asked the one we have known as Ravone.

"She is being put to bed," said Baldos, with a laugh so jolly that Ravone's lean face was wreathed in a sympathetic smile. "I am ready, gentlemen." He marched gallantly away between the guards, followed by Dangloss and Colonel Quinnox.

Naturally the Graustark leaders were cautious, even skeptical. They awaited confirmation of the glorious news with varying emotions. The shock produced by the appearance of Prince Dantan in the person of the ascetic Ravone was almost stupefying. Even Beverly, who knew the vagabond better than all the others, had not dreamed of Ravone as the fugitive prince. Secretly she had hoped as long as she could that Baldos would prove, after all, to be no other than Dantan. This hope had dwindled to nothing, however, and she was quite prepared for the revelation. She now saw that he was just what he professed to be—a brave but humble friend of the young sovereign, and she was happy in the knowledge that she loved him for what he was and not for what he might have been.

"He is my best friend," said Ravone, as they led Baldos away. "I am called Ravone, gentlemen, and I am content to be known by that name until better fortune gives me the right to use another. You can hardly expect a thing in rags to be called a prince. There is much to be accomplished, much to be forgiven, before there is a Prince Dantan of Dawsbergen again."

"You are faint and weak," said Lorry, suddenly perceiving his plight. "The hospitality of the castle is yours. The promise we made a few days ago holds good. Her highness will be proud to receive you when you are ready to come to the throne room. I am Grenfall Lorry. Come, sir; rest and refresh yourself in our gladdened home. An hour ago we were making ready to rush into battle, but your astonishing but welcome news is calculated to change every plan we have made."

"Undoubtedly, sir, it will. Dawsbergen hardly will make a fight to release Gabriel. He is safe in your dungeons. If they want him now they must come to your strongholds. They will not do it, believe me," said Ravone simply. "Alas, I am faint and sore, as you suspect. May I lie down for an hour or two? In that time you will have heard from your wardens, and my story will be substantiated. Then I shall be ready to accept your hospitality as it is proffered. Outside your city gates my humble followers lie starving. My only prayer is that you will send them cheer and succor."

No time was lost in sending to the gates for the strollers who had accomplished the marvel of the day. The news of Gabriel's capture was kept from the city's inhabitants until verification came from the proper sources, but those in control of the affairs of state were certain that Ravone's story was true. All operations came to a standstill. The movements of the army were checked. Everything lay quiescent under the shock of this startling climax.

"Hang it," growled Anguish, with a quizzical grin as Ravone departed under the guidance of Count Halfont himself, "this knocks me galley west. I'd like to have had a hand in it. It must have been great. How the devil do you think that miserable little gang of tramps pulled it off?"

"Harry," said Lorry disgustedly, "they taught us a trick or two."

While the young princess was being cared for by Yetive's own maids in one of the daintiest bedchambers of the castle Beverly was engaged in writing a brief but pointed letter to her Aunt Josephine, who was still in St. Petersburg. She had persistently refused to visit Edelweiss, but had written many imperative letters commanding her niece to return to the Russian capital. Beverly now was recalling her scattered wits in the effort to appease her aunt and her father at the same time. Major Calhoun emphatically had ordered her to rejoin her aunt and start for America at once. Yesterday Beverly would have begun packing for the trip home. Now she was eager to remain in Graustark indefinitely. She was so thrilled by joy and excitement that she scarcely could hold the pen.

"Father says the United States papers are full of awful war scares from the Balkans. Are we a part of the Balkans, Yetive?" she asked. "He says I'm to come right off home. Says he'll not pay a nickel of ransom if the brigands catch me, as they did Miss Stone and that woman who had the baby. He says mother is worried half to death. I'm just going to cable him that it's all off, because he says if war breaks out he's going to send my brother Dan over here to get me. I'm having Aunt Josephine send him this cablegram from St. Petersburg: 'They never fight in Balkans. Just scare each other. Skip headlines, father dear. Will be home soon. Beverly.' How does that sound? It will cost a lot, but he brought it upon his own head. And we're not in the Balkans, anyway. Aunt Joe will have a fit. Please call an A. D. T. boy, princess. I want to send this message to St. Petersburg."

When Candace entered the princess' boudoir half an hour later she was far from being the timid youth who first came to the notice of the Graustark cabinet. She was now attired in one of Beverly's gowns, and it was most becoming to her. Her short, curly brown hair was done up properly; her pink and white complexion was as clear as cream, now that the dust of the road was gone; her dark eyes were glowing with the wonder and interest of nineteen years, and she was, all in all, a most enticing bit of femininity.

"You are much more of a princess now than when I first saw you," smiled Yetive, drawing her down upon the cushions of the window seat beside her.

"But she was such a pretty boy," protested Dagmar. "You don't know how attractive you were in those"—

Candace blushed. "Oh, they were awful, but they were comfortable. One has to wear trousers if one intends to be a vagabond. I wore them for more than a week."

"You shall tell us all about it," said Yetive, holding the girl's hand in hers. "It must have been a most interesting week for you."

"Oh, there is not much to tell, your highness," said Candace, suddenly reticent and shy. "My stepbrother—oh, how I hate him!—had condemned me to die because he thought I was helping Dantan. And I was helping him, too, all that I could. Old Bappo, master of the stables, who has loved me for a hundred years, he says, helped me to escape from the palace at night. They were to have seized me the next morning. Bappo has been master of the stables for more than forty years. Dear old Bappo! He procured the boy's clothing for me, and his two sons accompanied me to the hills, where I soon found my brother and his men. We saw your scouts and talked to them a day or two after I became a member of the band. Bappo's boys are with the band now. But my brother Dantan shall tell you of that. I was so frightened I could not tell what was going on. I have lived in the open air for a week, but I love it. Dantan's friends are all heroes. You will love them. Yesterday old Frans brought a message into the castle grounds. It told Captain Baldos of the plan to seize Gabriel, who was in the hills near your city. Didn't you know of that? Oh, we knew it two days ago! Baldos knew it yesterday. He met us at 4 o'clock this morning—that is, part of us. I was sent on with Franz so that I should not see bloodshed if it came to the worst. We were near the city gates, and Baldos came straight to us. Isn't it funny that you never knew all these things? Then at daybreak Baldos insisted on bringing me here to await the news from the pass. It was safer, and, besides, he said he had another object in coming back at once."

Beverly flushed warmly. The three women were crowding about the narrator, eagerly drinking in her naive story.

"We came in through one of the big gates and not through the underground passage. That was a fib," said Candace, looking from one to the other with a perfectly delicious twinkle in her eye. The conspirators gulped and smiled guiltily. "Baldos says there is a very mean old man here who is tormenting the fairy princess—not the real princess, you know. He came back to protect her, which was very brave of him, I am sure. Where is my brother?" she asked, suddenly anxious.

"He is with friends. Don't be alarmed, dear," said Yetive.

"He is changing clothes, too? He needs clothes worse than I needed these. Does he say positively that Gabriel has been captured?"

"Yes. Did you not know of it?"

"I was sure it would happen. You know I was not with them in the pass."

Yetive was reflecting, a soft smile in her eyes.

"I was thinking of the time when I wore men's clothes," she said. "Unlike yours, mine were most uncomfortable. It was when I aided Mr. Lorry in escaping from the Tower. I wore a guard's uniform and rode miles with him in a dark carriage before he discovered the truth." She blushed at the remembrance of that trying hour.

"And I wore boy's clothes at a girl's party once—my brother Dan's," said Beverly. "The hostess' brothers came home unexpectedly, and I had to sit behind a bookcase for an hour. I didn't see much fun in boy's clothes."

"You ought to wear them for a week," said Candace, wise in experience. "They are not so bad when you become accustomed to them—that is, if they're strong and not so tight that they"—

"You all love Baldos, don't you?" interrupted Yetive. It was with difficulty that the listeners suppressed their smiles.

"Better than any one else. He is our idol. Oh, your highness, if what he says is true that old man must be a fiend. Baldos a spy! Why, he has not slept day or night for fear that we would not capture Gabriel so that he might be cleared of the charge without appealing to—to my brother. He has always been loyal to you," the girl said with eager eloquence.

"I know, dear, and I have known all along. He will be honorably acquitted. Count Marlanx was overzealous. He has not been wholly wrong, I must say in justice to him"—

"How can you uphold him, Yetive, after what he has said about me?" cried Beverly with blazing eyes.

OBITUARY

MRS. GALBRAITH, LINDSAY.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Wm. Galbraith, which took place Saturday afternoon to Riverside cemetery was very largely attended by friends of the deceased. MR. G. A. GILLESPIE'S MEETING; THIRTY-EIGHT WERE PRESENT

Five of the Thirty-Eight Being Boys—Opening Meeting of the Liberal Candidate Not an Inspiring Success—Hon. J. R. Stratton the Principal Speaker—Mr. Gillespie Gives a Pleasant Address

There were exactly thirty-eight persons present at the meeting held in the Temperance hall, on the fourth line of Smith last night in the interests of Mr. G. A. Gillespie, the Liberal candidate for the Legislature. Three or four of those present were boys so the meeting could hardly be styled "large and enthusiastic." Considering that the meeting was the opening one of the campaign and that it was held in what has always been looked upon as a Liberal stronghold and that Mr. Gillespie had lived in the locality for several years, it was not as encouraging as it might have been. It was expected that there would be over a hundred present, but as it was the hall was far too big to accommodate the crowd.

The chairman was Mr. Thos. Graham, a well known farmer of the locality.

Mr. Gillespie was the first speaker and made an unassuming speech that was well received. He promised faithful service and close attention to the welfare of the riding if elected. West Peterborough, he said, needed a representative who was qualified to look after its agricultural interests and the speaker claimed that in that respect he had more experience than Mr. Bradburn. He had nothing personal against Mr. Bradburn. The present member was a friend of the speaker.

Mr. Gillespie was followed by Mr. J. R. Stratton, who made the speech of the evening. He condemned Mr. Bradburn and Mr. Whitney for the exercise of the spoils system and endeavored to show that the present administration at Toronto had been a failure in every respect and far from being as good as the Ross government which preceded it.

Mr. G. M. Roger, barrister, of Peterborough, was the last speaker. He would like to give the Whitney government a fair trial, he said, but it was galling to him to see the liberty of the people decreased. This, he claimed, the Whitney government had done in taking power away from the trustees of the rural districts and in several other matters. The people, Mr. Roger stated, would not stand for anyone taking away liberties that had been given them.

The meeting closed with the usual cheers.

THE AFFIRMATIVE WON DEBATE; ASIATICS SHOULD BE BARRED

Knox Church Young People vs. Park St. Baptist Young People—A Pleasant and Profitable Evening—Both Sides do Well.

The debate at Park street Baptist church school room last evening upon the question of Asiatic immigration, was very successful. The subject was, resolved, "That Asiatic immigration should be prhoibited." Mr. H. Wilkie, Miss May Menzies and Mr. Enos Maybee representing Knox church upheld the affirmative and Mr. H. Reid, Mr. Lincoln Brace and Miss Gillespie the negative. After a spirited contest the affirmative won

The judges were Messrs. W. Shiner, N. A. Howard-Moore, and R. F. McWilliams. In giving their decision they stated that Park street was ahead on the number of points scored but Knox young people had the better delivery and on that account were declared the winners.

OTONABEE NAVIGATION CO. TO BUILD NEW STEAMERS

New Type of Boats to be Placed on the Trent Waters—First One to be Built Here This Summer

The Otonabee Navigation Company have decided to place a new type of steamer in the Trent waters and work will be commenced on one of them this summer. The deal by which the company were to purchase the steamer "Empress" and "Manitta" of the Trent Valley Navigation Company, is off and the other course of building steamers has been decided upon. Several boats of the new type will be built the first of them to be ready for the opening of navigation next season. They will be stern wheelers with four rudders, will have a draft of about 4 1-2 feet and a speed of 15 to 18 knots perhour. Stern wheeled boats are the type used on practically all the rivers and lakes in Canada and the United States where there is not a great depth of water. They can navigate in much less water than the ordinary steamer and can approach a wharf where the water is very shallow. It will easily be seen that this is just the type of boat required on the Trent waters. The four rudders make it possible to turn the boat any way desired no matter how strong the wind is blowing. The propeller is at the rear of the boat and will be about twenty feet in diameter.

The new boats will have accommodation for 600 people. They will be handsome in appearance and the deck space will be larger than on the ordinary boats.

The first of the new steamers will be built at Peterborough this summer. The plans are now being prepared and the machinery has already been ordered.

FATHER OF CLEVER YOUNG CHINAMAN VISITED HERE

Son of Rev. N. G. Man Hing Takes First Place in Honor List at McGill University

A Montreal despatch of yesterday says:

Peter Hing, a young Chinaman, has won first place in the honor list at McGill university law examinations. He came second last year but this year secured first place. He is a son of a missionary in Vancouver and is thoroughly Canadianized. On graduation he will enter the Chinese diplomatic service.

The father of Peter Hing, Rev. Ng. Man Hing, was in Peterborough about two months ago, the guest of Mr. George Thomas, of the Dominion Chinese Cafe, and while here gave an address at a meeting at St. Andrews church. He was well educated and it is not a great surprise that his son is doing so well.

BOY FELL INTO CREEK AND WAS NEARLY DROWNED

Fatality Narrowly Averted at Dalhousie St. Yesterday—Timely Rescue by Young Lady

A drowning fatality was narrowly averted yesterday afternoon when the six-year-old son of Mrs. Martin, 250 Dalhousie street fell into the creek off Dalhousie street. The creek at this season of the year is very deep and it is indeed a miracle that the little fellow is to-day alive. He was playing on the street when the accident occurred. Mrs. Dowling, who lives along side the street, happened to notice the little lad fall in. She quickly ran across the street the Central Milling Co., where she told two men of the affair. They hurried to the creek and with great alacrity rescued the boy. The youngster when brought to the shore was unconscious, but was at once taken to his home, where, with the means of restoratives he was soon brought around again.

WEDDING BELLS

AIKENS—SINGLETON

Winnipeg, Man., April 22—On Williams' picturesque avenue in this city, was solemnized today a pretty home wedding, the guests at which included several Montreal and Peterborough ladies. The groom is very well known in Peterborough County, Ont., where he has often been the guest of Mr. Samuel Ray. Concerning the event, which is described as one of the most fashionable of the season the Winnipeg Post of April 22nd says;

"A pretty home wedding this afternoon was that at 4 o'clock of Miss May Violet Konke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Konk, on Williams Avenue, to Robert Singleton Aikens, Esq., of Cranbrook, BC., son of Mr. S. J. Aikins, Ogdensburg, NY., and grandson of Rev. T. R. White, of Bailieboro, County Cavan, Ireland.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by Rev. J. C. Champlin, of New York, assisted by Rev. C. Kennedy, of the First Presbyterian church. There were 220 guests, including members of the United Club at Cranbrook, of which the groom is president. The bride was attended by Miss Helen Champlin, of New York. Mr. William Konk, brother of the bride, assisted the groom. The decorations of the house were spring blossoms and Easter lilies the work being performed by Davis and Sons, florists. The bride was handsomely gowned in brocaded satin, wearing a most costly necklace of solid pearls, intermingled with diamonds, and old heirloom in the family. The veil was slightly looped to the left with a dagger ornament in beautiful settings. She carried bridal roses. Her attendant wore a gown of white silk over yellow trimmed with lace. The church choir was in attendance and a the bride entered the drawing room on her brother's arm, under a beautiful arch of Easter lilies bordered with smilax, her father received her and as the choir sung without music the "Voice that breathed o'er Eden," one of Winnipeg's fairest daughters was led to the altar. The reception room was done in pale blue with the Union Jack to the right and the Stars and Stripes to the left and ebtween the emblems of the two nations, wearing a reception gown of soft satin, trimmed with lace, the bride looked charming as she received the congratulations of her friends. Her going away gown was hunters' green cloth with hat to match. After an extended trip to Europe Mr. and Mrs. Aikins will reside in Cranbrook, B.C..

Amongst the guests from a distance were the Misses Langlins and Hattie West, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs Fraser and Miss Frasers, Brockville; Mrs. Samuel Ray, Peterborough, Ethel McKnit, Harry Aikins, Mrs. Aikins, Ogdensburg, NY.; George Langlin, India Prof. and Mrs. Pink, Ellen Dink, Troy, NY.; Dr. and Mrs. Gunnison, Francis Gunnison, Misses Eaton and May West, New York City.

CAMPBELL—KING

An exceedingly pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at half-past seven at St. Andrew's church, when two of the city's most popular young people were united in marriage. It was the marriage of Miss Zena King, daughter of Mrs. R. King, George st., to Mr. George A. Campbell, also of this city.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter and as the bridal party entered the church, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mrs. Greenslade. The bride looked charming in a travelling suit of blue broadcloth with a Tuscan straw hat to match. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Minnie King, who was becomingly attired in brown broadcloth with hat to match. The groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Harry Campbell.

After the ceremony had been performed a sumptuous wedding breakfast was partaken of at the residence of the bride's mother. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, including a check for $100 from the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left on the 8.30 G.T.R. train for Waubaushene and Niagara Falls for a honeymoon trip followed by the best wishes of a host of friends.

HAYDN'S UNHAPPY WIFE.

The Composer Married Her Merely to Oblige Her Father.

Haydn married not the girl he was in love with, but her sister. "Haydn, you should take my oldest daughter," said Father Keller, the barber, and as Keller had done a good deal for Haydn the composer felt that he must sacrifice his affection on the altar of duty and oblige the old man. At the time of the marriage, in 1760, Haydn was twenty-nine, while his Anna Maria was thirty-two. There does not appear to have been much love on either side to start with, but Haydn declared that he had really begun to "like" his wife and would have come to entertain a stronger feeling for her if she had behaved in a reasonable way. Unfortunately Anna Maria had neither rhyme nor reason in her composition. The entertaining Marville says that the majority of ladies married to men of genius are so vain of the abilities of their husbands that they are frequently insufferable. But Frau Haydn was not a lady of that kind. The world had emphatically proclaimed her husband a genius, but to Maria it was quite immaterial whether he were a cobbler or an artist. Nay, she even committed the incredible crime of using the composer's manuscript scores for curling paper, as underlays for pastry and similar things! She was gay enough with it all too.

When Haydn went from home, she would send him the most cheerful little notes. "Should you die today or tomorrow," ran one of these missives, "there is not enough money left in the house to bury you." At another time when Haydn was in London he received a letter in which Maria wrote that she had just seen a neat little house which she liked very much and that he might do himself the pleasure to send her 2,000 gulden with which to buy it so as to have in future a "widow's home." Pleasant reading this for the genial composer! In the first case he wrote without a trace of anger: "Should this be so take my manuscripts to the music publisher. I guarantee you that they will be worth money enough to defray my funeral expenses." In the matter of the "widow's home" he thought it would be best to arrange things himself. Ultimately he bought the house, and in spite of Maria's frequent suggestions of his coming dissolution he lived in it for nine years after she had been dead.

Frau Haydn saw out her seventy years, but some time before that the pair had agreed to live apart as the best way of ending a union which had proved utterly unbearable to the composer.

The Penalty of Curiosity.

Among the packets received at the Birmingham (England) postoffice one day was one containing a pair of handcuffs, which were being sent from Derby to a manufacturer in Birmingham to be fitted with a key. The paper covering of the parcel had been torn during the transit, so that the handcuffs were exposed to view. They were an object of curiosity to the clerks, and presently one of the young men jocularly clasped one of the cuffs around his left wrist. It was then that he discovered that there was no key to unfasten it. The handcuff was on his wrist "to stay."

The young man went to the police station, and an officer found a key that he thought would fit, but in turning it round he broke it off in the cuff. Now, the broken key would have to be drilled out or the handcuff filed through before the clerk could get it off. The day was Sunday, and all the shops, including the manufacturer's place, were closed. The clerk returned to the postoffice and explained his plight to the superintendent. This official ordered him to take the first train for Derby the next morning, explain the whole circumstance to the owner of the handcuffs, apologise to him and then return to Birmingham and go to the manufacturer's and have the handcuff filed off.

A Holiday With Joy.

"Life isn't so full o' trouble but that we kin sometimes steal away an' spend a holiday with Joy," said the old philosopher. "But the minute Joy shakes hands with us we go to celebratin', an' the next thing we know the town marshal runs us in fer gittin' too happy on the highway, an' we git $10 or thirty days more'n we bargained fer! I once knowed a ole brother who wus one o' the best fellers in the country when he wus in low grounds, but h'ist him to the hilltop an' he thought that the sun wus a silver mine an' he owned it, an' the moon wus a thirty dollar gold piece, an' the stars wus small change an' all made fer him! Satan hisse'f would 'a' been flyin' roun' in glory to this day but fer the fact that he couldn't stand to be prosperous. Still, it's a good idee to risk a day with Joy whenever possible. Even ef we git into more trouble by it our consolation will be that we had a high ole time gittin' thar! Human natur' continues to be the most curious contraption on the top side o' the yearth!"

Making It Useful.

The many blunders in statuary inscriptions recall a story of one which a worthy citizen of Glasgow was ready to perpetrate upon the city's statue to Nelson. Nothing florid was wanted, but something the merit of which should consist in its brevity and sincerity.

"Glasgow to Nelson!" was the advice given by a distinguished visitor when appealed to by the local fathers.

"Aye, a very guid suggestion," said one of the councilors. "And, as the toon o' Nelson's close at hand, micht we no' juist say, 'Glasgow to Nelson, sax miles,' that so it micht serve for a monument and milestone too?"—Dundee Advertiser.

Part of the city power and light sub-station at Nelson, B.C., was burned on Saturday.

WOMEN AS CRIMINALS

WHEN EMBARKED ON CAREER OF FRAUD FAR WORSE THAN MEN.

Notorious Blackmailer Who Drove Three Men to Suicide — Reduced Horrible Crime to Fine Art—Female Child Stealers—Seductive Circe of the Slums—Poison From Lust of Cruelty.

"One of the most dangerous men the police ever had to deal with," was the verdict passed by Inspector Pentin upon Von Veltheim, who was sentenced recently in London, England, to twenty years' penal servitude for demanding money by threats from Mr. "Solly" Joel, the South African magnate.

Are there not female Von Veltheims known to the police who, practicing Von Veltheim's methods, are far more cunning, dangerous, and merciless than even Von Veltheim was?

Take, for instance, the case of the notorious Chicago May, who only a few months ago received a sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment for her share in the attempted assassination of Eddie Guerin. Of her almost unthinkable wickedness something leaked out at the trial, but the half was not told.

The police, for example, stated that she had driven three men to suicide by her blackmailing. As a matter of fact, the writer of this article—who was especially employed at the time in investigating her antecedents—discovered no fewer than seven suicides that were directly traceable to her, besides several doubtful cases. She had also been implicated in at least three murders and five attempted murders, excluding that of Guerin.

Compared with a record such as this, Von Veltheim's one suicide (that of Miss Mattis) and one killing (Mr. Woolf Joel) seem almost trivial. Von Veltheim considered as a blackmailer, too, was a mere bungling amateur by the side of Chicago May, who had reduced her horrible trade to a fine art.

She was an expert, and no mistake! She had a special locked volume wherein, carefully indexed, she kept a record of the names and addresses of her victims, together with the amounts she had succeeded in extracting from them, and many other particulars. The writer has seen and handled this extraordinary book, which, with its beautifully-tooled red morocco binding, its patent Bramah locks (two of them), and its heavy clasps of solid eighteen-carat gold, could certainly not have been sold for less than a $50 bill by the well-known firm of stationers who supplied it.

Here is another case in point. It concerns one "Handsome Polly," alias "Polly the Pickpocket," alias "the Worst Woman in London," England. Although she has only been convicted about half-a-dozen times at all, her longest sentence being one of three years' imprisonment for child-stealing, Polly has a record such as few, if any, mere male criminals have ever aspired to.

When only fourteen she achieved the distinction of being elected "Queen of the Forty Thieves," a gang of young female pickpockets that haunted the purlieus of Drury Lane, London, England, some twenty-five years ago. Afterwards she became an artist's model, and her portrait, as Venus, appeared on the walls of the Royal Academy.

A serious charge of fraud, however, caused her to be barred from the studios, and Polly became a professional blackmailer, jewel thief, and confidence trickster. By these means she amassed considerable wealth, so that on her last appearance at the Old Bailey she sailed into the dock attired in a Paris costume and bedecked with some $25,000 worth of diamonds.

"Crime does not pay," they say. Well, it has "paid" in the case of "Handsome Polly." But at how terrible a cost to the community at large it is well-nigh impossible to say.

And as with these two instances, so it is with innumerable other ones. In no branch of crime has man really proved himself superior to woman. One seeks in vain in criminal annals, for example, for any male counterpart to Mme. Humbert, who swindled some of the shrewdest financiers in Europe out of more than $10,000,000 on the strength of some superstitious documents and an empty safe.

Or where, again, can one find a masculine parallel to the lately-deceased Cassie Chadwick, who persuaded scores of shrewd American bill-discounters and bankers that a supposed signature of Andrew Carnegie's —traced by her from a magazine advertisement on a leaf torn out of a child's copy-book—was genuine, and on the strength of it obtained houses and lands, and hundreds of thousands of dollars in hard cash?

Or, again, what about Mrs. Gordon-Baillie? She had all the genius of Mme. Humbert and Mrs. Chadwick, although her operation were on a less colossal scale. She, however, was successful in working the confidence trick upon a Government, that of Victoria, from whom she obtained a grant of 70,000 acres of land, on the ground that she wanted it for the evicted Highland crofters in Scotland. No swindler in trousers has ever equalled this latter exploit, which for sheer amasing audacity and brilliant originality stands alone in the annals of crime.

It is, however, in crimes of cruelty, and in poisoning cases, that women has most clearly demonstrated the greater magnitude of her wickedness as compared with that of man.

Male poisoners there have been, of course, just as there have been male torturers of little children. But these have acted invariably from motives of gain or revenge, or some other easily-understandable inducement; whereas the female child-torturers and poisoners whose names are famous in criminal annals have tortured and poisoned, in most instances, from a mere animal lust of cruelty, such as one finds developed elsewhere only in the fiercest and most savage of brute beasts.

Corine Chandler, a young woman was arrested in Montreal for deserting her three months old child.

ANOTHER CROWD FILLED THE RINK AT "BENEFIT" LAST NIGHT

Interesting Events Run Off—Press Walk Feature of the Evening—Hoagland and Slater Gave Exhibitions of Walking—A Grand Finale to Big Tournament

Again last night the rink was filled to the doors with an enthusiastic crowd, on the occasion fo the tournament for the benefit of those walkers who did not come within the money. Several good events were run off creating much amusement among the people. The committee indeed must feel gratified at the encouraging results of last evening.

Fenton, the Auburn, N.Y., lad was the first walker to come on the track and made an attempt to shatter the world's record for a mile. But the official time given out for his trial was 8.31 or nearly four minutes behind the record.

Then the 15-year-old girls of the city had a chance to show their speed in the art of pedestrianism. But some of the competitors were inclined to exceed the speed limit and were therefore disqualified. However Miss Annie Blodgett was the winner, she walked a straight heel and toe race. Miss Etta Kennedy was the second to finish, and the third prize went to Miss Lillie Hearn.

The next item on the programme was the go-as-you-please race between Dave Hartley, and R. J. Hatton, of Toronto, the distance being five miles.

Both men started of at a run with Hatton in the lead, he setting a merry pace from the first. After going going two miles Hatton dropped out, Hartley, after going three laps further, also left the track.

But the next event pulled off was "the ONE" of the night, namely the one mile walk open to the newspaper men of the city.

The scribes lined up as follows: Yokome, Crane, Lunan, Forcen, Craig and Hogan.

When the start was made Slats Lunan, while unperceived, madly rushed into the lead, followed by Ticker Forcen and A. Croyland (Yokome (the man of music fame), but ere the first lap had been made (Slats got lost in the shuffle, and "Magon Josh" and Prof. Hogan, who was making the best of the additional speed that is to be derived by wearing the "Noggin" patent walking boot, had passed the leaders and took command. From then on there was nothing to it but for Craig to win, as he completely outclassed Hogan.

But back among the trailers a merry set-to took place. Yokome, Crane and Lunan, the boy wonder, were battling hard for the honor of being the last to finish, but finally Slats won out. The greatest excitement prevailed throughout the contest and an ovation was given "Master" Craig when he finished. The order in which the newsgatherers finished was as follows:—1, Craig; 2, Hogan; 3, Forcen; 4, Crane; 5, Lunan, and 6th, Yokome.

After the newspaper men had their innings, Charlie Stevens and Jimmie Graham went a mile, and in an exciting finish the Buffalo man won by a few inches.

Tom Slater stepped a half in 3.50, a clever performance.

Jim Harrison, accompanied by Blake, in street attire, walked a mile in nine minutes.

Hoagland, unpaced, went the same distance in 8.27, he receiving round after round of applause.

During the evening the 57th band rendered a fine programme of national airs.

The gate receipts totalled somewhere in the neighborhood of $160.

FAST THIRD BASEMAN HAS SIGNED WITH THE ATHLETICS

Jack Landry, a former Tri-State league player, who is now residing in the city, has been signed by the Athletic Baseball Club. Landry is a third baseman and is said to be a good one. He played in the Tri-State league two years ago and last year was with the Montreal Reserves. The management of the London International team have been after him this year but he has decided to remain in Peterborough. He will be a valuable acquisition to the Athletics.

MONEY PAID THE WALKERS

Below will be found a detailed statement of the amount of money given each of the walkers who took part in the tournament at Brock st. rink:

Hoagland, $447.21.
Blake, $223.60.
Harrison, $136.16.
Stevens, $63.64.
Graham, $50.79.
Stenner, $25.00.
Fenton, $30.00.
Hartley, $20.00.
Slater, $35.00.
Hatton, $10.00.
Cooper, $8.00.
Brooks, $5.00.
Total, $1,027.42.

The money paid Stenner, Fenton, Hartley, Slater, Hatton, Cooper and Brooks, came out of the proceeds of the benefit held last night, while that handed over to Hoagland, Blake, Harrison, Stevens and Graham was fifty per cent. of the total receipts last week divided on the percentage basis agreed upon.

The walkers all agree that they have been handsomely treated in Peterborough and will sing the praises of the town wherever they go.

A detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures of the tournament will be published in the near future.

"EVERYBODY WALKS" HERE NOW

"Everybody walks in Peterborough."

The effects of the big tournament are noticeable on every hand, or rather on every foot. Everybody is walking faster than they were ten days ago, especially among the juvenile population. The fever has struck them hard and they can be seen going along the street at a gait that stamps them as coming Hoaglands.

"There are no children late for school these days," said the principal of one of the Public schools to-day. "The boys and girls are making record time walking to and from school and are talking nothing else but walking."

Out in the west end the boys have a field roped off and are pulling off matched events. Some of the youngsters are making great time.

TO MAKE WALK AN ANNUAL EVENT IN PETERBOROUGH

[illegible] ment is an annual fixture for Peterborough. The success of the one just held has been so great that it would seem that another could be held that would be even more successful than the one that has just been completed.

OCTOBER SUGGESTED.

October is the month suggested for holding the next big walk here, should another one be pulled off. In the fall the people especially the agricultural class have more time and money than they have at most other seasons. The weather would be fine, too, and all conditions conducive to success.

THE WALKERS' OPINION.

Hoagland and Slater both were unanimous in their opinion that the walk would be a great thing for Peterborough and were agreeably surprised at the large turnouts here at the first pedestrian grind in the history of the city. All their anticipations were exceeded and they are anxious to come back to Peterborough for another pedestrian event.

WAS TREATED LIKE A KING

Jimmy Reynolds Well Pleased With Way He Was Used at Peterborough

Mr. James Reynolds, who has been refereeing the six days' walking match at Peterborough, returned home this morning. While in Peterborough he was the guest of Mr. George Graham, of the Oriental Hotel, and he tells us that he had no trouble with the walkers and was treated like a king by the citizens of Peterborough.—Port Hope Guide.

TRIAL MATCHES IN BIRD SHOOTING

Will be Held at Toronto, May 20th. 21st and 22nd--An Olympic Team

The committee who have charge of the Olympic trial matches in clay bird shooting to be held at Exhibition Grounds, Toronto, on May 20th, 21st and 22nd, report that they will shortly have their programme ready for distribution and that it will be the most attractive cash inducement ever offered to shooting enthusiasts in Canada.

The events have all been made in cash, so that those who wish to try and qualify will be able to get back a great portion if not all, the heavy expense they are put to, in shooting through the programme. There will be 15 high average prizes for the 1st day, with 15 high average prizes for the second day, with 15 high average prizes for those who shoot both days.

In order to make the selection thorough and impartial the 15 high guns from each of the first two days will shoot off on the 3rd day for positions on the team, when there will be no entrance fee, and birds free. As an extra inducement to get those who qualify to go to England, the management of the shoot will add the net profits on the birds to whatever money the general committee allow.

The committee realize that the expenses of the shooter are very heavy but as Canada's honor is at stake, they would urge one and all to turn out and make the shoot a success, and if they are fortunate enough to qualify for the team, to leave no stone unturned to go.

American Walkers Left for Their Homes This Morning

Hoagland, Slater, Blake, Graham, and Fenton, the American competitors in last week's big tournament, left for their homes today. Hoagland, was accompanied by his daughter and trainer W. A. Dement of Syracuse, and they will go direct to Auburn, NY.

Before leaving the city the walkers assured their many friends here that if a tournament was held in Peterborough next year that they would be the first bunch to enter.

USED POISON AND OPIATES.

Gang of Indians Confess Series of Brutal Murders.

The Pioneer Mail publishes details of a terrible series of murders which have been recently brought to light in the town of Bangalore.

A gang of five men are under arrest, having by their own confession admitted to a number of gruesome crimes, the victims all being young men. According to the miscreants' confession, no fewer than eight youths have been done to death in various parts of the city. In each case the bodies, after being stripped of all valuables, were buried in the courtyards of houses or otherwise disposed of, and three graves which have been dug up by the police, acting on the information supplied by the murderers, have been found to contain the remains of five corpses.

The accused men admit that after they decoyed their unsuspecting victims they gave them poison, then chloroformed them, and, after removing the jewelry, cut their throats and buried them. Several more missing lads have yet to be accounted for. The greatest excitement prevails among the native populace, and the police have had to take special precautions to prevent the murderers being lynched by the infuriated mob.

After the five bodies were unearthed the police were enabled to take further steps, which resulted in the discovery of two more unfortunate victims. The accused, after interrogation, conducted some officials to a house in Cavalry road, situated in a well-frequented permanent police beat, and pointed out the floor of the kitchen, under which they stated a boy was buried. On digging down six feet the corpse of a youth was discovered, who had seemingly, from the position of the body and the contortions of the limbs, been interred alive. The murderers related that the lad was decoyed to the house, and, as usual, dosed with poison, this time chloral, which, not taking effect sufficiently, they tried chloroform. Before the boy was sufficiently unconscious the men were disturbed by a noise in the street, so they hurriedly buried him without cutting his throat, after removing all valuables. For the officials' inspection the miscreants produced from a cupboard in the wall a bottle containing chloral mixture, with which they had dosed the deceased. The body was later identified by the parents as their 18-year-old son. It is now awaiting a post-mortem. This murder it is alleged was committed as far back as Oct. 9.

Further investigations are being made, and the greatest excitement prevails in the city.

Quoits.

Quoits was first played by the Greeks at the Olympian games 423 years before Christ.

Wetting the Hair.

Be careful not to wet the hair too much, as it takes the oil out of the roots and makes the hair grow thinner. It is this habit of daily hair wetting that makes men get bald so much more quickly than women.

MARCH WINDS.

Behold, the beauty doctors
At last have come to town,
And they will make your eyes to shine
Without a penny down,
And, oh, the roses, maids, they bring
Without a penny down.

Then seek these roaring doctors,
Dull eye and pallid cheek!
Go seek them in the woodland
And on the mountains seek!
Their hands are rough, but wondrous;
Their triumphs are unique.

Behold, the beauty doctors
At last are come this way,
And, oh, the maidens' shining eyes,
That flash and glance so gay,
And roses, roses everywhere,
Without a cent to pay!

"What Won't Love Endure?"

Her Narrow Escape.

"Miss Minnie," began the elderly caller, clearing his throat, "it is true that I have known you only a short time, comparatively speaking, but I have taken a strong liking to you. It is true also that I am old enough to be your father, and"—.

"Oh, don't say anything more, Mr. Rypun," hastily interrupted the young girl, a deep flush mantling her cheek. "I should be sorry to give you pain, but it can never"—

"Why, what do you mean, Miss Minnie? I was only going to say that my age and my liking for you ought to give me the privilege of advising you to abandon the idea of being an actress. You haven't the voice or the physique, my dear young friend. Besides, it's a hard and exacting life. Try teaching or stenography or bookkeeping."

"I—I thank you, Mr. Rypun. I'll bear your advice in mind. Horrible weather, don't you think?"—Chicago Tribune.

This year we've struck out and away from the beaten path and have distanced all our past accomplishments. All lines making up the new Spring styles combine to spell "GRACE." No angular corners; instead they're softly rounded—the lapels sweep gracefully down over the chest, while the question of button arrangement is answered in a variety of ways

From now on we'll present, from time to time, the proper styles for men, which it will pay you to look over Sir, if you're at all interested in nobby clothes

Colored Pedestrian Says He Won't Stand for Anyone Running Down the Dominion

Jack Blake, the negro pedestrian, has nothing but good to say of Peterborough. He was never in a place, he says, where he was used so "white," and he deeply appreciates the many courtesies shown him.

"If I ever hear anyone saying anything against Canada when I get back in the States," Blake said in a local barber shop yesterday, "I'll land on him with this," and the negro 'ped' doubled up his fist and tapped himself on the knuckles.

ENDORSED BY SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL AND MR. HUYCK, K.C.

Mr. J. A. Culverwell Has Letter in Recent Issue of Belleville Intelligencer—Scores an Opponent.

Mr. J. A. Culverwell has the following letter in a recent issue of the Belleville Intelligencer:—

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Sir,—The letter of Mr. R. J. Graham, of Belleville, in April 21st's issue, is not only maliciously libellous but on the face of it venomous, but being written by an irresponsible person, without fear of legal attack, loses its weight in the eyes of business men.

The Northumberland-Durham Power Co., Ltd., has been carried on in every detail in a proper and legal manner under the advice of E.C.S. Huycke, Esq., K.C., Cobourg, an eminent lawyer, who to-day has authorised me to state so in this letter, and who only recently wrote to the Hon. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who to-day expressed himself as satisfied as to the proper organization of the company. The sale of any stock by me was authorized by the Board of Directors and endorsed afterwards at unanimous in every respect, perfect harmony existing and being attended by some of the largest manufacturers, business men, doctors and lawyers of the four countries.

The company officially endorsed by eighteen municipal councils, in some cases three times, recently received a new lease from the Ontario Government of the lower half of Healey Rapids, and also a patent of land for the works, and besides owns portions of the Rapids, and last fall stopped work pending a settlement with the Dominion Government for their intervening portion of the upper Healey Rapids, regarding which the recent large deputation received a favorable answer from the Minister of Railways and Canals, but being obliged to wait for the completion of canal surveys and locations of work. It will thus be seen that the three years delay is not the company's fault, and meantime no other power can be developed in the Trent River for the same reasons.

I and my associates also own the large portions of the other four Trent powers, mentioned in the commission report as being worthy of transmission, and these we intend consolidating in the one company subject to regulations of rates. The Hon. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who has aided in securing cheap power for the district, promised me to-day that on his return to Ottawa he will continue his efforts to secure the Healey lease for the company.

I am sorry for the necessity of this letter, but I write it under legal dictation and will say it is unfair that the attacks of R. J. Graham and his friends in other towns should continue either publicly or underhandedly as in the past.

Yours faithfully,
J. A. CULVERWELL,
Managing Director, Northumberland-Durham Power Co., Ltd.

"WATCH HAVELOCK GROW" IS RAILROAD TOWN'S SLOGAN

Population Has Increased 505 in Three Years—87 New Houses Erected in Past Two Years—Citizens Are Optimistic.

Special to the Review.
Havelock, April 27th.

"We're in it with the rest,
We're bound to beat the best,
'Keep going' is our motto,
And we're doing it I guess."

Population of Havelock, 1905, 1,050; population of Havelock 1908, 1,555.

Increase in three years, 505.

Total assessment, $237,514.00.

Number of houses erected in past two years 87.

The above figures showing the increase in population and the great growth of Havelock may seem quite surprising, but not so when you have once visited Havelock and seen its business-like air, the proof that it is a bustling town and bound to grow.

The years 1906 and 1907, were Havelock's growing time, but when it is predicted that even greater advances will take place in the next few years you will certainly be astonished. As I said before, great advances have been made, but even greater are looked for, as "keep going," the watchword of busy Havelock, is ever kept in view by the prosperous and energetic citizens who form the backbone and mainstay of this hustling and growing railroad town.

The building expansion in Havelock is very great for though houses are continually being built, still there is a demand for them. Rent is very high and still continues to soar. Every building that can be called a house is pressed into service and in cases two families are living in one house.

The new grain route from Victoria Harbor will be another boost for Havelock that will help it along.

There is a great chance of a revival in the mining industry in East Peterborough which will also benefit Havelock.

With the way it is growing now, its superiority over the surrounding towns and with the bright prospects that are now presenting themselves to help along its growth, Havelock is bound to become in the near future one of the most important and prosperous towns in this part of Ontario.

THE MISSIONARY INSTITUTE TO BE HELD IN CITY NEXT WEEK

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—In the Different Churches—The Modern Mission Movement Amongst the Young.

The Missionary Institute that is to be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, in the different churches of the city, is the direct outcome of the mass meeting held in Knox church early in March. At that meeting Rev. Mr. Armstrong, of Toronto, gave an address on the Young People's Missionary Movement, and the Young People's Societies decided that it would be beneficial to hold an Institute in Peterborough when the details of the movement could be more effectively considered. This Young People's Movement is an international one of about 6 years' standing. It has a U.S. council and also a Canadian council, with headquarters in Toronto. The Canadian Council has been co-operating with the local committee in making preparation for the Institute. This committee has been divided into several branches. One of these has had the arduous task of securing and billeting delegates. Another section has been making preparation for a very effective missionary exhibit which will be on display outside the institute in the school room of St. John's church. This exhibit will comprise literature and curios from many countries and will be open to the public. Another part of the committee has had in charge the preparation of the programme, and many prominent speakers have been secured, among them being Canon Tucker, Rev. Dr. McTavish, Rev. Dr. Brown. The Institute promises to be of a very successful character and will afford unique opportunity to the people of Peterborough and vicinity learning much about the present missionary situation in home and foreign lands.

NO TRACES OF POISON FOUND IN STOMACH OF ELGIN WEAVER

That there was no proof that the late Elgin G. Weaver came to his death unlawfully or by any foul play was the verdict reached by the jury at the inquest before Coroner Dr. Gray last evening. After several adjournments, the inquest was concluded at the city council chamber last night without any evidence being taken. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood was present and the jurors answered their names as follows:

Messrs. Geo. W. Powell, foreman; Thomas Lytle, Robert Mitchell, J. A. Armstrong, John Craig, John F. Thornton, George W. Powell, F. Bartlett, A. H. Webb, John Thirubeck, Thomas Emmerson, Geo. Stenton, H. R. Stewart, George Stevens.

The Crown Attorney explained that the report of Prof. Ellis on the analysis of the deceased man's stomach was a verbal one. Prof. Ellis had informed him, stating that no traces of poison had been found.

From the evidence adduced, Foreman George W. Powell brought in the above verdict.

COL. EDWARDS WILL HAVE COMMAND OF NEW REGIMENT

Recent militia orders authorize the organization of an infantry regiment and Edmonton, Alta. It will be a city corps and should thrive in the hustling and growing western city. While no mention is made of officers in the orders from Ottawa, it is understood that Col. E. B. Edwards, formerly of Peterborough will be the first commanding officer of the new corps. He has been active in the promotion of the regiment and his efforts have at last been crowned with success. The colonel is an enthusiastic military man and the Edmonton regiment should have a most successful career.

The new electric road from Windsor to Leamington was opened on Saturday.

MYSTIC APPARITIONS.

The Weird and Puzzling Enigma of Ghostly Visions.

MESSAGES FROM THE DEAD.

The "Ghost" That Appears to Warn a Living Person of Impending Misfortune—The Strange Case of a Boston Man and His Deceased Sister.

In the "Riddle of Personality" the author, H. Addington Bruce, discussing the proposition that human personality persists beyond the grave, cites a number of instances of apparitions that were closely investigated by the Society For Psychical Research and says:

In order to appreciate the nature of the evidence accumulated, let us glance at a few typical instances, each drawn from the society's records and thus sufficiently authenticated to merit serious consideration. We may begin with an old fashioned "ghost" story of the simpler sort. In this instance the percipient, a Mr. J., was a personal acquaintance of F. W. H. Myers, who obtained a first hand account of the experience. In 1880 it appears Mr. Q., the librarian of X. library, died, and Mr. J. was appointed his successor. Mr. J. had not known Mr. Q., nor had he to his knowledge seen any portrait of him when in 1884, or four years after his death, he made the old librarian's acquaintance under these circumstances:

"I was sitting alone in the library one evening late in March, 1884, finishing some work after hours, when it suddenly occurred to me that I should miss the last train to H., where I was then living, if I did not make haste. I gathered up some books in one hand, took the lamp in the other and prepared to leave the librarian's room, which communicated by a passage with the main room of the library. As my lamp illumined the passage I saw apparently at the end of it a man's face. I instantly thought a thief had got into the library. I turned back into my room, put down the books and took a revolver from the safe, and, holding the lamp cautiously behind me, I made my way along the passage into the main room. Here I saw no one, but the room was large and incumbered with bookcases.

"I called out loudly to the intruder to show himself several times more with the hope of attracting a passing policeman than of drawing the intruder. Then I saw a face looking round one of the bookcases. I say round, but it had an odd appearance, as if the body were in the bookcase, as the face came so closely to the edge and I could see no body. The face was pallid and hairless, and the orbits of the eyes were very deep. I advanced toward it, and as I did so I saw an old man with high shoulders seem to rotate out of the end of the bookcase and with his back toward me and with a shuffling gait walk rather quickly from the bookcase to the door of a small lavatory which opened from the library and had no other access. I heard no noise. I followed the man at once into the lavatory and to my extreme surprise found no one there. Completely mystified, I even looked into the little cupboard under the fixed basin. There was nowhere hiding for a child, and I confess I began to experience for the first time what novelists describe as an 'eerie' feeling. I left the library and found I had missed my train.

"Next morning I mentioned what I had seen to a local clergyman, who on hearing my description said, 'Why, that's old Q.!' Soon after I saw a photograph (from a drawing) of Q., and the resemblance was certainly striking. Q. had lost all his hair, eyebrows and all from, I believe, a gunpowder accident. His walk was a peculiar rapid, high shouldered shuffle. Later inquiry proved he had died at about the time of year at which I saw the figure."

This is a capital illustration of the reveuant type of apparition, the "ghost" that visits a locality with which it was familiar in life.

Then there is the "ghost" that appears to warn a living person of impending misfortune. Take the strange case of Mr. F. G. of Boston, who writes:

"In 1867 my only sister, a young lady of eighteen years, died suddenly of cholera in St. Louis. My attachment for her was very strong and the blow a severe one to me. A year or so after her death the writer became a commercial traveler, and it was in 1876, while on one of my western trips, that the event occurred.

"I had 'drummed' the city of St. Joseph, Mo., and had gone to my room at the Pacific House to send in my orders, which were unusually large ones, so that I was in a very happy frame of mind indeed. The hour was high noon, and the sun was shining cheerfully into my room. While busily smoking a cigar and writing out my orders I suddenly became conscious that some one was sitting on my left, with one arm resting on the table. Quick as a flash I turned and distinctly saw the form of my dead sister and for a brief second or so looked her squarely in the face, and so sure was I that it was she that I sprang forward in delight, calling her by name, and as I did so the apparition instantly vanished. Naturally I was startled and dumfounded, almost doubting my senses; but, the cigar in my mouth and pen in hand, with the ink still moist on my letter, I satisfied myself I had not been dreaming and was wide awake.

"Now comes the most remarkable confirmation of my statement, which cannot be doubted by those who know what I state actually occurred. This visitation or whatever you may call it so impressed me that I took the next train home, and in the presence of my parents and others I related what had occurred. My father, a man of rare good sense and very practical, was inclined to ridicule me, as he saw how earnestly I believed what I stated. But he, too, was amazed when later on I told them of a bright red line or scratch on the right hand side of my sister's face which I distinctly had seen. When I mentioned this, my mother rose, trembling, to her feet and nearly fainted away, and as soon as she sufficiently recovered her self possession, with tears streaming down her face, she exclaimed that I had indeed seen my sister, as no living mortal but herself was aware of that scratch, which she had accidentally made while doing some little act of kindness after my sister's death. She said she well remembered how pained she was to think she should have unintentionally marred the features of her dead daughter and that unknown to all how she had carefully obliterated all traces of the slight scratch with the aid of powder, etc., and that she had never mentioned it to a human being from that day to this. In proof neither my father nor any of our family had detected it and positively were unaware of the incident, yet I saw the scratch as bright as if just made."

Whatever the explanation of the apparition, it was the means of bringing the son home to take a long, last farewell of his mother, for she died within a fortnight of his return, "happy in her belief she would rejoin her favorite daughter in another world."

And now to turn to psychical phenomena of another type, the auditory hallucinations by which knowledge seems to be conveyed of deaths occurring far outside the normal ken of the percipient. The experience of a Mr. Wambey is typical. Once when planning a congratulatory letter to a friend the words: "What! Write to a dead man? Write to a dead man?" rang in his ears, and he later found that his friend had been dead for some days. Far more bizarre was an incident related to Mr. Myers by a Mrs. Davies. An acquaintance of hers had changed her abode unexpectedly, and it was arranged that Mrs. Davies should receive her mail until she could communicate her new address to her friends and particularly to her husband, who was in India. One evening a letter arrived bearing the India postmark, and Mrs. Davies placed it on the chimney piece, intending to ask her brother to hand it next day to the addressee. Suddenly she became aware of a strange ticking sound that seemed to proceed from the letter itself. Her brother, too, heard it, and, yielding to superstition, they imagined that the sound meant: "Important! To be delivered at once!" The brother thereupon put on his hat and carried the letter to their friend, who found it to be a communication from an unknown correspondent, some servant or companion, notifying her of her husband's death.

Taken singly, such incidents as the above are not without impressiveness. Considered in the aggregate and as massed by the thousand with corroborative data carefully preserved in the society's archives, they may well give one pause.

Pupil of the Eye.

The pupil of the eye is so called because when looking in it a very small image of the observer may be seen; hence the term, from the Latin "pupillus," or little pupil.

To Heal a Cut.

There is nothing better for a cut than powdered rosin. Get a few cents' worth, pound it until it is quite fine, put in a case of spice box with perforated top; then you can easily sift it on the cut. Put a soft cloth around the injured member and wet with water occasionally. It will prevent inflammation.

Auctioneers.

The ways of auctioneers in different parts of the world vary greatly. In England and America the seller bears the expense of the sale, but in France the purchaser bears the cost, 5 per cent being added to his purchase. In Holland it is still worse, the buyer being required to pay 10 per cent additional for the expense of the sale.

Peru's Agricultural Region.

The chief agricultural region of Peru consists of a series of fertile parallel valleys running the entire extension of the coast, over 1,200 miles, back to the chain of the Andes, the distance varying from twenty-five to seventy-five miles.

Newfoundland.

Nearly one-third of the surface of Newfoundland is covered with fresh water, mostly in the form of lakes.

Never Caught Alive.

In Lake Derwentwater, in England, there is a species of fish called vandace, which are never caught alive. They are said to frequent the deeper parts of the lake and are never met with in the rivers. One or two dead specimens of the breed which have been found in the lake are treasured as curiosities.

The following are some of the questions which have been asked and which will be answered at the meeting of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society at the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday night:

KICKED IN THE EYE BY WILD HORSE

Willie Layfield of Manvers Victim of Serious Accident Yesterday—In Nicholls Hospital

While attending to a horse on his father's farm near Manvers, Willie Layfield, a young fellow of sixteen years, was kicked in the left eye and was so seriously hurt that upon being removed to Nicholls Hospital it was found necessary to remove the injured optic.

The unfortunate accident occurred early in the day and Dr. Turner, of Millbrook, was summoned to attend the injured boy. However, it was thought advisable to bring the young fellow to Peterborough, whereupon he in company with Dr. Turner came to the city. After a careful examination of the eye by Dr. T. P. McCullough it was decided to remove it. The operation was performed by the eye, ear and nose specialist, assisted by Dr. Turner. This morning the patient was resting easily and progressing as favorable as could be expected.

THEATRICAL

"WE ARE KING"

Mr. Edmund Carroll, who is starring the season under the management of Mr. A. W. Cross will appear in Mr. Walker Whiteside's comedy success. "We are King." Of this delightful comedy, the Dayton, Ohio, Herald, of May 14th, 1907, had the following to say:—

"One of the most delightful romantic plays ever seen in the city was artistically rendered yesterday at the National to an enthusiastic audience. "We are King" depicts a novel series of events, some strong acting and refreshing love scenes.

Gustavus Venner, born King of Kahnburg, was abducted as an infant and wanders over the globe as a soldier of fortune, only to come back in all his full manhood and be placed on his own throne, through a conspiracy, because he looked like the king, who as an infant had been substituted for himself, but who now, owing to a blow on the head, had become a maniac. While acting as a sham King, Gustavus accidentally learns during a strong act between himself and the Black Prophet, who had been a party to the abduction, that he himself is in fact the real king. The play, which is prettily set, delightful in its naturalness and happy in its ending, should draw houses, as it deserves." "We are King" is under the management of Mr. A. W. Cross.

Man Charged With Assaulting Wife Did Not Show up—Wife Wanted to Withdraw Charge

Thos. Perry was charged with assaulting his wife Annie Perry, in Police Court this morning. Neither parties appeared and the case was enlarged for a week. However, some time after the court had adjourned. Perry called at the police station with a note from his wife stating that she was desirous of withdrawing the charge. It appears that in a lively scuffle on Saturday Mrs. Perry called her husband some uncomplimentary names. He became enraged and struck her. However, both were desirous of forgetting the past and promised in the future to live more agreeable.

RODE ON SIDEWALK.

A young man was fined two dollars for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk yesterday.

There are eleven electrical weighing and packing machines in the "Salada" Tea Company's Toronto warehouse. A single one of these machines that packs pound packages, exclusively, turned out last year considerably more than one million pounds of "Salada." This single machine, therefore, packs sufficient tea to supply each family in Canada with one pound annually. The space it occupies is only six cubic feet.

Mrs. Jane A. Freeman, widow of the late R. K. Freeman of Toronto, is dead at Hamilton, aged 78 years.

The Waltz of Ostriches.

The peculiar "waltzing instinct" of ostriches, described by a South African naturalist, is a sudden running off, with a whirling movement, first one way and then the other, and spreading and oscillation of the wings. The habit, an instinctive play in the young, is thought to be connected with escape from the large carnivora.

The Stormy Petrel.

The tiny stormy petrel is a bird of immense wing power. It belongs to every sea, and, although so seemingly frail, it easily breasts furious storms. Petrels have been observed 2,000 miles from nearest land.

Snakes.

Snakes swallow their prey and digest it in a state of dormancy.

The Angelus.

The angelus is the bell that is rung in Catholic countries at morning, noon and night to invite the faithful to recite the angelic salutation, Luke I. It gives the name to the famous picture by Jean Francois Millet.

Rubber Trees.

A rubber tree four feet in diameter yields twenty gallons of sap, making forty pounds of dry india rubber.

Salt.

In Italy helping a friend to salt at table was formerly thought to be an indication of undue familiarity, and when salt was offered by one gentleman to the wife of another it was deemed sufficient cause for jealousy and quarreling.

Shaking Hands.

The custom of shaking hands can be traced to the days of the ancient Israelites and was intended to signify peace, to swear friendship, to promise alliance or to give security.

Blinking the Eyes.

Remember that constant blinking of the eyes causes a fine network of wrinkles around the eyes that massage may not be able to eradicate. This is often only a bad habit, but may be caused by poor eyesight, which needs the treatment of an oculist.

Ice Strength.

Ice one and a half inches thick will support a man; eighteen inches thick will support a railway train.

Strong Perfumes.

In Tartary onions, leeks and garlic are regarded as perfumes. A Tartar lady will make herself agreeable by rubbing a piece of freshly cut onion on her hands and over her countenance.

John Wycliffe.

The cope, portrait and pulpit of the famous John Wycliffe are still preserved in the parish church at Lutterworth, where he preached and died, but was not buried, his ashes being cast into the neighboring River Swift.

Stag's Antlers.

It takes from six to eight years for the antlers of a stag to attain their full size.

The Steam Hammer.

Nasmyth, the inventor of the steam hammer, placed his hand under the mighty weight to show that it could be made to come down gently and remain just above his palm. This story gains point by the fact that Nasmyth first placed his watch underneath, and by a little miscalculation it was smashed to pieces.

Bay of Bengal.

The greatest bay on the face of the earth is that of Bengal. Measured in a straight line from the two inclosing peninsulas, its extent is about 420,000 square miles.

Pure Air Without Draft.

The night air is purer than that of day, particularly in great cities, says the Indiana health bulletin, therefore it is wise to keep at least one window open at night in the bedroom. When it is not possible to place the bed so it will be out of the draft, a screen in front of the open window will suffice for protection.

Iron Duke's Battle Dinners.

The Duke of Wellington's cook on one occasion, when the battle was not going well, was urged to make his escape, though at the time he was busy preparing his master's dinner. He replied that he intended to go on with his work, for his experience of fifty battles had taught him that the duke always came home to dinner. He might sometimes be a little late, but he always came.

Siberian Rivers.

Even in the lower latitudes of Siberia the rivers are ice bound from the beginning of November to the beginning of May. During the cold winter the smaller tributaries freeze to the bottom.

British Wolves.

The last wild boar in Britain perished before the reign of Charles I.; the wolf was exterminated in Scotland in 1680, and thirty years later the killing of the last wolf in Ireland finally extinguished the race in the British isles.

A Man of Many Places.

By virtue of his office the lord mayor of London is admiral of the port of London, gauger of wine and oil and of other articles, measurer of coals, grain, salt and fruit and inspector of butter, hops, soap, cheese, etc. He is governor of four hospitals, a trustee of St. Paul's cathedral and a magistrate "in several places." He is also coroner.

The License Commissioners for the new district of Sudbury recommend the issue of four liquor licenses.

MEDICAL FALLACIES.

Some Fanciful Notions About Boils and Fevers.

"The fanciful notion that a breaking out of boils, pimples or other eruptions rids the system of poison is firmly rooted in the minds of ninety-nine of every hundred persons," said a physician the other day. "When any one has a large boil or carbuncle his friends tell him it is good for him because 'it lets out all the bad blood.' There is as little reason in this as there is in the remarks attributed to a tenement house mother to her instructor in the hygiene o[illegible]ren. 'Miss Brown,' she said, 'well, seein' that I've buried ten, I don't see as no one has any call to tell me how to rare up babies, 'speshly some one as never rared up any of her own.'

"As a matter of fact, boils, carbuncles and similar eruptions are collections of germs and pus and not blood diseases, whose origin is usually at the location found. A sweat gland becomes clogged with germs and dirt, a hair turns in with its numerous bacteria, or, as is the case of the so called 'bone felon,' the germs are scratched in with the point of a file or by chipping the matrix of the finger nail. Wherever there are swelling, redness, heat and pus you may be sure there germs will be found.

"Boils do not mean impoverished blood and are not a blood disease, although popular opinion, fostered by some medical men, would so indicate. Infections on the skin such as those mentioned, eczema, the itch, barbers' infection, ringworm and many others have absolutely no connection with the blood or internal conditions. They are skin infections, pure and simple, and as a rule do not influence one's general health favorably or otherwise. Here once more the popular supposition of 'better out than in' is illogical and unsupported by the facts.

"Mothers who give children with measles and other eruptive diseases home remedies to 'bring out the rash' do harm in many unseen ways. The worst and most fatal cases of measles, scarlatina and smallpox are those with the dark red eruptions—the well named 'black' measles, scarlatina and smallpox.

"There are very few today who still cling to the old method of withholding water from the burning, dry, parched lips of the fever stricken. Yet who of us still living fails to recall the tortures inflicted upon the thirsty sufferer with pneumonia, typhoid or other burning malady?

"It has been finally demonstrated as a perpetual truth that water internally and externally is the best antipyretic known. Cold water administered internally in unlimited amounts is the ideal fever reducing agent. It is harmless, desired by the sufferer, reduces the temperature, dilutes the toxins, replaces the destroyed fluids and washes out the bacteria and accumulated waste products. The antipyretic drugs, however, are all depressant to the heart, destructive to the blood cells and injurious to the other organs."

England's First Bank Note Forger.

Whether the trick of forging notes was indulged in within the limits of China, Venice, Spain and other countries where banks first had their existence history does not record. But the man who first forged a note of the Bank of England was thereby, to quote a phrase too often misapplied, "damned to everlasting fame." It was in 1758, sixty-four years after the Bank of England was founded, that Richard William Vaugh, a linen draper, of Stafford was most unhappily led by mingled vanity and affection into this crime. He was then passionately in love with a young lady of his city, who, however, would not listen to his pleadings because, as she frankly told him, his worldly wealth fell short of her desires. He, therefore, forged a number of bank notes, which he showed to her to prove that he was very much richer than she had supposed. Had he not allowed the avaricious young lady to handle the notes all might have been well, but she abstracted one of them and passed it, with speedy calamitous results. Vaugh was arrested, his plea of his lack of dishonest intent in making the notes was not allowed, and he was condemned to death and hanged.

Pleasant For James.

When Mr. Ransom won his bride, he felt properly humble at securing such a prize, and in the after years Mrs. Ransom never allowed him to lapse into forgetfulness of her condescension.

"You really cared for me, I'm sure," said Mr. Ransom. "That is a great comfort—to think I didn't urge you against your wishes."

"James," said Mrs. Ransom, in a tone suited to her imposing and somewhat massive appearance, "how could you ever doubt my affection? Have I not told you that I had proposals from men who were brilliant, handsome and talented and passing them all by, James, I chose you!"

Seesaw and Sawsee.

Weary Walker told this to Bathless Broderick, whom he met on top of a haystack:

"Say, a lady says ter me: 'Go inter de back yard an' yer will see a wood pile. Saw a couple uv cords an' den come an' git yer breakfast.' After awhile I comes up to de house an' asts fer me breakfast, an' she says, 'Did yer see de wood?' An' I says, 'Yes.' An' she says, 'Did yer saw de wood?' An' I says, 'Yes.' An' she says, 'I didn't see yer saw it.' An' I says, 'Well, yer saw [illegible]e see it, didn't yer?' An' she says, 'Yes.' 'Well,' I says, 'if you'd 'a' seed wot I sawed you'd 'a' knowed.'"—London Scraps.

COLLIDED IN NORTH SEA TORPEDO BOAT CUT IN TWO

Three Small Naval Craft Involved During Night Manœuvres off Kentish Knock—Lieutenant Drowned in His Bunk—Two Confessions of Murder.

Harwich, Eng., April 29.—The British torpedo boat destroyer Gala was cut in two and sunk early yesterday morning off Kentish Knock, in the North Sea, by the scout Attentive. The torpedo boat destroyer Ribble was also involved in the collision, and returned to Sheerness with two compartments full of water. The flotilla was engaged in night manoeuvres when the accident occurred. Engineer Lieut. Frank A. Fletcher, of the Gala, who was in his bunk at the point where the destroyer was struck, went down with the vessel. There was no other loss of life.

Portsmouth, April 29.—The explosion of a boiler tube on the British battleship Britannia during a full speed trial yesterday, injured five men, four seriously and one slightly.

The Britannia reported the accident by wireless telegraph to this place, and late last night she anchored at Spithead. The injured were not brought ashore and no communication could be had with the battleship last night.

Two Confessions of Murder.

Watertown, N.Y., April 29.—Mrs. James Farmer, who with her husband is held at the county jail here, suspected of the murder of Mrs. Sarah Brenan of Brownville, whose body was found packed in a trunk, has made two confessions of the crime. In the first she stated that it was she who struck the blows with the axe while Mrs. Brenan was looking out of the window with her back turned. When confronted with the body of the victim, she made the alleged second confession and said, "I may as well tell the truth, Jim did it. I found him leaning over her body in the sitting-room. He had the axe in his hand and said to me with an oath, 'that's the end of her.'"

Death of Hon. Dr. Willoughby at Colborne—A Useful Career.

Toronto, April 29.—Hon. William Armson Willoughby, M.D., Minister without portfolio in the Whitney Cabinet, died at his home in Colborne yesterday morning.

Dr. Willoughby's health had been more or less seriously affected since last summer, when he paid a visit to Germany, in the interests of psychiatric practice in the provincial hospitals. Bright's disease is given as the cause of death.

He was born in the Township of West Gwillimbury, Simcoe County, Feb. 2, 1844, and educated at Bradford Grammar School and Victoria College, whence he graduated in 1867. After considerable municipal service he was returned to the Legislature in 1886, for East Northumberland, but was unseated on petition and defeated at the subsequent bye-election in 1888. Eight months later, in the same year, on the death of his opponent, he regained the seat, which he retained in 1890 and 1894. He was once more defeated in 1898, but was re-elected in 1902 and 1905.

Dr. Willoughby was always closely associated with Hon. J. P. Whitney from his entrance into public life, and did staunch service while the party lingered in opposition. For this he had his reward in the Cabinet honor accorded him. One of his favorite ideas in recent years was the organization of a provincial department of health, with a Cabinet minister at its head.

GRIEF WAS TOO MUCH FOR HIM

All Family Gone, Old Man Dies From Sheer Grief.

Buckingham, Que., April 29.—Yesterday afternoon another death occurred at Notre Dame de la Salette, indirectly the result of the landslide. Jules Lamoure, aged 84, died in his chair. He was the father of Mrs. Charron and the grandfather of her three sons, all of whom were victims of the landslide and the shock was too much for the old man. He will be buried on Thursday. He leaves one daughter and six sons.

There are now still 14 bodies missing, though every search has been made for them, none can be found. The funeral of 16 victims buried in 15 coffins yesterday, was the most remarkable ever held in Canada, and may never be duplicated.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Major, M.P. for Labelle, was authorized by a meeting to request Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, to see that the channel is cleared.

Gracia Desjardines, the little girl whose mother and two brothers are dead, will enter a convent at Ottawa, where her sister is, and she will be well looked after.

Dramatic scenes of every kind continue and the village is still dazed with grief.

THE STEAMER OVERTURNED

Capsized in Windstorm—Fifteen Persons Drowned and Others Injured.

Helena, Ark., April 29.—Fifteen persons lost their lives and several others sustained serious injuries, while several score are suffering from exposure as the result of the capsizing of the river steamer Marion, having aboard members of a carnival company near the mouth of the St. Francis river.

The steamer was caught in a windstorm and overturned when 200 yards from shore, and with the exception of several who were washed into the water, those aboard clung to the overturned boat and drifted for several hours, the waves from time to time washing one after another into the waters, until a gasoline launch arrived. The Marion was a 65-ton boat.

Killed by Dynamite.

Syracuse, N.Y., April 29.—W. A. Abel, a Syracuse business man, 63 years of age, was killed by an explosion of dynamite at Cazenovia yesterday.

He was on a visit to his brother and had suggested the removal of a stump in the yard by the use of dynamite. He place a charge in the stump, and when it did not explode he went to investigate. While leaning over the battery the charge went off, throwing him into the air.

He was badly mangled. Death was instantaneous.

Fifteen Years For Burglar.

Guelph, April 29.—Martin Price was yesterday sentenced by Justice McMahon at the afternoon's sitting of the spring Assizes to fifteen years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Price is the man who about one month ago was caught in the act of burglarizing the residence of Mrs. Gummer. The police had a hard time capturing Price, who drew on them a 38-calibre revolver.

Confidential Clerk Missing.

Royce was in communication with Mr. Berry almost daily and was on his way back. He wrote from Chicago two weeks ago, but nothing further has been heard from him. Foul play is feared.

Saskatchewan Has Surplus.

Regina, Sask., April 29.—The annual statement of receipts and expenditures of the Province of Saskatchewan was submitted to the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon, and shows that the province came through the year 1907-08 with a surplus of 21,167.72, as against a surplus last year of $462,200.14.

THREE PETERBORO' MEN ARE MENTIONED FOR THE POSITION

For the Archiepiscopacy of Toronto Which Has Been Made Vacant by the Resignation of His Grace Archbishop O'Connor—Bishop Scollard, Bishop McEvay and Bishop O'Connor are Mentioned as Probable Successors.

A Toronto despatch says:

The resignation of his Grace Archbishop O'Connor from the head of the Archdiocese of Toronto continues to be the general subject of discussion among the members of the faithful.

That he is unwell, and has been ever since he came to Toronto, is admitted by all, even by himself. Few, however, think this is the real reason for his retirement.

His Grace, it is said, has been troubled by the actions of even some of his priests and the conduct of some members of the faith.

MIXED MARRIAGE TROUBLE.

The persistent efforts of certain Catholics to marry Protestants against his wishes also gave him some concern, and it is known that they have gone so far as to appeal to Rome against his wishes, and with some degree of success.

It is through one of these parties that the news first reached Toronto that the archbishop had resigned.

NOMINATIONS IN ROME.

From the same source it was learned that it was accepted, and that the nominations for his successor were held in Rome on March 23rd.

Despite all this however, his Grace maintains his former statement that he is still the head of the archdiocese.

DOES NOT KNOW.

Rev. Father Cruise, secretary to the archbishop, stated to-day that he knew nothing about the archbishop's resignation.

"Who would receive the information first?"

"Well, it would go to the papal delegate in Ottawa, who would then forward it direct to the archbishop himself."

"Then no priest would have any knowledge of it?"

"No, I think not. It is a matter between the archbishop and Rome."

HIS LORDSHIP BISHOP SCOLLARD
Who May be the Successor of His Grace Archbishop O'Connor.

WHO WILL BE ARCHBISHOP?

At the present time the most prominent members of the Catholic hierarchy in Canada who are likely to be named for the Archiepiscopacy of Toronto are Bishop Scollard of the Soo, and Bishop McEvay, of London. While there is no particular reason why either should be chosen before other prominent priests, still the probability is that a bishop would be given the preference. It is usually the case, though by no means invariably.

Bishop Scollard is the youngest bishop in Ontario. He comes from Peterborough diocese, and is a strong man in every way. His administration at the Soo would seem to warrant the Vatican in naming him for the Toronto position. And he is young—a feature that might argue for his elevation. Toronto is an important centre and requires a man of adaptability and comprehensive grasp. His comparative youth would argue for him on these lines. Bishop Scollard is popular among clergy and people, and that too, might have weight.

Bishop McEvay also came from Peterborough, and is the second latest bishop. He has the precedent that Archbishop O'Connor was elevated to Toronto from the See, but that, of course, weighs but little. He is a strong man too is Bishop McEvay, with all the qualities that go to make a clever administrator. Besides, he is thoroughly familiar, from work done there as a priest, with Peterbor', Hamilton and London.

Bishop Dowling, of Hamilton, and Bishop O'Connor, of Peterborough, are comparatively old men and scarcely in line.

TO HOLD PROBE IN SECRET GOVERNMENT IS ATTACKED

Opposition Scores Opponents for Lack of Sincerity—To Hear Only One Charge Against the Marine Department—Investigation Not Thorough as Promised—New Issue of Dominion Notes.

Ottawa, April 29.—The Opposition had a field day on the proposed enquiry into the Marine Department. They attacked the Government on three counts. That the enquiry would be restricted to only one charge of the many contained in the report of the Civil Service Commission; that it would be in camera, and that the duty of getting the facts before the commissioner had been assigned to two extreme partisans of the Government who were expected to protect their friends, the people of Canada being without counsel.

Mr. Brodeur informed R. L. Borden that the enquiry would begin on Friday.

"On what grounds were Messrs. Watson and Perron appointed as counsel?" asked Mr. Foster.

"They are men of repute—that is the reason," replied the Minister.

It was evident, commented Mr. Borden, that the enquiry was to be restricted, as it touches only one paragraph of the report of the Civil Service Commissioners. It was somewhat remarkable that the men appointed as counsel were strong Liberals, one of them being the partner of Mr. Prefontaine, predecessor of Mr. Brodeur in the Marine Department, and the other the official in charge of the Liberal organization in Ontario.

Mr. Borden urged the importance of appointing counsel to represent Messrs. Courtney, Fyshe and Bazin, the commissioners whose report had been attacked.

"I," vociferated the Minister, "will never try to go behind any corpse or coffin to protect myself."

Mr. Bergeron thought it would be a farce to have a report from Judge Cassels worked up by Messrs. Watson and Perron, than whom two stronger party men could not be found.

Mr. Fielding said the Opposition had an erroneous conception of the purpose of the enquiry. It was not a review of the report of the Civil Service Commissioners, but it was to enquire into accusations made in somewhat general terms by the commissioners. The report states that there was not only inefficiency, but practically corruption in the Department of Marine and Fisheries. It was the purpose of the commissioner to find out who are corrupt. Gentlemen opposite had a similar report in 1892, but did not hang with it for four years. In that report it was said that political patronage was one of the evils of the service, and in other respects the reports were similar. The difference in the action of the Government was that in the present case it was proposed to see what officials should be dismissed.

Mr. Foster interpreted the remarks of the Finance Minister to mean that the Government proposed to have its revenge by punishing a few Tory officials. They were all very anxious to separate the head of the Department from the Department itself. It was the very essence of government to hold the Minister responsible for his Department. If the late Government pigeonholed the report of the royal commission of 1892 for four years the present Government pigeonholed the same report for 12 years. It was the duty of the Minister to master his Department, and in the two years he had been in the office he should have found out just how the business was going on. As an example of what he was doing he has run up vast bills for changing the bookkeeping of his Department without enquiring for the schedule of prices he was to be charged. What reproof could he give to his subordinate when he initials business in that way?

The purposes were to be indicated by Mr. Aylesworth at Newmarket, namely, to separate the Tory goats from the Grit sheep. It was a spectacle to see the Minister appoint partisans to conduct an investigation in camera for the purpose of shielding the Government and the Minister. The people of the country wanted the enquiry carried on in open daylight, and the counsel of the people appointed to see that the facts are brought out.

Mr. Lennox pointed out that the Courtney commission made direct charges against the Minister, and that there were paragraphs of the report just as sweeping in their condemnation of the whole Department as the paragraph upon which the enquiry is to be based. There was no organization that applied to the head. "There was no visible sign of a single directing head, and no purpose but to spend as much money as possible." That, in Mr. Lennox's opinion, was not directed at any subordinate, but at the Minister himself.

Mr. Lennox declared that Mr. Watson, the counsel, was the man who would not find that there was anything wrong in the Common's West Elgin election, while at the same time MacNish, the Liberal candidate, had made a full confession.

Mr. Fisher states the Opposition were wrong in presuming that the enquiry would be secret; that was left to Judge Cassels to say. He defended Mr. Brodeur, who had not had time to carry out reforms in his Department.

Yesterday afternoon Hon. Mr. Fielding introduced a bill respecting a certain issue of Dominion notes. This legalizes and confirms the proceedings taken in connection with advances of money to the banks for the purpose of moving the western wheat crops.

He also introduced a bill to amend the Bank Act, to carry out the arrangements whereby the banks are permitted in certain periods of the year to issue excess currency up to 15 per cent. of their combined capital and reserve. A special provision is made in respect to the Bank of British North America, which is permitted to issue a smaller amount of excess currency. This is covered by the Bank Act.

Mr. Beauparlant introduced a bill to amend the criminal code by taking from a trial judge the power to commit for contempt of his own court. It also proposes to increase the privilege of the press to comment on a case after the verdict has been given; and in any case, cases of contempt of court should be tried by a jury.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier adopted the suggestion of Mr. Borden that the Hodgins' enquiry be based on a letter of Major Hodgins in the public press.

Major Beattie (London) asked the Government to offer a reward for the apprehension of Pte. Moir, the murderer of Sergt. Lloyd at Wolseley Barracks, London.

ROCHETTE WILL PAY THE PENALTY

Jury Returns a Verdict of Guilty—To Die on June 27th.

Quebec, April 29.—The verdict of the jury in the case of Omer Rochette was rendered at 10.30 o'clock yesterday morning. Rochette was found guilty of having poisoned his wife on the 17th of November last and was immediately condemned to be hanged Saturday, June 27, at 8 o'clock a.m. at the common jail of the district.

Mr. Greenshields, who had objected to certain parts of the charge made to the jury on Monday, Judge Cross, made a motion for a suspension of the sentence, but did not succeed.

Asked if he had anything to say against the verdict before the sentence, Omer Rochette, who did not seem to be the least moved, replied that he had nothing to say.

The court was crowded and the verdict was a surprise because the general opinion was that the jury would disagree, though the judge's charge was against the prisoner. The case may go in appeal.

Rochette is the man who married a young girl 12 days after the funeral of his first wife. He then fled to Chicago.

Shot Intruder Dead.

Montreal, April 29.—Wenceslas Fortin was shot and killed at Chambly Canton, Que., Monday night by George Wilson.

Fortin arrived there a few weeks ago and failed to get a store liquor license he tried for. He drank in a number of places and seeing a light in the home of George Wilson, asked admission. Being refused, he broke the door, entering the house. Wilson had a shot gun and killed him.

Japanese Form Colony.

Vancouver, B.C., April 29.—Eleven Japanese arrived Monday night on the Empress of India, from Yokohama en route to Calgary. They are the first consignment of settlers from Japan and will be located on land bought in the Alberta irrigation belt by a Japanese company, which plans to start an Oriental colony in that province.

The Japanese were properly passported and their entrance was not opposed by the Dominion immigration authorities. They had permission from the Mikado to enter, travel and to settle in Canada.

Gas Smothered Six.

New York, April 29.—The bodies of six unknown Italians, supposed to be miners from Midvale, Pa., were found in a room in a Greenwich street lodging-house late yesterday. The gas was turned on. The coroner said the men had been dead several hours.

SIX ARE KILLED IN CRASH TWO TROLLEY CARS COLLIDED

Accident Caused by Motorman Over-running His Orders—Thirty Men and Women Injured—Four of Them Seriously—One Motorman Killed.

Detroit, April 29.—Six people were killed and a score or more injured, several of them fatally, when a limited car, eastbound, on the Detroit, Jackson & Chicago Electric Road, generally known as the Ann Arbor line, collided with a regular car four miles east of Ypsilanti, near Denton, yesterday. It is said that confusion over the orders, which are reported to have been changed, was responsible for the collision.

The cars crashed together head-on and were smashed to pieces. Motorman Fay is reported to be one of the dead. The point where the accident occurred is about 35 miles west of the city. Early reports are that the limited car completely telescoped the regular car.

The limited car comfortably filled with about 40 people, left Ypsilanti at 2.17 for Detroit. The running time of the car was changed yesterday and reduced so that Motorman Fay left Ypsilanti 10 minutes earlier than he has been accustomed to. This is thought by some to have been responsible for his mistake. Instead of stopping at Harris Switch, about two miles west of the scene of the accident, where it is said, by the officials of the road, the cars should have passed, the limited rushed by the crossing point at high speed. As it rounded a curve four miles east of Ypsilanti the local car flashed into view, also running at high speed. It was a hopeless effort to try and stop the heavy cars and they crashed together with terrific impact. Motorman Wingrove of the local car jumped when he saw that the collision was inevitable, but Motorman Fay stuck to his vestibule. The local car telescoped the other for nearly 80 feet.

Hardly a passenger escaped injury of some sort. Bruises and cuts from broken glass were general among those who had fortunately escaped more serious wounds. A relief car was sent to the scene from Ypsilanti and carried the severely injured to the hospital at Ann Arbor.

RAILWAY GIVES FREE PASSAGE

Long Fight For 3 Cent Fares in Cleveland is Ended.

Cleveland, O., April 29.—Three-cent car fare on all lines operating within the city of Cleveland within the next ten days became a possibility Monday night at the regular meeting of the city council, when a "security grant" was passed under suspension of the rules of the Cleveland Railway Co., a new corporation which took over the consolidated properties of the old companies.

Thus ends the seven years' contest which has been alleged here for lower street railway fare and public control of urban transportation.

Following the settlement, President Dupont, who took charge of the newly-organized company at midnight, announced that free transportation would be granted the people yesterday as an evidence of the cessation of the troubles, and that upon the same date each year an effort will be made to "consecrate" the day in a similar manner.

Douks Go to British Columbia.

Winnipeg, April 29.—One hundred Doukhobors will shortly leave for British Columbia. Their leader, Peter Veregin, has bought 2,700 acres of land on the Columbia river near Nelson, where they will go into fruit-raising on a large scale.

CRANK KILLS LITTLE CHILD

Started in to Fight the Devil—He Broke Three Doors.

Allentown, Pa., April 29.—The news of an atrocious murder by a religious fanatic in the borough of Alliance, reached here yesterday. Councilman Harry Smith's little daughter was killed by his brother-in-law, Robert Bachman of Nazareth, Pa., while she was visiting the Bachman home. At the time of the killing Bachman was in a frenzy, during which he drove everybody except the little girl out of the house.

Bachman was the head of a new praying band, and last week got the Smith's interested. They went to Bachman's house last Saturday, prayed and held services and then decided to remain until the spirit told them to leave.

Late Monday night under Bachman's direction, Smith, in fighting the devil, broke three doors, kicked in the footboard of a bed and jumped on the bed, smashing it. Meanwhile Bachman was in an adjoining room with the Smiths' only child, May Irene, who would have been five years old yesterday.

When Mrs. Smith entered the room she found her daughter dead on the floor and Bachman on his knees alongside in a religious frenzy.

Yesterday Bachman was arrested. His wife told the coroner that the child had been killed by God and that her husband was God.

CHURCHILL WILL CONTEST DUNDEE

One of the Safest Liberal Seats in Great Britain.

London, April 29.—Winston Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, has accepted an invitation to contest Dundee, where there is a vacancy, caused by the elevation of Right Hon. Edmund Robertson to the peerage. This is one of the safest Liberal seats in the United Kingdom. Mr. Churchill's chief opponent will be Sir George Baxter, a Unionist, but it is likely that the Labor and Prohibition parties will have candidates in the field.

Capt. Murray, Liberal, was elected to Parliament Monday for the County of Kincardineshire, defeating Mr. Gammet, his Unionist opponent, by 1,898, as compared with 2,253, the majority by which the late incumbent was elected in 1906.

Fire at St. John, N.B.

St. John, N.B., April 29.—Members of the Irish Literary and Benevolent Society, while returning about three o'clock yesterday morning from their annual ball, held Monday evening in the Victoria Rink, learned that their hall on Union street was being destroyed by fire.

The fire originated in A. J. Russell's candy factory. Other tenants were: Patrick Doherty, tailor; J. E. Hogan, liquors; J. Callinson & Sons, clothiers; Jos. Mitchell, stoves; W. H. Underhill, printer; John Gallagher, tailor; John B. Bardsley, hatter. All suffered considerable damage both from fire and water.

The Irish society loss about $1,600, while the total loss is about $30,000.

Started the Survey.

Goderich, April 29.—V. M. Roberts has been appointed chief engineer, and with a staff of draughtsmen, rodmen and chainmen, started yesterday the preliminary surveys of the West Shore Electric Road, which is to be built from Goderich to Kincardine, a distance of 30 miles.

It is expected this line will take two years in construction.

Arrested For Smuggling.

Plattsburg, N.Y., April 29.—Joseph Breitman of New York was arrested here on complaint of the custom officials for alleged fraudulent entry of 200 pieces of Persian lambskin, valued at over $800. The skins were concealed in a package of fur pieces shipped by express by Breitman in Montreal, consigned to himself in New York.

George Hepburn was sentenced at Kingston to six months for bigamy.

This woman was ill, blue, and discouraged. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. R. Gentleman, 1093 St. James Street, Montreal, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered from a severe female weakness, and extreme nervousness, and was blue and utterly discouraged.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking several bottles, I am not only cured, but am an entirely different woman, and on the whole a healthier woman than before taking your valuable medicine.

"Every woman who suffers from any form of female ills should not fail to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

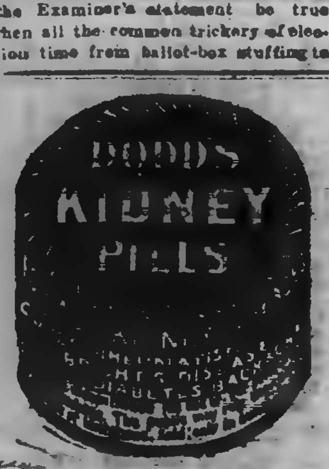
THE DOMINION ALLIANCE

Much of the "drinking" that is done is excessive and injurious and all drunkenness is injurious and unwarrantable. We do not think, however, that any alliance or the political representatives of any alliance can safely maintain a right over the consciences of other people. The only phase of conduct that is punishable by Government, or what is the same thing by the people is that phase of it which interferes with the liberty of others. We sympathize most cordially with the efforts of the Alliance to wipe out uncleanness and excess whether in drinking or otherwise. We think that the enforcement of the liquor law referred to and commended by the Alliance is one of the safest and best ways to secure the end desired. We cannot compel ourselves, however, to believe even in the face of the most appalling necessity that necessity is the true principle of government. If so stealing by the hungry poor is legally allowable. We cannot throw over the lessons of history near and remote, without stopping to realize that to purchase progress at the price of liberty is worse than anything now before the people to be remedied. We are open to conviction. We admit that some of our ideas have suffered modification and if we are wrong we are willing to learn. In the meantime we feel that Mr. Whitney is doing wisely in working out a great and difficult problem carefully. If all that it meant was that whiskey should be abolished, few would trouble to discuss the matter. But there is something far more vital than that in it. It must be remembered that the Creator Himself permits sin. At one word from Him aeons of misery and wretchedness might have been saved. But that is not the plan of the universe. Has the Alliance any fault to find with that plan?

IS THIS TRUE?

"We all know that the world has come to set up less exacting standards of morality in politics and in Government relations than in ordinary matters."—The Examiner.

This pronouncement by our contemporary, both for what it contains and on account of the time of making it, naturally leads one to suppose that it is an attempt to reduce the morality mentioned to the level of the conscience and previous conduct of someone behind the scenes, although not very far behind. If the Examiner's statement be true then all the common trickery of election time from ballot-box stuffing to ballot-burning is excusable and clever. The attempt to drag the public down to this level will fail. We have not come to such base uses just yet. The struggle which the party referred to is making to reinstate himself in public favor can be successful only on two suppositions. One is a candid confession and a public repentance. The other is the further subjection of the public mind to a condition of meanness and servitude hardly credible. Bombast, bluff, big talk and assumption won't go. At a time when great efforts are being made by both people and clergy to lift themselves higher it is scarcely refreshing to read in the Examiner of the same date. "A person seems to think it no wrong to cheat the customs." What but a fit of insanity could induce the Examiner to flaunt such sentiments in the public eye. To treat politics and political relations on the basis of "business as business" and to admit that they are a fair field for cheating, etc., is to identify the Examiner's idea of both business and politics with cheating. That, then, is the Examiner's idea, and the idea of those behind it. We would like to know what the clergy think of this jaunty journalistic reference to their honour and consistency. The editorial in which these gems of morality and thought occur is of date April 28, 1908, and is in support of Mr. Gillespie's request of Mr. Bradburn for a mutual bond. We respect Mr. Gillespie and understand him to be a man of good reputation, but he must cut loose from some of his friends with all haste or he will suffer again the frost that greeted his lieutenant and himself in the very centre of Liberalism in Smith. The rebuff to Mr. Stratton was complete. There is no getting away from it, and the reference in the Examiner's editorial to the "large number of electors" present, when that number was only 33, where audiences of 150 are common at political meetings is absurd. Those present will see the account and shrug their shoulders. It begins to look as if desperation had become the watchword. Some people are mighty poor judges of human nature.



THE AYLESWORTH BILL

Premier Roblin, at a meeting in Manitoba, spoke of the Aylesworth electoral lists; "I shall ask Mr. Sifton to meet me in this province to discuss this franchise question if it is to be forced upon Parliament. I announce tonight that if this thing is to be forced upon Parliament, I, as head of the Government of Manitoba feel it incumbent upon me to do what I can to protect the civil rights of the people of this province. To that end I shall call meetings in all the centres of population and lay bare this infamy, this crime that is proposed by Aylesworth, whereby our civil rights are to be taken from us, and if it results in something more serious than platform discussion or political differences, the responsibility is not upon me. It will not be the first time that men have had to stand and suffer for their civil rights, and it may be that the last struggle will be made in Manitoba and British Columbia to teach these men, who do not deserve and can not secure the commendation and approval of honest men, and who, therefore, resort to methods and crimes such as proposed by this bill."

A bill to put the voters' lists of the western provinces in the hands of especial appointees instead of leaving them, as is usual, to the ordinary methods of procedure has been introduced at Ottawa. Sir Wilfrid's Administration is bound to put it through. Some such measure alone will save that administration from the vengeance of the west. But meanwhile there is a tremendous row about it. The Vancouver Colonist practically threatens rebellion. Hon. Robert Rogers came from Winnipeg about it. Now Premier Roblin speaks his mind. It looks as if there was going to be trouble. Who can wonder? Not one particle of excuse or explanation is offered by the Ottawa Government. It simply announced what was going to happen, and it is proceeding to carry out its intention. It is of a piece with the thin red line disfranchisement of 9,000 voters in Manitoba. It is impossible for any people to put up with such tyranny.

DOMINION FINANCES

It is noteworthy that March has shown a sharp decline in revenue, and an increase in expenditure. The figures are;

	March 1907	March 1908
Revenue	$7,837,943	7,107.889
Expenditure, consolidated fund, ..	4,229,015	4,373,021
Expenditure, capital	1,033,815	2,357,063

This decline in revenue occurred also in February.

In February 1907, the revenue was $7,337,000 and in Feb. 1908, it fell to $6,577,000. Thus in the two months there has been a decline of nearly $1,500,000.—Canadian Trade Review.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The frost at Temperance Hall, Smith, will do the crop of political aspirations of Mr. Stratton a lot of harm. He said a short time ago that he was out of public life, and some of his friends pretended to believe this and asked immunity from criticism of him on this account. How long do they think this bluff will long do they think this bluff is supposed to last. Did they themselves believe it at the time? We never did.

THE QUESTION OF TEMPERANCE

Dominion Alliance Has Sent Out a Statement of Present Situation

The following manifesto has been sent to the Review by the Dominion Alliance, for publication;

To the electors of the Province of Ontario:

The Executive Committee of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance desires at this critical juncture to place before you frankly and fairly, the present position of the temperance question in relation to the approaching general elections.

Accompanying this address is a memorandum which sets out in detail the facts in connection with the whole question and the history of the events leading up to the present situation.

The most important issue before the electors of the Province of Ontario at the present time is the great temperance question. The widespread and terrible evils that inevitably result from the bar-room and the treating system demand the earnest and serious consideration of all patriotic citizens.

The problem with which the temperance reform deals lies at the root of our national life and permeates the whole social organism. It must be dealt with politically.

The will of the people has been clearly and strongly expressed many times in regard to this issue, yet the representatives of the people have so far failed to give legislative effect to the desires of their constituents, because the people have failed to elect men who rightly represent public opinion on the question.

We again affirm that the legislation which the situation demands, which public opinion will warrant, and which the legislature should enact, is the abolition of the bar-room and the treating system and drinking in clubs and the imposition of such other restrictions upon the liquor traffic as would most effectually curtail its operations and remedy its evils.

The present Legislature has not only failed to promote such legislation but has taken away from the people the right, so long enjoyed and never misused to abolish bar-rooms locally by a majority vote of the electors. The result has been the entrenching more securely than ever, so far as legislation is concerned, of the bar-room system, with all its concomitant evils.

We recognize the value of some amendments that have been passed, particularly in regard to the making more effective the enforcement of the Liquor License Act, and there has been a tightening up of law enforcement generally, yet overshadowing all is the outstanding injustice of the requirement which gives the liquor traffic a voting strength practically fifty per cent. greater than that of those who desire to see the bar-room abolished.

Believing this issue to be of paramount importance, and believing that the only method by which we can secure the results we desire is the election to the Legislature of representatives who stand for the principles we advocate, we would call upon the electors of the province to work and vote only for the nomination and election of such candidates as can be depended upon to do all in their power to secure at the earliest opportunity the enactment of effective legislation against the bar-room evil and who will hold themselves absolutely free from party dictation in relation to such legislation.

To this end we suggest to friends of our cause the duty of attending the preliminary meetings and conventions of the political parties, and there doing their utmost to secure the nomination of men who will fairly represent the people upon this supreme question. We further urge all right-thinking citizens to put their temperance principles before any mere party preferences in the approaching contest.

Electors of the Province! you have in your own hands the remedy for the condition you deplore. This is a fight in which an Alliance of the Christian churches of our land can defeat the solidly united forces that support the liquor traffic.

Will you act as independently for the right as our opponents will for their own selfish ends? If you do, the next Legislature will—

Abolish the Bar-room.

Signed on behalf of the Executive Committee.

JOS. GIBSON, —President

THE VALUE OF ACCIDENT INSURANCE

DEATHS from accident are stated by the Census Officials, Washington, to have been 57,513 in 1902. The percentage of deaths from accident is 5.76, which is more than ten years ago. The "Insurance Press" in giving details from the Census, says, "An Inspection of the Census Tables showing causes of death brings out the fact that a person is more liable to meet death by accidental injuries than by any other single cause except consumption, pneumonia or heart disease

—From Financial Chronicle, Montreal.

The Utopia Policy issued by the General Accident Assurance Company of Canada, provides indemnity for disability, resulting from accident or sickness. It is in all respects a model policy.

Beverly of Graustark

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON,
Author of "Graustark"

Copyright, 1904, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"Beverly, Beverly, you know I don't mean that. He has been a cowardly villain so far as you are concerned, and he shall be punished, never fear. I cannot condone that one amazing piece of wickedness on his part."

"You, then, are the girl Baldos talks so much about?" cried Candace eagerly. "You are Miss Calhoun, the fairy princess? I am so glad to know you." The young princess clasped Beverly's hand and looked into her eyes with admiration and approval. Beverly could have crushed her in her arms.

The sounds of shouting came up to the windows from below. Outside, men were rushing to and fro, and there were signs of mighty demonstrations at the gates.

"The people have heard of the capture," said Candace, as calmly as though she were asking one to have a cup of tea.

There was a pounding at the boudoir door. It flew open unceremoniously and in rushed Lorry, followed by Anguish. In the hallway beyond a group of noblemen conversed excitedly with the women of the castle.

"The report from the dungeons, Yetive," cried Lorry, joyously. "The warden says that Gabriel is in his cell again! Here's to Prince Dantan!"

Ravone was standing in the door. Candace ran over and leaped into his arms.

CHAPTER XXIX.

RAVONE was handsome in his borrowed clothes. He was now the clean, immaculate gentleman instead of the wretched vagabond of the hills. Even Beverly was surprised at the change in him. His erstwhile sad and melancholy face was flushed and bright with happiness. The kiss he bestowed upon the delightful Candace was tender in the extreme. Then, putting her aside, he strode over and gallantly kissed the hand of Graustark's princess, beaming an ecstatic smile upon the merry Beverly an instant later.

"Welcome, Prince Dantan," said Yetive. "A thousand times welcome."

"All Graustark is your throne, most glorious Yetive. That is why I have asked to be presented here and not in the royal hall below," said Ravone.

"You will wait here with us, then, to hear the good news from our warden," said the princess. "Send the courier to me," she commanded. "Such sweet news should be received in the place which is dearest to me in all Graustark."

The ministers and the lords and ladies of the castle were assembled in the room when Baron Dangloss appeared with the courier from the prison. Count Marlaux was missing. He was on his way to the fortress, a crushed, furious, impotent old man. In his quarters he was to sit and wait for the blow that he knew could not be averted. In fear and despair, hiding his pain and his shame, he was racking his brain for means to lessen the force of that blow. He could withdraw the charges against Baldos, but he could not soften the words he had said and written of Beverly Calhoun. He was not troubling himself with fear because of the adventures in the chapel and passage. He knew too well how Yetive could punish when her heart was bitter against an evildoer. Graustark honored and protected its women.

The warden of the dungeons from which Gabriel had escaped months before reported to the princess that the prisoner was again in custody. Briefly he related that a party of men led by Prince Dantan had appeared early that day, bringing the fugitive prince uninjured, but crazed by rage and disappointment. They had tricked him into following them through the hills, intent upon slaying his brother Dantan. There could be no mistake as to Gabriel's identity. In conclusion the warden implored her highness to send troops up to guard the prison in the mountain side. He feared an attack in force by Gabriel's army.

"Your highness," said Lorry, "I have sent instructions to Colonel Braze, requiring him to take a large force of men into the pass to guard the prison. Gabriel shall not escape again, though all Dawsbergen comes after him."

"You have but little to fear from Dawsbergen," said Ravone, who was seated near the princess, Candace at his side. "Messages have been brought to me from the leading nobles of Dawsbergen assuring me that the populace is secretly eager for the old reign to be resumed. Only the desperate fear of Gabriel and a few of his bloody but loyal advisers holds them in check. Believe me, Dawsbergen's efforts to release Gabriel will be perfunctory and half hearted in the extreme. He ruled like a madman. It was his intense, implacable desire to kill his brother that led to his undoing. Will it be strange, your highness, if Dawsbergen welcomes the return of Dantan in his stead?"

"The story! The story of his capture! Tell me the story," came eagerly from those assembled. Ravone leaned back languidly, his face tired and drawn once more, as if the mere recalling of the hardships past was hard to bear.

"First, your highness, may I advise you and your cabinet to send another ultimatum to the people of Dawsbergen?" he asked. "This time say to them that you hold two Dawsbergen princes in your hand. One cannot and will not be restored to them. The other will be released on demand. Let the embassy be directed to meet the Duke of Matz, the premier. He is now with the army, not far from your frontier. May it please your highness, I have myself taken the liberty of dispatching three trusted followers with the news of Gabriel's capture. The two Bappos and Carl Vandos are speeding to the frontier. Your embassy will find the Duke of Matz in possession of all the facts."

"The Duke of Matz, I am reliably informed, some day is to be father-in-law to Dawsbergen," smilingly said Yetive. "I shall not wonder if he responds most favorably to an ultimatum."

Ravone and Candace exchanged glances of amusement, the latter breaking into a deplorable little gurgle of laughter.

"I beg to inform you that the duke's daughter has disdained the offer from the crown," said Ravone. "She has married Lieutenant Alsanel of the royal artillery and is as happy as a butterfly. Captain Baldos could have told you how the wayward young woman defied her father and laughed at the beggar prince."

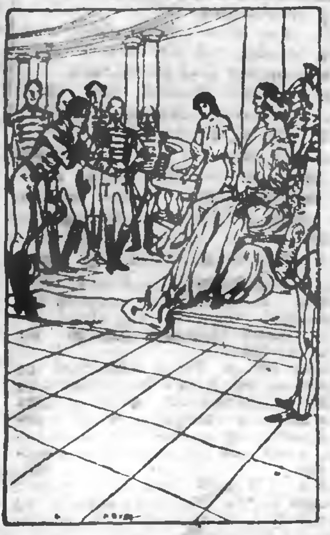
"Captain Baldos is an exceedingly discreet person," Beverly volunteered. "He has told no tales out of school."

"I am reminded of the fact that you gave your purse into my keeping one memorable day—the day when we parted from our best friends at Ganlook's gates. I thought you were a princess, and you did not know that I understood English. That was a sore hour for us. Baldos was our life, the heart of our enterprise. Gabriel hates him as he hates his own brother. Steadfastly has Baldos refused to join us in the plot to seize Prince Gabriel. He once took an oath to kill him on sight, and I was so opposed to this that he had to be left out of the final adventures."

"Please tell us how you succeeded in capturing that—your half brother," cried Beverly, forgetting that it was another's place to make the request. The audience drew near, eagerly attentive.

"At another time I shall rejoice in telling the story in detail. For the present let me ask you to be satisfied with the statement that we tricked him by means of letters into the insane hope that he could capture and slay his half brother. Captain Baldos suggested the plan. Had he been arrested yesterday I feel it would have failed. Gabriel was and is insane. We led him a chase through the Graustark hills until the time was ripe for the final act. His small band of followers fled at our sudden attack, and he was taken almost without a struggle not ten miles from the city of Edelweiss. In his mad ravings we learned that his chief desire was to kill his brother and sister and after that to carry out the plan that has long been in his mind. He was coming to Edelweiss for the sole purpose of entering the castle by the underground passage, with murder in his heart. Gabriel was coming to kill the Princess Yetive and Mr. Lorry. He has never forgotten the love he bore for the princess nor the hatred he owes his rival. It was the duty of Captain Baldos to see that he did not enter the passage in the event that he eluded us in the hills."

Later in the day the Princess Yetive received from the gaunt, hawkish old man in the fortress a signed statement withdrawing his charges against Baldos, the guard. Marlaux did not ask for leniency. It was not in him to plead. If the humble withdrawal of charges against Baldos could mitigate the punishment he knew Yetive would impose, all well and good. If it went for naught, he was prepared for the worst. Down there in his quarters, with wine before him, he sat and waited for the end. He knew that there was but one fate for the man, great or small, who attacked a woman in Graustark. His only hope was that the princess might make an exception in the case of one who had been the head of the army, but the hope was too small to cherish.



Beverly knew that it was a faded rose!

Baldos walked forth a free man, the plaudits of the people in his ears. Baron Dangloss and Colonel Quinnox were beside the tall guard as he came forward to receive the commendations and apologies of Graustark's ruler and the warm promises of reward from the man he served.

He knelt before the two rulers who were holding court on the veranda. The cheers of nobles, the shouts of soldiery, the exclamations of the ladies, did not turn his confident head. He was the born knight. The look of triumph that he bestowed upon Beverly Calhoun, who lounged gracefully beside the stone balustrade, brought the red flying to her cheeks. He took something from his breast and held it gallantly to his lips before all the assembled courtiers. Beverly knew that it was a faded rose!

CHAPTER XXX.

THE next morning a royal messenger came to Count Marlanx. He bore two sealed letters from the princess. One briefly informed him that General Braze was his successor as commander in chief of the army of Graustark. He hesitated long before opening the other. It was equally brief and to the point. The Iron Count's teeth came together with a savage snap as he read the signature of the princess at the end. There was no recourse. She had struck for Beverly Calhoun. He looked at his watch. It was 11 o'clock. The edict gave him twenty-four hours from the noon of that day. The gray old libertine dispatched a messenger for his man of affairs, a lawyer of high standing in Edelweiss. Together they consulted until midnight. Shortly after daybreak the morning following Count Marlanx was in the train for Vienna, never to set foot on Graustark's soil again. He was banished and his estates confiscated by the government.

The ministry in Edelweiss was not slow to reopen negotiations with Dawsbergen. A proclamation was sent to the prime minister setting forth the new order of affairs and suggesting the instant suspension of hostile preparations and the restoration of Prince Dantan. Accompanying this proclamation went a dignified message from Dantan informing his people that he awaited their commands. He was ready to resume the throne that had been so desecrated. It would be his joy to restore Dawsbergen to its once peaceful and prosperous condition. In the meantime the Duke of Mizrox dispatched the news to the Princess Volga of Axphain, who was forced to abandon—temporarily at least—her desperate designs upon Graustark. The capture of Gabriel put an end to her transparent plans.

"But she is bound to break out against us sooner or later and on the slightest provocation," said Yetive.

"I dare say that a friendly alliance between Graustark and Dawsbergen will prove sufficient to check any ambitions she may have along that line," said Ravone significantly. "They are very near to each other now, your highness. Friends should stand together."

Beverly Calhoun was in suspense. Baldos had been sent off to the frontier by Prince Dantan, carrying the message which could be trusted to no other. He accompanied the Graustark ambassadors of peace as Dantan's special agent. He went in the nighttime, and Beverly did not see him. The week which followed his departure was the longest she ever spent. She was troubled in her heart for fear that he might not return, despite the declaration she had made to him in one hysterical moment. It was difficult for her to keep up the show of cheerfulness that was expected of her. Reticence became her strongest characteristic. She persistently refused to be drawn into a discussion of her relations with the absent one. Yetive was piqued by her manner at first, but wisely saw through the mask as time went on. She and Prince Dantan had many quiet and interesting chats concerning Beverly and the erstwhile guard. The prince took Lorry and the princess into his confidence. He told them all there was to tell about his dashing friend and companion.

Beverly and the young Princess Candace became fast and loving friends. The young girl's worship of her brother was beautiful to behold. She huddled close to him on every occasion, and her dark eyes bespoke adoration whenever his name was mentioned in her presence.

"If he doesn't come back pretty soon I'll pack up and start for home," Beverly said to herself resentfully one day. "Then if he wants to see me he'll have to come all the way to Washin'ton, and I'm not sure that he can do it, either. He's too disgustingly poor."

"Wha's became o' dat Misteh Baldos, Miss Bev'ly?" asked Aunt Fanny in the midst of these sorry cogitations. "Has he tuck hit int' his haid to desert us fo' good? Seems to me he'd oughteh"—

"Now, that will do, Aunt Fanny," reprimanded her mistress sternly. "You are not supposed to know anything about affairs of state, so don't ask."

At last she no longer could curb her impatience and anxiety. She deliberately sought information from Prince Dantan. They were strolling in the park on the seventh day of her inquisition.

"Have you heard from Paul Baldos?" she asked, bravely plunging into deep water.

"He is expected here tomorrow or the next day, Miss Calhoun. I am almost as eager to see him as you are," he replied, with a very pointed smile.

"Almost? Well, yes, I'll confess that I am eager to see him. I never knew I could long for any one as much as I— Oh, well, there's no use hiding it from you. I couldn't if I tried. I care very much for him. You don't think it sounds silly for me to say such a thing, do you? I've thought a great deal of him ever since the night at the Inn of the Hawk and Raven. In my imagination I have tried to strip you of your princely robes to place them upon him, but he is only Baldos in spite of it all. He knows that I care for him, and I know that he cares for me. Perhaps he has told you."

"Yes, he has confessed that he loves you, Miss Calhoun, and he laments the fact that his love seems hopeless. Paul wonders in his heart if it would be right in him to ask you to give up all you have of wealth and pleasure to share a humble lot with him."

"I love him. Isn't that enough? There is no wealth so great as that. But," and she pursed her mouth in pathetic despair, "don't you think that you can make a noble or something of him and give him a station in life worthy of his ambitions? He has done so much for you, you know."

"I have nothing that I can give to him, he says. Paul Baldos asks only that he may be my champion until these negotiations are ended. Then he desires to be free to serve whom he will. All that I can do is to let him have his way. He is a free lance, and he asks no favors, no help."

"Well, I think he's perfectly ridiculous about it, don't you? And yet that is the very thing I like in him. I am only wondering how we—I mean, how he is going to live, that's all."

"If I am correctly informed he still has several months to serve in the service for which he enlisted. You alone, I believe, have the power to discharge him before his term expires," said he meaningly.

That night Baldos returned to Edelweiss, ahead of the Graustark delegation which was coming the next day with representatives from Dawsbergen. He brought the most glorious news from the frontier. The Duke of Matz and the leading dignitaries had heard of Gabriel's capture, both through the Bappo boys and through a few of his henchmen who had staggered into camp after the disaster. The news threw the Dawsbergen diplomats into a deplorable state of uncertainty. Even the men high in authority, while not especially depressed over the fall of their sovereign, were in doubt as to what would be the next move in their series of tragedies. Almost to a man they regretted the folly which had drawn them into the net with Gabriel. Baldos reported that the Duke of Matz and a dozen of the most distinguished men in Dawsbergen were on their way to Edelweiss to complete arrangements for peace and to lay their renunciation of Gabriel before Dantan in a neutral court.

The people of Dawsbergen had been clamoring long for Dantan's restoration, and Baldos was commissioned to say that his return would be the signal for great rejoicing. He was closeted until after midnight with Dantan and his sister, Lorry and Princess Yetive being called in at the end to hear and approve of the manifesto prepared by the Prince of Dawsbergen. The next morning the word went forth that a great banquet was to be given in the castle that night for Prince Dantan and the approaching noblemen. The prince expected to depart almost immediately thereafter to resume the throne in Serros.

Baldos was wandering through the park early in the morning. His duties rested lightly upon his shoulders, but he was restless and dissatisfied. The longing in his heart urged him to turn his eyes ever and anon toward the balcony and then to the obstinate looking castle doors. The uniform of a Graustark guard still graced his splendid figure. At last a graceful form was seen coming from the castle toward the cedars. She walked bravely, but aimlessly. That was plain to be seen. It was evident that she was and was not looking for some one. Baldos observed with a thrill of delight that a certain red feather stood up defiantly from the band of her sailor hat. He liked the way her dark blue walking skirt swished in harmony with her lithe, firm strides.

She was quite near before he advanced from his place among the trees. He did not expect her to exhibit surprise or confusion, and he was not disappointed. She was as cool as a brisk spring morning. He did not offer his hand, but, with a fine smile of contentment, bowed low and with mock servility.

"I report for duty, your highness," he said. She caught the ring of gladness in his voice.

"Then I command you to shake hands with me," she said brightly. "You have been away, I believe?" with a delicious inflection.

"Yes, for a century or more, I'm sure." Constraint fell upon them suddenly. The hour had come for a definite understanding, and both were conquered by its importance. For the first time in his life he knew the meaning of diffidence. It came over him as he looked helplessly into the clear, gray, earnest eyes. "I love you for wearing that red feather," he said simply.

"And I loved you for wearing it," she answered, her voice soft and thrilling. He caught his breath joyously.

"Beverly," as he bent over her, "you are my very life, my"—

"Don't, Paul!" she whispered, drawing away, with an embarrassed glance about the park. There were people to be seen on all sides, but he had forgotten them. He thought only of the girl who ruled his heart. Seeing the pain in his face, she hastily, even blushingly, said, "It is so public, dear."

He straightened himself with soldierly precision, but his voice trembled as he tried to speak calmly in defiance to his eyes. "There is the grotto—see! It is seclusion itself. Will you come with me? I must tell you all that is in my heart. It will burst if I do not."

Slowly they made their way to the fairy grotto deep in the thicket of trees. It was Yetive's favorite dreaming place. Dark and cool and musical with the rippling of waters, it was an ideal retreat. She dropped upon the rustic bench that stood against the moss covered wall of bowlders. With the gentle reserve of a man who reveres as well as loves, Baldos stood above her. He waited, and she understood. How unlike most impatient lovers he was!

A COUNTERFEIT FIVE DOLLAR BILL

Notice Received That a Fresh Brand is Going the Rounds

Notice of a new counterfeit United States $5 bill has been received in this city. It is a very dangerous one and would be readily accepted by tradesmen. The most notable defect is that the paper instead of being of a steelblue is rather white giving the front of the note a washed or faded appearance, and the feather plumes around the Indian head where they should look white, have the appearance of being scratched with an eraser or a knife, blade, but this work was done on the plate and not upon the paper. The back of the note, although too dark a shade of green and of rough engraving, presents the most dangerous part of it.

IMMIGRANTS KEEP COMING

Some Reach the City Nearly Every Day---Many Are Bound for Western Canada

The immigrants still keep coming. Nearly every day sees some getting off here or at stations nearby and the complaint of the great majority of them is that they have been misled. For a long time the heartless immigration "boosters" have been telling in the old country of the wonderful wealth of the new land, and the unsuspecting have been coming steadily to be bitterly disappointed in the great majority of cases. A large number of the immigrants are going to Western Canada while many passing through here make enquiries concerning Toronto which is an important distribution centre for Ontario.

FUEL AND CARTAGE COMPANY HAD MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Ald. Buller is Elected to Succeed Mr. Wm. Irwin as President --Reports Were Satisfactory.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Company was held on Monday evening in the Bank of Montreal Chambers. The reports submitted show that the past year had been the most successful in the history of the Company. Although many other organisations had difficulty in pulling through the financial stringency, the Fuel & Cartage Company had a highly successful year's business.

Mr. Wm. Irwin resigned from the presidency of the company owing to the fact that he was going to be absent from the city a great deal during the coming year, and Ald. W. Buller was elected to succeed him. Mr. Buller will, of course, continue to act as general manager of the company. The other officers were re-elected.

TWELTH OF JULY FALLS ON SUNDAY THIS YEAR

Celebration Will be Held Here on Monday—Orangemen of Peterboro County and Surrounding Districts to Assemble in This City

The glorious twelfth of July falls on a Sunday this year, but the Orangemen of Peterborough County and surrounding district intend to celebrate the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne on Monday the thirteenth. In some places this great day is being celebrated on the eleventh, but the local Orangemen decided Monday was a better day than Saturday for the celebration. The followers of King William in Peterborough and the neighboring towns and villages are going to assemble in this city for the big day this year. Of course the annual church parade will be held on Sunday, the twelfth.

REV FATHER FITZPATRICK MENTIONED FOR POSITION

May Succeed His Grace Archbishop O'Connor as Archbishop of Toronto

The name of Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore, is prominently mentioned in connection with the position of Archbishop of Tornto, which has been made vacant by the resignation of his Grace Archbishop O'Connor. A gentleman who is closely in touch with Catholic affairs stated to-day that he would not be surprised if Father Fitzpatrick got the appointment, which it may be stated, he is eminently qualified to fill. The selection of a member of the priesthood for the position of Archbishop would not be without precedent. It has been done several times before.

ANTI-CIGARETTE LEAGUE BY KNOX CHURCH BOYS' CLUB

A meeting of the Anti-Cigarette League of Knox Boys' Club was held last night at Knox church.

The meeting opened with two hymns. Mr. Wilkie in the chair led in prayer. After deciding that there should be no meeting for Tuesday on account of the Missionary Institute, the president of the club called upon Mr. A. C. Davenport to take charge of the meeting. The latter had the pleasure of giving out the first anti-Cigarette League pledge cards, to the following lads who joined, Harry Carr O. Taylor, Walter Byers, and Almon Hogeboom. Mr. Davenport said he was pleased to say ten other boys had joined the league against the unnecessary habit of smoking. He was also glad that one lad had a package of cigarettes to finish but was going to destroy them as he had joined the league and meant to quit smoking.

The rules of the league are that its members are not to use tobacco in any form until the age of 21 years is reached. Then it is left for the young man to use his own discretion.

It is hoped that this branch in Peterborough will increase in numbers.

Enquiries, re this new body will be answered by the Secretary of the Knox church Boys' Club.

A humorous reading, called "Slightly Deaf," by Mr. Davenport, was enjoyed by all. A few games brought a pleasant evening to a close.

MINISTERS TO OFFICIATE AT ST. JOHN'S

During Canon Davidson's Absence in England—Adjourned Vestry Meeting Last Evening

The adjourned Vestry meeting of St. John's church was held last evening, when a fairly large number were present. Rev. Canon Davidson presided, and conducted the opening devotional exercises. The reports of the various organizations of the church were presented and were very encouraging.

Mr. Jas. Mills was appointed rector's Warden, and Mr. Chas. Mitchell was re-elected people's Warden.

Dr. Boucher reported that Rev. Mr. Beatrie, of Nashville, Tennessee, will officiate in the church during June and July, and Rev. Mr. Forster, of Stouvareville, Ohio, during August and September, which months the rector will be absent in England.

Mrs. Palmer presented the report of the Women's Auxiliary, showing a very satisfactory year's work.

Mrs. P. Campbell presented the treasurer's report of the above society, which showed a balance on hand of $11.77.

Miss Maude Perry submitted the report of the King's Daughters. This report demonstrated quite clearly the splendid charitable work accomplished by the society in relieving those less fortunate than themselves.

Miss Hugel's financial report of the King's Daughters showed the funds to have been spent to praiseworthy advantage.

Miss Horsefield's report of the Girls' Guild showed a highly satisfactory year's work.

The report of the Girls' Auxiliary as read by Miss Wilson, was also of a gratifying nature.

Mr. Frank Linton read the report of the Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's, which told of the healthy condition of this commendable brotherhood of young fellows.

Mr. Morris moved, seconded by Mr. Harry Long, the adoption of the financial report as submitted.—Carried.

Messrs. Hughes Charles, Coulthard and Lancaster were added to the personnel of last year's Advisory Board.

FELL IN WELL AND DROWNED

Sad Death of Five Year Old Boy in Dummer Township

A very sad accident occurred on Good Friday at the home of Mr. Jas. H. Murphy, 7th line of Dummer, when his son Gordon, aged about five years was drowned in a well which Mr. Murphy had started to sink near the house last fall. Mr. Murphy was working in the bush and his wife went out in the afternoon to take him a lunch, leaving the children alone in the house, and on her return found the little boy floating on top of a mass of melting ice and snow in the well. He was lying on his face, partly submerged in the water. The well was within a few inches of being full and the marks around the sides showed that the little fellow had made quite a struggle to get out. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon to the Norwood cemetery, Rev. Jas. Deacon officiating.

The St. Lawrence is now free of ice.

SPORTING NEWS

THE BIG WRESTLING BOUT TO TAKE PLACE TO-NIGHT

Kennedy and Hurtubise Will Meet at Grand Opera House for Heavyweight Championship of Canada—A Great Line of Preliminaries

Peterborough is certainly getting to be a great sporting centre. With the memories of the big walking tournament clinging to the minds of the populace as contagiously as the refrain of a popular song the biggest wrestling event in the history of this city will be pulled off tonight when "Gene" Hurtubuise and Frank Kennedy, the New York heavyweight crack wrestler come together for the professional heavyweight championship of Canada. The affair will be held at the Grand Opera House and promises to attract a very large audience.

Both men are most eager for the go and each one expects to win. Of course it is impossible for them both to win but at all events one thing is certain —the contest will be easily the best ever pulled off here. The Toronto sports, and they have seen some fierce mat battles voted it the toughest go they ever saw in Toronto and even when the decision of the referee had been given and when both men were within the ropes it was only a matter of opinion as to who was the better man.

CONDITIONS SUIT KENNEDY

Kennedy was greatly surprised with the form shown by "Gene" whom he thought would prove, to use his own expression, simply a "county strong man, and not the scienced artist he turned out to be. He immediately wanted a match for $100 a side, no holds barred and the contest was arranged to suit him and will be pulled off tonight.

Local lovers of the sport are simply hungry for the go and are ready to cheer the Peterborough star in his bout against the celebrated Yankee wrestler.

WRESTLERS IN GREAT SHAPE

Hurtubuise is in the condition of his life for the contest which means so much to him while Kennedy is trained to the minute. He never was in better shape and will get into the game ready to stand any amount of hard gruelling work. The bout will be very fast and the audience may look for some particularly quick work on the part of both contestants.

FOR LOCAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

Preliminary to the main bout, "Bobby" Long and Ted Crowe will wrestle best two out of three for the lightweight championship of Peterborough and J. Crough and J. Wilson will come together best two out of three for the 145 pound city championship. All four of the above men are in good trim and know the game well and are certain to dish up something worth while to the spectators.

Corney Burns and Nobby Glover will also meet in a three round exhibition boxing bout.

FULL ORCHESTRA

The full orchestra of the Grand Opera House will be present and will play before the opening of the programme and during the evening.

J. Dwyer will referee the main bout and G. N. Graham will act in that capacity for the preliminaries.

CHARLIE STEVENS TO START AGAINST BUFFALO WALKER

In the course of a couple of weeks Charlie Stevens, the local walking champion, will enter in a four hour walking contest against Jas. Graham, the Buffalo ped, who finished fifth in the walking contest here. The race will take place in a Buffalo roller skating rink and the Peterborough boy will give his opponent a handicap of half a mile.

No definite arrangements have been made in the matter, but will be announced when they are known. The match was made on the suggestion of Graham when he was here, the Yankee walker asking what handicap Stevens would give him, and the latter consented to give him half a mile.

"GENE" HURTUBISE

Peterborough's star heavyweight, who tackles Frank Kennedy, of New York, to-night for heavyweight wrestling championship of all Canada.

IS HERE FOR THE BOUT TO-NIGHT

Jimmy Reynolds of Port Hope too Good a Sport to Stay Away

Mr. Jimmy Reynolds, of Port Hope apparently likes Peterborough as a sporting town. Although in the city all last week refereeing at the walking tournament he came back again today to see the big wrestling match between Kennedy and Hurtubuise. Mr Brundrette of Port Hope also arrives here this afternoon to see the go.

The genial Port Hope barber says the people of the Lake Ontario burg are greatly surprised with the success of the walk here and a great many from there would have attended had they any idea that the event would have been as big a one as it turned out to be.

TRAMP TO CHEMONG

NO CHANCE FOR KNOCKING NOW

Lindsay and Port Hope Said Walking Tournament Would be Failure

While the walking contest was being arranged loud was the derision regarding its success among the hammer tappers of Lindsay and Port Hope. Now what have the knockers of the two towns mentioned to say in the matter.

It was a great big success from every point of view and should effectually silence all the knockers against Peterborough as a sporting town.

BASEBALL

LINDSAY BANKERS

A Bankers' Baseball Club has been organized in Lindsay with Harry Rush as president and R. W. Green as one of the management committee.

KARNOTS PRACTICE.

The Karnots will practice at Central Park on Thursday evening at 6.30 o'clock. Afterwards a meeting will be held at the Windsor Hotel.

THE RING

Johnson has gone over to England to arrange a battle with "Tommy Burns. Burns is quite willing to fight the negro, but he has his eye on the financial side of the transaction and will want big money. If English sportsmen desire to see a great go in true American style all they have to do is to bring these two together. It would be a great fight, with odds in favor of the older Canadian champion. — Toronto News.

HAZEL BELLE FOR 22 PACE

Is Now Being Put Into Condition For Turf Club's Races

Now that the fine weather is here the horsemen are commencing to get their animals into shape for the season. Under the able charge of "Benny" Dunsford, Dr. Johnston has started to work his speedy mare, Hazel Belle, 2.21 1-4. She will be entered in the 2.22 pace at the Turf Club's races on May 24th. She is in good condition considering the earliness of the season and is stepping fast.

Y.M.C.A. PLAYERS WERE CONSIDERED

At Meeting of Intermediate League---Double Schedule Will be Played

At a meeting of the executive of the Intermediate Baseball League last night, the list of players submitted by the Y.M.C.A. club was gone over and the following were passed and can play in the league:—Chris. Graham, Ed. Daley, Fred Cressman, Wilbert Thornton, J. P. Potter, Ernest Gibson, Charles Harmer, James Squires, George Robertson, Jack Sanderson, Clayton Waram, K. Simpson, C. R. Rickard, Stanley Wade, Charles Barber, Charles Sisson and R. Patterson.

It was decided to play all the games at Nicholls Oval, and the schedule committee is meeting this evening to arrange the schedule. A double schedule will be played, the first game to be played about May 16th.

Jack Hardwicke was appointed to replace Harvey Staunton on the schedule committee.

The certificates were issued to the representatives of the clubs, eighteen to each. The clubs must sign their players before May 24th.

The Knockers have dropped out of the league, leaving seven teams to fight it out for the championship and the Review Cup.

SEASON TICKETS WILL BE ISSUED

Executive of Peterboro' Baseball Club Had Meeting Last Night

At a meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Baseball Club last night it was decided to issue at once 200 season tickets which will be sold at $1.00. A season ticket will entitle the holder to all home games of the Peterborough Baseball Club, excepting any which may be played in connection with a play off for the championship. As at least six home games will be played, it will be seen that a season ticket at $1.00 is good value for the money. The tickets will be on sale in a few days.

Several other matters were discussed and arrangements made for putting the club in good condition in every respect.

EXCELSIORS AND GIROUX'S TEAM

Richeau's Aggregation Issue a Challenge for Bowling Match

Richeau's Excelsiors would like to arrange a friendly contest for Friday evening at the Majestic Bowling Alleys for the novice class with Giroux's Rough Riders or any other junior combination in the city. Arrangements may be made with Mr. J. T. Smyth, at the Majestic Bowling Alleys.

Both these teams are composed of young players and considerable rivalry exists between them. The game, if arranged should prove an interesting one.

FOOTBALL

PRACTICE TONIGHT.

The Quaker and YMCA. football teams will practice at the Driving Park tonight at 6.30 o'clock. All players are asked to turn out among them the following:

Archibald, Doris, Evans, McFadden, Deforge, R. Best, Huston, Maddocks, Brodie, Scrimshaw, Sutherland, Sullivan, S. Lang, Harrison, E. Best, McCarroll, Yates, Fitzgerald, Grough.

DISFIGURING FACE SORES

HOW TO CURE THEM.

Magistrate Rousseau, of 202 Marquette St., Montreal, writes:—"For many years I was troubled with a serious eruption of the skin. This was not only unsightly, but it was at times very painful. I first tried various household remedies, but these proved altogether useless. I then took medical advice. Not one, but several doctors in turn were consulted, but I was unable to get any permanent relief. Some time back I noticed a report from a Justice of the Peace (Magistrate Perry, J.P., for B. B.), who had been cured of a chronic skin disease by Zam-Buk, and I determined to give this balm a trial. After a thoroughly fair test, I can say I am delighted with it. I have the best of reason for this conclusion; because while everything else I tried—salves, embrocations, washes, soaps and doctors' preparations, failed absolutely to relieve my pain and rid me of my trouble, three boxes of Zam-Buk worked a complete cure. In my opinion this balm should be even more widely known than it is, and I hope that my experience will lead other sufferers who are in despair to try this herbal healer, Zam-Buk."

For healing eczema, running sores, cuts, bruises, burns, boils, eruptions, scalp sores, pimples, spring eruptions, itch, chapped hands, and diseases of the skin Zam-Buk is without equal. All druggists and stores sell it, 50c. box or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

GAVE ADDRESSES AT GOSPEL HALL

Messrs. Robt. McMurdo and John Murdock Proved Exceedingly Interesting Speakers

Mr. Robert McMurdo of Scotland and Mr. John Murdock of Montreal arrived in the city last night and both addressed a meeting in Gospel Hall. Mr. McMurdo is a very helpful speaker. He enters into some of the subjects in hand with a zeal and vim that lifts one out of himself into the realm of the divine. He is one of the most interesting preachers it has been the writer's privilege to hear. Mr. Murdock is a young medical student from McGill college. He will remain in the city with Mr. McMurdo. Last night he gave an address on the place of departed saints Heaven a place of habitation. 'Men,' he said, "found it easy to believe that Mars and some other planets are inhabited but hard to accept the truth of a literal place for the saints to dwell. when through with this vale of tears. The address was most inspiring throughout. Meetings will be held tonight and Friday night. There will be no meeting on Thursday but all day Sunday special meetings will be held to which all are invited.—Com.

To Erect Picture Show on George St.---Mr. Jack Fraser Not at all Interested in it

The name of Mr. Jack Fraser was mentioned in last night's Review, as being one of three local men who would start a picture show on George street. Mr. Fraser stated to the Review to-day that he was in no way connected with the movement and had no intendings whatever of following up the show business. This correction is made in justice to Mr. Fraser. While the other two named gentlemen are contemplating starting a picture show business, no definite steps have yet been taken.

BIG GATHERING OF ODDFELLOWS

Col. Miller Has Returned Home From Brantford—an Interesting Event

Col. J. W. Miller returned yesterday from Brantford where he attended a big gathering of Oddfellows, assembled to do honor to Mr. J. B. King, Grand Secretary of the Order. Mr. King was presented with a fifty year Veterans' Jewel. Concerning the gathering the Brantford Courier says in part:

"An event unparalleled in the history of Odd Fellowship in Canada, as well as in the history of Gore Lodge No. 34, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of this city took place last evening in Odd Fellows' hall and such was the great interest taken in the affair that it caused members of the order to travel from all parts of Ontario, and even from across the line."

The Expositor says in its report of the gathering:

"Otonabee and Peterborough lodges presented to Grand Secretary King, by Col. Miller, an illuminated address. The presentation was indeed a pleasing feature."

PETERBOROUGH MAN WON SUIT

Neil Gannon Got Judgment Against His Former Employer

The Lindsay Post says;

The last case tried was the case of Neil Gannon of Peterborough, journeyman blacksmith, against Richard Morton of Omemee, blacksmith. It was a case where Gannon had worked for Morton, the defendant, in the village of Omemee, and when he left Morton's employ, Morton owed him the sum of $156.00. Morton came to Lindsay some time after for the purpose as he alleged, of paying Gannon. The dispute was as to the amount of money paid to Gannon in front of McCrea's foundry. Gannon claims that he received only $15 from Morton and signed a receipt for $15. Morton claimed that he paid Gannon $156 and produced a receipt in court which had a piece torn out just above Gannon's name where Gannon claimed he had filled in $15.00 in figures. The jury only were out for a few minute when they returned and brought in a verdict for the plaintiff, Mr. Gannon, for $141.60, the full amount used for.

MANY ARE MOVING IN PETERBORO'

Although walking is much in vogue in Peterborough now, still the cartage vans have to be called in to do the spring moving. A great deal of it is being done here at present but in the majority of cases the movers are not following the policy that it is cheaper to move than pay rent. One of the officials of the Peterborough Cartage Company stated today that their moving vans were working day and night now. From eight to ten families per day are being moved.

LOOKS LIKE CAMEY FOR THE CABINET

He May be Dr. Willoughby's Successor at Toronto

Toronto, April 28.—The vacancy caused in the Whitney Cabinet by the retirement of Hon. Dr. Willoughby, minister without portfolio, will not go hunting men. The names of L. B. Lucas, J. P. Downey, and R. R. Gamey are spoken of. It is understood that at least three members of the cabinet will put up a fight for Mr. Gamey. The latter has done the lion's share of the work for the Conservative party during the last two campaigns and during the session has made the best speeches in the Legislature.

It is within the probable occurrences that Hon. Thomas Crawford will retire from the throne of the Speaker, and if this takes place Mr. Lucas will be selected for the position.

Mr. Downey has been slated for the Cabinet for some time, and in the event of Hon. Dr. Reaume retiring, Mr. Downey would become an active member of the Government.—Hamilton Spectator.

OPERETTA TO BE REPEATED

A CLEVER THIEF.

His Capture and Sale of a Consignment of Diamonds.

An expert criminal named Raymond is described by Sir Robert Anderson as a Napoleon of crime. The plot which he devised for the theft of diamonds worth $450,000 and which he carried out with a masterly forethought and address is unrivaled.

Diamonds were habitually sent from Kimberley to the coast just in time to catch the mail steamer for Europe. Were the convoy delayed the gems were locked up in the postoffice until the next steamer left the harbor.

Raymond, profiting by a knowledge of those simple facts, visited the port of departure. He made friends with the postmaster, learned his habits and took wax impressions of his keys. He then returned to Europe, leaving behind him a memory of pleasant manners and good fellowship.

A few months later he was in Africa again, disguised and unknown. He made his way up country to the point where the diamonds had to be carried across a ferry on their way to the coast. Unshipping the chain of the ferry, he sent the boat downstream, and the next convoy of diamonds missed the mail.

All that remained for Raymond to do was to unlock the safe in the postoffice and go off with the treasure, which by a fine stroke of ironical humor he presently sold to its rightful owners in Hatton garden. This was Raymond's masterpiece.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Time Reminders Unpopular.

A west side woman who wished to entertain a great deal one day wondered why her guests always seemed so uncomfortable.

"It is because of your clocks," said a candid friend. "There are three within hearing distance of your drawing room that strike. I don't know of anything that makes company feel quite so uncomfortable as to hear a clock strike. Somehow it is bound to give the impression that we have outstayed our welcome and the hostess is anxious to get rid of us. Of course that is purely a matter of fancy, yet somehow a striking clock always seems to say, 'You'd better be going.' The wise hostess knows that, and if she wants her callers to be thoroughly comfortable she shuns a clock that strikes."

Custer and Ramseur.

In General Morris Schaff's reminiscences, "The Spirit of Old West Point," there is an incident that goes to show that not even the first bitterness of the struggle between the north and the south could put out altogether the fires of friendship. It was the fate of Stephen D. Ramseur of North Carolina to fall in the Confederate service. His last hours had a close connection with West Point, where he had been enrolled as a cadet. When in the darkness after the battle of Cedar Creek the Union cavalry charged the broken and fleeing remnants of a division of Early's corps, Custer, who was in the midst, heard one of his troopers who had seized the horses ask the driver whom he had in his ambulance.

"Do not tell him," commanded a weak, husky voice.

Whereupon Custer, who recognized the voice as one he had so often heard at West Point, exclaimed:

"Is that you, Ramseur?"

Custer had him taken to Sheridan's headquarters, where his old friends, Merritt, Custer and the gallant Pennington, gathered around him and showed him every tenderness to the last. He died about 10 o'clock the next day.

Bunsen's Pocketful of Orders.

Professor Bunsen thought more highly of his scientific discoveries than he did of the many orders and other tokens of honor that were showered on him during his long life. He was apt to forget to put on his crosses and ribbons when invited to official ceremonies, and his housekeeper tried to remind him of his duty by putting his various orders in the pocket of his dress suit trousers. On one occasion he was invited with the other Heidelberg professors to dine with a Baden prince. He entered the room late, after the guests had assembled, and one of his colleagues turned to him and said:

"Excuse me, Herr Geheimrath, but what have you done with your orders?"

Bunsen was taken aback. He thought for a moment, and then plunging his for a moment, and then, plunging his ed out a fist full of stars and crosses. As soon as they recovered from their astonishment every one began to laugh, but Bunsen said good naturedly, "Oh, I have a lot more," and pulled another handful out of the right hand pocket of his trousers.

MR. HENPEKT'S EFFORT.

The Letter He Wrote to His Absent Wife.

"Are you thinking of my return, Henry, and longing to see me once more?" wrote Mrs. Henpekt to her husband, from whom she had been absent for some weeks on a visit to her mother.

And when Henpekt took up his pen to reply he scratched his head and thought and thought and finally evolved the following:

"No, dearest; I have been so busy enjoying myself lately—er—I should say working so hard, that I confess I have not been worrying as much over your return—I mean absence—as I ought to. You know the good book says: 'Take no thought for tomorrow. Sufficient unto the day is the'—er—something or another—I forget exactly what—but anyhow, that's just the way I feel about your coming home. You must come when you get good and ready, dearest, though there is no particular hurry about it, and I will try to bear up nobly till then and will meet you at the station, cheerfully resigned to my fate—I mean whenever you send me word that you are coming."

And then Henpekt looked over what he had written and shook his head and said: "Confound letter writing anyhow! I haven't got my sentiments plastered over with taffy, etc., quite as plentiful as I orter, I s'pose, but I'm a little out of practice on the taffy business, and I haven't got time to write another letter anyhow—got to fly around and make hay while the cat's away, as they tell about—so I guess I'll have to sign my name to it and send the plaguy thing along as it is and take my chances."

And he did.—Will S. Gidley in Bohemian.

"I do!" cried the heroine, stamping her foot. "Another word and I shall toss my head for"—

"Wait until I put on a catcher's mitt to catch it."

And the villain still pursued her.—Detroit Tribune.

WATER IN CHEMONG LAKE NEVER KNOWN TO BE HIGHER

Has Crept Up on the Shore a Quarter of a Mile at the Indian Village—Continues to Increase in Height

"We used to live a half mile from the wharf, now we are only a quarter of a mile from the water."

This was the statement made today by Mr. Dan Whetung, jr., of Chemong, who was in the city for a short time. He informed a Review representative that the water in Lake Chemong is the highest within the memory of the oldest inhabitants along its shores. At Chemong Indian Village the water has crept up on the shore over a quarter of a mile, so that it is now only a short distance from Mr. Whetung's home. The water is completely submerged, the tops of the snubbing posts alone being visible.

The water in the lake is rising, too. Since Sunday it has gone up two inches, and it is feared that damage will result if it goes much higher. The floating bridge across the lake is in a precarious condition and is hardly safe for traffic.

"The lake was never known to be higher, said Mr. Whetung, "and if the water keeps on rising, goodness knows what will happen."

IS MANAGER OF ROYAL BANK BRANCH AT BURK'S FALLS

Mr. W. J. Fulton, who is well-known in this city, has been appointed manager of the branch of the Royal Bank at Burk's Falls. He is now located there and meeting much success. This branch at Burk's Falls was taken over from the Sovereign Bank, when the latter organization went out of business a few months ago. It was one of the Sovereign's best branches.

Mr. Fulton spent several weeks in Peterborough when the local branch of the Royal Bank was opened a year ago last November. At that time he was connected with the head office staff and came to this city to open the local branch. He made many friends while here and they will be glad to hear of his success.

NAVIGATION ON TRENT CANAL OPENS ON MONDAY

The Trent Canal opens for navigation on Monday next. The ice has all left this waterway. The Lift Lock will again be in operation and the canal will be the scene of much traffic. The opening of the Trent waterway will be welcome news to a large number of wood merchants. It is expected that a considerable amount of wood will be brought down from the back country. A local wood dealer stated to-day that in the course of a week or so he would be bringing several scow loads of wood up from Keene.

The "Water Lily" will shortly begin her daily trips up to the canal to Stoney Lake and a hustling business is anticipated on the Trent waterway this summer.

The annual spring tour of the Board of Works took place yesterday. THEATRICAL

PRIMROSE'S ALL STAR MINSTRELS

Mr. Primrose and his All Star Minstrel Company, which comes to the Grand next Monday, May 4th, will present the best real minstrel performance this country has ever enjoyed by the largest company of humorists, comedians, vocalists, dancers and musicians ever toured, with every scene, act and song true to Southern flavor.

The stage settings for the first part are of great magnificence; the costumes are costly and elegant. In addition to the exceptionally large number of vocalists and comedians, a complete operatic orchestra of soloists are carried. Taking it all in all, there seems to be no doubt but that Mr. Primrose, after careful study, has fully carried out all he claimed could be done with America's most popular form of amusement—MINSTRELSY.

AT PINEY RIDGE.

"At Piney Ridge" was presented to a large audience at the Grand Opera House last night, and made a good impression. It is a melodrama of more than ordinary merit, and the different roles were in capable hands. The company is strong in every respect and the work of each one was deserving of the hearty applause given. Miss Louise Coleman, who had the leading role, is an actress of marked ability, and her support was excellent.

To-morrow night the Royal Alexandra Players will present "Our Boys." The seats are selling rapidly.

ANY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and indigestion is the result.

Peruna is not a nervine nor a stimulant. It benefits the nerves by benefiting digestion.

Peruna frees the stomach of catarrhal congestions and normal digestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Marchant street, Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors.

"They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

"I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again.

"I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured.

"I have gained in strength and feel like a different person. I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Nervines, such as coal tar preparations, are doing a great deal of harm. Sleep medicines and headache powders are all alike,—heart depressants, and should not be used. The nerves would be all right, if the digestion were good. Peruna corrects the digestion.

SOME CHANGES IN BANKING CIRCLES

Some Transfers Have Been Made —Mr. Ferguson Has Returned Home

There have been several changes in local banking circles during the past few days.

Mr. Graham Ferguson, who has been staying at the Welland, St. Catharines, for the past five months for his health, has returned to the city and has resumed his duties in the Royal Bank. Mr. A. W. Wykesmith, of Toronto, who was here during Mr. Ferguson's absence, will return to Toronto in a few days.

Mr. W. B. Coombs, who has been teller in the local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia for the past three months, has been transferred to another branch, and Mr. W. Stoko, who has been ledger keeper, has been promoted to the position of teller. Mr. McLeod, of Woodstock, arrived this morning to take Mr. Stoko's former position.

Although Port Arthur will adopt eastern time in May the hotels will not and the bars may stay open till what will then be 12 o'clock, instead of 11 o'clock now.

KING MANUEL OPENS CORTES; MONARCH HEARTILY GREETED

By Thousands of His Subjects—"I Hope to Work With You," He Said—Recommends Revision of the Constitution—Royal Mourning Suspended.

Lisbon, April 30.—The Portuguese Cortes reassembled yesterday at the eighty-second anniversary of the establishment of a constitutional government in Portugal. The royal mourning for the late King Carlos and his son was suspended for the occasion. The entire garrison of Lisbon was turned out at daylight and formed along the route from the Nessidades Palace to the Parliament buildings.

King Manuel proceeded to the Cortes accompanied by many dignitaries of state and escorted by a strong guard of troops. The floor of the Chamber was filled with the deputies and the peers, while the galleries were crowded with a brilliant audience.

His Majesty mounted slowly the tribune that had been especially erected for his use. His address, which he read in strong and full tones not unlike those of his father, was a pathetic, and at the same time a practical and vigorous discourse, calculated to win over the sympathies of the people. He touched upon the tragedy of Feb. 1, when his father and his brother were shot down, with the utmost delicacy and tact, referring to the "cruel disappearance of my father and brother."

Continuing, he called upon the country to consentrate all its energies in a supreme effort to attain the realization of the destinies of Portugal. "I hope to work with you," the King said, "in order to bring about the happiness and greatness of our country; to these I henceforth dedicate my life and activities."

Continuing King Manuel recommended a revision of the constitution, the re-establishment of individual rights, a new electoral law, fixing the right of suffrage, revision of the decrees promulgated by ex-Premier Franco, and more rigid and careful methods of finance, whereby the country could be placed on a more economical footing. At the conclusion of the King's speech the members of the Cortes broke out into cries of "Long Live the King," which were taken up and re-echoed by the others present as King Manuel and the state dignitaries took their departure for the palace.

While journeying to and from the buildings of Parliament, King Manuel was respectfully greeted by the people.

CONSERVATIVES SWEEP BOARDS

Not One Liberal Elected in Contest for Thirty Seats.

Halifax, N.S., April 30.—One of the hottest civic contests ever fought in Halifax ended yesterday, and resulted in a complete sweep for the Tory ticket, A. B. Crosby being elected mayor over Dr. Hawkins, Liberal, by a majority of 950, and Conservatives being elected for aldermen in each of the wards. Of thirty members not a Liberal was elected. The action was run on straight party lines.

The Liberals brought Messrs. Roche and Carney from Ottawa to take charge of the campaign on behalf of Dr. Hawkins, and the Liberal ticket. Dominion members were actively engaged yesterday getting out the Government and civil service votes.

The result of the polling indicates the great change in the political sentiment which has taken place during the past few months.

Trouble With the Douks.

Yorkton, Sask., April 30.—Seventy-one Doukhobors arrived here yesterday by special train. Nineteen of this number were recently released from Fort William jail and were shipped here by the Ontario Government in charge of an official of that Government.

These people are all destitute and have no homes to go to, and a number of them are perfectly nude, and some of their acts are far from decent. There are a few Doukhobors in this vicinity, but they will have nothing to do with these vagrants.

The Town Council and Board of Trade have taken the matter up with the Government officials at Regina, and the Doukhobors are being kept in the coaches pending instructions from Regina. The mounted police are guarding the coaches.

Mother and Children Burned.

Laporte, Ind., April 30.—The removal of four charred bodies, the blackened forms of three children huddled about that of the mother, as if for protection, the arrest of Ray Lampher, formerly employed by Mrs. Belle Gunnes, the victim, and the collapse of Lampher at the jail Tuesday night, has caused excitement at Laporte that may at any moment break forth into violence.

Lampher had been employed on the Gunnes farm and was infatuated with Mrs. Gunnes, who was a beautiful woman. She declared that the man annoyed her, and filed proceedings to have him declared insane, but a jury found him sane.

Charge Is Witchcraft.

Lindsay, April 30.—Mrs. A. Goheen, an old woman known all over the district as a fortune-teller, was committed for trial yesterday before Police Magistrate Jackson on a charge of witchcraft preferred by County Constable Minthorne.

This is the first case of the kind to come before a local court. Minthorne went to the house of the woman and for 25 cents was told his fortune. He was also told where an alleged stolen parcel was hidden.

A Thousand Italians Arrive.

Montreal, April 30.—It was reported at the local railway stations that no less than 1,000 Italians have arrived in the city since Monday.

The police in the district in which the local Italian quarter is situated have received instructions to watch the new-comers closely and arrest any found carrying concealed weapons.

Seventeen Years For Hanlon.

Guelph, April 30.—After serving five years in the Kingston penitentiary for forgery on the sentence given some months ago at Orangeville, William Hanlon will have twelve more years to serve before he regains his freedom, for that was the term meted out to him yesterday by Justice MacMahon.

Hanlon was charged with putting through six forged checks on all the established banks of the city under the names of John Gillies of Marden, and amounting to a total of $1,400.

He pleaded not guilty, and to all the witnesses who testified against him and identified him he claimed that he had never seen them before, and he maintained this stand until the last.

Not Guilty of Murder.

Woodstock, April 30.—After being out just an hour and 20 minutes the jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Richard Gray, charged with the murder of his daughter's infant child of which he was the father.

Evidence was conclusive and strong against the prisoner, who is unable to read or write, consequently the verdict was astonishing.

The body of the infant was found under a log a few miles from Gray's home, where the prisoner admitted he put it, saying it was dead when he did so.

He has been remanded to jail and will face a charge of incest.

Boy Drowned In Well.

South Dummer, April 30.—A sad accident is reported at the home of James H. Murphy, Dummer Township, when his son, Gordon, was drowned in a well which Mr. Murray had started to sink near the house. Mr. Murphy was working in the woods, and his wife went out to take him a lunch, leaving the children alone in the house. Returning, she was horrified to find the little boy floating on top of a mass of melting ice and snow in the well. He was lying on his face, partly submerged in water.

The well was within a few inches of being full, and the marks around the sides showed that the little fellow had made quite a struggle to get out.

BAD FIRE IN ART GALLERY

Number of Rare Pictures Burned in Blaze at Toronto.

Toronto, April 30.—In less than 20 minutes from the time the blaze was discovered at 8.30 yesterday morning fire did $7,000 damage to the Royal Academy art exhibit, occupied by the Ontario Society of Artists in the Princess Theatre building.

Although the stairway and lobby leading toward the main gallery were completely swept by the fierce rush of flames, the blaze was checked before any appreciable damage was done to the main exhibit of the Royal Academy, which had been opened less than a week. As it was the main gallery was only scorched around the fanlight opening over the door, although the intensity of the heat so cracked the central skylight that it had to be taken down.

The cause of the fire has not been explained, but it started in an ante room on the first floor, and was noticed from across the street. It spread to the art school above and to the hallway leading to it, wherein was the architectural exhibit, which was destroyed. It included the prize designs for the proposed departmental and justice buildings at Ottawa, and the Saskatchewan capital building, designed by E. and G. W. Maxwell of Montreal. The original drawings of McDonald engineering building, Montreal (lately burned), and McGill University, by Percy E. Nobbs, Montreal, and many others.

The total value of the exhibits is placed at $150,000, with little or no attempt to protection from fire. The insurance is $15,000. The damage to the art school was $[illegible].

EUROPEANS MAY BE IN DANGER

Battambang in Siam, at Mercy of the Natives.

Paris, April 30.—The Temps yesterday published a special despatch from Battambang, saying that the town is at the mercy of the natives, who have risen in revolt and are threatening the European residents. The troops are insufficient to ensure protection.

Battambang is a town of Siam, in the French sphere of influence. Recent despatches from Saigon, Cochin-China, said the natives of the central Annam Provinces were in a state of rebellion, owing to the abuses indulged in by the local mandarin. The central Annam Provinces are not far from Battambang, which is about 40 miles from the Cochin-China frontier.

Mother and Daughter Killed.

Windsor, April 30.—Mrs. Lewis Fulmer and daughter of Gosfield North were killed while driving across the Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore tracks between Essex and Kingsville. The horse became unmanageable at the approach of the electric car.

Bank Robbers Secure $7,000.

Crookston, Minn., April 30.—The Scandia State Bank was robbed of about $7,000 early yesterday by safe blowers, who then terrorized the town by firing off their pistols, finally making good their escape.

Hafid Receives Trouncing.

Babit, Morocco, April 30.—Mulai Hafid, the so-called Sultan of the South, is reported here to have suffered a disaster and to have fled to Tadla, a town of 120 miles southwest of Fes.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS HAVE BEEN SET FOR JUNE 8TH

Premier Whitney Makes Official Announcement of Date—Nominations Will be Held a Week Earlier—Campaign to be Short But Very Active.

Toronto, April 30.—Hon. Mr. Whitney has selected the 8th of June whereupon to go forth and slay his enemies. In other words the eleventh Legislature of Ontario will be dissolved by proclamation in Saturday's Gazette, and the writs for the new election will be issued within a few days thereafter. The elections will be held on June 1-8. Nominations will be on the first, and such elections as go by acclamation. Polling in contested ridings will be on the 8th, which is a Monday. There have been Monday elections on other occasions, but the choice on this occasion is for the special accommodation of commercial travelers.

"The question of the day occupied a good deal of our thought," remarked Mr. Whitney when asked, "and we finally decided that the convenience of a great number of people would be consulted by having it on Monday. Thousanrds of commercial travelers go home on Sunday. This year they will be able to vote before leaving home on Monday morning. On any other day they would be compelled to travel at great inconvenience in order to go to the polls."

Premier Whitney also stated that there was no reason to anticipate any trouble about the polling lists anywhere. This practically disposes of the opposition rumors of delays in the northern districts.

Premier Whitney has made no campaign arrangements yet, but from time to time will take occasion, he said, to address the people.

It is not expected by close students of the situation that any very great change will occur in the Government majority. Both sides expect to lose some seats, but the balance will probably be about even. The most sanguine opposition calculation does not bring the Government majority below 25.

HAS REPLIED TO LIBERAL CANDIDATE'S PROPOSITION

MR. T. E. BRADBURN, M.P.P.,
The Conservative candidate for West Peterborough at at Provincial elections on June 8th.

HE SAYS GOD WILL PROTECT

Murderer Thinks He is to be Crucified.

Easton, Pa., April 30.—Coroner Fethere of Nazareth, near here, yesterday afternoon began an inquest into the death of Irene May Smith, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith of Alliance, who was offered as a sacrifice by her parents and uncle, members of the fanatic religious sect, whose actions have startled the community. The Smiths and Bachman, who is an uncle of the child and who killed her during his frenzy, are in the county jail. Bachman insists that the child was possessed of the devil, and that he killed her by command from heaven.

He maintained that he did no wrong and that God will protect him. He cries out from his cell that he is to be crucified and pleads with the jailer to hurry the execution that he may appear before the throne of God, who sent him to earth to perform a great mission for the salvation of mankind.

A Knarled Old Mariner.

Kingston, April 30.—Kingston has one of the oldest, if not the oldest, mariners in Canada. Capt. Thomas Collins has been engaged on sailing and steam vessels for sixty years. He has been in every hole and corner between Duluth and Montreal. In the early times the trip was from Chicago to Montreal. There were no canals on the St. Lawrence, and after passing down the river the return trip to Kingston had to be made up the Ottawa River and through the Rideau Canal. There were no lighthouses, and navigation was hard. Capt. Collins was in command of a schooner during the emigration fever scourge. Capt. Collins is still in harness.

Eleven Licenses Cut Off.

Ottawa, April 30.—The axe has fallen on 11 license holders in Ottawa. These have been cut off by the Board of License Commissioners and refused renewals for the coming year. This announcement says that the following hotels are refused: Argyle, Transvaal, Ottawa East, Bodega and Oxford. The rest are shop licenses.

Effect on Irish Policy.

Dublin, April 30.—It was demonstrated at an important meeting of the Irish party here yesterday that the recent re-union of the party would not have any practical effect on its policy.

William O'Brien's resolution in favor of another land conference with the landlords was defeated, despite strong speeches in its favor by Mr. O'Brien and Timothy Healy, while Mr. O'Brien's criticism of John E. Redmond's recent methods of conducting the home rule campaign in Parliament found only two supporters.

A Large Bird Caged.

Richmond, Va., April 30.—T. M. Angle, president of the Dryfork Distilling Co., was found guilty on five charges in the United States court in Danville yesterday for committing extensive revenue frauds, and was sentenced to four years in the Federal penitentiary. He also was fined $15,000. Bail pending appeal was fixed at $20,000.

Young Woman's Suicide.

Cobalt, April 30.—Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Charles Tapp, proprietor of the Tremont Hotel, heard the report of a pistol and on investigation found it was discharged by one of the domestics of the house. Miss Mary Kittener of Arnprior, who is twenty years of age, and of German extraction, was found lying on the floor in an unconscious condition. The shot was fired from a thirty-eight Colts' revolver, which she borrowed from her friend, Adam Taylor.

The bullet entered at the ear and passed out the top of her head. She was removed to the hospital and died shortly afterwards. Miss Kittener attended the opera Tuesday night.

House Upset.

Welland, April 30.—Contractor Oliver put up a house on the Garner survey resting it on concrete blocks. It was rented by David Kennedy, a new arrival from Scotland. The frost got out of the ground, and the house toppled over just as the family were about to sit at the table. The gas stove was thrown over, and the dishes thrown about, and the meat lost. Mrs. Kennedy rushed outside and turned off the gas at the meter. The gas pipe was broken off short at the meter. The furniture was tossed about the rooms and the occupants badly frightened.

THERE IS NO MONEY TO SEND VETERANS TO CELEBRATION

Statement of Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Pugsley Benign While Questions Were Hurled—Estimates for Ontario Public Buildings.

Ottawa, April 30.—Dr. Pugsley had fairly smooth sailing yesterday afternoon, although the Opposition kept up a running fire of questions. The Minister was smooth and gave little occasion for criticism. Dr. Sproule objected to funds for drill halls being put through in the absence of the Minister of Militia, and Dr. Pugsley yielded this before the estimates were reached.

Mr. Foster drew attention to a petition he had received from the Army and Navy Veterans' Association of Toronto, praying that thirty of their members be sent to Quebec for the tercentenary celebration. These were not paper soldiers, said Mr. Foster, but men who wore the scars of battle. They had been received by the Prince of Wales when he was last here, and he thought it would be a graceful thing to have representatives of the association at the Quebec celebration.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it would require a special appropriation, as the vote of $300,000 covered only the active militia. If Mr. Foster would send the petition over he would transmit it to the tercentenary commission.

E. N. Lewis spoke in advocacy of the appointment of a commission to investigate the pulpwood resources of Canada and the United States.

The Prime Minister admitted the importance of the question. No question was more important than the preservation of the forests. He believed the timber supplies of the country were very far from being inexhaustible, and he was not averse to the appointment of a commission to prevent the waste which was taking place annually.

Estimates for Ontario public buildings were then taken up. Mr. Cockshutt complained of the inadequacy of the Government buildings in Brantford, which were not commensurate with the requirements of the city.

Dr. Pugsley replied that no representations had been made to him urging the necessity of larger buildings, but Mr. Blain informed him that the request had been made on the floor of the House, while Mr. Cockshutt pointed out that he himself had urged the matter on the former Minister.

Mr. Blain and others rallied the Minister of Customs, who lives in Brantford, upon his failure to back up the claim of Brantford, and at length Mr. Paterson was moved to say that in the past the city had been treated fairly, but it might be time to consider the erection of a new postoffice.

On the item for Dominion public buildings, general improvements, etc., Mr. Bennett discussed the purchase of supplies from the Eclipse Manufacturing Co. and the Office Specialty Co. Returns had been brought down showing that in 12 years the two companies had received $538,278 for selling furniture to the Government. The head and front of the Office Specialty Co. was George M. Reid, who was now awaiting sentence for his complicity in the London election frauds. When Mr. Hyman took charge of the Public Works Department in 1894, the receipts of Mr. Reid's company began to grow, amounting, in one year, to $78,000. In view of Reid's election work, it was no wonder that he was able to take Mr. Hyman by the throat. What is Mr. Reid's interest? asked Mr. Pugsley, and Mr. Bennett said as the deputy had suggested the question, the amount was $12,000, "and I want to say," he went on, "that it is getting to be the habit of deputies to intervene when political matters touching their Ministers are brought up."

Mr. Bennett worried the Minister for a statement as to whether it was intended to give Reid more of the public money, but Mr. Pugsley was unable to say.

CANADIANS ARE SANE NATIONALITY

Rudyard Kipling Has Favorable Statement About Dominion.

London, April 30.—(C.A.P.)—Kipling in his final article in The Morning Post says there is no mistaking the spirit of sane realized nationality which fills Canada. There is little danger that it will go astray amongst the boundless wealth and luxury awaiting it. Dealing with defence, he declares the question before Canada is not what she thinks or pays, but what the enemy may think it necessary to make her pay.

"When England stumbles, the Empire shakes," he writes. "Canada's weakness is lack of men; England's weakness is excess of voters who propose to live at the expense of the state."

He concludes with an eloquent peroration in favor of inducing the working classes, who are alarmed at this state of affairs, to emigrate to the Dominion.

In the first quarter of 1908 British emigrants to Canada number 18,261, compared with 33,507 in 1907.

London, April 30.—(C.A.P.)—The Camberwell distress committee have asked the central unemployed body whether, in view of the serious obstacles placed in the way of emigration by the Canadian Government suitable men and their families could not be sent to Australia and other colonies.

The Glasgow committee decided to discontinue emigration in consequence of the belief that while the type of man required by Canada as beneficial to the Dominion, it is disadvantageous to Glasgow to lose them.

MAN WAS KILLED IN RUNAWAY

Wilson Anderson Met Tragic Death Near Campbellford

Campbellford, April 30.—Wilson Anderson, merchant at Wellman's Corners, was killed yesterday. It appears that he had been driving a team of young horses, and left the team tied by a line. The horses pulled their bridles off and started to run away.

Mr. Anderson, in attempting to stop them, was caught between the wagon and pole, which crushed several of his ribs, causing death a few hours later. Deceased was a married man, about 45 years of age, and leaves a wife and six children.

Speech From the Throne.

Fredericton, N.B., April 30.—The speech from the throne at the opening of the Legislature to-day will contain a number of important features, including a statement that owing to the enormous expenditures of the late Government in connection with the Central Railway, the Government has deemed it wise to have an investigation made into its finances.

Reference will also be made to the first payment of increased provincial subsidies.

Eleven Licenses Gone.

St. John, N.B., April 30.—St. John liquor license commissioners made a clean sweep last night when they cut the number of licenses from 75 to 64.

Under judgment of the Supreme Court they were forced to make reduction of 11 only. The Ottawa Hotel lost its license.

It is crowned with the success of splendid cures; will restore anyone to health who uses it. The following letters from people who have actually experienced what Ferrozone can do will clearly show you just how beneficially it acts:—

No Medicine Ever Did So Much Lasting Good as Ferrozone.

"It would be difficult to express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Ferrozone," writes Miss Eva Wight, of [illegible]. "I was so weak and miserable that I could scarcely go around the house. My head ached, there was a dragging weakness in my limbs and I felt as if every spark of life had left me. Ferrozone improved my appetite, toned up my blood, and soon made me well. Nothing I ever used did me half the good I got from Ferrozone."

The Great Tonic, Ferrozone, Brought Back Life.

"I am anxious to speak a good word for such a magnificent tonic as Ferrozone," says [illegible], of Yorktown. "I was wretchedly worn out, I was [illegible] and lacked confidence. It was simply due to my very weak state. The only remedy that really did me lasting good was Ferrozone. It rebuilt my strength, and made me as vigorous and happy as a man could be. In the whole range of medicines I never used anything with half the merit I found in Ferrozone."

Though you spend a thousand dollars on doctors, you can't get a more vitalizing, strengthening tonic than Ferrozone. It is the best that money, combined with scientific research, can produce. If anything in this world will make you strong it must be Ferrozone. Others have proved its worth. You can easily do so for yourself. It will send new vital energy and renewed youth singing through your veins. It's nature's own remedy—a true food tonic.

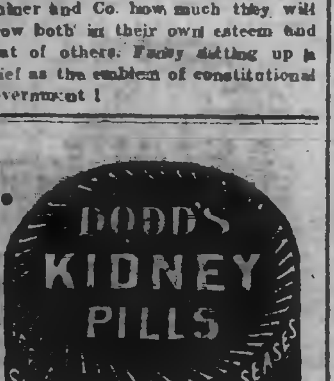
COLONIZATION ROADS; HOW MONEY USED TO GO

How it Goes at Present—A Contrast in Government—The Difference Between Spending Public Money in the Interests of the Public and in the Interests of the Spender—General Satisfaction.

In the northern townships of the County of Peterborough there are, as most people know, certain duties assumed by the Provincial Government and certain duties assumable by the people of the township, with respect to the roads. The Government aids the settlers in the development of highways and in the building of bridges. Reeves, deputies, councillors and overseers are called together by the Government commissioner. They point out what they think ought to be done and where. The commissioner investigates. The money is appropriated in whole or in part. The overseers, pathmasters and commissioner look to its expenditure. All parties are under bond. Paysheets are full complete, and must be certified to the last cent. Above all, the money now goes on the roads. Formerly the sum appropriated was handed to two or more who doled it out in small sums "in the right quarters" and very little of it ever found its way to the roads. The system of bonds, paysheets, etc., was neglected. Any one who wishes to see the difference between the conduct of these affairs under Mr. Bradburn and formerly can do so by going to Toronto and taking a look into the books and records by the department there. It would open the eyes of most people. They can also do so by taking a trip to the townships referred to and making inquiries.

STANDING UPON THE BOND

We think that it is quite probable that Mr. Gillespie, if let alone will conduct a proper campaign. Two candidates acting like respectable men and not like greedy unprincipled children, seem to present an impossible feature of a campaign to the Examiner. It would appear as if the temptation to play "hog" was so irresistible to that journal and those behind it that to act with the dignity of full-grown men and citizens of mature common sense is wholly out of the question. It is not so in walking matches, nor in wrestling matches, nor in boxing matches, nor even when little boys engage in mere games for their own amusement. They play square. At least that is their rule. Why then should the Examiner attempt to set up a crooked baby-show for an election campaign with the two candidates like underfed youngsters at a feast? Can't the Examiner and Co. resist the little temptation! In the past—no. But let them try hard for the future and it will astonish the Examiner and Co. how much they will grow both in their own esteem and that of others. Fancy setting up a thief as the emblem of constitutional government!



WHAT COMPETITION DOES

The hydro-electric commission has brought the Cataract Power Co. down on its knees once more. Just before the vote was taken on the power by-laws last January the company offered a rate of $16 a horse-power. This was hedged around with conditions that were explained by an expert to mean that the real charge would be about $35. Now the company says it will give a rate ten cent. lower than the hydro-electric commission's rate. The question as to whether the city is to take Niagara power will be settled by the council Monday evening and there is little doubt that a majority of the aldermen will vote for competition.—Hamilton Herald.

Sometimes our Liberal friends laugh and enjoy themselves at what they suppose is or was the downfall of the Hydro-Electric Commission, and with it the power policy of the Whitney government. From time to time this hallucination gets some severe jolts but the remains of the "machine" still hopes without hope. Such instances as the above at Hamilton however are becoming more frequent. Many municipalities are applicants for estimates and directions leading up to acquirement of power at a reasonable price. The "power policy" as it is known, is becoming all that was hoped for it. It will yet prove the greatest achievement in the history of legislative government in Ontario. It means more than railways and timber limits. It means a constant source of power for the small manufacturer and if necessary for the big one too. It means the liberation of industry. The man who wants to work at manufactures can do so. There is no chance of monopoly which above all things enslaves a people beyond hope.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"There has been a tightening-up of law enforcement generally."—Dominion Alliance Manifesto for Ontario.

The death of Hon. Dr. Willoughby removes a familiar figure from the Ontario House. He seems to have been well thought of generally.

"We all know that the world has come to set up less exacting standards of morality in politics and in Government relations than in ordinary matters."—The Examiner.

Since when?

Elections June 8th. Now get to work! The Young Conservative Club will be a hive of industry from this out. Mr. Bradburn's committee rooms are on the flat below.

The April number of the Labour Gazette contains the following summary of the condition of business in Canada:—Agriculture, quiet to active; lumbering, dull to quiet; manufacturing, quiet; railway construction, active; skilled labour, very dull.

Mr. Stratton included people in his remarks in condemnation of the spoils system who have to thank him for being allowed to go. He had not had them put on the permanent list, but kept them on the yearly list, hence when their time was up they dropped off.

When there was some likelihood of Mr. Whitney's postponing the elections in North Ontario, Mr. Mackay said he would keep the Legislature in session till mid-summer rather than that it should be done. What was the matter with doing so over the C.N.R. guarantee if it was wrong.

BANANAS NOT A VERY BIY CROP

And Prices are Likely To Be Firm This Season

A local fruit dealer stated to the Review today that bananas are not a big crop this year, and may be scarce before the summer is over. At present they are retailing in Peterborough at 02 cents a dozen, and it is not improbable that they will not go below this figure. It is not as easy to secure supplies as in some other years and prices are likely to be firm.

Washington, April 30.—The Department of Agriculture has withdrawn inspection from one of the largest meat packing establishments in Paterson, N.J., because of violation of the meat inspection regulations.

Samples of lard prepared by this concern were found on chemical examination to be adulterated with beef tallow, and the Federal inspector detected employes of the establishment in the act of dumping several barrels of low grade inedible fat and scraps into the lard tanks.

Without Federal inspection the products of this company may not be shipped in interstate or foreign commerce.

Beverly of Graustark

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON,
Author of "Graustark"

Copyright, 1904, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"You may sit beside me," she said, with a wistful smile of acknowledgment. As he flung himself into the seat his hand eagerly sought hers, his courtly reserve gone to the winds.

"Beverly, dearest one, you never can know how much I love you," he whispered into her ear. "It is a deathless love, unconquerable, unalterable. It is in my blood to love forever. Listen to me, dear one. I come of a race whose love is hot and enduring. My people from time immemorial have loved as no other people have loved. They have killed and slaughtered for the sake of the glorious passion. Love is the religion of my people. You must, you shall believe me when I say that I will love you better than my soul so long as that soul exists. I loved you the day I met you. It has been worship since that time."

His passion carried her resistlessly away as the great waves sweep the deck of a ship at sea. She was out in the ocean of love, far from all else that was dear to her, far from all harbors save the mysterious one to which his passion was piloting her through a storm of emotion.

"I have longed so to hold you in my arms, Beverly. Even when you were a princess and I lay in the hospital at Ganlook my fevered arms hungered for you. There never has been a moment that my heart has not been reaching out in search of yours. You have glorified me, dearest, by the promise you made a week ago. I know that you will not renounce that precious pledge. It is in your eyes now—the eyes I shall worship to the end of eternity. Tell me, though, with your own lips, your own voice, that you will be my wife, mine to hold forever."

For answer she placed her arms about his neck and buried her face against his shoulder. There were tears in her gray eyes and there was a sob in her throat. He held her close to his breast for an eternity, it seemed to both, neither giving voice to the song their hearts were singing. There was no other world than the fairy grotto.

"Sweetheart, I am asking you to make a great sacrifice," he said at last, his voice hoarse but tender. She looked up into his face serenely. "Can you give up the joys, the wealth, the comforts of that home across the sea, to share a lowly cottage with me and my love? Wait, dear—do not speak until I am through. You must think of what your friends will say. The love and life I offer you now will not be like that which you always have known. It will be poverty and the dregs, not riches and wine. It will be"—

But she placed her hand upon his lips, shaking her head emphatically. The picture he was painting was the same one that she had studied for days and days. Its very shadow was familiar to her, its every unwholesome corner was as plain as day.

"The rest of the world may think what it likes, Paul," she said. "It will make no difference to me. I have awakened from my dream. My dream prince is gone, and I find that it's the real man that I love. What would you have me do? Give you up because you are poor? Or would you have me go up the ladder of fame and prosperity with you, a humble but adoring burden? I know you, dear. You will not always be poor. They may say what they like. I have thought long and well, because I am not a fool. It is the American girl who marries the titled foreigner without love that is a fool. Marrying a poor man is too serious a business to be handled by fools. I have written to my father, telling him that I am going to marry you," she announced. He gasped with unbelief.

"You have, already?" he cried.

"Of course. My mind has been made up for more than a week. I told it to Aunt Fanny last night."

"And she?"

"She almost died, that's all," said she unblushingly. "I was afraid to cable the news to father. He might stop me if he knew it in time. A letter was much smarter."

"You dear, dear little sacrifice," he cried tenderly. "I will give all my life to make you happy."

"I am a soldier's daughter, and I can be a soldier's wife. I have tried hard to give you up, Paul, but I couldn't. You are love's soldier, and it is a—a relief to surrender and have it over with."

They fell to discussing plans for the future. It all went smoothly and airily until he asked her when he should go to Washington to claim her as his wife. She gave him a startled, puzzled look.

"To Washin'ton?" she murmured, turning very cold and weak. "You—you won't have to go to Washin'ton, dear. I'll stay here."

"My dear Beverly, I can afford the trip," he laughed. "I am not an absolute pauper. Besides, it is right and just that your father should give you to me. It is the custom of our land." She was nervous and uncertain.

"But—but, Paul, there are many things to think of," she faltered.

"You mean that your father would not consent?"

"Well—he—he might be unreasonable," she stammered. "And then there are my brothers, Keith and Dan. They are foolishly interested in me. Dan thinks no one is good enough for me. So does Keith. And father, too, for that matter—and mother. You see, it's not just as if you were a grand and wealthy nobleman. They may not understand. We are southerners, you know. Some of them have peculiar ideas about"—

"Don't distress yourself so much, dearest," he said, with a laugh. "Though I see your position clearly—and it is not an enviable one."

"We can go to Washin'ton just as soon as we are married," she comprehended. "Father has a great deal of influence over there. With his help behind you you will soon be a power in the United"— But his hearty laugh checked her eager plotting. "It's nothing to laugh at, Paul," she said.

"I beg your pardon a thousand times. I was thinking of the disappointment I must give you now. I cannot live in the United States—never. My home is here. I am not born for the strife of your land. They have soldiers enough and better than I. It is in the turbulent east that we shall live—you and I." Tears came into her eyes.

"Am I not to—to go back to Washin'ton?" She tried to smile.

"When Prince Dantan says we may, perhaps."

"Oh, he is my friend," she cried in great relief. "I can get any favor I ask of him. Oh, Paul, Paul, I know that my folks will think I'm an awful fool, but I can't help it. I shall let you know that I intend to be a blissful one, at least."

He kissed her time and again out there in the dark, soft light of the fairy grotto.

"Before we can be married, dearest, I have a journey of some importance to take," he announced as they arose to leave the bower behind.

"A journey? Where?"

"To Vienna. I have an account to settle with a man who has just taken up his residence there." His hand went to his sword hilt, and his dark eyes gleamed with the fire she loved. "Count Marlanx and I have postponed business to attend to, dearest. Have no fear for me. My sword is honest, and I shall bring it back to you myself."

She shuddered and knew that it would be as he said.

CHAPTER XXXI.

THE Duke of Matz and his associates reached Edelweiss in the afternoon. Their attendants and servants carried luggage bearing the princely crest of Dawsbergen and meant for Prince Dantan and his sister Candace. In the part of the castle set apart for the visitors an important consultation was held behind closed doors. There Dantan met his countrymen and permitted them to renew the pledge of fealty that had been shattered by the overpowering influence of his mad half brother. What took place at this secret meeting the outside world never knew. Only the happy result was made known. Prince Dantan was to resume his reign over Dawsbergen as if it never had been interrupted.

The castle, brilliant from bottom to top, filled with music and laughter, experienced a riot of happiness such as it had not known in years. The war clouds had lifted, the sunshine of contentment was breaking through the darkness, and there was rejoicing in the hearts of all. Bright and glorious were the colors that made up the harmony of peace. Men and women of high degree came to the historic old walls garbed in the riches of royalty and nobility. To Beverly Calhoun it was the most enchanting sight she had ever looked upon. From the galleries she gazed down into the halls glittering with the wealth of Graustark and was conscious of a strange feeling of glorification. She felt that she had a part in this jubilee. With Candace she descended the grand staircase and mingled with the resplendent crowd.

She was the center of attraction. Dressed in a simple, close fitting gown of black velvet, without an ornament, her white arms and shoulders gleaming in the soft light from the chandeliers, she was an enticing creature to be admired by men and women alike. Two stalwart Americans felt their hearts bound with pride as they saw the conquest their countrywoman was making. Candace, her constant companion in these days, was consumed with delight.

"You are the prettiest thing in all this world," she ecstatically whispered into Beverly's ear. "My brother says so, too," she added conclusively. Beverly was too true a woman not to revel in this subtle flattery.

The great banquet hall was to be thrown open at midnight. There were dancing and song during the hours leading up to this important event. Beverly was entranced. She had seen brilliant affairs at home, but none of them compared to this in regal splendor. It was the sensuous, overpowering splendor of the east.

Prince Dantan joined the throng just before midnight. He made his way direct to the little circle of which Beverly and Candace formed the center. His rich, full military costume gave him a new distinction that quite overcame Beverly. They fell into an animated conversation, exchanging shafts of wit that greatly amused those who could understand the language.

"You must remember," Beverly said in reply to one of Ravone's sallies, "that Americans are not in the least awed by Europe's greatness. It has come to the pass when we call Europe our playground. We now go to Europe as we go to the circus or the county fair at home. It isn't much more trouble, you know, and we must see the sights."

"Alas, poor Europe!" he laughed. As he strolled about with her and Candace he pointed out certain men to her, asking her to tax her memory in the effort to recall their faces if not their apparel. She readily recognized in the lean, tired faces the men she had met first at the Inn of the Hawk and Raven.

"They were vagabonds then, Miss Calhoun. Now they are noblemen. Does the transition startle you?"

"Isn't Baldos among them?" she asked, voicing the query that had been uppermost in her mind since the moment when she looked down from the galleries and failed to see him. She was wondering how he would appear in court costume.

"You forget that Baldos is only a guard," he said kindly.

"He is a courtier nevertheless," she retorted.

She was vaguely disappointed because he was missing from the scene of splendor. It proved to her that caste overcame all else in the rock ribbed east. The common man, no matter how valiant, had no place in such affairs as these. Her pride was suffering. She was as a queen among the noblest of the realm. As the wife of Baldos she would live in another world—on the outskirts of this one of splendor and arrogance. A stubborn, defiant little frown appeared on her brow as she pictured herself in her mind's eye standing afar off with "the man" Baldos, looking at the opulence she could not reach. Her impetuous, rebellious little heart was thumping bitterly as she considered this single phase of the life to come. She was ready to cry out against the injustice of it all. The little frown was portentous of deep laid designs. She would break down this cruel barrier that kept Baldos from the fields over which prejudice alone held sway. Her love for him and her determination to be his wife were not in the least dulled by these reflections.

The doors to the great banquet hall were thrown open at last, and in the disorder that followed she wondered who was to lead her to the feasting. The Duke of Mizrox claimed the Princess Candace.

"I am to have the honor," said some one at her side, and the voice was the one she least expected to hear utter the words. The speaker was the man who deserved the place beside Yetive, Prince Dantan himself.

Bewildered, her heart palpitating with various emotions, she took his arm and allowed herself to be drawn wonderingly through the massive doors. As they entered, followed by the brilliant company, the superb orchestra that Beverly had so often enjoyed began to play the stirring "Hands Across the Sea." The musicians themselves seemed to have caught the universal feeling of joy and mirth that was in the air and played as if inspired, their leader bowing low to the young American girl as she passed. It was his affectionate tribute to her. Prince Dantan, to her amazement, led her up the entire length of the banquet hall to the head of the royal table, gorgeous with the plate of a hundred Graustark rulers, placing her on his left and next to the slightly raised royal chairs. Candace was on his right, the picture of happiness. Beverly felt dizzy, weak. She looked helplessly at Prince Dantan. His smile was puzzling. As if in a daze she saw Grenfall Lorry with the Countess Yvonne standing exactly opposite to her, he, with the others, awaiting the appearance of the princess and the one who was to sit beside her.

The music ceased, there was a hush over the room, and then Yetive came forward, magnificent in her royal robes, smiling and happy. A tall man in the uniform of an exalted army officer stood beside her, gold braid and bejeweled things across his breast. Beverly turned deathly white, her figure stiffened and then relaxed.

It was Baldos!

She never knew how she dropped into the chair the servant held for her. She only knew that his dark eyes were smiling at her with love and mischief in their depths. There was a vague, uncertain sound of chattering; some one was talking eagerly to her, but she heard him not. There was a standing toast to the Prince of Dawsbergen. Then the audacious ghost of Baldos was proposing a ringing response to the Princess Yetive; the orchestra was playing the Graustark and Dawsbergen national hymns. But it was all as a dream to her. At last she heard Candace calling to her, her face wreathed in smiles. Scores of eyes seemed to be looking at her, and all of them were full of amusement.

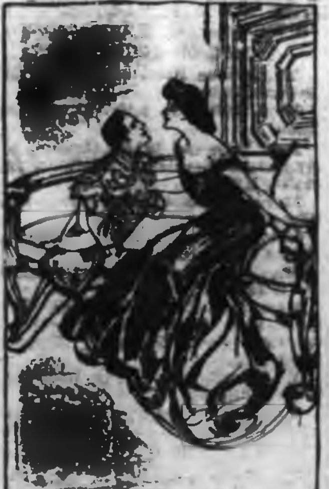
"Now, say that a girl can't keep a secret," came to her ears from the radiant sister of Dantan. Ravone, at her side, spoke to her, and she turned to him dizzily.

"You first knew me as Ravone, Miss Calhoun," he was saying genially. "Then it became necessary, by royal command, for me to be Prince Dantan. May I have the honor of introducing myself in the proper person? I am Christobal of Rapp-Thorburg, and I shall be no other than he hereafter. The friendship that binds me to Prince Dantan, at last in his proper place beside the Princess of Graustark, is to be strengthened into a dearer relationship before many days have passed."

"The Princess Candace ceases to be his sister," volunteered the Duke of Mizrox. "She is and long has been his affianced wife."

Enchanted and confused over all that had occurred in the last few moments, Beverly murmured her heartfelt congratulations to the joyous couple. The orchestra had again ceased playing. All eyes turned to Baldos—the real Prince Dantan—who, glass in hand, rose to his feet.

"Your royal highness, ladies and gentlemen, Graustark and Dawsbergen are entering a new era. I pledge you my honor that never again shall the slightest misunderstanding exist between them. They shall go forth to their glorious destiny as one people. Your gracious ruler has seen fit to bestow her hand and affections upon an American gentleman, your esteemed prince consort. We all know how loyally the people have approved her choice. There is one present, a trusted friend of your beautiful princess and lovingly called in your hearts Beverly of Graustark. Whose example more worthy for me to follow than that of the Princess Yetive? With whom could I better share my throne and please you more than with your beloved American protege? I ask you to drink a toast to my betrothed, Beverly Calhoun, the future Princess of Dawsbergen."



"I have won your love by the fairest means."

Every glass was raised and the toast drunk amid ringing cheers. The military band crashed out the air so dear to all Americans, especially to southern hearts. Beverly was too overcome to speak.

"You all"— she exclaimed.

There was a tremendous commotion in the gallery. People were standing in their seats half frightened and amused, their attention attracted by the unusual scene. A portly negress, totally unconscious of the sensation she was causing, her feet keeping time to the lively strains of music, was frantically waving a red and yellow bandanna handkerchief. It was Aunt Fanny, and in a voice that could be heard all over the banquet hall she shouted: "Good Lawd, honey, ef der ain't playin' 'Away Down South In Dixie!' Hooray! Hooray!"

• • • • • • •

Hours later Beverly was running, confused and humbled, through the halls to her room, when a swifter one than she came up and checked her flight.

"Beverly!" cried an eager voice. She slackened her pace and glanced over her shoulder. The smiling, triumphant face of Baldos met her gaze. The upper hall was almost clear of people. She was strangely frightened, distressingly diffident. Her door was not far away, and she would have reached it in an instant later had he not laid a restraining, compelling hand upon her arm. Then she turned to face him, her lips parted in protest. "Don't look at me in that way!" he cried imploringly. "Come, dearest, come with me. We can be alone in the nook at the end of the hall. Heavens, I am the happiest being in all the world. It has turned out as I have prayed it should."

She allowed him to lead her to the darkened nook. In her soul she was wondering why her tongue was so powerless. There were a hundred things she wanted to say to him, but now that the moment had come she was voiceless. She only could look helplessly at him. Joy seemed to be paralyzed within her. It was as if she slept and could not be awakened. As she sank upon the cushion he dropped to his knee before her, his hand clasping hers with a fervor that thrilled her with life. As he spoke her pulses quickened and the blood began to race furiously.

"I have won your love, Beverly, by the fairest means. There has never been an hour in which I have not been struggling for this glorious end. You gave yourself to me when you knew I could be nothing more than the humblest soldier. It was the sacrifice of love. You will forgive my presumption—my very insolence, dear one—when I tell you that my soul is the forfeit I pay. It is yours through all eternity. I love you. I can give you the riches of the world as well as the wealth of the heart. The vagabond dies; your poor humble follower gives way to the supplicating prince. You would have lived in a cot as the guardsman's wife. You will take the royal palace instead."

Beverly was herself again. The spell was gone. Her eyes swam with happiness and love. The suffering her pride had sustained was swept into a heap labeled romance, and she was rejoicing.

"I hated you tonight, I thought," she cried, taking his face in her hands. "It looked as though you had played a trick on me. It was mean, dear. I couldn't help thinking that you had used me as a plaything, and it—it made me furious. But it is different now. I see, oh, so plainly. And just as I had resigned myself to the thought of spending the rest of my life in a cottage, away outside the pale of this glorious life! Oh, it is like a fairy tale!"

"Ah, but it was not altogether a trick, dear one. There was no assurance that I could regain the throne—not until the very last. Without it I should have been the beggar instead of the prince. We would have lived in a hovel, after all. Fortune was with me. I deceived you for months, Beverly—my Beverly—but it was for the best. In defense of my honor and dignity, however, I must tell you that the princess has known for many days that I am Dantan. I told her the truth when Christobal came that day with the news. It was all well enough for me to pass myself off as a vagabond, but it would have been unpardonable to foist him upon her as the prince."

"And she has known for a week?" cried Beverly in deep chagrin.

"And the whole court has known."

"I alone was blind?"

"As blind as the proverb. Thank God, I won your love as a vagabond. I can treasure it as the richest of my princely possessions. You have not said that you will go to my castle with me, dear."

She leaned forward unsteadily, and he took her in his eager arms. Their lips met, and their eyes closed in the ecstasy of bliss. After a long time she lifted her lids, and her eyes of gray looked solemnly into his dark ones.

"I have much to ask you about, many explanations to demand, sir," she said threateningly.

"By the rose that shields my heart, you shall have the truth," he laughed back at her. "I am still your servant. My enlistment is endless. I shall always serve your highness."

"Your highness!" she murmured reflectively. Then a joyous smile of realization broke over her face. "Isn't it wonderful?"

"Do you think your brothers will let me come to Washington now?" he asked teasingly.

"It does seem different, doesn't it?" she murmured, with a strange little smile. "You will come for me?"

"To the ends of the earth, your highness."

LOCAL MEN IN MINING CONCERN

Substantial Business Men Connected With Casey Mountain and Developing Co.

In this issue will be found the announcement of the Casey Mountain Mining and Development Company, Ltd., stating that there will appear in tomorrow and Saturday's issues particulars concerning their mining properties.

An important factor to be considered in a mining proposition is the management, as as three of the directors of the company are well known local men it can be stated that they are successful business and professional men of high repute. Mr. G. G. Williamson was formerly a successful insurance man of this city for several years, who gave up an important position in the West in order to promote the interests of the company he is now president of. Jas. Thompson, the vice-president is a very successfu merchant of Havelock, Ont. and is also warden of the county of Peterborough. Dr. H. A. Wood, the secretary-treasurer is a well known young dentist of this city. Mr. D. Williamson, the superintendent, who has personal charge of the development is a practical mining man of fifteen years' experience in different parts of the Western States.

These men have gone into this mining venture with the object of developing a paying proposition rather than a stock-jobbing affair, and are no doubt being rewarded for their labors as it appears they have a very promising mine which should with further development become a permanent paying proposition.

BOARD OF WORKS CONSIDERED PROGRAMME FOR THE SEASON

A meeting of the Board of Works was held last night when there were present Ald. Phelan, chairman; Mayor Rush, and Aldermen McIntyre, Butler, Morgan, Elliott and Bradburn. A considerable portion of the evening was spent in considering the work to be undertaken during the present and the results of the annual spring tour on Tuesday.

Mrs. Dunford and Mr. Stock petitioned that the sidewalk on Sherbrooke street, south side, between Bethune and Rubidge streets be built outside the trees. This petition was signed by seven-eights of the property owners, whereas a former petition signed by two-thirds of the property owners interested asked for the sidewalk to be constructed inside the trees, and in accordance with the latter petition this work was advertised and granted. The Board promised to give their earnest consideration to this matter, but whatever action is taken will be in accordance with the will of the majority, of the ratepayers interested.

Regarding the work the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. will be asked to confirm a letter received by the council of last year from Mr. Larmouth in which the company agreed to pay the cost of grading the street railway roadbed if the city undertake such work at the time they are grading the remainder of the roads on which such tracks are laid.

Another meeting of the Board will be held this week.

MR. BRADBURN REPLIES TO MR. GILLESPIE'S PROPOSITION

Will Conduct the Contest in West Peterborough in Strict Accordance With the Provisions of the Law—Extraordinary Methods Not Necessary.

The Review has received a copy of a letter sent to Mr. G. A. Gillespie, by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, MPP, regarding a proposition made by the Liberal candidate regarding the forthcoming provincial elections. It is as follows;

Peterborough, April 29th, 1908.
G. A. Gillespie, Esq.,
Peterborough, Ont.,

Dear Sir,—Your favor of the 20th inst. was duly received. Absence from the city on that and the day following; public duties on Wednesday and further absence later prevented me replying earlier.

Your letter was not stated to be an "open" one. I took it to be private, and I was surprised to find that you, expecting to gain a little political advantage, or capital had published it, and that it was later referred to in the Examiner as "open."

Referring to the matter of your communication, I quite agree that the contest in West Peterborough as in every other constituency should be carried on in strict accordance with the provisions of the law and in this way only, in the present as in the past, shall I conduct the contest.

I am unaware thatt any such extraordinary methods as you propose for accomplishing that end have ever been adopted elsewhere, and I should consider that we both would be stultifying ourselves by entering into an arrangement of this kind.

I see no reason for even hinting that any improper means will be used in the coming contest by either of us. I therefore beg to decline yoru proposal but I will certainly prosecute anyone breaking the law.

Yours truly,
T. E. BRADBURN

"A DAY IN FLOWERDOM" GREETED WITH BIG CROWD

Spectacular Operetta Presented at Conservatory Music Hall Last Evening by One Hundred and Fifty People—A Great Success—Will be Repeated This Evening.

"A Day in Flowerdom," an operetta in two scenes was presented to a crowded house at the Conservatory Music hall last evening by one hundred and fifty young people under the personal direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon. Every member of the caste and chorus performed their parts admirably and Mr. Gliddon and his staff deserve great credit for their untiring efforts in training the children. They must indeed felt gratified at the success which they achieved. It was an appreciative audience and the applause accorded the different members was generous and insistent. Everyone seemed thoroughly pleased and pronounced "A Day in Flowerdom" the prettiest thing that Mr. Gliddon has yet put on in the new Conservatory hall.

The staging, dancing and singing were all excellent. As the curtain rose on the first scene a picture extremely beautiful was presented to the audience. The rear of the stage was hung with green tapestry and evergreens. On either side in tiers, sat the chorus of boys and girls, representing Golden Rod, Carnations, Orchids, Roses, Sweet Peas, Geraniums and many other varieties of flower. The whole effect was a brilliant and entrancing spectacle.

THE STORY.

The first scene is laid in Rose Arbor on the morning of the Floral Queen's Reception, and the Flowers are preparing for the event. The second scene is held in the Violet Gardens at Twilight, and the Queen's Reception is in full sway. After her coronation, an entertainment is given for the occasion. The Queen sings "The Moon's Lullaby," and all respond with a good night song

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Mr. Jacque Rose, Mayor of Rose Arbor—Herbert Rush.

Mme. Rose, his wife—Miss Grace Todd.

Pink Rose and White Rose— Their daughters—Geraldine Rudkins, and Nellie Hallahan.

Flora, Queen of Flowerdom—Miss Mona O'Shea.

Mlle. Cricket, a Prima Donna — Jessie Callender.

Miss Moss Rose, a Spinster— Miss Pearl Morgan.

Miss Lilac, Miss Daisy, Miss Blue Bell—Buds of Rose Arbor —Ethel Morrison, Jessie Cressman, Margaret Sanderson.

Mr. Sunflower, a gay bachelor—James O'Brien.

Mr. Pansy, master of ceremonies—Alex Fortye.

SCENE I

The first scene opened with a dance by a number of little tots, followed by the opening chorus, "June is here with all Her Roses," by the entire one hundred and fifty voices.

The song "The Conceited Frog," by Papa Jacque, Mme. Jacque, daughters and chorus was particularly well rendered. Mr. Herb Rush as Papa Jacque, acted his part most effectively. His singing too, was pleasing and the delineation of his role was all that could be desired. Miss Grace Todd, as Mme. Jacque played her part admirably and sang well; Misses Nellie Halliban and Geraldine Rudkins as the Pink and White Roses looking exceedingly pretty and their duet "Singing Birds," was received with rounds of applause and they were favored with an encore.

Miss Pearl Morgan as "Miss Moss Rose," a spinster, and Mr. James O'Brien, as "Mr. Sunflower," a gay bachelor, supplied the comedy element of the operetta. They were irresistably funny and kept the audience in fits of laughter. Miss Morgan's solo "The fuzzy caterpillar" was well rendered and was greeted with prolonged applause.

The first scene closed with the chorus, "All Hail to our Floral Queen."

The costumes of the young performers were of variegated hues and lent attractiveness and grandeur to the scene.

SECOND SCENE

This opens with the Queen's Reception and the chorus "Flora, Our Queen," Miss Mona O'Shea as "Queen Flora," makes her first appearance on the stage in this scene. She looked charming in her festal robes. Her singing of the "Spring" song and "The Moon's Lullaby," was excellent. Miss O'Shea possesses a sweet soprano voice which was shown to advantage in her solo solo work last evening.

After the coronation of the Queen the following programme is rendered, Master Alex Fortye as "Mr. Pansy, master of ceremonies," announcing each number;

Song—"The Emblem of Truth"—Mlle. Crickett.

Chorus of Bees.

"Reading the Gossip"—Miss Maud Titterson.

Chorus of Butterflies.

Dance of Orioles.

Song—"Violet"— Miss Jean Anderson

Chorus—"The Water Carriers."

Thistle Dance—Master O'Shea.

Carnation Song— Miss Lenore Lyle

Chorus of Daisies.

Dance of the Rose Buds.

Pansy Song.

Recitation—Miss Carrie White.

Song—"Spring."

Song and Chorus —"The Moon's Lullaby." —Queen and chorus.

Finale—"Good Night."

Space will not permit to particularize each number. Everyone was exceedingly well given and received a large share of applause. However, it would not do to let little Jessie Callender's solo, "The Emblem of Truth," pass without a word of praise. For a child of her years, she possesses a strong voice. She was forced to respond with an encore.

The dances were very pleasing and were given with a grace and precision of movement that is seldom seen in young performers.

The "Pansy" and "Daisy" choruses were beautiful. In the first one Miss Loretta Kelly sang a solo very acceptably and in the second one the solo parts of the song, "That's what the Pansy said," were taken by little Misses Margt. Hewson and Margt Sanderson.

EIGHT HOUR DAY SCHEDULE GOES INTO EFFECT TOMORROW

Bricklayers and Stonemasons Are Affected—May Day Finds Everything Harmonious in Connection With Local Labor Circles

To-morrow, "May Day," will pass in Peterborough without practically any dissention in labor circles. As far as can be learned all is peace and harmony between capital and labor as far as local conditions are concerned.

The only change that will go into effect in Peterborough tomorrow regarding the schedule or working hours or wages is in connection with the bricklayers and stonemasons. To-morrow they start upon an eight hour day, but upon the same wages as last year, namely, 40 cents per hour. The eight hour day rule was made by the International Union and the local union has to abide by it. The bricklayers and stonemasons cannot work more than eight hours per day whereas formerly they worked nine hours. The new schedule simply means that the members of the local union will be short forty cents per day in their pay as compared with last year.

PRICE OF MILK WILL DROP THIS YEAR ON MAY 15TH

Here's joyful new for Peterborough householders.

On Friday, May 15th, the price of milk in the city will go down to six cents per quart. At present it is selling at seven cents having been put up to this figure last fall.

In past years it has been customary for the milk men to reduce the price a cent per quart on May 1st, and many householders were inquiring this morning if the drop was going to take place. This spring, however, the reduction will not take place until May 15th, owing to the lateness of the season. The grass is very late and the cows have not yet been turned out. The milkmen are feeding just as much now as they were a month ago, and consequently there is no change in the cost of production.

AN INTERESTING LETTER; REV. MR. POGUE'S REPLY

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I gather from your editorial in to-night's issue that one of the chief objections to advanced legislation on the liquor traffic is, that it is an unwarrantable interference with men's personal liberties. But is this a fair way of stating the matter? I grant it that the inference which one might draw from much that is said and written by temperance people looks in the direction of an infringement of the liberties of those who use intoxicating liquors. But the prohibitionist says to no man; "Thou shalt not drink." He neither says it, nor has the right to say it. There are laws, however, on the statute books of every civilized country that interfere with the liberties of people on certain matters of drink. The laws, for example, will punish a man who attempts to take his life by drinking poison. Neither the laws of God nor the laws of a civilized people will give a man the right to do what he pleases with his life. The law of God for every man is; You are not your own. So, also, is it the law of society. We live, not for ourselves, but for others. And it is the recognition of this law, that makes an attempt at suicide a punishable offence. So that it is already a fact that our laws do curtail men's liberties. And the more highly civilized a country is the more numerous are such laws when their object is the greatest good to the greatest number.

But a prohibitory law does not say that a man shall not drink. It virtually says to a man, "Drink as much as you like, if you can get it." But you cannot gratify your abnormal thirst by trampling upon the liberties of those who believe that the drink traffic is a curse and ought not to exist." It says, if this matter is to be determined on "personal liberty" grounds then the traffic must be abolished. A majority of our people do not want the bar room. They regard it as a nuisance, an unclean spot in our civilisation, ten thousand times more dangerous than the filthy yards, which our town council insists, and rightly so, must be cleaned by the 15th of May. They regard it as a menace to their children, a plague spot in the community. A man is not permitted to keep pigs within certain limits in the city. Why? Why interfere with the personal liberties of those who want to keep pigs? Because the gratification of their hobby, or the enjoyment of their luxury would be an infringement on the liberties of their neighbors who may not like the odor of pig pens and who believe the health of the community would be endangered thereby. The liquor traffic can only exist at the expense of all tax payers. All, alike, must support the poor house it creates, the asylums it fills, and the gaols it populates. Whose liberties are being injured by allowing the traffic to exist? The man who wants the music ought to pay the fiddler. But the liquor traffic compels drinker, and non-drinker, alike, to pay for its music. (What a hellish discord it makes!) Whose liberties, I again ask, are being infringed? What right has the drinker in order to satisfy his thirst, to place next door to me, or on the street along which my children must travel daily, a moral pest house, and then compel me to pay, in taxes, for the ruin it creates.

The last sentence in your editorial should never have been written. It is not the plan of the Creator Himself that sin should exist. Christ was manifested to destroy the works of the devil. And if man would only give him a chance, if he would only cease to sin and yield himself to be God's co-worker in destroying the works of satan, sin would be annihilated as quickly as the prohibitionist would annihilate the bar-room if he were given the power.

A serious accident was narrowly averted today at noon at the corner of George and Murray streets. A little girl of about seven years of age was attempting to cross the street. However, in her excitement the little girl did not notice Mr. W. Vickers driving north. She stumbled and fell at the horse's feet and escaped serious injury by the narrowest margin.

BIBLE STUDY ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Mr R. McMurdo Will be in Charge ---Many Heard Speakers Last Night

Mr. R. McMurdo will have charge of the public Bible Study in Gospel Hall Friday night. "The Resurrection," will be the study. Mr. McMurdo will open the discussion with short address showing the manner and the time—not as to date—after which the meeting will be open for conversations. Questions from any present concerning the subject will be answered from scripture. For ten minutes prior to Mr. Murdo's address, Mr. John Murdock of McGill College, Montreal, will speak on the "Christians proof of Resurrection."

The two preachers gave very helpful addresses last night, many more being present than on the first night. Mr. McMurdo spoke from John 21, dealing with the influence each had on the other. Peter said "I go fishing." The others said "We go also." The speaker showed how fruitless is work when the big "I" figures. "They toiled all night and caught nothing, but with the morning came Jesus, and stood on the shore. With Him to direct matters results are very different, so it is in every day life. If we would be successful it must be as obedient servants. First obedient to the "Glorious gospel," by which men and women are made sons and daughters of God. Then obedient all God's requirements as found in the various epistles of the new testament. Mr. McMurdo said obedience made happy christians. Long, sour faces on christians give the Lord a bad name. As the child is a picture of the parent, so the christians of today should be pictures of Christ. Whatsoever our hands find to do, do it with out might and be happy and joyous all the time. Mr. Murdock spoke for about fifteen minutes on "Casting all your care upon Christ for He careth for you." It was a delightful exposition of a well-known but little practiced truth. On Sunday at four o'clock in the afternoon Mr. McMurdo will give an account of the great revival in Norway, having spent three years there.

HURTUBISE WINS EASILY ON TWO STRAIGHT FALLS

Local Heavyweight Champion Springs Big Surprise in Bout With Frank Kennedy, of New York.

First Fall 7 Minutes, Second 18 Minutes---American's Fine Defence Work---Peterborough Man Too Strong for Him--Some Excellent Preliminaries for City Championships.

Gene Hurtubise certainly showed great form against Frank Kennedy, of New York, in their heavyweight wrestling bout at the Grand Opera House last night. The local giant mat artist had it on his opponent all the time. He got right after him from the first tap of the gong. Kennedy contested fiercely against "Gene," but was never for a moment dangerous, the latter displaying a strength that was little short of marvellous.

The big audience, and it certainly was a big one for a wrestling bout, was composed mostly of local persons who had great confidence in Peterborough's young wrestler, and who thought his chances were good against the formidable American. They based their opinions on the showing of the two in Toronto, and with that to go by, it was pretty hard to figure out which man had the better show to win.

A COMPLETE SURPRISE.

While Hurtubise, who is known as an unusually strong man, was thought to have a good chance, the issue of the battle was by no means certain, and every single spectator present last night, who followed the details of the first combat between the two, was prepared to settle back in his seat and watch a strenuous and even struggle between two heavy and scientific gladiators. What was the surprise of everyone, then, when Hurtubise got his man on the mat a minute or two after the first call of time and obtained the two falls in twenty-five minutes. Kennedy, doubled, rolled and spun with lightning skill and alacrity, but his clever work couldn't save him. It was quite apparent that he was up against a much stronger opponent and that it was only a matter of time when victory would be in the hands of the Peterborough stalwart.

KENNEDY'S SCIENCE.

Despite the fact that he was outclassed, Kennedy is not a man to be passed by lightly. He has a great many important victories to his credit, gained during his professional wrestling career, and is a very strong and thoroughly seasoned exponent of the mat game. What he can do in the matter of attack was not known last night, as Hurtubise had him on the carpet practically all the time, but he certainly shone in defence work. His head spinning was especially brilliant, and he extricated himself by that method from what often looked like a sure fall. The audience were not slow either to applaud him for his good work. Taken altogether he gave about the nicest exhibition of defensive wrestling ever seen in Peterborough.

HURTUBISE'S STRENGTH.

Hurtubise was fresh and strong during the entire go, and did not appear in the least fatigued by his heavy efforts. He worked hard and fast on Kennedy, and struggled with him in all positions. The latter, however, was the more exhausted man of the two after each fall, although both were in a condition to wrestle a great deal longer if called upon to do so.

Hurtubise threw Kennedy around in a manner that fairly took the breath away from the audience and showed a marked superiority in the way of physical strength.

He clapped on hold after hold with great rapidity, and the New Yorker seemed unable to resist against him getting whatever bar or lock he chose, but, as before stated, did some really commendable work in spinning and doubling when the holds had been secured.

DIFFERENCE IN MEN.

Hurtubise and Kennedy are two wrestlers of an altogether different type. The New York German is considerably shorter than "Gene," and much more compact in build. He is big all over, with a good chest and back, and thick, heavily muscled neck. He has the appearance of being the stronger man of the two, when both are stripped for action.

Hurtubise, towering above his opponent, had the advantage over him in the matter of weight and strength. It could be seen at a glance that the sinewy French-Canadian was in the best of trim, and he wrestled faster and with greater skill than he ever had before.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT.

Kennedy was given a very severe beating at the hands of his antagonist. He was simply powerless to resist it and during the night struggled hard to get out of many painful and wearing punishment holds, which Hurtubise applied very freely. It was only his great bridging and spinning that saved him from being pinned in very short order. Hurtubise used some very effective toe and head holds and got the strangle when it looked as if Kennedy's goose had been cooked, but even managed to get away from his most feared of all holds.

GREAT FOR SPECTATORS.

From a spectator's standpoint the bout was an ideal one. It was a fast and fierce one and neither wrestler lagged a moment. In fact Hurtubise gave his man no chance to rest and had him in danger all the time. The big heavyweight was out for the victory as soon as possible and spared no pains to accomplish his object. A continuous hum of excitement was heard amongst the audience all the time and frequent outbursts of applause told of its appreciation of good work on the part of either men.

Although "Gene" was naturally the favorite, the crowd gave Kennedy credit whenever he did any worthy stunts.

THE PRELIMINARIES.

The preliminaries were enjoyed by the audience, plenty of excitement being furnished in the three bouts put on. The two wrestling bouts ended in a draw, while the boxing bout was stopped in the second round Corney Burns putting it all over Glover, his opponent, and having him at his mercy when the bout was stopped. Mr. G. N. Graham acted as referee of the preliminaries to the satisfaction of everybody.

LONG-CROWE BOUTE.

The go between Bobby Long and Ted Crowe for the 135 lb. championship of the city, was an interesting one and both men showed much skill and speed. They both had some close calls and each succeeded in getting a fall. Crowe got the first fall in 10 minutes and 40 seconds on a full Nelson.

Long went after his man on the next fall and succeeded in pinning him on a hammer-lock and crotch, doing the trick in eight minutes.

Half an hour was allowed altogether for the bout and the twelve minutes left were wrestled without a fall.

A QUIET GO.

J. Crough and J. Wilson next came together for the 145 lb. city championship. From the way they commenced it looked as though the contest would be a lively one but once on the mat Crough assumed the defensive and Wilson found it impossible to do anything with him, Crough proving too strong for him.

Wilson did all the work, but to no effect, and at the conclusion of the half hour Referee Graham declared the bout a draw.

NICE FOR BURNS.

Corney Burns and "Nobby" Glover, an Englishman, next stepped on the stage for a three-round bout. From the first the bout was quite apparently Burns'. He jabbed his man as often as he wanted to and fought him off the mat several times. At the end of the first round he had been easily outpointed.

In the second round Burns stepped around Glover in a way that showed the son of Albion had no chance and the referee very wisely called the bout off, giving Burns the decision.

TEN MINUTES INTERVAL.

Announcer George Lynch informed the audience at the conclusion of the Burns-Glover bout that there would be a ten minute interval to allow for the smoothing out and filling up of the mat. During the wait the orchestra played and its presence during the evening had the effect of brightening things up during the rests.

MEN WELL RECEIVED.

When the mat had been put in condition for the bout both men were introduced. They were given a hearty reception by the audience, Hurtubise, of course, being the best received. Referee called the contestants to the centre of the mat and the most important wrestling mill Peterborough has ever witnessed was in readiness to start.

"GENE" HURTUBSE

Who threw Kennedy twice last night in 8 and 12 minutes respectively

FIRST FIVE MINUTES.

The men stayed in the centre of the mat for some time. Hurtubise pulled Kennedy down and slipped a neck and crotch hold on him which the latter broke. "Gene" was doing all the aggressive work and forced Kennedy hard. The New York man got away from a locked half Nelson on a fine head spin. Kennedy did the work for a short time, but could get no holds on his opponent and was soon the under man again.

FALL IN 7 MINUTES.

Hurtubise put the scissors and half Nelson on Kennedy and held him in a tenacious grip. The latter struggled and panted to get away, but "Gene" had him in an octopus-like hold and stayed with him till his shoulders touched. The referee slapped the Peterborough representative on the back and the crowd cheered wildly.

KENNEDY'S GOOD DEFENCE.

Kennedy sidled around Hurbutise in an endeavor to get behind the big fellow's back, but couldn't make it. The latter seized him and brought him to his knees. Kennedy was doing some head spinning and doubling that earned him much applause. Hurtubise tossed him over on his neck but Kennedy rolled out of the hold before his points touched.

SCISSORS HOLD.

Kennedy got "Gene" in a mighty dangerous position by securing the scissors around his neck, but Hurtubise drew out of it. "Gene" put the scissors and half Nelson on Kennedy, but the latter managed to break it after some hard struggling.

FRANK KENNEDY

Who Will Meet Hurtubise Again in a Handicap Bout the Latter to Throw Him Four Times in an Hour.

Kennedy spun out of a neck and crotch. Hurtubise came pretty close to getting a hammerlock, but his opponent wriggled away from him.

HURTUBISE GETS STRANGLE.

After wrestling eleven minutes of the second fall Hurtubise got the strangle. The crowd was breathless while the American was slowly forced back on the hold Hurtubise having it from behind with both men on the mat. Kennedy, however, managed to get away from the hook in miraculously good style.

THE SECOND FALL.

It was quite easy to see that Hurtubise was fetching his man, he applied hold after hold, Kennedy spinning or doubling at the critical moment and thus staving off defeat for some time longer. At last Hurtubise fastened a half Nelson and crotch on him, and after making this hold secure commenced to turn him. He came by degrees until his shoulders touched and the best wrestling match ever seen in this city was over with "Gene" Hurtubise the winner. One hundred dollars a side was at stake, Mr. J. Dwyer, of Lindsay, acted as referee for the principal bout.

"GENE" TAKES BIG CONTRACT

Will Endeavor to Throw Kennedy Four Times in an Hour--Articles Signed

At the conclusion of the bout with Hurtubise last night Kennedy expressed himself as dissatisfied with the decisions of Referee J. Dwyer, of Lindsay, and claimed he had not been given a square deal. He said Hurtubise was a much bigger and stronger man than he, and offered to take him on in a handicap bout, Hurtubise to throw him three times in an hour.

Mr. Chris Graham accepted the challenge on behalf of Hurtubise, and both men agreed on Mr. George N. Graham, who so efficiently handled last night's preliminaries, as referee. Conditions for the match were drawn up and signed by both men. The bout will take place in Peterborough and will be for a purse of $50 and for $100 a side. Pin falls will be for five seconds.

IS IT POSSIBLE FOR "GENE" TO WIN THE HANDICAP BOUT?

There is much speculation as to whether Hurtubise can throw Kennedy four times in an hour. There is no doubt that "Gene" has much on the New York wrestler, but it is a big undertaking he is trying when he takes it upon himself to attempt to throw him four times in an hour, an average of a fall in every fifteen minutes in four consecutive falls.

KENNEDY'S CHANCE.

Kennedy is a splendid handicap wrestler, as was proven by his great defence work on the mat last night, and on account of this should make an excellent handicap wrestler. It must be remembered that in a handicap bout he will simply have to cover up and protect himself against Hurtubise's holds, and will not have to be in the least aggressive. In case he does get a fall, however, the bout is his, as is the rule in all handicap matches.

HURTUBISE CONFIDENT.

The local heavyweight wrestler thinks his chances to defeat Kennedy in the four times an hour contest are good, and the match will without a doubt be a great one. The local followers of the game will look forward to it with great eagerness.

MONSTROSITY IS REPORTED

A Calf With Two Heads—Lived Only an Hour

Mr. Jack Gibson, assistant to Dr. Johnston, the Chambers street veterinary surgeon, reports a monstrosity in the form of a two headed calf, which was given birth to this morning on the farm of Mr. Thomas Hunter, Monaghan.

One of the heads of the calf was in a normal position while the other was growing out of one of its shoulders. The birth of a two-headed animal of any kind is very unusual, although other instances of a similar character to the one noted above have come under the notice of the veterinary profession.

The calf lived only about an hour after it was born.

RUNAWAY THAT WAS EXCITING

Mr. Ed. Kuyler Thrown Out of Buggy—Shaft Broken and Harness Damaged

An exciting runaway occurred on George street north this afternoon, when Mr. Ed. Kuyler, residing near Millbrook was thrown out of his buggy, the horse becoming frightened at a fire that was burning near the roadside.

Mr. Kuyler had his clothes badly delapidated and was somewhat shaken up but not seriously injured. One of the shafts of the buggy was broken and the harness was also damaged to quite an extent. The horse was stopped about half a mile north of where Mr. Kuyler was thrown out of the buggy.

GAME OF CHARACTERS.

An Amusing Pastime That May Also Be Instructive.

A game played by any number of persons, one of whom leaves the room while the others agree on some historical character he is to represent. He is then called back, and each player asks him a question or makes a remark to him. From these questions he must try to guess what character he is supposed to represent, and if he succeeds the person whose question gave him the clew must represent the next character.

The questions are usually put so as to puzzle the guessers as much as possible. For instance, if Washington be the character agreed upon one player may ask, "Do rifle balls bound from you as if you were made of rubber?" (referring to his remarkable escape in the French and Indian wars). Another may say, "Do you think midwinter the best time for crossing rivers?" (referring to the crossing of the Delaware). And another, "Have you outgrown your early fondness for cutting wood?" (referring to the cherry tree). Instead of choosing a historical character persons well known to the company are sometimes selected, which is more amusing.

THE SCOLDING SQUIRREL.

What Came of His Always Finding Fault With Things.

Once there was a squirrel that did not like his home, and he used to scold and find fault with everything. His papa squirrel had long gray whiskers and so was wise, besides which he could shake his whiskers quickly. He said to the squirrel: "My dear, as you do not like your home there is one of three sensible things you could do—leave it or change it or suit yourself to it. Any one of these would help you in your trouble."

But the little squirrel said: "Oh, I do not want to do any of these. I had rather sit on the branch of a tree and scold."

"Well," said the papa squirrel, "if you must do that, whenever you want to scold just go out on a branch and scold away at some one you do not know."

The little squirrel blushed so much that he became a red squirrel, and you will notice that to this day red squirrels do just that thing.—St. Nicholas.

The Sailor and His Ship.

Here I stand in my seaman's coat—
  Hurrah for a man like me!
My boat is the stoutest craft afloat
  On the blue, blue, blue, blue sea.
When the wind blows high she rocks and dips,
  But never a fear have I,

For I know my ship is the best of ships
  'Neath the blue, blue, blue, blue sky.
So come, you kids, and go with me,
  A sailor's life to try
On the blue, blue, blue, blue, blue, blue sea,
  'Neath the blue, blue, blue, blue sky!
—Washington Star.

Pupil of the Eye.

A thinking boy once asked why it is that the pupil of the eye is sometimes smaller than it is at other times. He has stood before a mirror at night and noticed that when he moved a lamp that he held in his hand to the right or the left the pupil became larger, but when he moved the lamp close to his eye the pupil became smaller. This is explained by the fact that the iris of the eye, the colored spot in the middle of which the pupil is, is a sort of curtain, which stretches or contracts as the eye may be in a bright light or the dark. In a bright light the iris stretches so as to make the pupil smaller, because too much light pains the nerves, but in the dark the iris contracts or shrinks and thus enlarges the pupil so as to let in more rays of light. If you will look at the eyes of a cat or an owl, you will see that the pupil is quite narrow in the daytime, but at night it becomes much larger. That is why they can see so well in the dark.

Miniature Fountain.

Take an ounce vial and fill it three-quarters full of water; then make a hole in the cork and insert a small tube or a stout piece of straw. The opening must be as small as possible; the tube must reach nearly to the bottom of the vial, and the cork must be pushed in tight.

Now, if you blow into the tube the air will be compressed in the upper part of the bottle, and when your lips are taken away a little fountain will play from the tube for a short time.

I wish to state, for the sake of others who may be sufferers like I was, that I suffered from severe indigestion and constipation for years and that there was also womb trouble with unpleasant pains in my back which made me miserable, constantly. "Fruit-a-tives" quickly relieved the constipation and indigestion and completely cured me of all symptoms of womb trouble. I cannot express too strongly my great gratitude to this medicine as I am as well now in every way as ever I was, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives". I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives", it is easy to take and the effect is always mild like fruit.

TEMPERANCE MEETINGS IN CENTRAL PARK

A union meeting of the Royal Templars and the City Temperance League was held last evening in the Royal Templars' Hall. It was largely attended and the chair was taken by Rev. C. H. Coon pastor of Mark street Methodist church. Various phases of temperance work were taken up and discussed. It was decided to ask the Ministerial Association to co-operate with the Royal Templars and City Temperance League in advancing pledge signing among the citizens. The matter of holding public temperance meetings on Sunday afternoons was taken up and discussed. It was though that it would be advisable to hold these meetings in Central Park throughout the summer months and a committee consisting of Mrs. Gurney, Mrs. Martin, and Messrs Andrew Brown and Wm. Carey were appointed to look after the matter and report at the next meeting.

NEW SLICE OF EMPIRE.

Siam Ceding Large Area of Territory to Great Britain.

A large slice of territory is to be added to the British Empire without a shot being fired. Negotiations are now pending between Great Britain and Siam which have, says Reuter, been in progress at Bangkok for some time. When they are completed the cession of territory referred to will take effect. The negotiations referred to were initiated by Siam, which desired a modification of British extra-territorial rights. In return, Siam is prepared to cede the two outlying states of Kelantan and Tringano, which are adjacent to the British Malay States, and in which there are important British interests. The States of Kelantan and Tringano are two tributory provinces of Siam, the former being administered by a Siamese Commissioner, assisted by an English adviser appointed by the Bangkok Government. It is natural that both these provinces should be under British control, as they are contiguous to the British Malay States, and are determined as within the British sphere of influence by the Franco-Siamese Treaty of 1906. The two states referred to cover an area of between 8,000 and 9,000 square miles. As regards Kelantan, there are valuable British interests. The Duff Development Company owns a concession of some 2,500 square miles of the country, obtained from the Rajah of Kelantan, supported by the British Government and ratified in 1902 by the Siamese Government, in which year the Rajah of Kelantan acknowledged Siamese suzerainty. Subsequent to this, however, differences arose between the Government and the Company regarding the exercise by the latter of legislative and administrative rights (which were the subject of negotiation through the British Foreign Office until quite recently.) The country itself is little known, but is believed to be as well endowed by nature as the prosperous Malay Federated States. It is believed to be rich in gold and tin, and rubber growing has met with success. The Rajah of Kelantan, it is stated, would welcome British control. The State of Tringano is practically untrodden ground for the European. There are no roads, and the principal river, the Tringano, is rendered useless for navigation half-way on its course to the sea by a series of large waterfalls. The country to the west of these falls is practically uninhabited. Tin is, however, known to exist in the south. The political status of the country is to some extent indefinite. It is held by some that the Rajah of Tringano is an independent ruler, but the Siamese Government claims that Article 12 of the Anglo-Siamese suzerainty of 1826 implies Siamese suzerainty over the country. The extra-territorial rights of Great Britain in Siam which form the basis of the negotiations are those of consular jurisdiction conferred upon Great Britain by the treaty of 1856. These are, and always have been, a source of vexation and annoyance to the Siamese Government.

GIRL NEARLY LYNCHED.

Mob Mistook Her for Negro in the Darkness.

Catherine Rooks, twenty-three years old, was recently returned to her parents' home at Pittsburg by the authorities of Lawrence county after a most exciting experience. Miss Rooks, while in man's attire, was chased by a sheriff's posse in Lawrence county which was in search of a negro who had fatally stabbed his wife. In the darkness the girl was mistaken for the much-wanted negro and she narrowly escaped lynching. Her voice saved her as she was about to be hoisted on a rope by the mob.

The girl, whose family is poor, has a brother sick in Chicago, and a few days since she got the idea that she might beat her way on freight trains to Chicago to help him had she but boy's attire. Being of large frame, she secretly tried on the clothing of her uncle, and finding it fitted well she left a note in the house and started for Chicago. Soon she had gotten as far as Newcastle. In the dusk around the railway station, she was noticed by one who had been out with the sheriff all day looking for Robert Washington, whose wife is dying from knife wounds inflicted by him. The word soon passed that there was a "strange nigger man" about, and the posse was soon in full cry after Catherine, who, unhampered by skirts, fled like the wind. At the end of a mile she was brought to earth, exhausted and frightened almost to death, but she managed to scream a few times so lustily that the posse found it had no man to deal with. Miss Rooks was taken to Youngstown, Ohio, for the night and then taken back to Pittsburg.

Society Women Hunt Lions.

The Countess of Sefton, who recently shot her first lion in Abyssinia, is by no means the only society lady who has accomplished this unfeminine feat.

Mrs. Alan Gardner, accompanied by her late husband, explored not only India, but the wildest and most remote parts of Africa, including Somaliland, in search of big game, and is one of the very few women living who have hunted both lions and tigers.

Another adventurous sportswoman in society is the Duchess of Somerset, who has not only hunted bears in the western wilds of America, but perfectly revels in the rough life of camp, and is an expert in camp cookery.

Lady Delamere, and Lady Hindlip, who are equally daring shots, spent their honeymoons among the big game in East Africa.

Man, Poor Man!

"Man is but clay." It is the truth.
So we are taught in early youth.
The fast young man is termed a "brick,"
While the slow chap makes us sick.
The man who has a million made
Is clay of the high class grade,
But he who goes down with a thud
Is common clay—his name is "mud."

Orchard grass is richest in protein, being 4.9 to a hundred pounds, almost double that of timothy.

Siberia's Minerals.

Foremost among the minerals, etc., which Russians regard as the source of Siberia's future wealth are gold, iron, coking coal, manganese, copper, platinum, emeralds, topazes, asbestus, Glauber's salt, rock salt and in all probability naphtha.

Musical Notation.

The present system of musical notation was invented in the eleventh century.

Tarring and Feathering.

Tarring and feathering was once a legal punishment for theft. It is said to be found in the statutes of both England and France about the time of the Crusades.

Radium.

Radium acts upon the chemical constituents of glass, porcelain and paper, imparting to them a violet tinge; changes white phosphorus to yellow, oxygen to ozone, affects photograph plates and produces many other curious chemical changes.

Golf and Brains.

The radical type of golf enthusiast is exemplified in the retort of a St. Andrew's caddie to the university professor, "Onybody can teach a wheen loons Latin and Greek, but gowf, ye see, gowf requires a heid."

A Wise Student.

THREATENED TO USE A BUTCHER KNIFE AT WIFE

Wm. McGrath, Charged With Assaulting His Wife in Police Court This Morning—Judgment Reserved Until To-morrow.

Wm McGrath, who was remanded a week ago on a charge of assaulting his wife appeared before the magistrate this morning for hearing. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared on behalf of Mrs. McGrath while Mr. G. N. Gordon defended the prisoner. As the charge was assault, causing grievous bodily harm, Mr. Gordon did not object, but in the evidence adduced, only a common assault was proven. His Worship reserved judgment until tomorrow morning. In the meantime the counsel for each party will meet and draw up an agreement whereby Mrs. McGrath is given possession of the furniture and house and McGrath will live apart from her, although contributing to the support of his children.

Mrs. Mary McGrath was called and stated that they had been married fifteen years. She had a family of five children. On Tuesday, the 21st inst., at midnight her husband came home and started a quarrel simply because his wife would not get up and get him a hot supper. He choked her. "You will have to get out or I'll use the butcher knife," he said to the witness. The prisoner was swearing and cursing. He was drunk at the time. His little daughter went downstairs and got the supper ready for him. Then he wouldn't eat it until his wife went downstairs. He shoved her out the door and her arm was so badly injured that Dr. McGrath had to attend it. The prisoner gave his wife five minutes to get out. Partially dressed, Mrs. McGrath was forced to leave her home with her five children. They went to a neighbor's house where they remained for several days.

Mamie McGrath daughter of the prisoner was called and corroborated her mother's evidence.

"THE BARBER OF SEVILLE"

From the Toronto Globe regarding the Dunsmure Opera Co., who are at the Grand, matinee and night, Saturday, May 9;—"The Dunsmure English Opera Company presented at the Princess Theatre last night Rossini's opera comique, "The Barber of Seville," which has not been heard in this city since several years ago it was given by the Grau Opera Company with a cast that included Sembrich, Edouard de Reszke and Campanari. From a musical point of view the comic operas of the old Italian and French composers have not yet been approached in merit. The Dunsmure Opera Company is not a big company, but the "Barber of Seville" does not require a cast of more than seven or eight people, and the organization has every one of the characters well impersonated both vocally and dramatically. Mr. John Dunsmure, who took the role of the music master Basilio, proved a veritable surprise to the audience. He has a remarkably fine sonorous, even bass voice, and sings with rare finish and cleaness of delivery. Mme. Baldini showed herself to be quite competent to render the music of Rosina. She has the agility of the high soprano voice with the mezzo-soprano timbre. Pierre Gheradi as the Count Almaviva revealed a telling tenor voice with considerable flexibility, and Roman Klekko as Fagaro was bright and mercurial as an actor and vocally a most satisfactory exponent of the part. His aria, best known by its Italian title, 'Largo al Factotum,' was rendered with much sprightliness. Mme. Baldini, of course, made a triumph in her aria, "Una voce poco fa." She took the recognized traditional license in the music lesson scene by interpolating Arditi's "Il Bacio' ' waltz and Schubert's "Serenade," which were received with great enthusiasm. The orchestra was conducted by Mr. Jose Vandenburg, who throughout the evening demonstrated that he knew his score well and thoroughly understood his business."

MISS MARIE CLIFTON (Miss Brick) of Brantford, Ont. in "We Are King" Grand Opera House Saturday Matinee and Night.

Read what the News of Fall River, Mass., says regarding "We Are King," which appears at the Grand next Saturday, matinee and night.

An unusual surprise was afforded the patrons who witnessed the performance of "We Are King" at the Academy yesterday. The production is one of the best of its kind and style ever presented here. It is a story somewhat similar to Anthony Hope's "Prisoner of Zenda." William Clifford, who essayed the dual role of Hector, King of Kahnburg, and Gustavus Venner, is an actor of remarkable talents and versatility. He has a fine stage presence, clear, deep, and resonant voice, and sincerity rings true in his every sentence. Miss Maude Shaw as Princess Olivia, is sweet and pleasing. The balance of the company are capable and well chosen for their several roles.

The play in brief tells a story of one Hector, King of Kahnburg, whose people he has down-trodden with his excessive and riotous living, causing the principality to run heavily in debt. His prime minister succeeds in a plan to dethrone the king, by substituting a man who has been arrested in the province of the palace, who resembles his majesty. The plan succeeds only to discover that the substituted king proves to be the rightful ruler. There is a pretty love story throughout, which adds much interest and appeals most forcefully, especially to the ladies.

CATTLEMEN'S REQUEST WILL BE CAREFULLY CONSIDERED

Mr. H. P Kennedy Was Member of Deputation That Waited on Government Yesterday—Inspection Should be General.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, of this city, was a member of the Cattlemen's Association that waited upon the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa yesterday. The deputation asked that the Government make more adequate provision for the inspection of cattle in respect to tubercular and other diseases and also that in cases where inspectors find diseased cattle intended for export or sale in possession of dealers, the loss occasioned through the summary killing of these cattle be borne by the summary killing of these cattle be borne by the Dominion and not by the dealers who at the time happened to be in possession. The deputation pointed out that drovers in most cases had no recourse against the farmers from whom the cattle was purchased, and were not responsible for the fact that the cattle were diseased. A petition, signed by most of the prominent cattle dealers in Canada, in support of the deputation's request, was presented.

The cattlemen also pointed out that at the present time only the packing houses that turn out goods for the export trade are under the supervision of the government inspectors. The home trade is left unprotected with the result that the man who is not just sure about the condition of the cattle he wishes to dispose of will sell them to the man who is catering to the local trade, and not to the packing house that exports its products. An evil has thus been created and the cattlemen are desirous that the Government inspection shall be general. They are in sympathy with the government in its efforts to stamp out disease among cattle, and believe that it can be more effectively accomplished by having the government inspection general.

The deputation was received by the Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, and Dr. Rutherford, Veterinary Inspector for the Dominion. Hon. Mr. Fisher promised the cattlemen that their request would be given careful consideration.

PREMIER ASQUITH SUSTAINS PLEDGES FOR HOME RULE

Statement in British House of Commons Yesterday—Speeches Failed to Satisfy Irish Party—Free Trade, License Reform and Education.

London, May 1.—The Liberals held a party love feast at the Reform Club yesterday to welcome their new chief, Premier Asquith, and give him an opportunity of publishing a declaration of his policy.

Resolutions of loyalty to Mr. Asquith were adopted by acclamation, after which the Premier proceeded to outline his program. He nailed to the mast the flags of free trade, education, licensing, and old-age pensions, but he fought shy of home rule.

This is considered as confirmation of the rumors following the defeat of Winston Spencer Churchill in the northwest division of Manchester, that the Premier had notified him of his disapproval of Mr. Churchill's pledges to the Nationalists regarding home rule.

London, May 1.—Speaking in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon Premier Asquith justified his omission to mention home rule in his speech at the Liberal meeting held in the Reform Club, and gave a somewhat roundabout, although practically complete adhesion to the home rule pledges given by Winston Spencer Churchill during the recent electoral campaign at Manchester.

The subject was brought up by Walter Long, Conservative, who asked the Premier if Mr. Churchill's pledges had his sanction and authority, and if so, whether he would give the House an opportunity of discussing this change in the Government's policy.

Mr. Asquith replied: "There has been no change in the policy of the Government, which was fully explained by the Chief Secretary for Ireland and myself in this House on March 30. I did not autherize Mr. Churchill to make, and I am satisfied that he has not made, any statements inconsistent with the previous declarations of the Government. He did not say anything which I have not said expressly or by plain implication in my speech, and, therefore, his statements represent what I said."

Pressed to explain why, if this were so, the speeches of himself and Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell had failed to satisfy the Irish party, while Mr. Churchill's utterances had been quite satisfactory to them, Mr. Asquith muttered in reply a quite inaudible, but somewhat halting endorsement of Mr. Churchill.

LEGISLATURE OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Fifth Session Has Been Opened—There are Forty-Six Members

Fredericton, N. B., May 1.—The opening of the first session of the fifth Legislature of New Brunswick was graced by Governor Tweedie's staff, consisting of Gen. Drury, ten colonels, a major and a lieutenant, as well as the officers commanding guard of honor and firing party.

Over half of the 46 members of the new Legislature are to-day making their bow to the country as legislators, and they spent yesterday morning looking around the legislative buildings and getting used to their surroundings. At noon they were sworn in at the Assembly Chamber before Chief Justice [illegible].

The formal opening yesterday afternoon by the Lieutenant-Governor occurred at 2 o'clock, and Donald Morrison, M.P.P. of Northumberland, was elected Speaker on nomination of Premier Hazen, seconded by Provincial Secretary Fleming.

Court Sends No Criminals.

London, May 1.—(C.A.P.)—Replying to Lord Strathcona, who pointed out that Canada strongly resented sending persons who had shown criminal tendencies, the Lord Mayor of London said in the case mentioned by Lord Strathcona the lad was discharged on probation and there was no understanding that he be sent to Canada, although it was mentioned in court that the parents to give him a fresh start would send him to the Dominion. No prisoners had ever been sent to Canada from the Mansion House court.

Gomez Hailed by Electors.

Santiago, May 1.—Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, recently nominated for President of Cuba by the Miguelistas, arrived here yesterday and was given an enthusiastic reception, not only by the residents of the city, but by country delegations. Many of these were negroes. Arrangements have been made for the feting of Gen. Gomez for the next three days.

Daring Express Robbery.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 1.—Two men secreted on the New York-St. Louis express on the Pennsylvania, which left this city at 9.35 p.m. last night, entered the express car at Walker's Mills, ten miles west of this city on the Panhandle division, overcome the express messenger and escaped with four sealed bags containing currency.

Fire at North Bay.

North Bay, Ont., May 1.—The McCool block, owned by P. McCool and occupied by Scarlton & Co., furniture dealers, was gutted by a fire, which broke out about 10 o'clock and burned all night.

Etna In Eruption.

Messina, May 1.—Mount Etna is now in active eruption. At night the contrast betwfen the flames from its cone and the snow-capped mountains is most picturesque.

Customs Receipts Decrease.

Ottawa, May 1.—Customs receipts for the Dominion during the month of April totaled $3,449,947, a decrease of $1,018,446 as compared with April of last year.

His Sight Restored.

Chicago, May 1.—A supposed deaf and partly blind mendicant, who had been arrested, was fined $30 and costs by Municipal Judge Wells. As if by magic the man's hearing and eyesight were restored and he took $80 from one of his pockets and counted out the amount of his fine. He was then searched by the police and a bank book showing deposits of $1,882 was found. He is 67 years old.

Suicides on Railway.

Sault Ste. Marie, May 1.—A man found dead on the C.P.R. tracks one mile below the Soo was identified as Christopher Warren of Steelton. Death resulted from a deliberate determination to commit suicide. Besides a wife, he leaves two children. He had been unable to work for a couple of months through illness, and was of unsound mind.

ARMED MEN HAVE BEEN CAPTURED

Police Believe They are the Men Who Robbed Bank

Emerson, Man., May 1.—Chief of Police Joseph Wilson and a posse of citizens shortly after noon yesterday rounded up and captured three armed men believed to be part of the bandit gang which looted the State Bank at Stephen, Minn., south of the line, and got clean away with $8,000 in currency, though one of the men is supposed to have been shot in the leg by a citizen awakened by the explosion when the safe was dynamited. The arrest of the three men was spectacular, as they threw up their hands after being covered by the guns of the posse. Two of the men, armed with pump automatic guns, were caught in the home of Wm. Robertson, a farmer living on the edge of the town, where they were getting a meal. The third man was run down in the railway yards. They had but $60 on them and claimed to be land seekers.

Early in the day it is claimed that five men composing the gang had sneaked across the boundary a short distance from here about daylight and that three, including one injured, had boarded a Winnipeg train.

Railwaymen Settle.

Winnipeg, May 1.—The new wage and working schedules drawn up in accordance with the agreement reached by the officials of the Canadian Northern Railway and the representatives of the company's shop employes have been signed.

This agreement embodies concessions on both sides, one of the most interesting of which is a reduction of 2 cents an hour for some classes of work, the men having given way with respect to the wage scale after fully considering the representations made by the officials, owing to the prevailing slackness of business.

The men receive a quid pro quo in the way of time and classification. The nine-hour days continues, with recognition of the union.

Australia Wants Whites.

London, May 1.—(C.A.P.)—Prof. Herbert Strong of Liverpool University writes to the president of the Immigration League of Australasia that the masses in Great Britain resent the Australian tariff, and have an idea that they are not wanted there, whereas they are welcome in Canada.

The Australians are foolish, he says, not to fill up the country with whites, because it is certain they will shortly have to fight for their lives against Japan or Germany. He urges strongly that the refusal of the colonies to participate in imperial defence has alienated many home imperialists.

Force to Punish Kurds.

St. Petersburg, May 1.—A despatch received here from Tabris states that orders have been received from Teheran to organize a force of 10,000 troops to punish the Kurds. Recently Kurdish tribes have been pillaging the villages around Urumiah, in Persian Armenia, and, according to reports, have massacred several persons.

Strikebreaker Fined.

The Buck company has given notice of the appeal of the case.

Guelph, May 1.—William Hanlon, the forger, sentenced by Judge MacMahon to 12 years in Kingston penitentiary, was taken back to that institution, from which he was brought here to stand his trial by Chief Randal yesterday.

Booth Mills Reopen.

Ottawa, May 1.—This morning the great Booth mills reopened, giving employment to 12,000 men, most of whom have been idle all winter. There are sufficient logs now floating down the river to keep the mills busy all summer.

MR. PRESTON, M.P.P., DEALT WITH INTERESTING SUBJECT

Spoke on "The Canadian Citizen in the Making" Before Peterborough Canadian Club Last Night.—How the Educational System can be Improved—A Strong Plea for Technical Education.

"'The Canadian Citizen in the Making" was the interesting subject of Mr. T. H. Preston MPP, of Brantford in his address before the Canadian Club of Peterborough last evening. It was not a large gathering that assembled at the fourth dinner of the club in this city at the National Hotel last night but those who were present were indeed fortunate and well repaid for their attendance. Unavoidably a large number of the members were detained and sent their regrets to the president.

Mr. Preston in his able address, dealt with the Canadian citizen from the day he first starts to school. He thought that too many boys left school too early in life. When they finished their public school course they rushed into the factories where they spent the best part of their life. The ordinary lad shudders at the thought of going on to High School to books of Greek, Latin and trigonometry. In the opinion of the speaker, advanced Public school work should be continued in the High Schools and thus train the Canadian boys and girls for the vocations they intended to devote their lives to.

The president of the club, Mr. F. D. Kerr presided and on behalf of the club extended a welcome to Mr. Preston and in introducing him, apologized for the small gathering. It was not because the members were not interested in educational matters but owing to press of business affairs.

MR. PRESTON'S ADDRESS.

Upon rising to respond to a hearty reception Mr. Preston stated he was highly pleased to come before a ter than we do. To know Canada in Peterborough. Such a club is for the purpose of knowing Canada better than we do and to know Canada is to love her. In the greater knowledge comes the greater love. Before proceeding to his address he referred to the absence of the ladies at the meeting and in a brief toast paid a pretty compliment to the gentler sex.

Patriotism, he said, without knowledge is but as sounding brass and tinkling cymbal. If he could arouse an interest in the subject of Canadian citizenship and cause people to think about it, he would be well repaid for his visit. It has been said that the nineteenth century was the century of the United States and the twentieth century will be Canada's century. We must remember that, although the population of Canada is to-day about the same as the population of the United States was one hundred years ago, the world's population is much greater than it was then; land hunger and the means of satisfying that hunger are greater, and consequently the growth of Canada in the twentieth century must inevitably outstrip that of the United States in the nineteenth century. A few years ago Canadians used to repeat Whittier's lines:

> "I hear the tread of pioneers of > nations yet to be > The first low wash of waves where > yet shall roll a human sea."

To-day we are not listening to the distant tread of the coming people. They are here and we see them. They are coming to us by the thousands; Our brothers from the British Isles, our cousins from the neighbouring Republic, desirables from the northern portions of Europe, less desirables from the southern portions of Europe and undesirables from the Orient. It is said that we ought to close the door against those from the Orient. We cannot close the doors. We may be able to leave it a little ajar. We may as well set our house in order for the reception of all the

LEADER OF THE OPPOSITION GETS AFTER HON. MR. BRODEUR

Mr. R. L. Borden Renews the Attack on Marine Probe—Says it Will be Incomplete—Scathing Comment on Inefficiency of the Department—Waste and Extravagance—Report Like Campaign Literature.

Ottawa, May 1.—The Opposition yesterday returned to the proposed enquiry by Judge Cassels into the Marine Department. R. L. Borden, on motion to go into supply, submitted an amendment, declaring:

"That the investigation conducted by the Civil Service Commission was confessedly partial and incomplete.

"That the proposed enquiry before Justice Cassels is unsatisfactory and insufficient, inasmuch as it relates to only one paragraph of the report of that commission, and touches but a portion of the administration of one Department.

"That this House regrets the deplorable extravagance, waste, inefficiency and maladministration revealed by that report, and declares that immediate steps should be taken to reform and redress the same.

"That the public interest imperatively demands the appointment of an independent commission with full powers to make a thorough and searching investigation into several Departments of the public service."

The Opposition leader first observed that in looking into the report he was led unconsciously to believe that he was reading some of the campaign literature issued by the gentlemen opposite in the good old days. He read a comment of Mr. Fyshe with reference to "the demoralizing system of protection," and observed that this was a severe stricture on men who had come into power on the pledge to root out that system.

Referring to civil service reform, Mr. Borden believed the British system was on the whole the best, although in a new country like Canada our system had some advantages. Quoting the commissioners "that political pull had dominated appointments," he expressed surprise that no member of the Government had risen to give an explanation. The further statement that party was put before state was equally serious.

The examination by the commissioners revealed even a more aggravated form of these abuses in the outside service. They had "not only in appointments, but in subsequent promotions, in the outside service, the politics of the party is of greater importance than the public interests." The commissioners, he went on to say, recommended that the outside customs service be absolutely divorced from political influence and that appointments be put on the basis of merit. As to the Postoffice Department, it was found that "hundreds of postoffices are used for the benefit of politicians rather than the benefit of the state."

The same baneful influence was seen in the Marine and Public Works Departments. They had also found a general disregard of the Civil Service Act, no fewer than 50 of the votes passed last session bearing the condition, "notwithstanding anything in the Civil Service Act to the contrary."

As to the question of increased remuneration to the civil service Mr. Borden agreed that it should be taken into consideration at once. His own opinion of the civil service was that at the present time it was overmanned and underpaid.

Certain stalwart Liberals were not backward in stating that if Sir Wilfrid had been at home at the time of the new [illegible] the order-in-council appointing the commission, it would never have been worded as it was.

Mr. Borden quoted from the report the statement that in Quebec the marine agent, when it was pointed out to him that he was paying $6.95 for flour that was selling in the same city for $4.50, said there was only one flour dealer on the patronage list and suggested that a couple more be added.

In reporting upon the Militia Department, the commissioners pointed out that its expenditure was "going up by leaps and bounds; that in four and three-quarter years the expenditure had increased by $3,000,000." What a cry was raised in Quebec to an expenditure of $1,000,000 for the Militia Department previous to 1896 and what did they now think of an expenditure of $6,500,000 for the present year.

The commissioners had stated that they had not investigated the Department of Railways and Canals because they had found there were other Departments which required more immediate supervision. Mr. Borden ventured to suggest that had they gone into that Department they would have found quite an abundant harvest of maladministration, extravagance and inefficiency.

Dealing with counsel employed to conduct the enquiry, it was not a question whether Mr. Aylesworth was satisfied with Messrs. Watson and Perron, but whether the country was satisfied. Mr. Aylesworth had said the functions of Judge Cassels were like those of a coroner's jury.

"If," said Mr. Borden, "you find the corpse of an honest and efficient Government, would you expect the coroner's jury to be guided by the friend and associate of one of the assassins? They should be men outside the ranks of party responsible for condition of affairs."

Mr. Borden, however, had confidence in these men and would be glad to see them prosecute their enquiries to a conclusion.

Sir Wilfrid said there had been three or four debates on the question already, and among the gentlemen opposite there seemed to be a wide difference of opinion. The last commission was appointed to make a report as to the efficiency of the civil service. In one Department they found there was not only inefficiency, but dishonesty, and the Government thought it their duty to complete the investigation for the purpose of getting hold of the guilty parties. As to whether Mr. Perron had been at one time an associate of Mr. Prefontaine, it made no difference to him. It was not to be supposed that gentlemen belonging to the legal profession ever carry their political opinions into court. This commission was appointed to get at the truth; the Government would have nothing to gain by having a garbled report. It was preposterous to ask that counsel be appointed to represent the Civil Service Commissioners. The commissioners were not on trial, and there was nothing in their report which it was proposed to controvert; the object was to have the investigation pursued in the direction of the parties for whom criticism was found in the report.

Sir Wilfrid asked if the civil service had been rendered inefficient by reason of political patronage, who was there to throw the first stone? According to the commissioners the civil service had fallen back during the past 15 years. The present Government had not been in office 15 years.

Although not disposed to criticize the commissioners, he thought their remarks about increase in expenditures of the Militia Department were uncalled for.

The member for Dundas (Mr. Broder) had appealed to the worst prejudices of the people when he compared expenditures for war with those for agriculture. Sir Wilfrid was a man of peace, but it was the duty of the Government to prepare for war, and he pointed out that some of the European countries spent at least 50 per cent. of their income on defence.

"And," said Sir Wilfrid, "when the leader of the Opposition stoops—I say stoops—to make political capital out of such a question he plays a part that is unworthy of himself."

Concluding, the Prime Minister said it was not the part of the Government to depart from its course, but it had a duty to perform in pursuing the investigation in its own way. There had been three commissions already to investigate the civil service and that was enough.

Mr. Foster continued at the evening session, answering the Prime Minister's complaint that the commissioners had gone beyond their duties. The Government were poor strategists. They were taking care of the attack, but forgot there was a rear.

Let the country clearly see the purpose for which this commission was appointed, continued Mr. Foster. The Prime Minister should take back his words that the second commission had been appointed to continue the work of the first.

Mr. Courtney and his colleagues gutted one-half of one Department and if they had time would have gone to the inside of every one of them.

The responsibility of the Minister was clear, yet Mr. Foster left it to the Prime Minister to deny that Judge Cassels had been appointed to investigate some subordinates who had sacrificed the country's interest. That would be the business of the counsel, to steer the whole investigation as far as putting the facts before the judge was concerned. This had been stated by the Minister of Justice. Judge Cassels had been stopped from looking into any transaction except what could be laid at the door of a subordinate. The least thing the Prime Minister wanted was the whole truth.

Hon. Sydney Fisher said it was no fault to compare the expenditures of the various Departments and his criticism was just. Although Canada spent only half a million on agriculture. France spent $9,000,000 and Russia $25,000,000.

Mr. Brodeur claimed that the Canadian Militia lacked permanency and that we were paying too much for the skeleton of an army which had only two and a half men for an officer.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur challenged Mr. Foster to make charges against him and risk his seat as the result. The attacks of Mr. Foster were uncalled for.

AN AWFUL NAVAL DISASTER WARSHIP SINKS INTO DEEP

With Two Hundren and Forty Souls—Matsushima of Japanese Navy, Shattered by Explosion in Magazine—Cause of Calamity Unknown.

Tokoio, May 1.—A terrible explosion in the stern magazine of the cruiser Matsushima off the Pescadores Islands at 8 o'clock yesterday morning sunk the vessel and about 240 officers and men went down to death.

The regular complement of the lost vessels was 355 men and that on her cruise she had about 50 cadets aboard, making a total of 415. About 175 are saved, which would make the loss of officers and men about 240.

The sons of Baron Chinda, Vice-Minister of the Foreign Office, and of Prince Oyama, field marshal, are among the lost. Captains Name, Yoshimori and Yasbiro are also thought to be lost.

The cause of the explosion is unknown.

The Matsushima is a protected cruiser. She was built in 1900. Her displacement is 4,237 tons, length 295 feet. She has two decks and twelve gun positions. Her armament consisted of one 12.6 inch canet gun, 26 quick-firing guns and six machine guns. She had also four torpedo tubes. Her complement is given in the books of record as 350 men.

The Matsushima took part in the Russo-Japanese war. She was instrumental in November, 1904, in sending Russian torpedo boats that were attempting to escape from Port Arthur to the bottom.

Accidents in the Japanese navy have been rare. There was an explosion of powder on board the battleship Kashima last September, in which 27 men were killed and in September, 1905, the battleship Mikasa, which was Admiral Togo's battleship in the Russo-Japanese war, was partially destroyed by fire and the explosion of her magazines at Sasebo. No men lost their lives in this accident.

The Pescadores Islands, the scene of the catastrophe, are a low island group between Formosa and China. They belonged to China until 1895 when they were ceded to Japan.

CAR WHICH KILLED TWO WAS WITHOUT AIRBRAKES

Windsor, May 1.—The inquest into the accident on the Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore Railway near Kingsville, in which Mrs. Rees Fulner and her daughter Esther, aged 16, were killed outright, will be held at Kingsville to-day. In which evidence will be adduced to show that the particular car which struck the rig containing the unfortunate occupants was not equipped with airbrakes while other cars were.

When the bodies were picked up from the tracks, the mother and daughter were clasped tightly in each other's arms. The mother was mangled beyond recognition, while the daughter bore slight traces of disfigurement. The woman had tried in vain to protect her child in the last terrible moment.

Mrs. Fulmer had been in Kingsville shopping and was returning to her home. Just as she was driving across the tracks in the division road, the heavy suburban car called "Republic" came speeding eastward, ten minutes late. The buggy was covered completely. There was no chance for the occupants to look directly either way. The motorman, Broadwell, was unable to stop the car, which was traveling at a high rate of speed, and the trolley crashed into the vehicle, smashing it into kindling.

When the motorman saw the mutilated bodies he collapsed and had to be taken back to Kingsville in a buggy.

There were nearly twice as many marriages in Peterborough during April, 1908 as in the same month last year. There were thirteen last month and only seven for the corresponding month last year. There were six less births compared with April last year, and the number of deaths was also smaller by two.

The figures for the month at the City Hall are as follows:—

Was Generously Supplied.

Ottawa, May 1.—G. F. O'Halloran, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, was examined in the public accounts committee with reference to certain payments made to William Hutchison, exhibition commissioner. The witness stated that Mr. Hutchison was appointed by an order-in-council at a salary of $3,000, with a living allowance of $20 a day, and traveling expenses.

He had to do a considerable amount of entertaining, and every month rendered a statement to the Department, showing his expenditure. F. Chitty, accountant of the Department, said he was sent to England last year to supervise accounts generally and to settle any that were outstanding.

Doukhobors are a Problem Hard to Solve

Yorkton, Sask., May 1.—The Doukhobors still remain in the cars, eating peanuts and [illegible]. The Canadian Pacific Railroad agent has received instructions to have the cars cleared, and if this is insisted upon, trouble will surely ensue, as fully half of them are naked.

Frank Ford, Attorney-General at Regina, wired Mayor Patrick to the effect that he had referred the matter to the Immigration Department, Ottawa, at the same time advising the mayor to have those declared insane who show any signs.

Hon. Mr. Oliver has advised that the Doukhobor question is for the Provincial Government only. They will be unloaded by the C.P.R. this morning, but feeling is almost strong enough to prevent them coming off the cars.

The Saskatchewan Government has taken up with the Department of the Interior the question of Doukhobors shipped to Yorkton by the Ontario Government authorities.

In the Legislature yesterday the Attorney-General stated that he was advised that 19 of these men were insane and these were being ordered placed in charge. It is likely that the Dominion will be asked to care for the Doukhobors, as they are not citizens of Saskatchewan, having refused to accept local institutions.

Mayor Killed Fighting.

Fort de France, Island of Martinique, May 1.—A serious and fatal conflict broke out in this city Wednesday between hostile groups of politicians in connection with the present campaign for municipal elections. A band of men led by M. Labat, the vice-mayor of Fort de France, engaged in an armed conflict at the City Hall with another band under the leadership of the mayor, M. Severe. The mayor was killed in the fighting. Several other men also lost their lives and a number of persons were wounded.

Company Charged With Negligence.

Brantford, May 1.—The coroner's jury which enquired into the death of Jonathan Marshall, who last Saturday fell off the Western Counties power plant roof while making repairs, returned a verdict of "death from electric shock," and charged the company with negligence in ordering a man who was not a skilled electrician to perform such work.

Sustains Scott Act.

Fredericton, N.B., May 1.—After the hottest temperance fight ever known in this province the Scott Act was sustained here yesterday by a majority of 178.

Though it was expected liquor license would be defeated the majority in favor of the act was larger than anticipated. An exceptionally large vote was polled.

Saskatchewan Redistribution.

Regina, Saskatchewan, May 1.—It is understood the Government's redistribution bill, to be brought down in the Legislature to-day, will provide for 25 members instead of 25 at present.

FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1908.

THE ALLIANCE MANIFESTO

The Dominion Alliance Manifesto, which we published in full in a recent issue, makes two statements that our Liberal friends may well take to heart. First it acknowledges the general improvement in the administration of the license law, and, secondly, it notes the tightening up of the administration of law generally. The tightening-up or more sure and certain enforcement of law, is what the people of this province were craving for above all things. Lax ideas had begotten lax principles and at last the Ross fabric fell to rise no more. Mr. Whitney is above all things honest. Sometimes he may be mistaken, and no doubt is, but a crooked and perverse administration of law is something he will not tolerate. Look at the situation in Peterborough. Governmental officers under the old regime were afraid to do their duty. It was not expected of them and was not tolerated. The headman, like the chief of some small African tribe, sat in his office and put on the screws, or otherwise, as the exigency of the political situation required. That is gone. Government officers are not now party hacks. They are paid to do their official duty and to stop there. Political opponents and envious friends may say otherwise, but the fact remains. It is impossible to cite a case of compulsion or official crookedness. What a change! All this the Dominion Alliance recognizes. Their official representatives are everywhere. They see what is going on. They unhesitatingly make these statements. If Whitney has done nothing further he would deserve well by the people. The restoration of moral confidence in a province, a people or an individual, is the true beginning of its development. Before that the body politic is a state of brigandage with nothing permanent and altogether bad. After that it is government civilized and clean. In the one case it is barbarism and all its attendant cruelty and meanness. In the other it is the first glimpse of civilization, religion and liberty.

REV. MR. POGUE'S LETTER

It is quite apparent that the Rev. Mr. Pogue and the Review agree on the principle of "advanced legislation." It is now a question of mere procedure. The word "government" means regulation, but there are so many diverse opinions concerning regulation that there is need of a working basis. That working basis is our system of majorities. But manifestly government or regulation does not refer to matters of conscience or to other than matters of practical convenience and general well-being. That was what we wished to say on the point of regeneration by legislation. That idea is surely admitted to be fallacious. This question is, of course, not new. In a question of a sumptuary character experience has proven that it is wiser to be sure than sorry. The old bare majority law about which there is so much discussion had tacked on it a right of vote by a municipal council, which Mr. Whitney's three-fifths clause has not. Moreover, a special act does away with the absurdity of upsetting the old law by technicalities as was often done. In support of Mr. Whitney's contention some pretty weighty opinions are quotable. In the Globe of January 3rd, 1902, Principal Caven, of Knox College, says: "It is essential that legislation of the character in question should be sustained by such strength of opinion as to render its enforcement both possible and salutary. I should greatly doubt the wisdom of making less than three-fifths of the votes polled necessary to the adoption of the measure. * * * Were less than four-fifths of the whole vote recorded all the more necessary that a bare majority should not give effect to the measure." The indirect method suggested by Mr. Pogue of attaining the desired end we do not agree with. We do not believe in indirect methods otherwise usually known as subterfuges. It is the "indirect" that we are all striving so hard to eliminate. But possibly we have misunderstood the reverend gentleman.

DAMAGES

We are informed on reliable authority that the following cause for damages arose at the point named. At White Lake in Galway, at a corner where Galway and Cavendish come together, a dam was raised in the autumn of 1907. Part of Jackson's and part of Ford's bush land to the total extent of ten acres was thereby flooded permanently, but not one cent of damages has been forthcoming. When we consider that $50,000 damages was paid to Hon. J. R. Stratton and other summer residents of Stoney Lake, when the water was raised there it looks as if there was undue discrimination against the obscure farmers of the northmost parts of the county. Requests have been made only to be neglected and we bespeak for the owners of the submerged bush land consideration and decent treatment.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"We all know that the world has come to set up less exacting standards in morality in politics and in government relations than in ordinary matters. A person seems to think it no wrong to cheat the customs. * * *—The Examiner.

The late snowstorm in England and Scotland puts us here in the shade. However it will give the coming immigrants the idea that Canada is a tropical clime.

Mr. A. G. MacKay, the Opposition leader, will have a time facing the outburst of criticism of his connection with Dominion dredging contracts.

Hon. J. R. Stratton may be a candidate for the Dominion house. Strange how members of the disgraced Reform government of Ontario are gravitating one by one Ottawaward!—Hamilton Spectator.

Victoria Times: It is generally agreed that, while the late Premier of Great Britain may not have been a great man, he was a man of noble character. And character is the essential thing, even in politics.

The Peterborough Examiner please copy.

The address delivered by Mr. Preston before the Canadian Club was really a splendid one. The tone and aim were of the highest and best. He did not confirm the Examiner's statement that the world's standards of morality were growing less exacting and that therefore political cheating was right enough and yet he spoke on a "Canadian in the Making," too.

Let Mr. Gillespie carry out the terms of his straightforward and unequivocal reply to Mr. Bradburn's letter of the same tenor and we shall have the edifying spectacle of two political opponents trusting to each other's honour, which is vastly more instructive in a clean campaign than a bond to keep honest. Mr. Bradburn does not question Mr. Gillespie's bona fides, and naturally resents his suspicion that Mr. Bradburn is too weak to remain straight unless under bond. A bond, if it means anything, means that those so binding themselves would be crooked if it were not for the penalty. This may be, and no doubt is the "code of honour" of the Examiner & Co., but hardly of the result of the population.

CUT OFF BY THE TIDE.

Perilous Adventure of Mother and Children on Yorkshire Coast.

A thrilling adventure recently befell a York lady and her four little children under the precipitous sea-washed cliffs near Filey, on the Yorkshire coast. The spot has a sinister reputation locally, for here it was, some two years ago, that the mangled remains of the crew of the ill-fated steamer Sumas were discovered. It appears that Mrs. Fall and her children were visiting Gristhorpe, a village near Filey, and went out for a stroll, taking light refreshments for the children, but intimating that they would return for a mid-day dinner. They went to Cayton Bay, half-way between Filey and Scarborough, and reaching the shore scrambled along over the rocks under the cliffs in the direction of Filey. The cliffs range from 200 to 280 feet in height, and are unclimbable beyond a few yards from the bottom to which the tide rises. Shortly afterwards they learned, to their dismay, that the tide had turned, and that their retreat was completely cut off. The position was an extremely alarming one. In their extremity, however, the little party managed to climb the dangerous cliffs to a place of comparative safety, and here for weary hours they waited in the hope of attracting the notice of a passing fishing boat. But no boat came by, and there was no one to hear their frantic appeals for help. To add to their terror, darkness fell. Meanwhile, as the little party had not returned to Gristhorpe, anxiety was roused, as to their safety, and the vicar, Rev. A. N. Cooper, hastened to Filey and informed the police and coastguard. Rescue parties with ropes and lanterns at once set out, and cables were got ready to search the shore. But by the time they reached the dangerous spot where the wanderers were found, Mrs. Fall and her children were completely exhausted, their voices gone with shouting through the long, weary hours. Mrs. Fall was so dazed that she allowed the rescuers to pass her without attracting their attention. Two young Filey fishermen, named Lane and Jenkinson, descended the cliffs on a rope at an inlet named Chimney Hole, and found the party, the little ones wrapped in the mother's skirts, of which she had divested herself. Having reassured Mrs. Fall of her immediate safety, the fishermen reascended, and Mr. Dale of Gristhorpe, and P.C. Wilson of Cayton went down and conducted them to a spot where it was easier for them to be hauled up. It was 10.30 before they were brought safely to the top of the cliffs, and midnight before they got home. Mrs. Fall explains that the plight began with a saunter round Cayton Nabb, the children skipping in advance of her, picking their way between the boulders, and shouting gleefully "Come on, mother, there's a path." In this way they got beyond safe limits, and on darkness falling the mother picked the most likely spot, as high up as she could scramble, and made ready for passing the night. All were very hungry, cold, and afraid, and hope almost died when no response came to their shouts for aid. Practically all Gristhorpe was out searching in the evening. When the news reached the Filey fishermen they turned out hurriedly. It was rough, dangerous work descending the precipitous cliffs in the darkness on a rope, but there were plenty of volunteers. The escape of Mrs. Fall and her children is remarkable, for it is generally acknowledged that, in the face of a stronger tide, the frail woman and her children could not possibly have held their places on the side of the cliff as they did.

The Adventures of Chung Ling Soo.

Londoners are still pondering over the mysterious feats performed by Chung Ling Soo at the Hippodrome, some time ago. This Chinese magician was one of the first of the great attractions which have appeared at this well-known London variety theatre. He was a favorite of the terrible Dowager Empress of China, who made him a one-button mandarin, and allowed him out of China to amuse foreigners on condition that he reported himself at the Court of Pekin every year. Chung Ling Soo, however, recently so offended the Dowager Empress that he will certainly lose his head if he returns to his native country. Chung happened to come across five robbers who had been buried up to their necks in sand just outside Pekin and left to starve to death. This was too much for the enlightened Chung, who released them and let them escape. The Dowager Empress was at once informed and sent an escort to arrest Chung, but he made his way to Shanghai, and, crossing to San Francisco, he was once more landed in England, via America.

People who believe that all animals should be left to die a natural death, and buried without having their bones picked, are calling attention to the sturdiness of Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, and the fact that for some years he has steadfastly adhered to a vegetarian diet. Not only does Lord Charles refuse to eat meat, but for a long time he has held the theory that man is better without wine or spirits of any kind. In fact, his convictions on this point are so strong that the doctors who attended him during his recent illness had the greatest difficulty in persuading him that stimulants were necessary for his full recovery.

Transplanting a Knee-Joint.

A remarkable feat of surgery is reported from the German town of Koenigsberg.

A cripple, who from birth had been unable to walk without crutches, was taken in hand by Prof. Lexer. The professor amputated the leg of a second man, who had met with an accident, and from the amputated limb he removed the knee joint, which was in a perfectly healthy condition. This he substituted for the undeveloped joint of his other patient.

The bones joined up remarkably well, and the man, at a gathering of doctors, showed that he was able to walk without assistance of any kind.

A limited number, none of which could be called choice well-finished, sold from $5.50 to $5.75 for steers and $4 to $4.75 for bulls.

Butchers.

We heard of four picked butchers, and there may have been others, weighing 1150 to 1200 lbs. each, that sold at $5.80 to $5.85; loads of good at $5.15 to $5.80; medium at $4.75 to $5; common, $3.75 to $4.50; cows, $4 to $4.75 for good and $3.50 to $3.80 for common; canners, $2 to $3 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report trade dull, especially for the light stockers, 400 to 600 lbs., which, as predicted last week, sold lower. Light heifers are especially very hard to cash and would advise shippers to shy clear of them, excepting at a low figure.

More good short-keeps would have sold. There were several buyers for this kind, and some orders left unfilled until next week.

Messrs. Murby bought about 440 cattle this week at following quotations: Good steers, 1000 to 1100 lbs. each, at $4.75 to $5 per cwt.; good steers, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, at $4.25 to $4.75; good steers, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.90 to $4.25; good steers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $3.25 to $5.90, light stockers, 400 to 600 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.25.

Milkers and Springers.

A fair supply of milkers and forward springers sold at $30 to $55 each, the bulk of the best selling at $40 to $50.

Veal Calves.

A moderate run of calves sold at $3 to $5.50 per cwt., or an average of about $4 each; something choice, new milk-fed, would bring $6, or probably $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export ewes sold at $4.50 to $5.20; rams, $4 to $4.50 per cwt.; yearling lambs from $6 to $7.50 per cwt.; spring lambs at $3 to $6 each.

Hogs.

About 1800 hogs from all sources were received at the market on Wednesday and Thursday, 1487 of which were bought by Mr. Harris, who reported prices unchanged at $6.40 for selects and $6.15 for lights.

CAPT A.W. STRACHAN

ILES CURED

Pain so Bad Captain of Engineers Fainted on Field.

Capt. A. W. Strachan, R.E., St. Catharines, Ont., writes as follows: "I have been a great sufferer for over 13 years with bleeding protruding piles. The pain at times was almost more than I could stand, especially in foreign countries while on duty. I think I have tried almost every remedy known in India, China, Japan and Egypt. While in India I was in the hospital for three weeks with bleeding piles and thought I would be compelled to give up the service, but I got relief for a time. However, they came back again, and worse than before. I have been on the march at times when I have had to fall out, I could not endure the pain any longer. I was once picked up on the field for dead, the pain was so great that I fainted. I seemed to find remedies that would relieve for the time being, but could never get a permanent cure. So you see I had to come to Canada to find a real cure. A friend of mine, an army officer, told me about Zam-Buk salve curing a friend of his, and so I decided to give it a trial, but had no faith that it would do what it has done. Even after using one box I did not think it would cure me. I used six boxes and am to-day completely cured. Your balm is worth its weight in gold. I have had six months of perfect ease which I have not had for 13 years before."

THE GREAT "FIRST AID"

When March Winds Blew.

By Virginia Blair.

Copyrighted, 1908, by E. C. Parcells.

"Whew-ew-ew!" went the March wind, shrieking around corners, roaring across the open spaces and whirling the dust and debris in the middle of the street into a mad dance.

Down the block from opposite directions came a girl and a man. The girl was all in brown—trim walking skirt, sable furs, tan shoes, a smart toque and a chiffon veil, the ends of which were whipped this way and that as she made her way against the wind.

The man, with his back to the cutting blasts, walked rapidly, and just as the girl was within a few steps of him the mad March wind blew so hard and so strong that she stopped and turned her back to it.

And so sudden was her action that the young man did not have time to get out of the way.

The girl gave a little shriek in the moment of collision. He put out his hand to steady her.

"Oh, you needn't mind," he told her. "It's only me."

She was pink with blushes, but she said haughtily, "I do mind."

"Of course," he agreed gloomily. "I'd like to wipe myself off the face of the earth if it would do you any good."

"You might at least avoid this block," she told him.

He looked about him.

"I beg your pardon," he said. "I suppose it is the effect of long habit that makes me drift this way."

"Habits may be broken."

"Not the habit of love," he said, almost fiercely. Then his voice took on a tender note. "Catherine," he said, "can't you change your mind and marry me?"

"I think," she said very clearly, "that you are mad—as mad as the March wind—as mad as a March hare."

"And why?" he asked. "Because I love you"—

"Because you propose to me at such strange times and places," she cried. "The last time was in a department store just before Christmas when I was buying needles and pins."

"And you made a pincushion of my heart," he reminded her, "and stuck it full of sharp points."

"No woman can respect a man," she said, "who makes himself ridiculous."

He drew himself up sharply.

"So that is it," he said slowly. "Well, perhaps I deserve it. But you must remember that when I first told you that I cared for you I told you in your own home and asked if I might speak to your father. You didn't say 'No,' and you wouldn't say 'Yes.' And when I asked you again at the bachelors' cotillon you still let me hope, and then you wrote the next day that I was not to visit you again. I couldn't believe that you meant it. I can't believe it now."

He laughed bitterly and went on: "But if I have lost your respect it is hopeless. I shall never again ask you to marry me, Catherine."

"Never?" she faltered.

"Never," he repeated, and for a moment he stood looking down at her; then, with a gesture of despair, he went on his way.

She stared after him and started to call, hesitated and went slowly up the steps of the great house before which they had stopped.

"Of course I am glad to be rid of him," she said a half hour later when, in pink dressing gown and slippers, she talked with Aunt Kitty, who always understood.

Aunt Kitty was a woman of the world. Brilliant and glowing, she had stopped in on her way to some afternoon function.

"Why are you glad?" Aunt Kitty demanded. "He's a fine fellow."

Catherine's lips were trembling.

"Oh, Aunt Kitty," she said, "I thought he was, but I have found him out."

"Goodness," asked Aunt Kitty, "what has he done?"

"There is another girl," Catherine said slowly.

"Hum!" said Aunt Kitty. "How did you find it out?"

"It was the other day after the cotillon," Catherine explained. "He had told me how he cared for me, and I—I was really beginning to care, too, and I thought it would be nice to surprise him. And I knew he always lunched at Marfield's—and—and I thought I'd go down and have lunch with him—and tell him"—

"Well, of all things," ejaculated Aunt Kitty, "in these days of chaperons!"

"So I went," Catherine proceeded, "and all the way downtown I thought how glad he would be, and how I would pour his coffee and let him order the things he liked, and how in after years we would go there and eat lunch on the anniversary"—

"Of course," Aunt Kitty sympathized.

"And as I went up in the elevator I was so happy that people stared, but I didn't care. And when I reached the sixth floor I got off and went into the grill room and started for the table by the window, where I knew he always sat—and then"—

"Was he there?" was Aunt Kitty's eager question.

"Yes, he was there. But there was another girl with him. And he was all devotion, and she was all blushes and smiles. And while they were waiting for their order he went out and came back with a bunch of violets and lilies of the valley, and he pressed her hand when he gave them to her."

"Oh, my goodness," said Aunt Kitty, "and how did you manage to see all that, child?"

"There was a little table by the fountain," Catherine explained, "and I could see him through the screen of palms, but he couldn't see me"— And then she broke down and sobbed wildly, with her head in Aunt Kitty's lap.

"Poor little girlie," said Aunt Kitty softly. There was silence for a moment, and then all at once Aunt Kitty laughed in a perfect ripple of gayety.

Catherine looked up at her in amazement. "Why, what?" she stammered.

"Oh, girlie," said Aunt Kitty, "did you say it was the day after the cotillon?"

"Yes," said Catherine.

"What kind of hair did the girl have?"

"Wavy yellow, with little curls around her face. She was really beautiful," Catherine admitted grudgingly.

"Did she have on a gray tailor made, with a hat trimmed with violets and black gauntlet gloves?" questioned the older woman rapidly.

"Yes," Catherine nodded, "but"—

"Oh, goosie, goosie," said Aunt Kitty. "It was his sister. She's married, and she was stopping at the Annex, and I called on her that morning just as she was going out to meet him."

"But," began Catherine, "why didn't he tell me?"

"Did you ever give him a chance to explain?" asked Aunt Kitty. "Or did you just send him away?"

"I refused to tell him what was the matter," admitted her niece.

"Well, now it's all right, and you can live happy ever after."

"It can never be right now," said Catherine miserably, and she told of their meeting that morning.

Aunt Kitty listened and debated, and finally she said, "Suppose we go to Marfield's for lunch?"

Catherine stood up. "Oh, do you really think we would find him?" she quavered.

"Well," said wise Aunt Kitty, "I think we might. He may not be eating much, but habit will make him."

And when they came to the sixth floor of the big store they saw at the table at the far end of the grill room a young man who stared blankly out of the window, where the March winds whistled and sang over the roofs.

"He's there, Aunt Kitty," said Catherine breathlessly.

"Then I will leave you," said Aunt Kitty. "For once I'll chaperon you in spirit."

The young man at the far table had eaten nothing, but as he drank his third cup of coffee there came to the table a vision as radiant as the morning, and the vision said, "May I have lunch with you?"

"Catherine!" he whispered as one in a dream.

"And please order things that will be nice for anniversaries," the vision went on.

"For anniversaries?" He had pulled out her chair and helped her with her wraps, doing the things that must be done because of curious eyes, but still in a dream.

"Because—when we are—married—I think it would be—nice—to come here, don't you?" stammered the timid voice, and now the vision was rosy with blushes.

And after that the March winds howled and tore over the roofs unheeded by the two happy people who had that morning been buffeted by its cruel blasts.

THE VALUE OF ACCIDENT INSURANCE

DEATHS from accident are stated by the Census Officials, Washington, to have been 7,513 in 1902. The percentage of deaths from accident is 5.76, which is more than ten years ago. The "Insurance Press" in giving details from the Census, says, "An Inspection of the Census Tables showing causes of death brings out the fact that a person is more liable to meet death by accidental injuries than by any other single cause except consumption, pneumonia or heart disease

—From Financial Chronicle, Montreal.

The Utopia Policy issued by the General Accident Assurance Company of Canada, provides indemnity for disability, resulting from accident or sickness. It is in all respects a model policy.

Corks and Common Sense.

A wise woman sat watching her daughter's efforts to remove a cork (not a glass stopper) from a bottle. Seeing that the cork was about to break, she quietly took the matter into her own hands and, with a gentle touch or two, soon had the bottle ready for use.

"You did not know the law of corks," she said, smiling at the girl's astonishment. "Do you now realize that when a cork is put into a bottle the fingers twist in the same direction as a screw is turned and at the same time push it home? This causes the fibers of the part of the cork in the bottle neck to twist and contract and squeeze themselves spirally into a smaller space. When the cork must come out, to turn it in the opposite direction untwists and expands it and makes it hard to move. If you would be successful, just turn the cork in exactly the same direction as you did at first. This contracts it still farther, and it is then an easy matter to lift it out. If the cork should be held by any sticky mixture, it can easily be loosened by plunging the bottle head first in hot water. This melts the gluelike substance, and a little gentle fingering will set the cork free, to be turned as described."

An Important Person.

There are not a few men who fancy that because they are persons of wealth and consequence in a community they are exempt from the duties and liabilities of the ordinary citizen. A man of this sort was drawn to serve upon a jury and did not appear when his name was called in court. The court ordered that he be fined £5.

About half an hour afterward the man appeared in the courtroom to answer tardily to his name.

"You have been fined £5 for nonattendance," said the judge.

"But I had a very important business engagement," said the man.

"Did you suppose that an engagement would excuse you for not answering the summons of the court?" asked the judge, rather angrily.

The juror, who was a pompous man with an important air, began to grow indignant at being so addressed.

"I would have your honor understand," he exclaimed, "that I am one of the most prominent business men in this community!"

"Oh! In that case," said the judge quietly, "you will be able to stand a larger fine. Mr. Clerk, you will increase this gentleman's fine for nonattendance to £10!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Getting Along.

Miss Goodley—Miss Hussle goes in for everything. She's constantly doing something.

Miss Knox—Yes, but the one thing she is doing most steadily she won't admit.

Not Consistent.

"An expert has figured that in a hundred years the coal deposits of the world will be exhausted," observed Mrs. Gunson, laying aside the newspaper.

"You can't make the coal dealers believe that," remarked Mr. Gunson. "A hundred years isn't a short weight."—Pittsburg Post.

EVENED UP MATTERS.

The Way a Fine Imposed In Court Came to Be Remitted.

A raw mountaineer got back at Judge Mose Wright of the Rome circuit in a very clever way. While the judge was presiding over the Chattooga superior court he had occasion to plaster a fifteen dollar fine on this man because he failed to appear in time as a witness in a case.

"Say, jedge, hain't that purty steep?" mildly inquired the Chattoogan.

"No," was the reply. "You know you were an important witness in this case and ought to have been here. I will suspend payment, however, and hold it over you to see that there is no like trouble in the future."

Later Judge Wright was spending a few weeks at Menlo, a popular summer resort in Chattooga county, several miles from a railroad. He had a package to come out from Summerville, and the big mountaineer happened to deliver it.

"Well, what do I owe you?" asked the judge genially, reaching for his change pocket.

"Waal, jedge, I reckon about $15 would square us," was the calm reply.

"What?" yelled Judge Wright, staggering back.

"Mebbe you won't be so dern keerless next time 'bout leavin' yo' packages," was the imperturbable answer.

"Look here," whispered the perturbed jurist, "I'll just remit that fifteen dollar fine I put on you down in Summerville."

"Gid ap, Beck. That 'bout squares us, jedge."

It's true, all right, because Judge Wright told it on himself.

The Name In the Hat.

In the fifties of the last century there were two young lawyers, Gould and Robinson, practicing in the court at Wiscasset, the shire town of Lincoln county, Me., who were noted for their keen wit and ingenuity in examining witnesses and also for their many severe thrusts at each other.

On one occasion, when Robinson had finished an unusually able argument for his client, containing some stinging allusions to the opposing counsel, Gould, by whom he was followed and who retaliated, Robinson was seen to take a card, write something on it, which was later found to be the Latin words caput vacuum (empty head), and drop it into Gould's hat on the table.

Gould's curiosity sent him immediately to investigate. Going to the table, he took the card from his hat, and, loud enough to be heard all over the courtroom, he read, "Caput vacuum." Turning to the judge, he said, "Your honor, I claim the protection of the court." The judge replied, "You may state your case."

Gould answered: "My case is this, your honor: I see my brother at my right has placed his name in my hat, and what can be his motive if not to claim it as his own? I claim your protection."

The judge, with his face all smiles, answered, "Mr. Gould, you shall be protected."—Boston Herald.

Author of Term "Carpetbagger."

A Princeton graduate who died recently was the inventor of the term "carpetbagger." He was Colonel Joseph Hodgson, '56, of New Orleans, prominent at the law and in politics, a Confederate colonel and editor at various times of the Kansas City Enquirer, the Montgomery Mail, the New Orleans Picayune and the Mobile Register. It was while he was editor of the Montgomery Mail and engaged in the discussion of the reconstruction acts that he invented the epithet "carpetbagger" and first used it against the members of the Alabama convention of 1867.—Boston Transcript.

Swedish Beauties.

Who are the most beautiful women in Sweden? A contest to determine this question was arranged by the Schwedische Frauenzeitschrift, and the pictures were submitted to a committee composed of the artists Bjorck and Zorn. The first prize was awarded to Miss Lundstrom, who is sixteen years old. She is described as having "blue eyes, rich blond hair, a beautiful complexion and a perfect figure." The second prize was given to Mrs. Greta Sjoberg, who is the housekeeper of the poet Werner von Heijdenstam, and the third prize was awarded to Miss Gustafson.

THEATRICAL

OUR BOYS

For the second time this season the Royal Alexandra players, of Toronto, were seen at the Grand Opera House last night, appearing in an exceedingly real little comedy, "Our Boys." While the play is essentially a comedy it has its pathetic moments and proved a very pleasing production. It deals with the differences between two fathers and two sons and the difficulties resulting from the mutual misunderstanding. The cast that appeared in the piece was a particularly clever one and gave every satisfaction.

Mr. William Sauter, as the rich old butter-maker, was splendid in the part and Mr. Ivan Simpson did full justice to the role. Miss Jane Marbury was a delightful delineation of the character of Violet Melrose and Miss Carherine Elridge found much favor with the audience as Mary Melrose. Mr. George M. Champneys was especially good as Talbot Champneys, the fop who was not such a fop after all. Miss Ida Waterman, as his aunt, was excellent in the part, as was also Miss Gwendolin Howard, as Belinda, a lodging house servant.

A GOOD ATTRACTION FOR SATURDAY

"We Are King," with Edmund Carroll portraying a double role is rich with delightful comedy, interspersed with strong dramatic situations, a most beautiful love story and just enough romance and pathos to please the most critical. This charming play by Lieut. Gordon Kean, author of "The Magic Melody," is coming to the "The Magic Melody," is coming to the Grand next Saturday.

The scenes are laid in Kahnburg, a small principality in northern Germany, and the plot hinges around the marvellous resemblance between the King and a literary vagabond. Brutal and oppressive, the Prime Minister and some of the nobility seek to dethrone King Hector, and they succeed by substituting the vagabond and imprisoning the real ruler in a The character of the new king is so different from that of the one dethroned that this transformation is attributed to the effect of a blow.

To relieve the little kingdom of its indebtedness, Hector is engaged to marry Princess Olivia of a neighboring principality, whom he has never met. She, bearing tales of Hector's profligacy, travels to Kahnburg in disguise as a lady historian and meets the substitute king, who falls in love with her. Exciting incidents follow one another rapidly, and through the Raven, a fanatic on religion Venner, the vagabond learns that he is the real king stolen from his parents while an infant and that his double in the madhouse is the son of a royal favorite. After an attack on the king's life, the identity of the Princess is discovered and all ends happily.

Mr. Carroll in the dual role of Hector, King of Kahnburg, and Gustavus Venner, portrays two such vastly different characters and particular attention is called to the rapidity with which he changes from one character to the other, which are very mystifying to the audience and many are slow to believe that one man plays both parts.

Mr. Carroll is under the management of Mr. A. W. Cross, who for many years managed Walker Whiteside, one of the foremost actors of the present day.

A BOY'S HOLIDAYS.

The ardent controversy which has been waging in England and America concerning the best way to dispose of school boys in the long summer vacation has prompted the Grand Trunk Railway System to issue a special publication giving suggestions and pracical hints to parents as to what to do with the public and preparatory school boy during the months of July and August. The vacation camp is one of the solutions and the publication entitled "What Shall a Boy do with his Vacation?" thoroughly covers the ground and solves the problem of the best way for for a school boy to enjoy his holidays.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES EXPLAINED BY MR. BROWN

At Meeting of Court Chemong I.O.F. Last Night—Matter Will be in the Hands of Delegates to Supreme Conrt.

The regular meeting of Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F., was held last evening and there was a good attendance despite the unfavorable weather. Bro. McKee, the Chief Ranger, presided and the usual routine business was transacted, including the recommending of sick benefits for a number of local brethren.

The Court was favored by a visit from Bro. G. N. Brown, of Belleville, Deputy Chief Ranger for Eastern Ontario, who arrived from the east in the afternoon. Bro. Brown gave an interesting address dealing at some length with the proposed changing of the rates for the older members of the Order. In opening he said he had just come from Norwood where he had instituted a new court, which starts with a membership of about thirty-five. He than took up the matter of the proposed rescaling of the rates of the older members of the Order and stated that the proposition to raise the rates was the outcome of the new insurance bill introduced at Ottawa, by the Finance Minister, Hon. Mr. Fielding. The Society preferred to take the matter up with its members before coming to any decision. The question would be settled at the meeting of the Supreme Court in Toronto in June and will be in the hands of the delegates to that gathering. Bro. Brown stated that as the delegates to the Supreme Court would be mostly old members they would naturally look to the interests of the older members. He was of the opinion that the rates for old members would be raised to the same basis as that of present new members of the Order. Those who had come in since 1898 would not be affected.

It may be stated that it is the aim of the head of the Order to comply with the new Insurance Bill and to place the I.O.F. on a permanent basis, ensuring the perpetuity of the Order.

At the conclusion of the meeting a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Bro Brown for his interesting and profitable address.

VERY LITTLE DAMAGE WAS DONE BY LAST NIGHT'S HIGH WIND

There was a very high wind last night with the accompaniment of snow and sleet. Not much damage was done. A few limbs were blown off trees but no fences or anything else were injured by the falling of heavy branches.

LOCAL WIRES ESCAPED

The Review communicated with the Peterborough Light and Power Co., the Otonabee Power Co., and the Bell Telephone Company and they report that no damage was done to their wires in any part of the city. If the sleet had fallen in greater quantities with the high wind that prevailed, there is no doubt that much inconvenience would have resulted.

SLIGHT DAMAGE TO CPR. WIRES.

Slight damage is reported to some CPR. telegraph wires east of Peterborough. They were quickly repaired however and caused no delay.

The GTR. wires were not damaged at all and everything was all right when the station was communicated with today.

The early morning CPR from the east was late this morning owing to the sleet covered tracks and did not arrive until 7.30 o'clock.

MANY ITALIANS WITHOUT WORK AT PRESENT TIME

There are a large number of Italians out of work at the present time in the city. However, they are not hard up as the natives of Sunny Italy usually have something laid by for a rainy day. The fact that they are out of employment at the present time is due largely to the slackness of railway construction work. Many Italians secure employment with construction gangs but there has been very little doing in this line this spring. A number of them went away to work on a railway in Northern Ontario but they returned in a few days as the pay was small and the work much harder than usual. It is a good thing they have some money or they would be in bad shape.

COMPLETING ARRANGEMENTS FOR MISSIONARY INSTITUTE

The exhibit in connection with the Missionary Institute will be under the direction of Principal Dunlop, of the King Edward School and Miss Winnifred D. The general committee will have a final meeting in the same place to-morrow evening. It is expected that everything will be in readiness for the opening of the exhibit on Monday afternoon, May 4th.

The opening meeting will take place in St. Paul's church on Monday night at eight o'clock. Mayor Rush is expected to be present and to welcome the visitors. Rev. J. R. Webb will deliver the opening message. The principal address of the evening will be "The Call of the Canadian West," by Rev. Canon Tucker, D.C.L., of Toronto. Canon Tucker is a speaker of great power. He occupies at present the position of secretary for the General Missionary Organization of the Anglican church and his field extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Formerly he was a successful clergyman in the city of Vancouver. Last year he received the degree of D.C.L. from Bishop's College, Lennoxville and is the author of a book on the church in the West. He is well-known to the city of Peterborough and vicinity and will receive a warm welcome on Monday night.

WAS REPEATED WITH SUCCESS

Another Presentation of "A Day in Flowerdom"—Management Expresses Thanks

"A Day in Flowerdom" was successfully repeated at the Conservatory of Music Hall last night. A good-sized audience was in attendance and the children appeared to better advantage, if possible, than on the opening night, owing to a more thorough understanding of their parts acquired by reason of the first performance. The audience was most appreciative and the presentation was a very excellent one in every way.

Mr. Gliddon is a most competent director of such entertainments and it is most pleasing to see his efforts meet with general approval and support.

The management of "Flowerdom" wish to thank Mr. A. W. Cressman for his kindness in supplying carpets, curtains and draperies, the dressings furnished being most appropriate and aiding much in the securing of the desired stage pictures. Thanks is also expressed to all others who contributed to the success of the operetta.

BANANAS NOT A VERY BIG CROP

And Prices are Likely To Be Firm This Season

A local fruit dealer stated to the Review today that bananas are not a big crop this year, and may be scarce before the summer is over. At present they are retailing in Peterborough at 02 cents a dozen, and it is not improbable that they will not go below this figure. It is not as easy to secure supplies as in some other years and prices are likely to be firm.

Welland has a total assessment of $2,258,620.

SPORTING NEWS

TURF NEWS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM CANADIAN SPORTSMAN

Mr. Eddie Baker, of the Canadian Sportsman, was in the city on his rounds last week and as the result of his visit has published the following in this week's number of the above paper;—

Gerald Dunsford is at Peterborough, where he is handling the stallion Queen's Baron, 2.18 1-4, by Baron Bell, and Hazel Bell, 2.21 1-4, by Malvolio, 2.17 1-4, both owned by Thos. Johnston, V.S. The young trainer also has Lady Gethard, 2.21 1-2, by St. Gethard, and Harry Direct, 2.17 3-4, by Directum. He will race in the Eastern Ontario Circuit.

Donald Fraser, formerly secretary of the Racing Association at London, is now conducting the Snowden House, Peterborough. He is thoroughly posted on the fine points in connection with conducting a race and is also a high-class bonafice.

George Powell, the veteran trainer, and driver, is located at the Peterborough half mile track with the old campaigner, Orillia Belle, 2.15 1-4, City Queen, Black Prince and several young prospectors.

James Daly, of North Bay, well-known as the owner of the pacing mare, Orillia Belle, 2.15 1-4, etc., has just bought out Lew Terwillegar, Belleville, a 2-year-old pacing colt, by Sidney Pointer, 2.07 1-4, dam by Hal Dillard, 2.03 3-4. Great things are reported of this youngster and his turf career will be watched with interest. He is in George Powell's string at Peterborough.

The current issue of the Canadian Sportsman contains the following turf notes of interest to Peterborough turfmen;

George Curtis, the well known Lindsay horseman, owner of Keswick, 2.18 1-4, sire of Maud Keswick, 2.03 3-4, etc., recently made a deal with W. J. Furbush, West Newton, Mass. whereby the latter became the owner of the pacing mare Effie Afton, 2.10 3-4, and Curtis got a bay pacing mare than can step fast, but is eligible to the slow class.

J. N. Johnston, veterinary surgeon of Port Hope, will race the chestnut gelding Billy C., 2.29 1-4, by Allie Wilkes, son of Oliver Wilkes, at the smaller meetings this year.

Nat Ray's pair of pacers, John McEwen, 2.08 1-4, and Prairie Wolf, no record, are now quartered at the Dufferin track in charge of Nat's father, Mr. Charles Ry. The horses look in good fettle and are sure to be winners this year.

THE MATCH ARRANGED TO TAKE, PLACE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

When Hurtubise Will Endeavor to Throw Kennedy Four Times in an Hour—Artie Edmunds Will Give His Celebrated Physical Culture Exhibition.

The date for the handicap wrestling bout between "Gene" Hurtubise and Frank Kennedy has been definitely fixed for May 6th and will take place at the Grand Opera House that is the night "Gene" will undertake to throw the clever German wrestler four times in an hour. As to his ability to do so there is much division of opinion among those who have seen the men on the mat. The bout is creating considerably more interest than even the last one. did on account of its great uncertainty.

EDMUNDS WILL BE HERE

Artie Edmunds the best lightweight handicap wrestler that ever stepped on a mat, will be here and will give a cabinet physical culture exhibition. This act shows Edmund's magnificent development to great advantage and is the best exhibition of its kind ever put on. It has won Edmunds much distinction and has proven a great drawing card in the large American cities. It takes about 20 minutes' time. Edmunds holds the Police Gazette prize presented by Richard K. Fox, proprietor of that journal for the best developed lightweight in America. As an athletic attraction Edmunds' physical culture turn would be hard to beat.

OTHER BOUTS

If it is feasible a handicap match will be arranged between Edmunds and a local wrestler of note and arrangements are being made for another wrestling match. A boxing bout is also under consideration. All details of the programme will be announced in a short time.

The sale of seats opens at the Grand Opera House box office on Tuesday morning next at 10 o'clock.

TO HOLD WALK ON PICNIC DAY

One May be Arranged by T. A. S. for July 1st—From Hall to Grounds

An endeavor is being made to have a walking match on the day of the T.A.S. picnic, July 1st, from the T.A.S. Hall, George street, to the picnic grounds on the Otonabee river.

This would prove a novel athletic event and would be a pleasing variation from the usual order of picnic sport.

LACROSSE

LINDSAY MAY ORGANIZE.

The Lindsay Post says:

The local Y.M.C.A. is trying to re-organize a lacrosse twelve this year. Physical Director Thompson is talking little but lacrosse now and is trying to boost the game. In this he is worthy the support of everyone who calls himself a dead game sport as Canada's National Game surely should find a place in Lindsay. The idea is to get together and see what material there is and if everything is favorable, to organize. Games with outside clubs in Peterobrough, Port Hope and elsewhere could be arranged and some real sport indulged in this summer. All who ever played the game or want to play are requested to send in their names or take them in to Mr. Thompson.

India's War On Rats.

Some facts bearing on the anti-rat campaign were mentioned recently by Commissioner Nicol, of the Salvation Army, in an interview in London. "The army in India is launching out into a regular war on rats," he said. "The inspector-general of hospitals for the Punjab has approved of the Salvation Army plan for the extermination of rats by imported cats. Two thousands rats have recently been destroyed at Gujerat alone. Two cat farms have been started in India, and it is our intention to keep up the breed by sending out consignments of English cats from time to time. It has been proved by a series of experiments that the rat flea, which is the medium of plague infection, does not lodge on the cat. The native will not destroy the rats themselves, owing to religious scruples. But they do not object to the cat campaign, as they have no scruples against one animal killing another. The Salvation Army authorities in India have gone thoroughly into the problem of rat extermination. Captain Liston has made the discovery that guinea pigs can be used as traps to catch the fleas. The guinea pigs are let loose in plague infected houses after the rats have been destroyed. The parasites which have quitted the rats are attracted in numbers to the guinea pigs, 29 per cent. of which subsequently die from the infection. The guinea pigs having been removed with the proper precautions, a thorough clearance of the plague-stricken houses is effected."

Guelph has $20,000 taxes in arrears, some of which have been due since 1905.

HAVING CHILDREN'S EYES EXAMINED

People Suffer Through Life With the Disadvantages of Impaired Vision, as a Result of the Neglect of the Eyes in Childhood.

It is a familiar fact that the acuteness of vision varies extremely among adults, and that certain defects of the eye, such as shortsightedness, can be so completely remedied as to restore to the individual almost perfect sight. Now, there exists among children just such differences in the acuteness of vision as is observed in adults, and many of the defects of the eye originate in the failure of the parents to appreciate these differences. It is a pity to put glasses upon a child, but a greater pity to neglect such when the future well-being of the eyes depend upon their help. Many parents and teachers nowadays realize the importance of having children's eyes properly examined to know whether or not glasses are necessary.

HAD UNEXPECTED VOYAGE.

Policeman Carried Off on Board a British Warship.

After spending four days as a compulsory guest of a battleship, Police Sergeant Gale, of the Metropolitan force, who is stationed at East Ham, has returned to London. He has recently been the most talked-of member of the force.

Gale arrived at Sheerness, where the Nore division of the home fleet was anchored, in charge of a deserter from H.M.S. Bulwark. Chartering a boat, the sergeant boarded the battleship and was formally handing over his prisoner when an officer hurriedly told him to get back into his boat. The fleet, he explained, was under immediate orders to sail.

"I went to the side of the ship," said the police sergeant, "and looked over. My boat was gone! Then I remembered that the boatman had rowed off to another ship. As I stood there in a quandary the engines of the Bulwark started and we steamed away. They told me that it would be impossible now to put me ashore without delaying the whole fleet; in fact, I was helpless!

"You can imagine how worried I felt when I remembered that neither my superior officers nor my wife would know what had become of me. 'Where shall we stop first?' I asked. You can guess my dismay when they told me that the fleet would not anchor until it had reached Invergordon, near the Moray firth.

"The officers treated the affair as a great joke; but they were very kind to me all the same. I was put to 'mess' with the petty officers, and hadn't a stroke of work to do, of course. If it hadn't been for the anxiety of not being able to send a message ashore, I might have enjoyed the trip very much. A boat from the Bulwark put me ashore at Invergordon late on Thursday night. The first place I visited was the telegraph office. Then I took train to Inverness, and came on from there to London — a 600-mile journey, altogether.

To Receive "Miners' V.C."

Richard Merriman, a Notts miner, residing at Shirebrook, has been recommended for the Edward medal (the miners' Victoria Cross) for bravery at Shirebrook Colliery, Notts, last year.

It appears that a strand in one of the conductors which pass through the loops attached to the pit cage became entangled, thereby causing the cage to tilt. Three of the fourteen occupants were pitched out and killed. Had it not been for Merriman, who, with great daring, seized the catches on the cage, all the others must have met with a similar fate.

Wedged in a sitting posture, and expecting every moment to be hurled down the shaft, Merriman clutched the catches with both hands. Though two comrades were hurled upon him, causing a fracture of his thigh, he held the catches for two hours, during which period his comrades were rescued.

As the result of his bravery, Merriman has lost the use of both hands, and the injury to his thigh has forced him to use crutches. He is unable to do any kind of work.

OVERHEAD SIGNS IN OLD ENGLAND

W. A. Bailey Encloses an Interesting Clipping From an English Paper

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The enclosed from a Manchester paper might be interesting to your readers. In your comment on the defeat of W. Churchill at Manchester, you say that Manchester is having hard times. You are mistaken as far as commerce and industry are concerned, for Manchester is at the height of prosperity unheard of in the history of trade.

Yours, &c.,
W. A. BAILEY

The enclosed item is as follows;—Manchester was much perturbed one hundred and thirty-six years ago by the appearance in December, 1771, of the following notice signed by the boroughreeves and constables;—

> With the approbation and concurrence of the magistrates, we, the boroughreeves and constables, request the shopkeepers and innholders of this town, who have not already taken down their signs to do so as soon as possible, and place them against the walls of their houses, as they have been long and justly complained of as nuisances. They obstruct the free passage of the air, annoy the passengers in wet weather, darken the streets, &c. All which inconveniences will be prevented by a compliance with our request, and be manifestly productive both of elegance and utility.

From some of the old pictures of Market Stead Lane, the predecessor of Market street, one can judge as to the necessity for this regulation on the part of the authorities and then by a transition of thought imagine the confusion which would exist to-day if the old fashion of indicating one's place of business by a huge swinging signboard, projecting far into the street, on some strange and wonderful device, in wrought or cast-iron, hung over the footpath, to come crashing down on the unfortunate pedestrian when rude Boreas swept along the street. These old signs, however, were the only means by which the situation of particular shops and houses was indicated, and drastic measures had to be taken before the system of numbering houses (which originated in London) was substituted for the signboard nuisance. To the credit of our ancestors, however, be it remembered that Manchester was the first town in the provinces to place numbers on its house doors.

MR. PRESTON DEALT WITH GOOD SUBJECT

new comers whether they be desirable or undesirable. It is the advent of these new comers that greatly accentuates the difficulties connected with Canadian citizenship. We cannot do much with adults from European Countries. In Brantford there are sixteen hundred of them speaking almost as many languages as there are varieties of Heinz's pickles, living thirty or forty in a house and sleeping four in a bed, a day and a night shift. This is one of the problems that confronts us. We cannot do much for these men. We may and ought to make good citizens of their children.

Canadian citizenship stands for industry and integrity and a true Canadian is as proud of his country as were the old Romans whose boast was "I am a Citizen of Rome." If we are to maintain our high position, our young citizens must not be permitted to grow, like Topsy, wild and neglected. Our Canadian citizenship must be the product of careful and deliberate planning and cultivation. Dr. Parkhurst, of New York, recently said that in order to make a man a really good citizen his training must commence one hundred years before he is born. Our actions to-day help to decide the character of Canadian citizens one hundred years or more hence. How is a citizen produced and what are the elements which go into the making? Heredity counts for much and so does environment in the home. The influence of the home is not as helpful towards the making of a good citizen as it once was and as it ought to be. (Mr. Archibald, who knows, says that the chronic criminal is largely the product of the home. Many children are nurtured in disobedience and wilfulness, and are indulged in everything they want. When the child leaves the home he is restless and impatient of control, he feels that every desire and passion must be gratified and so he passes on into the criminal class. The citizen is not only the product of the home, he is also the product of the street, the shop, the Sunday school, and the books that he reads, and the thoughts he indulges. You can judge of much of the reading by looking at the empty shelves for books of fiction in our public libraries.

But most of all we depend upon the school to make good citizens. Our conceptions about education have changed. In the olden times the great bulk of the children were taught the three R's, and went out into the world, and a favourite few remained to study for the learned professions. Now we think the school should equip the child for citizenship, mentally, morally, physically and industrially. Mr. Preston read from a report of medical examinations in the schools of Manhattan, N. Y., showing that sixty-five per cent. of the children needed medical treatment, diseases of eyes, teeth and throat being most prevalent. Children who had been dull and stupid before treatment were bright and alert after. The removal of physical defects changed their whole lives. The criminal classes were recruited from the ranks of the backward children. There is a close connection between education and morality. It is of very great importance that the health of the school children should be looked after. Mr. Preston read from a report of the Agricultural Department of the State of New York facts to show the importance of a technical industrial training. It is very clear that we expect our children to be trained and equipped for citizenship in the schools mentally, morally physically and industrially. Now, is it possible that this can be done in a two years' course in the Public School? Under the laws of Ontario it is possible for a child to pass out into the industrial life after having been only two years at school. Would six years, instead of two, be an adequate time for such training? It is supposed that a child is obliged to attend school between the years of eight and fourteen. The great majority attend school no longer than this. If six years is all that most children can get we should see that they get that much, but the returns make it quite clear that only fifty-eight per cent of those on the roll actually attend. The enrolment is not a complete record of the children of school age, so that less than half the children who should be in school are not there. The truancy laws in Ontario are practically a dead letter. Only one-third of the municipalities make any return to the Government about school attendance.

A primary education should be the inalienable right of every Canadian child from eight years old to fourteen. It should not be possible for the alleged necessities of parents or anyone else to deprive the child of its birthright. In some parts of the United States children are kept at school through a system of scholarships whereby they receive as much as they would earn, say from two to four dollars a week. The child receives his education and the home is supported to that extent. The home thus loses nothing, and the child and the State gain everything. In Canada the child is excused from attendance at school on the plea of the necessity for him to be at work to help support the home. In New York State the education is made compulsory, and scholarships are given in really deserving cases of necessity and yet last year it only took fifty thousand dollars to do this in the whole State. Of course, the investigation was careful and thorough before aid was given.

We are no longer proud of our self-made men. The days of the log school house are passed. The man who did not have a chance to get a good education is anxious that his children should not be thus hampered in life. It has been found in Massachusetts that the children who leave school at fourteen make only low-grade toilers, and that those who remain until they are sixteen very soon pass them in the industrial world. When the question was gone into, why the children left school at the earlier age, it was found that the invariable reason was because the child himself chose to leave in order to earn money. The child must be taught that it is in his own interest for him to remain longer in school. In order to bring about this end, the school authorities are associating industrial training with book learning. When the boys have passed twelve or fourteen years of age they spend half of each day in industrial or agricultural training. The scholars can see for themselves that they are doing what they will have to do when they leave school and are advancing themselves as wage-earners.

We make a mistake in Ontario in calling some of our schools "High Schools." They are really Primary schools. We should do away with the temptations which we now place before a child to leave school when he passes the High School entrance examination. He should go from the Public school to the University. High school fees should be abolished. Most boys see nothing for them when they leave Public school but Greek and Latin and ten or twelve dollars a year in fees. The fence around the High school is just high enough to keep many out and thus to account for the fact that we have so many common laborers and so few fit to be foremen. Technical education should be much extended in Ontario. We are behind other countries in this respect. Dr. Pyne recently made the statement that one million dollars had been sent by workmen at the Canadian Soo to American Correspondence Schools. In Brantford five hundred mechanics were sending from fifty to seventy-five dollars each every year to an institution on the other side for education which they ought to get in Canada. The Dominion Government has been asked to support technical education. They replied that education was a matter to be dealt with by the provinces only. This can be arranged as it in the United States. Let the Dominion Government give a grant to the provinces for technical education to be supplemented with an equal amount by the provinces who shall administer the fund. Thus the Federal Government while helping, will not be interfering with education.

Mr. Preston did not think we had any condition in Ontario such as called for Mrs. Barrett Browning's "Cry of the Children," or such as existed among the breaker boys of Pennsylvania, or among the textile workers of the south, still under our laws it was possible for children of ten years old to be wage earners and out of school. They can work in any place other than a factory. No educational standard is required before children are permitted to go to work under sixteen. None should be permitted to work under sixteen years of age and night work should be forbidden. There is no control over news-boys, telegraph boys and the like. A boy cannot be in a more dangerous place than out on the streets at night. In Toronto recently an eight-year-old news-boy was run over and killed by the cars, and a six-year-old boy was arrested at eleven o'clock at night for playing the sympathy racket. For five months in the year children may be employed in canning factories. Recent disclosures show that the sanitary condition of these places makes them unfit for children to work in. Mr. Preston proceeded, "I am glad to say that the present Government, acting upon my suggestion, and backed up by Mr. Tudhope, have thoroughly investigated the whole question, and I have the intimation that we may expect proper restrictive legislation at the next session of the Legislature."

Morality is not taught in the home as it ought to be, and as wealth and luxury increase the moral influence of the home is lessened. Moral teaching is left to the Sunday school and day school. Are there any text books on ethics in our schools? We have a more or less perfunctory reading of the Bible, but denominational differences make it impossible to adopt the Bible as a text book. But why not have some good biographies? Biographies, not of men who got rich suddenly, but of men who perhaps lived uprightly and died poor, biographies that will put more fibre into the youth of our land. Why should we not place greater emphasis than we have done upon self-sacrifice? (Why do we not teach our children about Abigail Becker, who rescued single handed from the icy waters the ship-wrecked sailors, about H. A. Harper, who gave his life in the attempt to save the life of Miss Blair, on the river at Ottawa, and who when told that he was going to certain death on the thin ice, asked, "What else can I do?" of Sarah Maxwell, the Montreal heroine who gave her life to the flames in the effort to save her school children? Our children should be taught that even their lives may be held too dear. We should teach patriotism by telling of Wolfe and Brock and De Salaberry, and Madeleine Vercheres. Nor should we forget Laura Secord. We should tell the children of the magnanimous treatment of the conquered French by the British who left to the French their laws and institutions, and of the gratitude of the French when later they saved Canada to the British invader. National toleration has worked well with the French in Quebec and with the Boers in South Africa and this is proved by the position occupied by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Canada and General Botha in South Africa. The children should be taught if necessary to die for Canada or to die for others, but better still that they should live for Canada and live for others, that the highest form of life is service, that giving is better than getting.

"I live for those who love me,
For those who know me true,
For the heaven that smiles above me
And awaits my spirit too;
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrongs that need resistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that I can do."

"I have sought to present to you a rough conception of what the Canadian citizen of the twentieth century ought to be. If my ideal is yours let us join hands and try to realize it."

In moving the vote of thanks Mr. G. M. Roger referred to the impressions he had received from the able address he had heard.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong seconded the motion in a few well chosen words.

Mr. Preston gratefully acknowledged the sentiments of his hearers.

Mr. A. Mowat, Inspector of Public Schools, also added a few remarks along educational lines.

The gathering dispersed with the singing of the National Anthem.

WAS CLEVER SWINDLER

NOTORIOUS THIEF DIES IN LONDON HUNGRY AND PENNILESS.

Was Once Successful and Wealthy—Carried Out Some Colossal Frauds—Found Dupes In All Walks of Life—Posed as Landed Proprietor—Served Term of Fourteen Years In Prison.

One of the most notorious, unscrupulous, and successful swindlers of modern times has died, hungry and penniless, in a London lodging-house.

Few men have made money more easily than did Richard Kenyon Benham, and few have left more victims in their wake than he did. He found dupes in all walks of life, from the modest investor of a few shillings to Cabinet Ministers.

Benham was the son of a solicitor's clerk, and first came into public notice in 1878, when he founded a high-class club in suburban London, which has since become a fashionable resort. When starting the club he obtained large quantities of goods by fraud, representing that he was a landed proprietor of great wealth.

Then he went to Brussels with $750, which he had obtained from a bank manager on the pretence that he was anxious to procure certain deeds. In the Belgian capital a habit of uttering fictitious checks led to his arrest, and the discovery that certain leases which he held of property in Piccadilly and Charing Cross were forgeries.

In 1884 he established a bank at Charing Cross, which he called the "Western Bank of London," and, although this institution did not keep its doors open more than about ten months, Richard Benham was able to use it as a means of swindling many people in different parts of the country.

Two years later Benham commenced a series of frauds on the London and General Bank, which lasted seven years, and ended in the institution losing $245,000, and for this he was sent to fourteen years' penal servitude in 1893, his brother Alfred being sentenced to five years' hard labor. Of this money $220,000 was obtained by means of a forged will. This purported to be executed by his father, Mark Benjamin Benham, and under it Richard was to come into property worth more than $500,000.

From time to time Benham was pressed to prove the will, but he made several excuses, and finally alleged that the document had been lost on the Underground Railway.

When the London and General Bank made inquiries into these matters it was discovered that Mark Benjamin Benham, the father, who was said to have left all this money, had not a sixpence in the world when he died. For some years before his death he had occupied an office jointly with a solicitor, who, having no business himself, lent his name to other people.

Benham's frauds on the London and General Bank hastened the downfall of that institution, and added to the general ruin and loss which was inflicted on the hapless victims of the Liberator Companies.

All through the frauds Benham had a country house at Tunbridge Wells. There he obtained $10,000 from a Mr. Roley. He established a volunteer fire brigade in the town, to which he presented a manual fire engine and a complete outfit of uniforms, etc. None of these, however, were paid for.

Benham's plausible way and a lavish display of bogus documents deluded even men of long experience. The late Mr. Mundella, who was vice-president of the Council for Education in Mr. Gladstone's Government of 1880 and subsequently President of the Board of Trade, was completely deceived by his "tall talk," and the Minister's innocent association with an enterprise with which Benham was connected wrecked (in 1894) his political career. After making in the House of Commons a pathetic explanation of his position, Mr. Mundella resigned office.

Benham secured money time and again simply by boasting of friendships with dukes and royal personages that were purely imaginary.

One day he went to Victoria Station to meet his sister-in-law, who had come from America. As he alighted from his hired brougham he met a wealthy City man with whom he had a slight acquaintance.

"Just the man I wanted to see," said Benham. "I am meeting the Duchess of Albany, and am letting her have $25,000. Now, I have only $20,000 ready. If I take Her Royal Highness into the Grosvenor Hotel can you get me the other five thousand? I don't care a toss about the commission, as I am about to lend the Duke of Connaught $150,000."

The City man found the money, and Benham handed over $1,000, saying that was the commission, and he would give it all to his friend. The latter lost his $4,000, and apparently did not proceed against Benham for fear of ridicule.

On one occasion Benham asked a man whom he intended to victimize to take a sum of $950 to the bank. The man complied, and naturally looked at the pass-book, where he saw Benham credited with $10,000. Benham had prepared for the man's inquisitiveness by adding a nought to the figures.

At Christmas, 1906, Benham walked into the London Trading Bank, engaged the manager in conversation, and said he intended to make the clerks a present of ten guineas. He put down the money, but borrowed $50 from the manager and $50 from the secretary. The loans were never repaid.

Quite recently Benham started the Lincoln's Inn Bank in Carey street, and at the time of his death detectives were at his heels in connection with its affairs.

Benham married a lady of means, but squandered her fortune, and they did not live together, although, as the lady explained at the inquest, they were not legally separated.

Transmitted Snake Bite.

An extraordinary case of snake poisoning is reported from a country hospital in Victoria. An old man was brought in in a comatose state and showing all the symptoms of having been bitten by a venomous snake. But on investigation it was found he had been bitten by a dog, which died almost immediately afterward from snake bite. Medical treatment was successful, and the man gradually recovered from the snake poison which the reptile had indirectly transmitted to him.—Pall Mall Gazette.

"Yes, dear—right here beside you, though you can't see him."

Philip turned solemnly.

"Hello, God!" he said.—New York Life.

A Warning.

He divined her purpose.

Before she could ask him to be hers he had slipped through the open window and was on his way to the docks whence the foreign bound vessels sail.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE SENDS LETTER TO MR. BRADBURN, M.P.P.

Regarding His Proposition in Connection With the Forthcomming Elections—Explains What His Object Was

The Liberal candidate, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, has sent the following letter to Mr. T. E. Bradburn, MPP in reply to the one published in the Review yesterday:

Peterborough, April 30, 1908.
T. E. Bradburn, Esq.,

I have your letter of April 29th, replying to my open letter of April 20th. I regret it if I did not make it plain that my letter of the 20th as well as this letter was an open one, referring as it did to a matter in which the public have the largest interest.

Contrary to what you suggest, my latter and the proposition it involved was written in perfect good faith and with no other purpose than to join with you in an effort to meet your desire, as expressed to me personally for a "clean straight fight." It was not to gain any political advantage, it was only intended to bring about a mutual agreement that would show the people that we were both determined, as far as lay in our power, to conduct the coming election on straight lines and in accordance with the requirements of the Election Law.

In my open letter I made no reference to past elections, nor to the manner in which they were conducted; my only concern is in the present contest. Before the nomination and since, I have made it clear that one condition of my acceptance was, that I would not, myself, exercise any undue influence nor be a party to its use in my behalf in the election campaign. I was willing to bind myself to this course and in order to permit my opponent to join with me in mutually carrying out such a course, I addressed you my letter of the 20th, making the proposal that we jointly sign an agreement that would prevent the practice of any undue influence of any kind, either by ourselves or in our behalf.

I concluded my last letter by asking that if you did not entertain my proposal you would submit to me an alternative proposition with a like object in view. I regret that you have rejected my proposition and ignored the alternative. I had not a thought in the proposition I made of questioning your honor in the slightest degree. I should not have felt reflected upon by receiving a similar proposition from you or any other person under similar circumstances.

Yours sincerely,
Signed—G. A. GILLESPIE

DIALOGUE WAS VERY AMUSING

The concert under the auspices of the Girl's Guild of the George street Methodist church held in the schoolroom last night was a highly successful one nearly four hundred being in attendance.

The programme was as follows;

Piano duet—Misses Gumpricht.
Solo—Miss Manning.
Reading—Mr. Soden.
Selection—George Street Male Quartette.
Solo—Miss Howell.
Violin solo—Miss Wallace.

Those taking part in the dialogue were:

Misses Ruth Carlisle, Ida Shera, Alma Storey, H Dobbin, Nicholls, Eypres, Edgecumbe, Elliott, L. Belleghem Gray, Lily Carlisle, Stewart.

ENGLISHMEN HAD SCUFFLE ON HUNTER ST.

Appeared in Police Court This Morning---Case Was Dismissed

John Sadler was charged in the police court this morning with assaulting Robert Lober on Tuesday last. Sadler pleaded not guilty. Each told his story but on the evidence adduced the case was dismissed.

Robt Lober, the complainant, said that he boarded at Sadler's place. He was told to leave. Last Monday he went to get his clothes but the defendant kept them for board. On Tuesday morning witness met Sadler on Hunter street. He said that Sadler struck him twice and used abusive language towards him.

John Sadler was called. He said that Lober came to his house about five months ago. He had lived there all winter and had only paid five dollars for board. Last Monday he wanted his things from the house but witness refused until he paid him at least one month's board. They had a little scuffle on Hunter street on Tuesday morning but Lober was the aggressor.

James Jordan was called. He saw the fracas on Hunter street on Tuesday. One shoved as much as the other and there were no blows struck.

"I should like to say that Mr. Jordan is telling lies," said Lober.

His Worship dismissed the case.

A GENUINE COBALT OPPORTUNITY

The Casey Mountain Cobalt Mining and Developing Company, Limited

INCORPORATED UNDER THE ONTARIO MINING COMPANIES INCORPORATION ACT

No Personal Liability Not Subject to Call

CAPITAL $250,000.00

250,000 Shares - - $1.00 Each

HEAD OFFICE, Manning Chambers, - - - - - - TORONTO

As previously announced in this space, we give some particulars concerning our mining properties, which should be of interest to the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity:

PROPERTIES CONTROLLED

The Company's holdings consist of 8 forty acre claims in one Block situate about eighteen miles from the Town of Cobalt in the Township of Casey, on what is known as "Casey Mountain," upon which deposits of native silver have been encountered, running over 8,000 ozs, per ton.

BUILDINGS, MACHINERY, DEVELOPMENT, Etc

There has been erected on the property a large boarding house, sleeping camps, blacksmith shop, shaft house, boiler house and Superintendent's quarters. A modern steam plant has been in operation during the past ten months and about 300 feet of underground development work has been done, besides considerable surface work, trenching and stripping of veins.

12 TRUE FISSURE VEINS UNCOVERED

There has been uncovered to date 12 fissure veins, varying in width from 16 inches to 8 feet, all carrying silver, cobalt, nicolite and arsenic. These veins have been stripped for several hundred feet, and all have free walls, and are well defined.

Big chimney, or lode of ore struck at 50 foot level.
16 feet wide from wall to wall.

While the main shaft was at a depth of 50 feet on a 30 inch vein a tunnel was driven into the mountain along the vein, and at a distance of twenty feet a chimney of ore was broken into 16 feet wide, with silver values of about $20.00 per ton, and we believe this to be the greatest strike of low grade ore ever encountered in the district. This tunnel was continued for a distance of 75 feet through this chimney of ore, when it was decided to sink the shaft to the 100 foot level, and again tap this great lode at this lower level. While driving tunnel at the 100 foot level the large body of ore was encountered at a distance of only 10 feet from the shaft, the chimney having widened 10 feet in the 50 feet of depth, and values were found to have increased fully 40 per cent., and we have in sight or above us several thousand tons of silver ore that will net the Company a handsome profit with the installation of a concentrating plant that can be installed with a capacity of 100 tons per day for the sum of $15,000.00 that will reduce the ore 15 tons to one and thereby save freight charges on 14 tons of rock.

COBALT, NICOLITE AND LEAF SILVER ENCOUNTERED AT 120 FOOT LEVEL

Apart from the enormous body of low grade ore in sight, there has been encountered, while sinking the main shaft, cobalt, nicolite and leaf silver in the metallic form, these metals having come in at the 120 foot level, and another chimney of yet unknown width has also been struck at this depth, directly opposite to the one encountered at the 50 foot level, and our Superintendent reports that the two great lodes of ore are coming together which will constitute one continuous body of ore.

It is now proposed to drive a tunnel into this large ore body at the 125 foot level, and commence bagging ore for shipment, as the last report received a few days ago from our Superintendent stated that he had unlimited quantities of good ore in sight.

We give the following reasons why "Casey Mountain" will become one of the great dividend paying mines of the Cobalt district and there are many :—

First.—A large area, that is a regular net work of veins, running for three-quarters of a mile through the entire property, that will go down several thousand feet, and not pinch out.

Second.—We have the stuff in unlimited quantities, and the property has scarcely yet been scratched.

Third.—A capitalization of only $250,000.00 in which to pay dividends on.

Fourth.—No promotion stock has been issued to promoters that has not been paid for.

Fifth.—A management that are endeavoring to do a mining busines, (not a stock speculation.)

Sixth.—The directors of this Company have shown their faith in the property by investing heavily in the stock, and up to date very few shares have been disposed of outside of friends of the Company, as it has been the desire of the directors to hold the stock as closely as possible and dispose of only sufficient number of shares to enable the Company to carry on development until returns are received from shipments, and for a short time only the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity will have an opportunity of a small block at par value, $1.00 per share, and those desiring to invest should make application at once to the Head Office, Manning Chambers, Toronto, as this will be the only Treasury stock that will be issued at par value.

Additional information can be had during the next few days by applying to R. G. Williamson at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, President of the Company, or Dr. H. A Wood, Secretary-Treas., 408½ George St, Phone 20A, Peterborough, Ont.

"BLACK HAND" METHODS BEING ADOPTED TO SECURE MONEY

Belleville People Receive Perturbing Letters—Death is Threatened if Requests for Money are Not Complied With.

Word comes from Belleville that "Black Hand" methods are being used there in an endeavor to secure money from certain persons. Letters are being sent to citizens asking them to leave specified sums of money at places mentioned or take the consequences if the request is not complied with. The consequences as stated by the letter writer or writers consist of death or the burning of property and sometimes both are mentioned. One young man received a letter threatening him with death if he did not leave $500 at the public library. From another man $200 was asked and his death and the destruction of his property were threatened if he did not leave the money at a specified place.

The majority of citizens are inclined to treat the matter as the work of some joker but despite this, those who have been receiving the letters are not feeling at all comfortable. The police and several private detectives are working on the case and if the guilty party is apprehended he will be severely dealt with.

The matter has caused a lot of talk in Belleville and it is said that many women are afraid to go out alone at night.

SAID TO HAVE OBTAINED LEAD AND COPPER UNLAWFULLY

Peter Warner Appeared Before Magistrate Dumble This Morning—Much Evidence Taken—Judgment Reserved a Week

Peter Warner came up before His Worship Magistrate Dumble this morning on a charge of stealing a quantity of lead, copper and brass from a Stewart street resident on Wednesday, April 22nd. Crown Attorney R. E Wood conducted the prosecution and Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the prisoner and pleaded not guilty. Considerable evidence was taken but His Worship reserved judgment for a week.

The complainant was called. She said that she had new plumbing put in her house and the old taken out. The old material was taken from her place a week ago last Wednesday. It consisted of lead brass taps, and a quantity of copper. "The prisoner came to our house about three weeks ago wanting to know if we had anything to sell." The witness said "no" but he was told there would likely be something in a short while.

The complainant's father was called. The prisoner came to the witness a week ago last Wednesday and said that he had been talking with the lady of the house regarding the lead. The witness then showed him where it was. Warner began picking it over and putting it in his wagon. He gave the witness three dollars and went away to the Peter Hamilton scales to have it weighed. He returned with a ticket with the weight on it. He paid two dollars and twenty cents more and while the witness was in the house he picked up a copper and zinc boiler.

Mr. T. M. Leahy employed at the Peter Hamilton Co. was the next witness. He weighed the lead for him The net weight was 425. Only one load was weighed.

Mr. Sturgeon of the firm of Hutchison and Sturgeon, was called. Warner came to their store on April 22nd with some lead pipe to dispose of. He said that he was waiting for Mr. R. G. Sutherland to buy it but he was away. Mr. Sturgeon offered him ten dollars for it. Warner said that it weighed 445 pounds but on weighing it witness found it to only weigh 419 pounds. Twelve dollars was finally agreed upon as the price to be paid for it.

Mr. Abraham Lomes said that he bought from Peter Warner, 54 pounds of zinc, 23 pounds of copper and 20 pounds lead, 8 pounds brass taps, 1 pound rubber, 194 pounds iron on April 22nd at 4 o'clock.

Peter Warner went into the box. He said that he saw the complainant about two weeks before he bought the lead. She told him to come back again as she had nothing for sale then A week ago last Tuesday he went back and got a quantity of lead, zinc and copper. He had some iron and lead on the wagon which he got in Lakefield the same day. The lead belonging to the complainant weighed 345 pounds.

CARRIED OFF THE BRIDE.

Wedding Festivities Stopped by Masked Men In Ireland.

A fickle Irishman who jilted a girl and married another in spite of the parish priest is having the worst time of his life at the hands of the neighbors.

He lives in the notorious Ballinagleragh district of County Leitrim, where a pitched battle took place a few weeks ago between two armies of police and peasants, and for years had been courting the local beauty. A little while ago he transferred his affections to her rival, also of Ballinagleragh.

The jilted girl's relatives did their utmost to prevent the wedding taking place. They were supported by the parish priest, who is a power in Ireland in these matters. He refused the necessary certificate. The young man thereupon went to the bishop of the diocese, but the bishop upheld his priest.

The young man, however, is a person of resource, and told the clergy that he would go and get married in a registry office in the distant town of Enniskillen. Nobody in Ballinagleragh believed that he would fly in the face of the parish priest, but he did.

The night he brought his bride home an extraordinary scene occurred. A large crowd collected outside the house where the dancing and feasting were in progress, and groaned and hooted. The groaning ceased about midnight, and the festivities continued.

An hour later about thirty men, wearing crepe masks, burst in the door of the cottage and called on the father of the bride to take his daughter home, with the alternative of being seriously dealt with.

The old man thereupon took his daughter away. The valiant bridegroom declared he would accompany them. The trio marched in the small hours of the morning toward the home of the bride's parents to the accompaniment of groaning and hooting. When about a mile of the journey had been traversed, the bridegroom was seized by another disguised band and compelled to go back to his own home.

This occurred several days ago, and the bridegroom has not seen his bride since. He has not been allowed to leave his house, and the bride has not been allowed to leave her father's. Both houses are watched night and day.

The police are powerless to restore order in the district or to prevent this very original form of boycotting.

A. M. Nanton will represent the C. P.R. on the conciliation board at Winnipeg.

Peter Cline, of Hamilton, may lose the sight of an eye from a stream of lime water striking him in the face.

AN APPEAL TO BRITAIN; JAPAN MAKES A REQUEST

Asks That Chinese Boycott be Ended—Situation Arose Out of the Tatsu Maru Incident and Has Become Serious and Acute.

Pekin, May 2.—It was understood here yesterday by Chinese officials that the purpose of the Washington authorities in dividing the American battleship fleet into two squadrons to enable the vessels to visit Japan and China simultaneously and the disappointment in a measure has been essened.

An impression prevails among the Chinese that what they call the definite purposes of the fleet's presence n Asiatic waters have been foiled by n attempt to neutralize the political nterpretations that have been given o the fleet's movements in the far east, particularly at this time when China's difficulties are increasing.

Japan is feeling a serious situation s a result of the boycott arising from he Tatsu Maru incident. This was he steamship that was seized by the Chinese authorities last February on he ground that she was carrying arms nd ammunition to Chinese revolutionists. Japan forced China to give up the ship and salute the Japanese flag, and this crystallized the ill-feeling against Japan in China and resulted in a boycott of Japanese goods.

Admiral Ijuin of the Japanese navy, whose cruiser squadron is anchored off Taku, was received in audience by the Emperor and Empress Dowager yesterday. Coincident with this occurrence Japan is seeking the support of Great Britain to put a stop to the boycott by joint representations. The boycott is increasing, and Japan is not satisfied with Chinese efforts to put a stop to it.

China, by means of a campaign in the foreign and native press, is making an intelligent and consistent effort to bring western influence to bear on Japan, but Japan, it is said here, regards this course as hostile and connects it with what the Japanese call the American championing of China's independence, and the action of Englishmen in the Far East against the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

A GOOD THING IN POULTRY

Woman Found Diamond in Hen, But Breed is Not Widespread

Spokane, Wash., May 2.—This is mething about four ordinary hens, presenting an investment of $2.48, hich yielded Mrs. J. F. Hanifen, ving at 28 Augusta avenue, a clear rofit of $150, besides supplying her mily with roast chicken and other delicacies for a week. While dressing e of the hens, Mrs. Hanifen discovered a cut diamond of three-quarters karat in the bird's gizzard, a jeweler placing a value of $150 to $200 the stone.

The hens were raised in Spokane, Mrs. Hanifen buying them from a neighbor three months ago. Where the one came from is not known. Mrs. Hanifen is of the opinion that it came from a bag of wheat, probably having been dropped by one of the thresher-men working in the Palouse district last fall, but there are others who believe it was picked up in the street while the hens were allowed to scratch. Mr. Hanifen is making efforts to find the owner of the gem, which is clear and brilliant.

A Great Grain Fleet.

Port Arthur, May 2.—Never in the history of the past has there been witnessed such a rush for grain as there has been in the past two days. t the head of the lakes yesterday was fleet of forty-three boats with a carrying capacity of four and one-half million bushels of wheat.

It is believed that by the close of aturday that over six million bushels will have been shipped from here. The elevators are lined with vessels waiting to get under the spouts.

An Action Entered.

Port Arthur, May 2.—E. S. Hunt as entered action against W. O. Robins of this place for $5,000 for slander. This is a result of evidence given by Robins in the liquor license investigation, in which Robins stated that instead of Hunt having given commissioners money that he, Hunt, kept $600 which was alleged to have been put up by Rivers, an applicant or the license, as the result of an investigation at a meeting of Conservatives.

Case Against the Dreamers Has Taken on a New Phase.

Medicine Hat, May 2.—The case against the Dreamers took a new form yesterday when August Nieman, son of Frederick, was discharged on a charge of arson and conspiracy, and re-arrested on a warrant for perjury. Evidence given during the hearing by Nieman was produced, showing him to have stated that he had never spoken to John Lehr, that he had not read the Bible or been present at the meeting on April 11, and that John Reib was not present either.

Corpl. Humbyand and Rev. John Siklak, interpreter, testified as to the correctness of the evidence as recorded. John Lehr swore to two occasions when the prisoner had taunted him, calling him accursed Satan. Frederick Nieman swore that his son, the prisoner, was at the meeting on April 11 in the afternoon and read the Bible. Young Reib was also there. Witness knew of no reason why his son should have sworn to the contrary. Jacob Reib testified to the same effect as did his son John. The latter also testified regarding the prisoner shouting to John Lehr at the coal mine. The prisoner was committed to trial by Inspector Parker.

Real Tragedy This Time.

Middleton, N.Y., May 2.—James H. Wallick, formerly an actor and owner of the play "The Bandit King," in which he toured the country, committed suicide in the Commercial Hotel here yesterday.

He had declared that he would never take an anaesthetic which was necessary in order to perform a surgical operation on an injured arm, and this is believed to have been the reason for his suicide.

He left several letters, one of which was addressed to Eleanor Merron Cowper of New York City, who wrote several of his plays.

Bomb Fiend Busy.

Cincinnati, May 2.—A diabolical attempt was made shortly before midnight Thursday night to destroy the palatial quarters of the fashionable Phoenix Club at Ninth and Race streets, by placing in the main entrance an infernal machine, so constructed that it would explode at the time the door was opened.

The bomb was fired, but beyond the permanent maiming of one man, no great damage was done.

SOME REMINISCENCES OF THE NORTHWEST REBELLION OF '85

Peterborough Man Who Was a Member of Local Company, Tells of His Experiences—Series of Articles by Mr. Jos. Crowe—The Hardtack Was Appropriately Named—The March to the West.

To-day the Review publishes the first instalment of a series of articles on the Northwest rebellion of 1885, written by Mr. Jos. Crowe, of this city, who was a member of the company from Peterborough, or rather, Ashburnham, that was a part of the regiment that went to quell the uprising. Mr. Crowe treats the subject in a very interesting manner.

Mr. Editor,—Having read in a late issue of your paper a short account of the enlisting and forming up of troops for the west in 1885, I thought as I am at present at leisure, that I could enlarge on the brief account given, especially so when the citizens always enjoy reading anything written about those stirring times. So with your permission, I will give a few reminiscences of my own experience and whatever I can at present recollect to the best of my ability.

Orders arrived that the 57th Regiment were required to send a company of 42 men officered, which would be one captain, two lieutenants, 45 all told.

The names of those who went, with place of residence is as follows:—

Peterborough—Sergt. Miles, Pt. W. Reynolds, Pt. Wm. Cook, Pt. Wm. Despard, Pt. Silas Parkes, Pt. Wm. Brown, Pt. John Beach, Pt. Jas. Hannah, Pt. A. Crowter, Pt. Geo. Crowter, Pt. Jack Roberts, Pt. Thos. Billings, Pt. Edd. Dailey, Pt. Bell, Pt. Matheson.

Ashburnham—Pt. T. Graham, Pt. Jos. Crowe, Pt. Sergt. Tyler, Pt. Geo. Tanner, Pt. Alf. Rogers, Pt. John Cochrene, Pt. Burt Downer.

Keene—Pt. Marsh Weir, Pt. Wm. Wedlock, Pt. Duncan McIntyre, Pt. Jas. McFee, Pt. Ross, Sergt. Marks, Pt. Angus Phillips.

Norwood—Capt. Burke, Lieut. Brennan, Corp. Hendron, Pt. M. Leery, Pt. H. Hill, Pt. Woods, Pt. H. Hogan, Pt. Jessie Cummings.

Hastings—Pt. Jos. Thomson, Pt. Mat Breckenridge, Pt. M. Lynch, Pt. T. Anderson, Pt. M. H. Biggs.

Our first fall-in sounded on the 28th of March, and we marched to the C.P.R. station to give the Toronto troops a send-off as they passed through enroute for the scene of action. On the 31st of March orders were received to be prepared to be prepared to leave no April 1st. The bugle sounded the fall-in on that morning at 6 a.m. and many of us had no trouble in getting up, as few of us went to bed, but the writer was just a shade late, but caught on at the corner of Simcoe and George streets as they were marching down to the G.T.R. station. The citizens were out en masse and the band was out in full force, the writer being a member. The music sounded beautiful so early in the morning. We finally got started, going via Auburn and Ashburnham. We had refreshments at the latter place, which had a reputation in those days of being very generous to the boys in red, as our Colonel was one of their number. It was a common occurrence for the ladies to serve refreshments to all three companies when we had a marchout out those nights. All aboard and we were off for Kingston, where we were to form a part of as fine a regiment as ever donned a uniform in this or any other country. This regiment contained companies from the following places;—15th Regiment, of Belleville; 40th, of Northumberland; 45th, of Lindsay; 40th, two companies; 47th, of Frontenac; 49th, of Hastings County; 57th, of Peterborough County. 8 companies in all. All wore the red coat, except the 49th, which were a rifle corps. The right strength was about 400 men rank and file. Now each company takes precedence according to their numbers. Belleville city being 15th, they were called A. Company; next was 40th; B. Company, 45th, Lindsay, C. Company and so on, so you can easily see where the 57th stood, though through no fault of their's. But as the 29th wore black boots they placed them in the rear, which gave us the privilege of not being last.

AN INCIDENT.

The train was soon on its way and we took a long look at the disappearing city, when an incident happened which is worth recording. The locomotive blew loud and long, as if something were on the track. Every window was soon hoisted and heads were crowed to look out to see what the matter was. A drove of cattle were alongside the track and one of them had fell into a large culvert. We could just see her about one foot higher than the ties on the track. The train soon came to a stop and several went out to see the cow taken out of the culvert. There were a deal of arguing as to how the animal could be taken out, some suggesting lifting her bodily out, but enough could not get a hold to do the trick, but Alf. Rogers sized up the situation and at once took up a position and got the best hold there was on the animal. He got her by the tail, and, say, he just raised that cow half way out of where she was. But he was a very powerful man, and the poor cow would never have any more good of her tail, as he actually pulled out of joint. However, when the soldiers seen how he lifted her they very soon got down and lifted the beast to a place of safety.

AT KINGSTON.

We arrived in Kingston and quartered in Leo De Pont Barracks. We were quickly ordered to fall in to be inspected by some officials, and to arrange for clothing, etc. The clothing we had on was as poor a fit as you could imagine, and some of the men never drilled before, and knew nothing of order or discipline, one place also to make matters worse the most of them had been smelling the cork and the result was that quite a few had to be put in the guard room for the night. We were next day issued with brand new uniforms from head to foot. The shoes were of red leather. We had following; A scarf or muffler, a leggings made of strips of cloth about 4 inches wide which we circled around our pants, up to the knees, which gave the men a natty appearance. Each man was served out with the knapsack with a canteen on top of it; a new rifle. It was a mistake to issue Glengarry caps, for a trip of this kind as they were of very little use as far as protection from the elements went. An oil cloth blanket a very large overcoat which was folded very neatly on the back of the knapsack. This knapsack when the whole equipment was in it and overcoat strapped on it, weighed about 25 pounds.

LOOKED LIKE PRISON

The barracks at Kingston reminded us of a large prison. We were placed in a very large room on the hard floor. The men were hard to control owing to a great number of them never being under military rule, and order was out of the question. I remember an officer going his rounds at lights out and he received a severe blow from a boot which some one threw in the dark at him, which called for an investigation which made none the wiser. But no officer came looking for any more trouble while we were here.

The rations were fair but the most of the men were not accustomed to soldier diet. The canteen did a rushing business. The canteen is the bar or liquor refreshment booth of the barracks. This place appeared to me as if some men never left it for the six days that we were here. The quenching of their thirst seemed to be all that troubled them. We were in receipt of orders to proceed at shortest notice to the front. But a heavy snow storm set in for four days, blocking all the railway trains.

HANDLING OF DOUKHOBORS IS CALLED NATIONAL SCANDAL

Mr. Borden so Describes it—Are They to be Bundled From Province to Province?—Messrs. Aylesworth and Oliver on the Defensive—Claim They Were Not Responsible for Fort William Offence Against Decency.

Ottawa, May 2.—For a while yesterday afternoon the House discussed the wandering and eccentric Doukhobors. The Opposition attempted to fix the responsibilty for the latest trick of the crazy colony, but Ministers Aylesworth and Oliver denied stoutly that this Government was to blame for the Fort William offence against decency.

Mr. Lake referred to the statement of the Prime Minister on Thursday night that the disposition of the band, who had been returned to Saskatchewan and were offending the ordinary laws of society, was in the hands of provincial authorities.

Detailing the circumstances in connection with the arrest of the Doukhobors he said when they were pardoned they slipped out of jail triumphant in that they had successfully defied the laws.

The release of these people was a public scandal, according to Mr. Lake.

Disclaimed Responsibility.

Mr. Aylesworth disclaimed any responsibility except for the release of the prisoners.

It proceeded on the direct request of the Attorney-General of Ontario. In this case the offence was against social order and good morals, but there had not been any intention to commit crime. The petition for their release from prison was very strongly supported, it being shown that those of the party who were not in jail were not willing to return to their homes unless accompanied by their fellows.

Mr. Aylesworth said he had acted just as he would have in the case of Canadians. Once pardoned, they were free to go where they pleased. There was no disposition to take these people out of the hands of the Province of Ontario and saddle them on Saskatchewan.

Mr. Borden observed that the Province of Ontario had a perfect right to desire to get rid of these people. Suppose they were incarcerated in Saskatchewan and again released, would they be assisted to a warmer climate, say in British Columbia? Mr. Borden commented on the bundling of the kind from place to place, and thought it time the Government put a stop to this national scandal.

Mr. Oliver claimed the immigration department had no responsibility for the conduct of the people they bring in. In the past nine years the Doukhobor colony had been law-abiding and had given little trouble. They had been welcome wherever they had gone, except during this last pilgrimage, and the people heard their songs and admired their peculiarities.

Mr. Oliver thought the trouble was brought about by the provincial authorities attempting to be relieved of the responsibility of carrying out their own laws.

Dr. Roche commented on the change of tone of Mr. Oliver, who some years ago before he was a Minister wrote some very caustic articles on these people. He hoped Dr. Cash would support the people of Yorkton in protesting against this outfit being unloaded on the community. The peculiarities of them during their stay in Fort William were such as to show the whole community. In fact ever since those pets of Mr. Sifton came to the country they had been a nuisance, exactly as Mr. Oliver had stated a few years ago in his own paper, The Edmonton Bulletin. This article, strongly condemnatory of the Douks and their pilgrimages and methods, was read in full by Dr. Roche to the intense enjoyment of the House, especially the passage in which Mr. Oliver's article declared their principles to be a mixture of theocracy, socialism and anarchy, and demanded their return to Russia, as did also The Toronto Globe.

Dr. Roche concluded by protesting in the name of the West against the special treatment accorded to these people. Dr. Sproule suggested that they be placed on Mr. Sifton's numerous estates in the West, and be looked after by W. T. R. Preston.

Mr. Taylor brought up the matter of the purchases of fire-extinguishers at the request of the Minister of Marine, and the curious fact that the brother of the Postmaster-General was prevented from being the Liberal candidate in Ottawa by the fact becoming known that he, although a lawyer, had received a commission of $3 each on 195 extinguishers sold the Government.

It was when Sir Wilfrid was shown the checks for the commissions that he called Mr. Lemieux off. Mr. Taylor wanted to know how it came that the Public Works Department paid Mr. Lemieux $15 for each extinguisher which had been bought by the Marine Department for $14 each.

"We remember," continued Mr. Taylor, "when the late Minister of Railways left his seat on account of the transcontinental project, and it was supposed he was going to take the stump against the Government that the Prime Minister called the late Mr. Blair and asked him his intention, and then Mr. Blair said:

"I am going to run in Opposition to this scheme," and the information is that "the Prime Minister put his hand in his pocket and pulled out some checks that a big contractor had paid to Mr. Blair with the latter's name signed on the back of them."

At this point Sir Wilfrid rose and said: "In justice to the memory of Mr. Blair, I must say that there is not a word of truth in that."

"I am glad to hear it," rejoined Mr. Taylor. "I thought it was my duty however, to mention the matter to the right hon. gentleman."

Mr. Knowles (West Assiniboia) brought up yesterday the failure of the C.P.R. to construct branch lines for which they had received charters. He referred to the Moosejaw-Lacombe branch, a charter for which had been held for years. Two years ago the company built fourteen miles, but had not laid any steel since, and last summer fifty miles more were graded. From time to time the company announced that it would proceed with the line, and, relying upon those promises, settlers went into a district remote from transportation facilities. These settlers were hanging on by their teeth. Across the Saskatchewan Railway there were many settlers from fifty to one hundred and fifty miles from any railroad.

Mr. Knowles had seen Mr. White of the C.P.R. who authorized him to say last year that the company would lay fifty miles more steel and grade at least seventy more miles, but nothing had been done. Last fall the company let the contract for seventy miles, but in the most cavalier fashion the C.P.R. had sent out the announcement that it had seen fit to cancel the contract.

"Although I cannot expect the Government to build this road," said Mr. Knowles, "or do anything very severe with the C.P.R., I do think this condition of affairs should be exposed, and that the railway company should be censured for playing fast and loose with the settlers in that way."

Mr. W. F. Maclean thought Mr. Knowles and his friends should go to the Minister of Railways and insist on his using his influence with the C.P.R. and the Government as a whole to compel the company to complete its obligations.

THE DEVOTION OF A BROTHER; A COURAGEOUS ACHIEVEMENT

Blind Brother Wins First Place by Loyalty of His Colleague, Who Comes Second—A Remarkable Record in the Law School.

Montreal, May 2.—An interesting story of brotherly love and courageous work under the affliction of total blindness was unveiled at McGill University Thursday, when two brothers, Thomas S. and William Stewart, graduated in law, coming respectively first and second in their class, and winning two out of three scholarships.

Thomas S. Stewart is totally blind, through the carelessness of an oculist.

Nine years ago he injured one of his eyes with a knife, and specialists declared that to save the sight of the other the bad eye must be removed.

Stewart underwent the operation, but by some extraordinary piece of carelessness the operator took out the good eye, with the result that when the patient came out of the ether he was completely blind.

Undismayed by this, he undertook to pursue his studies in law at McGill, and ever since then his brother has devoted himself to him, making the studies with him and accompanying him to college sports and through all the phases of university life—practically making himself a seeing medium for his blind brother.

As a result of this unusual devotion the blind Stewart came out at the head of his class, while his brother came second, and each won the Sir William Macdonald scholarship, which entitles them to a year's residence in Paris to perfect themselves in the French language and study law in the Montpelier Law School.

Dean Walton paid a warm eulogium to the two brothers in conferring the degree, and the two were heartily cheered by the audience as they came forward.

HAD GREAT EYE FOR JEWELRY

Clever Thief in Toronto Gets Big Haul at Three Homes.

Toronto, May 2.—Three remarkably daring burglaries were committed between 4 and 6 o'clock on Thursday evening, but were not reported by the police until yesterday.

The victims are:

Mrs. W. R. Riddell, 109 St. George street, jewels to the value of from $5,000 to $8,000.

Mrs. Geoffry Clarkson, 1,735 Brunswick avenue, watches, rings, bracelets and jewelry to the value of about $600 and a purse with $35.

C. D. Warren, Walmer road, a number of valuable old stamps.

On account of the similarity of the operators and the time all three operations are credited to one man, and that fellow a king-pin in the Raffles fraternity.

His "dash" followed an evidently well studied plan of campaign, for a stranger had been observed hanging around the Riddell residence for several days. His description is about as follows: Well dressed, about 5 feet 11 inches in height; dark, sallow complexion, clean-shaven, black hair, black Christy hat, no overcoat, a grey, checked tweed suit and grey gloves.

Shot Woman.

Lethbridge, Alta., May 2.—A horrible crime was committed here at 11.30 yesterday morning, when Melia Zagaly, a Servian miner, shot Mrs. Mike Barcedi, an Italian woman, on the road between the town and mine. He shot her three times and then cut her throat, severing the jugular vein. He then shot himself three times.

The man used to board with the woman, and had given her money to keep for him. She refused to give it back when he asked for it on the road. The woman's nine-year-old boy was with her and had the money. The woman had eight children, and her husband works in the mine and is respectable. The murderer came here a few months ago and was engineer on a screen engine.

EVENTS TO-NIGHT

Drill Hall—Company shooting.

Grand Opera House—"We Are King."

Elopers Captured.

North Bay, May 2.—Peter Pelangio, an Italian, eloped from Orillia with Alice Southern, a 15-year-old girl, came to North Bay and was arrested by Chief of Police Raynor on leaving the train on account of his suspicious actions.

The girl's father was located by wire and came on the next train. Pelangio was allowed to go on payment of costs, and the girl returned with her father. Pelangio stated he intended marrying the girl in North Bay.

Carried Off Safe.

Newark, N.J., May 2.—Burglars yesterday entered the Union Avenue Hotel at Irvington, carried off a safe weighing 700 pounds and said to contain $3,000 worth of jewelry and rare coins, dragging it across lots a distance of 600 feet, blew it open with nitro glycerine and escaped with the contents.

The burglars entered the hotel by the rear door and got away without being detected.

A Straight Question.

Ottawa, May 2.—Armand Lavergne (Montmagny) will ask the Government "Is it true that the Government intends to appoint to the next vacancy in the Senate Hon. Adelard Turgeon, Minister of Crown Lands in Quebec? If so, is the Government aware that Mr. Turgeon is accused of graft in the administration of his Department, an accusation of which he has not yet been exonerated."

A Holograph Will.

Winnipeg, Man., May 2.—A sensational law suit, involving over a quarter of a million dollars of Winnipeg property, known as the Foulds' estate, was decided yesterday by Justice Cameron against the legitimate children of an old Winnipeg pioneer, who had left a holograph will.

A holograph will is one written entirely in the hand of the person signing it.

THE IRISH ARE WITH CHURCHILL

Is Expected to Have no Difficulty in Carrying Seat at Dundee.

Dundee, May 2.—Winston Spencer Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, whose recent failure to be returned to Parliament from the northwest division of Manchester has forced him to seek a "safe" seat, arrived here yesterday morning to contest the vacancy caused by the elevation to the peerage of Edmund Robertson.

F. Scrymgeour, of the United Irish League, is urging the Irish voters to give their complete support to Mr. Churchill on the ground that Premier Asquith has adopted Mr. Churchill's pledges at Manchester regarding home rule for Ireland as representing the policy of the Government.

A Sensational Charge.

North Bay, May 2.—John Loughrin, merchant of Mattawa, was the choice of the Nipissing Liberal convention for the Legislature yesterday. Loughrin sat in the Legislature under Premier Ross, resigning to accept the position of registrar of Nipissing. He was dismissed from office by the present administration, and succeeded by Charles Lamarche, ex-M.P.P., who resigned his seat to make room for Frank Cochrane on elevation to the Cabinet.

Candidate Loughrin made a sensational charge that he had been offered $8,000 in J. R. Booth's office at Ottawa not to oppose Frank Cochrane at the bye-election. This he refused, but consented to keep out of the way if his position was assured.

Fairbanks to Represent U.S.

Washington, May 2.—Vice-President Fairbanks will officially represent the United States at Quebec during the visit there of the Prince of Wales—July 22 to 29—on the occasion of the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the arrival of Champlain. This Government also will be represented at the ceremonies by a man-of-war, which probably will be the new battleship New Hampshire, under command of Capt. Winslow.

The decision to have the Vice-President represent the United States at Quebec was arrived at yesterday's Cabinet meeting, and was responsive to an invitation extended by the British Government on behalf of Canada by Ambassador Bryce under date of March 19 last.

To Look Stomach Over.

Munich, May 2.—The problem of direct observation of the interior of the human stomach during life has been solved by Dr. Rihl, according to a medical weekly. The method which is employed includes the passing of a double tube through the oesophagus to the stomach, the inner tube being fitted with a small electric bulb. Water is passed by means of a subsidiary attachment through the outer tube filling the stomach. The light is then turned on, permitting, the medical paper says, the closest observation of the movements of the organ.

Not Merry Widows.

Windsor, May 2.—The delivery wagon of William Englander, a local grocer, was seized by the customs officers, who found in a bread box two feminine hats which were pronounced to be last year's styles.

It was suspected that the owners had smuggled over new millinery creations, probably "merry widows," from Detroit. Englander's story is that the hats were placed in the box as a joke.

Nansen Resigns.

Christiania, May 2.—The Cabinet yesterday accepted the resignation of Fridtjof Nansen, the Norwegian Minister to Great Britain.

Dr. Nansen, who has desired to retire for some time, has consented to remain until after King Edward, who is now in Copenhagen, visits Christiania. Nansen will be succeeded by J. Irgens, at present secretary of the legation in London.

Leopards Took Revenge.

Baltimore, May 2.—During the performance at the Zoo two leopards jumped the barrier, landing among the audience. Louis Teng, a boy, was badly clawed about the face and neck and probably a serious stampede was averted by the prompt action of a policeman in closing the exit door and allowing only one or two of the terrified people to descend the stairs at a time.

TOO TIRED TO STIR!

ARE YOU ONE OF THE

WEAK WOMEN

To Become Bright, Happy and Healthy?—Use Ferrozone.

Modern life makes demands on every woman's strength that seem impossible to meet. Only the robust and strong can stand the strain. The weak, with their delicately balanced organisms, must fail. Blood gets thin, it's innutritious. Nerves go to smash, vitality declines, and then follows misery and suffering caused by interference with certain functions upon which the very existence of every female depends.

Don't let your condition grow worse. Check the decline of vital force before it is too late! The one sure remedy is Ferrozone—not a temporary stimulant—but an uplifting nutritive tonic that contains the kind of building material a weak body requires.

FERROZONE revitalizes the system by putting new life into the blood. Not only does it nourish the ordinary blood supply—it does more, it makes new blood, the rich, red kind that denotes health.

Energy is reinforced, strength is steadily and surely rebuilt. Keen appetite, strong nerves, more restful sleep, buoyant feelings, all tell of the enormous good Ferrozone invariably accomplishes. For restoring the weak, the pale, the despondent, there is no treatment so instant and permanent in effect as Ferrozone. A trial proves this. Won't you use Ferrozone yourself? It will surely make you well—its effect is instant.

BUILT UP HER STRENGTH

Mrs. M. E. Etherington, a well known merchant's wife, of Troy, writes: "I am quite willing to give a public testimonial for Ferrozone, believing it to be a tonic of superior excellence, and one that will rapidly build up strength and supply new energy to anyone not feeling well. Last Spring I was in a very poor condition of health. I was nervous, felt tired and completely worn out. No doubt it is quite a common complaint with ladies of my age, but I placed great reliance in Ferrozone, and took it for several weeks. It made me quite strong, and, in fact, I have been in better health ever since. I can heartily recommend Ferrozone."

Ferrozone Assures Good Health!

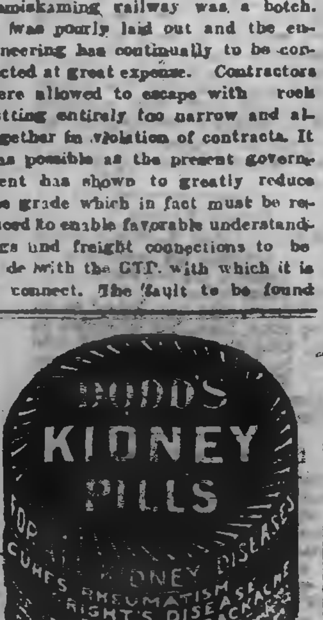
WARNING! Beware of the substitutor who urges you to accept something "just as good." Only FERROZONE can cure satisfactorily—see you get it, and nothing else. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all reliable dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ontario.

The Daily Review

SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1908.

ON THE STUMP

Mr. Stratton in his address at Temperance Hall "cut loose" as the saying is and challenged the present administration to point our even one of the malpractices so freely alleged by its members when in opposition. In the year following the departure of the Ross government $57,000 was received in the provincial secretary's department from better collections in the case of asylum patients alone. The friends of patients were no longer allowed to saddle the province with their keep while the said friends nursed the property which would fall into their hands on the patient's death These "friends" readily became also the staunch friends of the Ross government. At the same time the law is reasonably administered. There has been a tremendous accession of revenue too from uncollected timber dues—dues that remained uncollected long after all reasonable time had been given for their payment. It is well known also that the valuations of estates liable to succession duties were frequently allowed to go through at a preposterously low figure. Between 1901 and 1904 the succession duties increased by double. The increase in the number of applications was only 25 per cent. but the increase in the number of estates made to pay duty was 60 per cent. showing that the law is more evenly and justly administered to that extent. The Temiskaming railway was a botch. It was poorly laid out and the engineering has continually to be corrected at great expense. Contractors were allowed to escape with rock cutting entirely too narrow and altogether in violation of contracts. It was possible as the present government has shown to greatly reduce the grade which in fact must be reduced to enable favorable understandings and freight connections to be made with the G.T.P. with which it is to connect. The fault to be found with the late government was that they did nothing squarely and very little even intelligenty. It was an administration of graft which thought that "the world has come to set up less exacting standards of morality in politics and in governmental relations than in ordinary matters" (The Examiner) but found out that it was mistaken when the people got a chance at it. We do not say that the affairs of his province are of such a complicated character that they would not be safe in the hands of any set of good business men but we do say that, in the hands of crook and grafters and those who believe as the Examiner says that the world has come to set up a less exacting standard, &c, nothing is safe and safety is the measure of the men this country needs The opportunities for graft and self-enrichment are without number. When we get honest men we propose to stick to them. The public are not such fools as some would have us believe. A man whose principles are "less exacting" is not necessary to the well-being of this province.



EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Johnston, the Minnesota Governor, who aspires to be president of the U. S., says that the American flag should float as far north as Behiring Sea. He thinks Canada is anxious to go into the union. Where did he get these ideas? He must have read the Examiner on the "less exacting standards of morality in politics."

"A parson seems to think it is no wrong to cheat the customs; an elector comes to regard the sale of his vote as a venial offence. * *" (The Examiner.) These are the principles upon which that illustrious journal and its source of inspiration propose to conduct this election and for that matter all elections is it? The "parsons," no doubt feel flattered. They and the elector who sells his vote are catalogued as one. Very interesting!

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., 82, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother, her home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night,

GRAND CONCERT BY ST. LUKE'S YOUNG PEOPLE

In Ashburnham Hall Last Evening—An Excellent Programme

The concerts given by the Young People of St. Luke's church are as a rule excellent and most enjoyable. Last evening's entertainment was by no means an exception. While the audience was not large, it was appreciative, judging from the spontaneous applause accorded those taking part. Two humorous sketches were presented, and the delineation of the roles represented by the young people evidenced the fact that they had been carefully trained. They recited their lines well, showing that they had grasped the correct spirit of the sketches. The first one was "That Rascal Pat," and the other was entitled, "Won by Strategy." They were irresistibly funny and kept the audience in fits of laughter.

The first part was opened with an instrumental solo, splendidly rendered by Miss C. English, followed by a vocal solo by Miss Ruth Dawson.

The programme is as follows:—

PART I.

Solo selected—Miss Ruth Dawson.
Humorous Sketch—"That Rascal Pat"

Humorous Sketch, "Won by Strategy"

Tom Sutherland (in love with Neil)—Mr. G. Quartermaine.

A very enjoyable programme was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Watch Lost for Two Years Was Running When Picked up

This is no fish yarn, but a watch yarn that looks doubtful though true. Mr. Wm. H. Wood, of the Marsh, while crossing a ploughed field belonging to Mr. Johnston Fallis, which was sowed, picked up a watch and chain that had been lost two years ago. It was black with rust, but when he put it to his ear it was going, and after being handed over again to Mr. Fallis and wound up it continued to run, and no one will doubt Mr. Wood's veracity.—Millbrook Reporter.

TO PREVENT A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Take Dr. Williams' Pinks Pills When the Fist Symptoms are Noticed and Save Yourself Much Suffering

Are you troubled with pallor, loss of spirits, waves of heat passing over the body, shortness of breath after slight exertion, a peculiar skipping of the heart beat, poor digestion, cold hands or feet, or a feeling of weight and dulness? Do not make the mistake of thinking that these are diseases in themselves and be satisfied with relief for the time being.

This is the way that the nerves give warning that they are breaking down. It means that the blood has become impure and thin and cannot carry enough nourishment to the nerves to keep them healthy and able to do their work.

There is only one way to prevent the final breakdown of the nerves and the more serious diseases which follow. The blood must be made rich, red, and pure, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this promptly and effectively. Every dose of this medicine helps make new blood and strengthens the weak or worn-out nerves.

Mrs. David J. Tapley, Fredericton, N.B., was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after suffering from nervous breakdown, which resulted in partial paralysis of the face. She says: "The trouble came on quite gradually, and at the outset I did not pay much attention to it. Then it grew more serious and there was a general breakdown of the nerves, which was followed by partial paralysis of the face, one side being completely drawn out of shape. I was under a doctor's care for a couple of months, and one treatment after another was tried without benefit. By this time I was confined to my room and the doctor told me he could not cure me. Almost in despair I was persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The improvement was slow, but the building up of a run down nervous system naturally is slow. Slowly but surely this medicine did its work, and after a time I was able to again come down stairs. From that on the improvement was much more rapid and now I am as well as ever I was in my life. My friends look upon my cure as almost miraculous. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me what the best medical treatment failed to do—they brought me back good health.

It is the blood building, nerve restoring power in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that enable them to cure such troubles as anaemia, rheumatism, the after effects of la grippe, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis and the secret ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c. or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

REGIMENT TO GO TO QUEBEC

Ninety per cent Will Take in the Trip in July—Full Band May Also Go

It has been practically decided that about 90 per cent of the 57th Regiment will go to Quebec in July. This will mean about 300 men, and a full band will also probably accompany the regiment.

The trip will be the most important out-of-town trip ever taken by the regiment.

Major-General Lake will be here on May 20th to inspect the regiment.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

No other medicine for Woman's ills in the world has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

No other medicine has such a record of success for woman's diseases, or such hosts of grateful friends as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for feminine ills, Inflammation, Ulceration, and consequent Spinal Weakness.

It has relieved more cases of Backache and Local Weaknesses than any other one remedy. It dissolves and expels tumors in an early stage of development.

Irregularities and periodic pains, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility, quickly yield to it; also deranged organs, causing pain, dragging sensations and backache. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the female system.

It removes that wearing feeling, extreme lassitude, "don't care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, dizziness, faintness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues." These are indications of Feminine disorders, which this medicine overcomes as well as slight derangement of the Kidneys of either sex.

Women who are sick and want to get well should refuse to accept any substitute for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dies In Dentist's Chair.

Morrisburg, May 2.—Mary Jane Pruner, a well-known lady of this town, suddenly collapsed while under the influence of chloroform, which had been administered by a doctor while a dentist was pulling some teeth for her, at the residence of her parents, and she expired.

Indian Committed Suicide.

Brantford, May 2.—John Fishcarrier, a member of the Six Nations Band, committed suicide Thursday by jumping into a 40-foot well. He had trouble over some property and became despondent. He was 45 years old, and leaves a wife and family on the reserve.

England's First Skyscraper.

Liverpool, May 2.—The corporation has authorized the construction of an office building 300 feet high, opposite the Princess land stage on the banks of the Mersey. It will be the first skyscraper ever built in England.

Frightened Off Canada.

London, May 2.—(C.A.P.)—There is a considerable increase in emigrants to Australia, who are mostly of an agricultural type, though there are also many domestics. The Australian emigration officials stated they had evidently been frightened off from Canada.

May Come on Indomitable.

London, May 2.—(C.A.P.)—It is stated the prince may sail to Canada on the new huge 28-knot cruiser Indomitable, four warships escorting. Another squadron will precede the prince, who will reside at the Quebec citadel.

Her Kind Deed.

At a meeting of a Band of Mercy class in a small town near Denver each child relates the kind deed he or she has recently done. One day the teacher asked little Emily to relate the kind deed she had done. She quickly rose and said;

"I took off a tin can tied to a little dog's tail."

The teacher asked, "Did you know who tied it on?"

"Yes," replied Emily, with hesitation. "I didn't know any kind deed to report, so I tied it on so that I could take it off."

Diabolical Deed of Drunken Man.

Brockville, May 2.—A story of vile brutality to animals comes from the rural district across the river from here. Going home drunk, a farmer went out to feed his young stock, and, finding that ten calves, which he had been fattening to sell, did not eat fast enough, he drew a knife and cut their throats. Then, continuing in his drunken rage, he started to cut the throats of his horses. The first animal he slashed at kicked him with both feet, and he was thrown back upon the floor with sufficient force to render him unconscious. On recovering he came to a speedy realization of what he had done.

British Beat All Records.

Glasgow, May 2.—It is unofficially reported that the new cruiser Indomitable, which is now undergoing her speed trials, has beaten all records, making 28 knots over a measure mile on the Clyde and 26 1-4 knots in the continuous steaming trial. The Indomitable is fitted with turbines and her contract speed is only 25 knots. She is 17,250 tons and 530 feet in length.

COMMENT ON MR. MOORE'S ADDRESS

Commenting on the address given by Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., of this city before the Board of Trade of Brantford on "Municipal Government by Commission," the Brantford Courier says:

"The address of Mr. Moore, K.C., of Peterborough, to the Board of Trade, on the above subject, certainly affords much food for thought.

It is generally recognized that municipal councils in their present form are too cumbersome, and terms of office too short. Citizens who consent to run for municipal office, for the most part, do hard and painstaking work—how much only those in touch with corporation affairs appreciate fully—but the circumstances are not such as to make for the best results. Men elected for the short term of one year cannot inaugurate work of a permanent nature, and give that close attention to matters in the same way that paid commissioners can.

The illustration given by Mr. Moore with regard to other places were certainly most impressive. Brantford is in the same position as Peterborough with regard to water commissioners, but in addition that place has a city trust and a cemetery board, both working for the interests of the city, but independent of the Council.

As in Brantford, Mr. Moore considers that there is great waste in connection with street construction, and although boards of works do faithful service the best results do not seem possible under the existing methods in most municipalities. The entire subject is one which should challenge the attention of Ontario corporations generally."

A DELIGHTFUL PIANO RECITAL

An audience of appreciative music lovers attended the recital given last night at the Conservatory of Music Hall by the piano pupils of Miss Lora Newman. They were assisted by Miss Kathleen Wallis, the clever young local violinist. Miss Jessie Allen was also on the programme for a selected vocal solo, but was unfortunately unable to take part.

The programme given was a most satisfying one, and its rendition exhibited to great advantage the musicianly qualities and thorough training of Miss Newman's pupils. Miss Wallis' playing was a most enjoyable feature.

LINDSAY NOW HAS THREE DAILIES

Free Press and Daily Warder Made Their Bow to the Public Yesterday

Lindsay now has three daily papers, the Post, Free Press and Daily Warder. The Free Press and Warder made their first appearance yesterday and are highly creditable in every respect. The Free Press is a new journalistic venture, while the Warder has heretofore been published as a weekly. With three dailies in the field there will have to be some tall hustling to make ends meet and it will be interesting to see if all will survive for any length of time.

PRICES HIGH AT TO-DAYS MARKET

Today's market was largely attended and the prices remain about the same. Butter sold at 28 and 30 cents a pound, while eggs brought 15 and 16 cents per dozen. Fowl was very scarce and dear, chickens selling at one dollar a pair. One turkey was offered for sale at $3.25.

BOARD OF WORKS IN FAVOR OF A NEW SMITH STREET BRIDGE

Recommend That Council Submit By-law for One to Ratepayers—R. Hicks & Co. Get Contract for Sewer Pipes.

The city will have an opportunity to vote on a by-law for a new bridge at Smith street. For a long time the necessity of securing one has been urged by the citizens generally and now that the Board of Works have taken up the matter their action will be received with approval. This was one of the important matters brought up at last night's meeting of the Board. Considerable other business was transacted. There were present at the meeting Ald. Phelan, chairman; and Ald. Buller, Turner, Tovey, Elliott and Morgan.

RE SEWER CONSTRUCTION.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan and Elliott that a sewer be built on Park street, from Cedar to London and that the motion recommending a sewer on McDonnel street be rescinded.—Carried.

It was decided to give notice of the construction of a sewer from Park to Downie streets on London, if water could be secured.

Tenders for sewer pipes were received from the Ontario Sewer Pipe Company, Mimico, at 61 6-10 cents per foot, and from R. Hicks and Co., of Peterborough at 61 1-10 cents per foot. Both of the above prices are averages prices per foot. On motion of Ald. Morgan and Elliott, the Board accepted the tender of Messrs. R. Hicks & Co.

SMITH ST. BRIDGE.

On motion of Ald. Buller and Elliott, the following motion was carried "That this Board recommend the Council to submit to the ratepayers a by-law to provide for the erection of a new bridge over the river at Smith street and that the engineer be requested to estimate the cost of construction of the bridge.

Martin Neary was appointed foreman of sewer construction at the same salary he received for the position last year, on motion of Ald. Elliott and McIntyre. W. J. Nelson also applied for the position.

CONCERNING SIDEWALKS.

The question of concrete walks was next considered and the Board will recommend the construction of a number of walks that have been petitioned for. The matter of sewer construction was also brought up again and it was decided to recommend the construction of several.

OTHER BUSINESS.

It was moved by Ald. Buller and seconded by Alderman McIntyre, that the pole on the corner of Park and Weller streets, be removed under the supervision of the city engineer. Carried.

On motion of Ald. Tovey and Elliott, it was decided to leave the matter of the point to commence the construction of sidewalks be left in the hands of the chairman of the Board of Works and Street Commissioner Evans and that the order of constructing sewers and placing of stones on the streets be left in the hands of the engineer.

It was decided on motion of Ald. McIntyre and Morgan, that the work of sewer construction be carried on by day labor.

Mayor Rush and City Solicitor Hall were authorized to attend the meeting of the Board of Railway Commissioners at Ottawa on May 6th.

THE OTONABEE NAVIGATION CO. WAITS ON BOARD OF WORKS

Wants Modern Wharfs at Wolfe and Mark Streets and a Dry Dock Also—Board in Favor of the Suggestions.

On behalf of the Otonabee Navigation Company, Messrs. W. H. Robertson, president and Capt. Frewer, vice president, waited on the Board of Works last night and asked the Board to recommend the council to memorialise the government to provide modern wharfs at Wolfe and Mark streets and also that a dry dock be constructed on the canal above No. 6 locks. No 6 lock is on the canal at the junction of the canal and Little Lake.

Captain Frewer called attention to the necessity of a drydock on account of the great increase in navigation here.

BOARD'S RECOMMENDATION

It was moved by Ald. Morgan and seconded by Ald. McIntyre that the Board recommend the council to memoralise the Minister of Public Works to either repair or rebuild the Wolfe street and Mark street wharfs according to the extent required and the Minister of Railways and Canals to construct a dry dock such as requested by the Otonabee Navigation Company—Carried.

IT LOOKS LIKE THE IDEAL BOAT FOR THESE WATERS

The Otonabee Navigation Company proposes to adopt the same type of steamboat as the ones that ply the Mississippi. A Review representative saw the plan of one last night prepared by Capt. Clark of Philadelphia, who is at present in the city on business.

It is proposed to have one of the new boats constructed for use by the opening of navigation next season.

The plan of the boat calls for it being 125 feet in length with a 27 foot beam and with accommodation for from 600 to 800 passengers. It will be a stern wheeler, square across the stern and particularly adapted for shallow waters as it will draw four feet of water. It will be capable of attaining a speed of about 16 miles an hour.

The boat will not only have splendid cabin accommodation but also sleeping accommodation for two hundred and will be equipped with a modern dining room and lighted thorughout with electric light and will also have a searchlight.

Bulkhead compartments will be placed in the hull so if a leak is sprung it will only effect one particular section. It is the intention of the company to build steamers of the above designs as the business of the company requires it.

PERCH MADE OFF WITH GOLD A CUFF LINK USED AS SINKER

The first fish story of the season has turned up. Some people may say it is a big lie, almost as big as the fish that got away, but such is not the case. And the veracity of the story can be proved if necessary.

Two local young men were fishing perch in the Otonabee river a few days ago and one of them happened to lose the sinker of his line. Nothing else could be found suitable to replace it so he took out one of his gold cuff links and attached it to the cord to act as a sinker. He had only cast his line in the water when an unusually large perch came along and bit. The man with the rod tried to land the finny fellow but before he could do so the line broke and Mr. Perch carried off hook, line and the cuff link. Of course it was mean of the fish, as gold cuff links cost money and this fish had no use for the one taken.

MADE SALE OF A LARGE SAIL

J. J. Turner & Sons Have Just Manufactured the Largest Since Coming to Peterborough

J. J. Turner & Sons have just completed the manufacture of the largest sail they have constructed since coming to Peterborough. It is for the steamship "Reliance," of Picton, which runs between Montreal and Duluth. The sail was so large that there was not enough room in the Turner factory to put it together and the opera house stage had to be utilized for that purpose. The big piece of canvas contains several hundred yards of material.

You Can Easily Operate This Typewriter Yourself

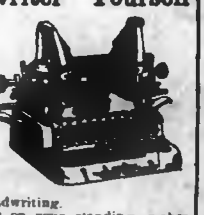
Don't worry your correspondent.

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out — that may leave him in doubt — that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or card memos — or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own handwriting.

It looks bad reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and is sometimes ambiguous.

You can write out your letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memos—make out your accounts, or a hotel menu—or do any kind of writing you need, on ANY kind, size or thickness of paper, and SPACE any way you want, on



The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn, with a little practice, to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly, as an expert operator on the OLIVER. Because the OLIVER is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 80% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 80% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

80% easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "humoring" technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance polices, or odd-size documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the OLIVER to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the OLIVER is the typewriter for the doctor, the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant, the hotel proprietor—or any man who does his own writing.

DEMAND FOR FARM HELP IS GREAT

Several Englishmen Placed in Positions This Morning by Immigration Officer

The demand for farm laborers these days is exceedingly great, and Mr. Howson, the local immigration agent, has places for all those who want them, and who are anxious to learn farming. This morning seven young Englishmen were placed on farms and were waiting at Mr. Howson's office on Water St., for their employers to call for them. None of them have ever worked at farming. They were all sturdy and healthy-looking fellows. They seemed anxious to get to work. They have only been in Canada a short while.

WATER IS YET VERY HIGH IN STONEY LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Shaw Returned to Toronto To-day—Spent a Few Days at "Glen Oak"

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Shaw, of Toronto, who have been spending the past three or four days at "Glen Oak," the beautiful summer home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Davis, passed through the city to-day en route to Toronto. Mr and Mrs. Shaw are travelling by automobile. Mr. Shaw stated that all the ice had left Stoney Lake but the water was yet exceedingly high. Mr. Shaw found everything at Mr. Davis' cottage to be in a satisfactory condition. It has been occupied all winter by Mr. J. Hunt, of Lakefield. Several of the wharves are submerged and as yet the scene around Stoney Lake is one of desolation. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are travelling in a handsome and fast motor car and expect to reach Toronto this evening.

AMUSING JOKE: A LESSON IN BLANK FORMS

Some juvenile joker, captured evidently a lot of four-year-old blank forms dealing with registration and organization, belonging to the Young Conservative Club, and giving a boy a quarter, succeeded in having them circulated in the shops, etc. Some consternation was aroused until it was found that they were old forms and that in all probability they had been secured and palmed off as new. It is a little early for registrations.

THEATRICAL

"ALICE-SIT-BY-THE-FIRE"

"Alice-Sit-By-the Fire," is a play that certainly appeals to the serious minded as well as it does to those who go to the theatre to be amused and entertained. There are many serious minded people who attend the theatre and they want merit displayed on the part of the author as well as cleverness on the part of the performers. In the new Barrie play both these elements for the amusement and instruction of the auditors are found. "Alice-Sit-By-the Fire," is a play that strongly appeals to the members of the home circle, to society and also to the man at large and the man about town. It is a play with a whole heart interest. It is a play that the ordinary theatregoer cannot see wihtout being benefitted. It is a play that will stand the test of time, and in the end be as strong as it is at the present time. Roslele Knott, as Mrs Colonel Grey, the central figure in the play is at her best in the title role. Of all the characters she has portrayed she has a part in "Alice-Sit-By the-Fire," that is best suited to her exceptional ability. As the wife, the mother and the society woman she presents to her audiences a portrayal of everyday life that is true and picturesque, and which never fails to interest the most fastidious and the most cynical theatre-goer. Miss Knott has made an especial study of the Barrie character, and possesses a conception of the part that has been highly commended. She is supported by an exceptional cast, all the ladies and gentlemen being well and favorably known to the theatregoers of the better class. Included in the cast is Mr. Andrew Robson, the well known Canadian actor.

MANY DOG TAGS ISSUED TO-DAY

There was a great rush for dog tags at the City Clerk's office this morning, over two hundred having been issued in a short while. There have now been 610 given out but there is yet a large number of dog owners who have not paid the necessary tax for their canines. Chief Rossel said that he would wait till Monday before he would commence his summonsing to court of those who had not procured their dog tax.

JIMMY REYNOLDS THINKS THAT HE CAN BEAT BLAKE

Port Hope Barber Walker Confident He Can Trim Negro Pedestrian—Has Offered to Bet $200 to $500 That He Can.

Jimmy Reynolds who officiated as referee at the six day walking contest in Peterborough last week, arrived home on Monday morning. He is loud in his praise of the treatment given him by the Peterborough people, and especially by Mr. George Graham, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, whose guest he was during the week. Jimmy says that on the whole he experienced little difficulty in keeping the walkers within the heel and toe limit. He thinks well of the winner, Mr. Hoagland, whom he says is not only a great walker, but a fine fellow.

It was proposed to have this announced at the close of the contest but Jimmy would not consent. He has since offered to bet $200 against $500 that he can defeat Blake (the negro) who won second money in the contest over the same course in the Brock street rink. Blake went 180 miles and 10 laps in 35 1-4 hours. Jimmy says that the report that 2,000 people witnessed the close of the contest on Saturday night is inadequate. There were fully 4,000 people in the rink. For his work as referee Jimmy received $50 and expenses.—Port Hope Times.

SENIOR BASEBALL SEASON TO OPEN HERE ON SATURDAY

Alerts of Toronto, Will Meet the Peterborough Team—Visitors Will Have a Strong Nine—Locals' Line-up Looks Good—Grounds Being Put in Shape.

The senior baseball season will be opened in Peterborough next Saturday, when the Peterborough team will go up against the fast Alerts of the Toronto senior Inter-Association League. This will be the first workout for Manager Johnston's bunch and will afford the public a good opportunity of getting a line on the men who are going out to win the Midland League championship. The Alerts will bring down a strong team and hope to take the measure of the locals. Fred Smith, who pitched for the champion Wellingtons of the Toronto senior league last year, will be on the mound for the visitors for a part of the game and pitcher "Bill" Wilson will also be worked out against the Peterborough team. Daniell will do the receiving for the Alerts and Spence, who played for Peterborough several times last season, will hold down the first sack. The other positions be filled by equally strong men.

Clements will do the twirling for the Peterboroughs, with Edmunds behind the bat. Thorne will be at first and either O'Hearne or McDermid at second. There is a possibility that "Longboat" Anderson may arrive from New Ontario in time to play the second bag, but it is hardly likely he will be here for the first game. Cheetham will be at third and Maddock will play short stop.

The Italian outfield will be there in its entirety, Corney Burns in right field, "Friz" O'Brien in the centre patch and Murphy in the left garden.

The local team looks good on paper and should make merry with the Alerts if they have a few good practices next week.

A big crowd should see the opening game.

Men will start work at Riverside Park next week putting the grounds in shape for the season. The baseball diamond will be put in first-class condition—even better than it was last year. The construction of the bleachers will also be started at once and if they are not completed for the first game chairs will be provided for the lady spectators, an unusually large number of whom will attend the games this year.

All the members of the Peterborough team will be here next week and regular practices will start. There is no time to be lost, as the season is becoming far advanced.

Clements has been working in Toronto all spring and will be in good form for the opening game next Saturday.

THE RING

Dublin, April 30—In a glove contest held here this afternoon Bill Squires of Australia, knocked out Jem Roche the former Irish champion, in the fourth round. The purse was $1,375, and there was a side bet of $1,000

And this is the Jem that wanted to meet Tommy Burns for the championship belt.

Tommy Burns has turned down an offer to meet Jack Johnson, the negro scrapper in London, England, for $15,000 the bout to take place in private. Burns still clings to the condition that he sall be assurred of $20,0000 as his end of the purse in case the two should come together for a bout.

Visitor to Peterboro' Has a Ringside Seat at Memorable Fight

Mr. W. Watson, of the firm of Manning and Watson, gum manufacturers, of Toronto, who was in the city on Thursday and Friday of this week, has had much to do with the promoting of the fighting game across the line. He was one of the men who induced "Battling" Nelson to enter the ring and was an intimate friend of the manager of that ligame little fighter.

Mr. Watson had a ringside seat at the memorable battle when Corbett knocked out John L. Sullivan and gained the world's championship. "Corbett was in perfect condition at the time" said Mr. Watson in discussing the fight with a Review representative "and he simply wore down his opponent. Corbett seemed to be in as good condition as Hurtubise was the other night when he defeated Kennedy. He was not at all fatigued by the hard work he was doing and looked good for several more rounds."

WALKING MATCH AT LAKEFIELD

Contest Will be Held in Near Future in Skating Rink There

Lakefield, May 2nd.—The walking fever has struck Lakefield in real earnest and the effects of the big tournament held last week in Peterborough are noticeable on every hand. Everybody is walking faster than they were ten days ago, and the young men are now spending their evenings in taking walking jaunts out into the country. A committee has been formed for the purpose of holding a walking match in the skating rink here about the second or third week May. The race will be a three night affair, walking two hours the first two nights and three hours the last night. Already a large number of our young men are practicing in an... ises to be one of the best races ever held in Lakefield.

HAVING CHILDREN'S EYES EXAMINED

People Suffer Through Life With the Disadvantages of Impaired Vision, as a Result of the Neglect of the Eyes in Childhood.

It is a familiar fact that the acuteness of vision varies extremely among adults, and that certain defects of the eye, such as shortsightedness, can be so completely remedied as to restore to the individual almost perfect sight. Now, there exists among children just such differences in the acuteness of vision as is observed in adults, and many of the defects of the eye originate in the failure of the parents to appreciate these differences. It is a pity to put glasses upon a child, but a greater pity to neglect such when the future well-being of the eyes depend upon their help. Many parents and teachers nowadays realize the importance of having children's eyes properly examined to know whether or not glasses are necessary.

THE CONTROL OF MILK SUPPLY

Consumer is Largely at the Mercy of the Producer and Dealer

Since milk is so extremely variable in quality, and is so easily adulterated; since often considerable variations are not readily detected; above all, because the amount of milk used by any given person or family is comparatively small, the consumer of milk is almost wholly at the mercy of the producer and dealer, and must rely for a good product very largely upon their honour. The State has recognized this, and to prevent imposition by unscrupulous people, has in various ways sought to regulate the sale of milk and like products. The chief means used has been to establish arbitrary standards of quality, and to subject to fine those dealers whose goods should be found to be below the required standard. The standard established by various states and municipalities have varied widely. From 2.5 to 3.7 per cent of fat, and from 11.5 to 13 per cent of solids have been the minimum requirements. These standards, while efficient in securing honest dealing, where they are rigidly enforced, nevertheless may work injustice, so far as honesty of the dealer is concerned, under various circumstances, and may prevent the production and sale of a comparatively low quality product at a reasonable price. It would seem therefore, that the best means of regulating the traffic in milk would be, not to set up an artificial standard to which all must come, but to require each individual dealer to guarantee his own standard, and hold him responsible if this milk were found below. In this way it would be possible to sell milk of various qualities, from strictly skimmed to heavy cream, upon a guaranteed scale of prices, with exact justice to everyone.—Prof. H. H. Wing, Cornell University.

BABY'S TEETHING TIME IS A TROUBLOUS TIME

When baby is teething the whole household is upset. The tender little gums are inflamed and swollen; the poor little child suffers and often crys day and night, wearing the mother out and keeping the rest of the family on edge. In the homes where Baby's Own Tablets are used there is no such worry. The Tablets allay the inflammation, sooth the irritation and bring the teeth through painlessly. Mrs. S. Williams, St. Joseph, Ont., says: "My first baby suffered terribly when cutting her teeth and the doctor could do nothing for her. I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets and they did her so much good that I cannot say enough in their favor. You may be sure that I always keep the Tablets in the house now." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents per box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A. M. Nanton will represent the C. P.R. on the conciliation board at Winnipeg.

REMINISCENES OF NORTHWEST REBELLION

It was the sixth of April, before we got away. We entrained on the Kingston-Pembroke road and were off for the West. No excitement was in evidence in that city as they had no love for the soldier. We arrived at Mattawa on the CPR next morning at five o'clock for breakfast. This place appeared to be a barren one and very cold. We were to get breakfast here but only about 100 were successful, the remainder could eat snow or boughs of trees. All aboard again for a short time which gave us chance to fill up and get acquainted with a food or biscuit called hard tack. The name was very appropriate; it certainly was hard. It was composed of flour and water and a little salt. Those biscuits were about circular, six inches in diameter and one-half inch thick. This formed our staple food. We ate them with a relish at first and thought they were all right but we soon tired of them and it would be through sheer hunger that we would eat them. The canned beef was also relished at first. We soon reached the end of the new road which was being built in sections all along the north shore of Lake Superior. We were soon to be initiated into our first taste of hardship, and real soldier life. Now to fully understand the circumstances from this point on our journey until we reached Fort William it will be necessary to state that owing to the serious turn affairs had taken and reports coming constantly in of the Indians rising and of the defeat of the mounted police at Batoche, made the hurrying of troops to the scene as quickly as possible, the whole cry.

The troops who were in advance of us were the Governor-General's Foot Guards of Ottawa, Queen's Own and Royal Grenadiers of Toronto, the 9th Voltigiers of Quebec and the 65th Victoria Rifles of Montreal. The 65th were only one day ahead of us. This left no time for the construction camps to cook a supply ahead for us. Imagine a small shanty about 30 ft. square with a cook or two inside who found it hard enough to provide for them ahead, only to find that another crowd was on them. Those regiments who had four or five days between them did not fare so badly, as we did following so close on the Frenchmen who practically left nothing only a bad name. The men were very pronounced in their condemnation of military tactics and would assemble on top of the roof of the shanties and deliver speeches of high order what they would do when they got back again. But the "hard tack' would be the substitute that would put them in good humor. We would occasionally strike a piece of railroad for 10 miles or so, then get off and walk the gap to the next piece, when horses and sleighs secured by the government from the contractors on the road, conveyed our knapsacks and blankets to the next stopping place.

I remember the first night we spent in the woods. It was a cold, clear, starry night. We gathered logs and brush together which made a large hot fire, usually in as low a place as possible. All gathered around and many smoked the pipe of peace but the greater number were out for war and kept looking for it everywhere. Then as it became late, the men being tired, made an attempt to go to sleep by spreading their rubber blanket on the crystallized snow.

For in that part of the country the snow was turned to hail as large as peas and very hard to walk in, being from three to four feet deep it was impossible to make a beaten path in it. They placed their woollen blanket on it with another over them, and lay down all in a heap with feet to the fire. I slept very little. Some slept sound, only to be awakened when the rubber blanket had slid down the raise or incline with its occupant towards the fire. But with some of them with their feet inside their shoes became so hot, that they would jump up more asleep than awake and tear open the laces in their shoes to get them off. In some cases the soles of the shoes formed into large cracks.

Some officers having thermometers with them stated that they registered ten degrees below zero. It was the coldest night that we had to sleep out on the trip. Another night we arrived at Jack Fish Bay, and took our quarters in a sunken schooner, everyone crawling through a hole in the stern. She appeared to be a vessel that had stranded, being half full of ice. But with a plentiful supply of hay we soon made ourselves comfortable inside. There was one great fear among us as well we thought of it. Fire! Should any thoughtless person strike a match and drop it in the hay not a man would have got out of that hulk. Now as all were aware of the danger, and that any person attempting to smoke would at once have been harshly dealt with. A peculiar thing about it, not an officer thought of the danger, but it was the men who took the precaution. It was certainly a step well taken as it was a great large fire trap. There were a couple of holes in the deck, but they were too high to get out at without a ladder. The whole regiment with the exception of the officers, found quarters for the night. The space allotted to each man was about eighteen square inches, but some slung their blankets from the deck, and caused some amusement as just as soon as they would get nicely asleep some one would cut them down and down the occupant would come head first amid a shower of oaths from both parties, above and below.

It was very dark in that hull, but after many a row over space the men began to quiet down. There were numerous songs sung and stories told, but some individual struck up an appropriate song entitled "Texas Rangers" which was sung with as good a voice as I ever heard. It was a splendid song well sung. One part of it I remember was —the chorus thus—

We saw those Indians coming,
We heard them give the yell,
My feeling at that moment,
No longer tongue could tell,
Our captain, he commanding,
Spoke up because he thought it right,
Before you reach next station,
Brave boys you'll have to fight.

The song had about twenty verses in it and was well received, and before it was finished everybody that could sing joined in the chorus. That song put the climax on the singing for the night, and all slept soundly until morning, when each took a couple of hardtack (biscuits) in our hands and started on the longest march across that portion of the route, 26 miles across a bay on Lake Superior. The walking was very bad owing to the snow that had fallen lately, becoming soft and slushy.

The Belleville boys had rubber boots issued to them by that city when they were leaving. And we envied them, as we had very short shoes, but at the end of the journey a greater number of them had scalded feet. All our feet were as if they were par-boiled, but they seemed to suffer most.

END OF WALK.

When we got to the end of our journey on foot we boarded a train of flat cars and rode about five miles, then took shelter in abandoned shanties and were soon fast asleep in our wet clothing, all completely tired out, and very hungry. This hard work was beginning to tell on the men.

Next morning a number had sore throats and powders were freely used.

More hard-tack and corn beef and snow water. Then we rode about 20 miles on railway flat cars on which we huddled close together to keep warm.

Breakfast over we took the trail again, part of the time we would be on land then cut across a bay on the ice and so on until night came on, when we espied a light, it appeared to be the headlight of a locomotive and it soon spread abroad that that was our train, waiting for us, with coaches attached to carry us into Fort William.

Judging, as we did, from the size of the head light that the train could not be any more than four or five miles away. All felt that we could easily make it in an hour or so. So with that end in view, you may talk of fast walking. Those Belleville chaps struck up a terrific pace as they were in the lead. Quite a few succumbed to the task and fell behind to be picked up by the teams following. We walked fully five hours before we reached that train, and instead of the headlight as we at first thought. The fire was made by having an immense log heap burning, and the few miles proved to be twenty or more, but the walking was of the best on a thin crust of snow on ice. Needless to say, we got into those cars without delay and were soon dead to all about us. We knew nothing of distance by rail until we reached Port Arthur, as Fort William in those days was nowhere on the map. Port Arthur proved to be a very small place. We stopped to have breakfast and were soon on our way to Winnipeg. Very few but slept all the way, night and day alike.

Winnipeg reached, we received orders to disembark and go into camp there. When on the way to do so, we got orders to entrain further west, but before doing so received a good breakfast, the first for over two weeks. Winnipeg was not much of a city then, it having passed through the land boom and was practically in a comatose state.

The regiment was photographed at the station, although quite a number were absent, your humble servant being one of them, and came near missing the train with many others. Here we dropped three men, Private J. Kelly, M. Weir and T. Anderson, who were pronounced not fit to go any further.

All aboard for Swift Current, 510 miles west of Winnipeg, and passed through a nice lot of country and reached Brandon, where we were met by the citizens of that place and treated to the very best.

THROW AWAY LINIMENTS

Here's the Prescription to Cure Rheumatism.

Liniments only reach the skin and the muscles directly under the skin. Now, liniments can't cure Rheumatism. They simply deaden the nerves for a time. When the effect wears away, the pain returns worse than ever.

If the bowels do not move regularly —if the kidneys are strained or weak —if the skin is dry or harsh—the blood is sure to be filled with impurities or urea. This urea is changed into uric acid which is the poison that causes rheumatism.

Now, the only possible way to cure Rheumatism is to prevent uric acid from being formed. Logically, the only way to do this is to keep kidneys, bowels and skin in good working order, and prevent the stomach from being too acid. And the only way to do this is to take "Fruit-a-tives."

These marvelous tablets of fruit juices and tonics act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin—and put them in perfect condition. That is the only secret of their great success in curing rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago.

THOUSANDS OF MUSKRAT SKINS MARKETED IN PETERBOROUGH

Thos. Barrie & Co. Purchased 15,400 This Season Which Was the Best on Record for the Trappers—Ruling Price was 40c per Skin—Some Big Individual Catches.

The muskrat season, which closed on May 1st, was a record-breaker in this district as far as the number of rats caught is concerned. Not for many years did the trappers have such great luck and the fur men secure such a large number of pelts. Not only was the catch a big one, but the price paid was unusually high. Forty cents per skin was the average figure and many of the trappers made a neat pile during the season. Thousands of the skins have been marketed in Peterborough, the firm of Thos. Barrie & Co. alone securing 15,400 rat pelts. The other firms who buy the skins at Peterborough are Lech & Sons, and Thos. Brightman. Practically all the skins marketed in Peterborough come from Rice Lake, Chemong Lake, Cameron Lake and Pigeon Lake districts. The largest individual catch purchased by Thos. Barrie & Co. came from Fred Crowe, of Rice Lake, who secured 780 skins. These he was paid for at 40c. each, receiving for his total catch the tidy sum of $290.00. Several other trappers made almost as large a catch as Mr. Crowe, but so far his is the largest reported.

The high water in the rivers and lakes is said to be responsible for the big catch this year. The trappers have been able to get further back in the marshes than in previous years and the increased territory has enabled them to make a large catch.

There is a big demand for muskrat skins among furriers at the present time and the trappers have been able to secure a ready sale for the pelts. The increased demand has resulted in a rapid rise in the price which has almost doubled during the past five years. Five years ago the ruling price was 20 cents per pelt; this year it is 40 cents.

THE EXAMINER AHOY! CANDIDATES OUT WALKING

Not Under Bond Either—An Extraordinary Affair—Two Respectable Gentlemen Behaving Themselves

At noon to-day Mr. Bradburn and Mr. Gillespie, the candidates of the respective parties for the Legislature, were seen walking up George street chatting pleasantly together. To the rabid party man there was an air of amity and geniality about it that augurs well for a decent campaign. The Review expects nothing else. The Examiner does and demands a bond. It should not judge the needs of others by its own.

THE CALCUTT B. AND M. CO. PUTS UP ITS PRICE OF ALE

The Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company is today making notification of the increase in the wholesale price of ale by 15 per cent. The company says it is necessary to take this step on account of the increase in wages and the price of barley.

THE INCREASED PRICES

In sympathy with the increase in the wholesale prices the retail prices will also go up on the same scale. Commencing Monday kegs of ale that used to be $1.25 will now sell at $1.40 retail and the retail price of bottled ale will be 15 cents a bottle, two bottles for 25 cents and three for 40 cents.

SAME AS OUTSIDE PRICES

This makes the prices for the Calcutt B. and M. Company's ale practically the same as those of Port Hope and Toronto. The increase will, of course have no effect on the regular schedule of fair prices.

GOING OVER THE WIRING

The Machine Telephone Company has men going over its underground wires to-day. The system is found to be in splendid shape.

SEVERAL CLAIMS WERE CONSIDERED

At Meeting of the Legal Committee Last Night

A meeting of the Legal Committee was held last night, when those present were: Ald. Elliott, Chairman, Ald. Turner and Ald. Phelan. On the advice of the City Engineer, it was decided to take no action in connection with the claims from Miss Brown, Mrs. Minds, W. D. Dixon, John McWilliams, Chas. Johnston and A.J. Warne. These claims were for damages from having places flooded with water or from injuries sustained by falling on the streets.

Andrew Graham sent in a bill for damages sustained from having his premises flooded, but no action was taken last night.

OLD TIMERS QUERRY

To the Editor of the Review.

Will those Conservative citizens who worked so hard for Mr. G. A. Gillespie's election to the council, now that that they have found out where he stands, rally and undo the work they made so successful and see to it that he has a sure and certain defeat in his contest with Mr. T. E. Bradburn.

Do we judge a man by the company he keeps. If so put in Royal Commission Insurance report finding as taken from Hansard.

If we do, is West Peterborough going to put us back to those days by trying to elect G. A. Gillespie.

Let Mr. Bradburn's majority be a bumper one and go down on record showing the clique that when we have a good man he should be re-elected by acclamation.

A GENUINE COBALT OPPORTUNITY

The Casey Mountain Cobalt Mining and Developing Company, Limited

INCORPORATED UNDER THE ONTARIO MINING COMPANIES INCORPORATION ACT

No Personal Liability Not Subject to Call

CAPITAL $250,000.00

250,000 Shares - - $1.00 Each

HEAD OFFICE, Manning Chambers, - - - - - - TORONTO

As previously announced in this space, we give some particulars concerning our mining properties, which should be of interest to the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity:

PROPERTIES CONTROLLED

The Company's holdings consist of 8 forty acre claims in one Block situate about eighteen miles from the Town of Cobalt in the Township of Casey, on what is known as "Casey Mountain," upon which deposits of native silver have been encountered, running over 8,000 ozs, per ton.

BUILDINGS, MACHINERY, DEVELOPMENT, Etc

There has been erected on the property a large boarding house, sleeping camps, blacksmith shop, shaft house, boiler house and Superintendent's quarters. A modern steam plant has been in operation during the past ten months and about 300 feet of underground development work has been done, besides considerable surface work, trenching and stripping of veins.

12 TRUE FISSURE VEINS UNCOVERED

There has been uncovered to date 12 fissure veins, varying in width from 16 inches to 8 feet, all carrying silver, cobalt, nicolite and arsenic. These veins have been stripped for several hundred feet, and all have free walls, and are well defined.

Big chimney, or lode of ore struck at 50 foot level.
16 feet wide from wall to wall.

While the main shaft was at a depth of 50 feet on a 30 inch vein a tunnel was driven into the mountain along the vein, and at a distance of twenty feet a chimney of ore was broken into 16 feet wide, with silver values of about $20.00 per ton, and we believe this to be the greatest strike of low grade ore ever encountered in the district. This tunnel was continued for a distance of 75 feet through this chimney of ore, when it was decided to sink the shaft to the 100 foot level, and again tap this great lode at this lower level. While driving tunnel at the 100 foot level the large body of ore was encountered at a distance of only 10 feet from the shaft, the chimney having widened 10 feet in the 50 feet of depth, and values were found to have increased fully 40 per cent., and we have in sight or above us several thousand tons of silver ore that will net the Company a handsome profit with the installation of a concentrating plant that can be installed with a capacity of 100 tons per day for the sum of $15,000.00 that will reduce the ore 15 tons to one and thereby save freight charges on 14 tons of rock.

COBALT, NICOLITE AND LEAF SILVER ENCOUNTERED AT 120 FOOT LEVEL

Apart from the enormous body of low grade ore in sight, there has been encountered, while sinking the main shaft, cobalt, nicolite and leaf silver in the metallic form, these metals having come in at the 120 foot level, and another chimney of yet unknown width has also been struck at this depth, directly opposite to the one encountered at the 50 foot level, and our Superintendent reports that the two great lodes of ore are coming together which will constitute one continuous body of ore.

It is now proposed to drive a tunnel into this large ore body at the 125 foot level, aud commence bagging ore for shipment, as the last report received a few days ago from our Superintendent stated that he had unlimited quantities of good ore in sight.

We give the following reasons why "Casey Mountain" will become one of the great dividend paying mines of the Cobalt district and there are many :—

First.—A large area, that is a regular net work of veins, running for three-quarters of a mile through the entire property, that will go down several thousand feet, and not pinch out.

Second.—We have the stuff in unlimited quantities, and the property has scarcely yet been scratched.

Third.—A capitalization of only $250,000.00 in which to pay dividends on.

Fourth.—No promotion stock has been issued to promoters that has not been paid for.

Fifth.—A management that are endeavoring to do a mining busines, (not a stock speculation.)

Sixth.—The directors of this Company have shown their faith in the property by investing heavily in the stock, and up to date very few shares have been disposed of outside of friends of the Company, as it has been the desire of the directors to hold the stock as closely as possible and dispose of only sufficient number of shares to enable the Company to carry on development until returns are received from shipments, and for a short time only the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity will have an opportunity of a small block at par value, $1.00 per share, and those desiring to invest should make applicationat once to the Head Office, Manning Chambers, Toronto, as this will be the only Treasury stock that will be issued at par value.

Additional information can be had during the next few days by applying to R. G. Williamson at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, President of the Company, or Dr. H.A Wood, Secretary-Treas., 408½ George St, Phone 20A, Peterborough, Ont.

ICE IN NORTHERN LAKES KEEPING THE DRIVES BACK

Word comes from the back country that the lumbermen are having a hard time getting the drives started. It will be much later than in other seasons before any logs reach Peterborough, as the ice is not out of the rivers and lakes in the back country yet, and not a drive has yet been started.

"It will be well on towards the first of July before any logs reach Peterborough," said a member of a local lumber firm yesterday, "and it will be late in the season before the last of them arrive. Conditions are most unusual this year and serious inconvenience is going to be caused."

It is said that the cut of logs last winter was not as large as in previous years, owing to the depth of snow in the woods which interfered seriously with lumbering operations.

QUEBEC CITY PREPARING FOR APPROACHING CELEBRATION

A local commercial traveller who has just returned from a trip to Quebec Province, states that in some places down east there is still a foot of snow on the ground. At least such was the case when the knight of the grip left there on Wednesday of this week. The season is not nearly so far advanced as in Ontario. It is at least two weeks behind.

The commercial man states that that great preparations are being made in Quebec City for the coming tercentenary celebration. Thousands of people are expected and all the rooms in the hotels have already been booked. Several thousand tents are to be placed on the Plains of Abraham, adjoining the city, to accommodate visitors during the celebration.

GUESTS LEAP FROM WINDOWS TO DEATH IN THE STREETS

Terrible Hotel Fire at Fort Wayne—Many Perish in the Flames—Many of the Dead Concealed by Fallen Debris—Entire Building a Heap of Ruins.

Seoul, Corea, May 4.—The Government of Corea, acting in co-operation with the office of the Japanese resident-general at Seoul, Prince Ito, is preparing plans for an active and final campaign against the disorderly forces in Corea. These forces, insurgents and bandits, are making much trouble, they prevent the Corean agriculturalist from disposing of their produce and hamper general business.

The concensus of opinion of unprejudiced foreigners, merchants, missionaries and officials, Japanese as well as Coreans, is that business must be restored to normal conditions by whatever power undertakes to administer to the country, be it Japanese or Corean. The disturbing element to-day is composed largely of men out of employment, discharge Corean soldiers and regular bandits. It is the practice of these marauders to oppress and rob the farmers, to attack villages and to kill Japanese. The bandit element probable numbers altogether not more than 3,000 men. The real Corean patriot, who are irreconcilable toward the idea of a Japanese protectorate, do not exceed a total of 1,000, but it undoubtedly is a fact that there exists a deep feeling of unrest and hatred toward the Japanese among many of the Corean people. The Japanese residency general, however, is convinced that it can overcome this ill-feeling by a gradual, but persistent demonstration of its good intentions, of its desire to benefit the masses of the people, and its purpose to prevent injustice.

Japs Greatly Hampered.

Japanese officials say that the Japanese administration has been greatly hampered by the actions of certain irresponsible Japanese, and that even the Japanese soldiers have committed serious offences. Assurances have been given that every case was investigated and that all offenders were being punished rigorously.

The residency has just issued some stringent press regulations directed against the Japanese, Corean and foreign-owned vernacular newspapers. It proposes to confiscate these journals to prevent the circulation of inflammatory articles.

Another evidence of the unrest is found in the fact that the American missionaries recently received letters threatening them with death if they aided the Government against the insurgents. The casualties in the recent encounters with these armed bands, however, have been insignificant. They move in small bands, seldom exceeding one hundred, and when they are pursued they scatter and hide their arms.

The Government now proposes to police the entire country with a force of about eight hundred men, including four hundred Coreans.

MINISTER MAY TAKE ACTION

Hon. Frank Cochrane Will Proceed in Loughrin Case.

Toronto, May 4.—The charge of Messrs. Loughrin and McCaughey that the Minister of Lands and Mines had offered the former $8,000 to secure his seat in 1905 by acclamation will be carried to the courts unless there is a retraction.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane just returned from Sturgeon Falls and made the following brief statement:

"The statements made by Lawyer McCaughey and John Loughrin in reference to me, as published in The Toronto Globe to-day, are made out of whole cloth and with no shadow of foundation.

"Unless the statements are retracted the parties who made them will be afforded an opportunity of being heard in the courts."

Steel Works Idle.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 4.—The Algoma Steel Co. Saturday followed the recent shut down of the rail mill by blowing out blast furnace No. 1. No. 2 will blow out this week. This will leave every branch of the steel industry here idle, shutting 1,500 men out of employment.

The company in a statement says that owing to financial troubles Canadian railroads refuse to place orders for rails. No promises are made as to when the plant will resume, although it is said they hope to resume in June.

The plant is the second largest in Canada.

A Barge In Danger.

Kincardine, May 4.—About eight o'clock Saturday evening a large tow barge was sighted a short distance north of this harbor displaying signals of distress. There was a stiff westerly gale blowing then and the sea ran very high. Two tugs started out and towed the disabled barge into harbor. The barge turned out to be the S. B. Pomeroy of Detroit, commanded by Capt. H. Fowler. Her tug became disabled Friday night and started back to get another, and the Pomeroy was driven over to this shore.

Assailed and Robbed.

St. Catharines, May 4.—High Constable Boyle spent all yesterday afternoon searching for two men named Eddy, who are said to have assaulted and robbed Patrick Steep at his home in Merritton early yesterday morning. The men called at the house about 4 o'clock, saying they came to settle for chickens they had purchased. Steep, who is an old man, let them in. As he was about to draw a roll of bills from his trouser pocket he received a heavy blow on the head and the men took the money.

Validity of U.S. Divorce to Be Tested.

Vancouver, B.C., May 4.—Question whether re-marriage in British Columbia on an American divorce is legal will be discussed in the Police Court.

Mrs. Peter A. O. Arsith, aged 57, is charged with bigamy. She was for many years a resident of Vancouver and has ten children. She was granted a divorce in 1905 at Tacoma and the second marriage occurred in Vancouver two weeks ago. Arsith is 20 years the junior of his wife.

Montreal, May 4.—There is a report that the new position of agent of the Province of Quebec in London, created during the last session of the Legislature, with an annual stipend of $10,000, will be given either to Sir Louis Jette, now Lieutenant-Governor of the province, or to Hon. W. A. Weir, Provincial Treasurer.

A train of immigrants passed thorough the city on the CPR. this morning at ten o'clock. There was none of them got off here, all being bound for points in Western Ontario.

An Eight-Year-Old Thief.

St. Catharines, May 4.—An eight-year-old boy named Howell was caught stealing on the city market Saturday by J. A. Dalrymple, formerly warden of Lincoln County. Dalrymple noticed the boy standing beside a wagon and missed a large ham and a number of rolls of butter. Chief Parnell recognized the boy as a former offender. He admitted having sold the ham to a woman for forty cents, and said he had disposed of the butter for five cents a pound. He will likely be sent to Mimico Industrial School.

Crime to Alter Telegram.

Washington, May 4.—As a result of the investigation of the Fassett-Cassidy telegram, alleged to have caused the defeat of Governor Hughes' racing bill through the insertion of the word "not" in the telegraph office at the capitol, Representative Fassett will introduce a bill making it an offence to alter a telegram.

The district attorney's office is understood to have been unable to find any law covering the offence.

Brakeman Injured.

London, May 4.—Leonard Butler, aged 25, a G.T.R. brakeman of Sarnia tunnel, missed his footing in climbing on an engine and was run over. He lost his left arm and was otherwise injured.

Exactions of Paper Trust.

Washington, D.C., May 4.—According to figures submitted by John Norris, representing the American Newspaper Publishers Association, to the select committee of the House on wood pulp and paper investigation regarding the increased cost of labor per ton of paper produced, the increase amounted to but 52 cents a ton. The paper makers had put on an increased price of $12 a ton, alleging the higher cost of labor.

Accidentally Shot.

Brampton, May 4.—While a number of young men were engaged in rifle shooting at Eldorado, John Richardson, a young Englishman, employed by Thomas Reeve, having discharged his rifle, was examining the target when one of his companions, not realizing how near Richardson was to the target, fired, the bullet lodging in the shoulder.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION WILL STAND BY FINDINGS

No Word to Alter or Withdraw—Commissioner Fyshe Refuses Particulars About Individuals—Declines to Directly Accuse or Exonerate Officials—Commissioner Bazin Takes Same Attitude—Judge Cassels Opens Enquiry.

Ottawa, May 4.—Judge Cassels opened his enquiry as a result of the report of the Civil Service Commission on Saturday, the evidence of Commissioners Fyshe and Bazin being taken.

"We shall present," said Mr. G. H. Watson, before evidence was begun, "all the evidence which is available bearing on the subject of this enquiry, and I am especially pleased that the proceedings are to be conducted in open court and with the dignity which belongs to a judicial form. We desire especially the co-operation of everyone who is possessed of information which may be considered material to the subject of this enquiry."

Mr. Watson gave an outline of the organization of the Marine and Fisheries Department, and of the various public services which it administers, a list of the officials who negotiate or recommend expenditures, and produced also a series of bulky files of paper containing particulars of all the Department expenditures and contracts.

J. L. Person, K.C., Montreal, appeared as junior counsel; Senator Choquette appeared on behalf of Capt. J. N. Gregory, Marine Department agent at Quebec, who has been under suspension for some weeks past; and among others present in the court room were Hon. J. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries; Col. F. Gourdeau and J. F. Fraser, commissioner of lights for the Marine Department, who was placed under suspension by the Minister at the same time as Capt. Gregory; J. M. Courtney, former Deputy Minister of Finance, who served as chairman of the Civil Service Commission of enquiry, and Dr. James Mills of the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Senator Choquette, addressing the court, said that Capt. Gregory, who is past 75 years of age, was anxious that any evidence relating to him be heard without delay. Judge Cassels pointed out, however, that at present there were no charges against him.

Commissioner Fyshe declined emphatically to name any officials as coming under the charge that there is a lack of conscience in the Department and that some of the officials are serving two masters.

"I refuse either to excuse or exculpate," said Mr. Fyshe; Mr. Bazin reiterated the objection.

Asked specially as to Col. Gourdeau, Deputy Minister of Marine, Mr. Fyshe said the evidence was all in the report and it was open to any court that wished to confirm or set aside the report to consult the extracts from the files of the Department and see if the judgment of the commissioners was correct. There was not one word that they would alter or withdraw.

"Do you realise the gravity of the charge against the whole body?" asked Judge Cassels.

"Most emphatically I realise it," replied Mr. Fyshe. "I take the full responsibility and my colleagues also."

"We charge nobody with anything."

"Our report," said Fyshe, "must be taken as a whole and we decline to go into the merits or demerits of any officers of the Department."

Mr. Watson read some extracts from the report and asked if there was anything that was intended to reflect upon Col. Gourdeau's honesty.

Mr. Fyshe said Mr. Watson could form his own opinion.

The conclusions were based on the general nature of these extracts.

Mr. Watson asked if he meant that the remark that there was a lack of conscience in the Department was applicable to the Deputy Minister. Mr. Fyshe declined to say.

Mr. Fyshe maintained that the commissioners were not appointed to investigate the conduct of individuals.

"You must necessarily have in mind some particular officers of the Department," asked Mr. Watson.

"I have."

"To whom do you refer?"

"I can't name them."

Judge Cassels: "It is not fair to the character of the men you do not blame to refuse to exculpate them."

"We neither accuse nor exculpate."

"Did you intend that this report should carry with it condemnation of the officials."

"Yes."

"That was an accusation."

"It was not."

In answer to further enquiries Mr. Fyshe said he thought his report did not justify any further investigation.

Mr. Fyshe was excused and Mr. Bazin called. He asked to be examined in French and read a memorandum stating his position.

"I beg not to be examined upon the execution of my duties as a commissioner," he pleaded. "The Government of Canada did me the honor to name me as a member of the royal commission on the civil service.

"With my colleagues I have executed my mandate to the best of my ability. We have examined as much as possible into the state of things as a whole and made our report to he Governor-in-council. This is now in the hands of Parliament, who should be our sole judges."

Examined by Mr. Watson, the witness declined to name any officials.

He was asked if he did not want to exculpate the guiltless officials, and he answered: "I don't think I can exculpate, because I don't accuse."

Mr. Bazin took pains to exclude the Minister from the general condemnation. He was explicit in saying the criticism meant the Department as a whole, and added:

"If you mean from the Minister down I do not include the Minister."

Judge Cassels remarked that apparently what the witness was trying to say was that he had found the system to be wrong.

Mr. Bazin said he did not have anyone in his mind when he spoke of the lack of conscience. He could not put his finger on any official.

This was all the evidence and Judge Cassels said he would arrange for a further hearing. Court business would have first call and his only open dates for some weeks were May 11 and 12. But he asked, "What is there to do now?" As the enquiry adjourned the judge remarked, "We have relieved the officials to a certain extent. I mean they won't feel so depressed."

On the opening of the enquiry Judge Cassels outlined the scope of the enquiry. He said the Civil Service Commission's report had contained the statement that evidently some of the officials of the Marine Department were serving two masters and succeeding with both, Scripture to the contrary notwithstanding. No individual was accused in this report, but it was charged that officials had profited by the receipt of commissions on contracts into which the Department had entered.

This was a very grave charge and the purpose of the present enquiry was to ascertain what foundation there was for the statements made to free the innocent members of the Department staff from all suspicion of wrongdoing and to report the guilty.

For this purpose they would have to make an examination of all contracts into which the Department had entered either for work performed or for supplies purchased.

The statements in the Civil Service Commission report related apparently to transactions of the past three years, and for the present at all events the enquiry would content itself with transactions of the same years, unless it became necessary to go farther afield.

WHOLE FAMILY PERISH IN FIRE IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, May 4.—An early morning fire in a four-storey brick tenement in Humboldt street, Brooklyn, caused the death of six persons and the serious injury of four others. Every member of one family, a mother and four children, are among the dead.

There were many thrilling rescues by police and firemen, and it was due to their brave work that the death list was not larger. A half dozen or more persons, who were trapped in the upper stories, were saved by jumping into life nets. The financial loss caused by the fire is estimated at $10,000.

Those who met death are: Mrs. Dora Abrams, aged 62 years; Sadie Abrams, 26 years of age; Carrie Abrams, 20 years of age; Annie Abrams, 13 years of age; Charles Abrams, 23 years of age.

The fire started in the cellar of the building at about half-past two yesterday morning when eight families were asleep.

It had gained much headway before it was discovered and three policemen, who arrived on the scene about this time, repeatedly risked their lives in dragging people from the lower floors. When the firemen arrived the terror-stricken inmates of the upper floors had been driven to the front rooms where they were hanging from windows shrieking for help. Ladders and life nets were quickly brought into use and most of the imperilled people thus were rescued.

The Abrams family lived on the third floor. The flames swept through their apartment so that the only way to escape death was by jumping from the windows. Charles A. Abrams and his sister Anna chose this manner. Both struck an iron railing and were killed. Mrs. Abrams and her other children, were burned to death, clasped in each others arms.

Deaths In Chicago Fire.

Chicago, May 4.—Five bodies were recovered Saturday from the ruins of the Chicago Reduction Co.'s plant at Thirty-Ninth and Iron streets, which was destroyed by an explosion and fire Friday night. The death list totals six, and seven men are still unaccounted for, five seriously injured are at the hospital, and seven others are at their homes suffering from wounds and burns.

At the time of the explosion the six naphtha tanks holding the 78,000 gallons in the plants were more than three-fourths full.

Mail Bag Missing.

Belleville, May 4.—A mail bag was either lost or stolen from the train which reached here from the west at midnight Friday night.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE?

Peterborough, May 4th, 1908

Editor of the Review,

Dear Sir,—Why is it that when some youths play ball on Sunday they are brought up in court for the offence while golfers are privileged to indulge in their game on the Sabbath as much as they feel inclined to?

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

TO CRUSH THE REBELLION; JAPAN MAKES PREPARATIONS

Bandit Element Numbers Three Thousand Men Scattered Over the Country in Small Parties—Are Hampered in Their Operations.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 4.—At least 12 persons lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the new Aveline Hotel early yesterday. The entire interior of the building is a smouldering heap of ruins, and how many dead are concealed by the debris can only be conjectured.

The hotel register was consumed by the fire and there is no accurate means of determining who is missing. The known dead are: R. S. Johnson, Chicago; M. Hirsch, New York; H. B. Miller, Sheboygan, Wis.; J. E. Ellis, Chicago; J. W. Pitcher, Fort Wayne; J. W. Devine, Philadelphia, and three unidentified men. The known missing are: Max Wassem, a wrestler, Fort Wayne; Frank Baxter, Auburn, Ind.; companion of Frank Baxter, Auburn, Ind.; E. B. Alty of Washington, Ind.; Charles Benjamin, Detroit; Mrs. Sarah Hathaway, Mishawken, Ind.; unknown woman, companion of Mrs. Hathaway.

The complete destruction of the interior of the hotel makes the work of recovering bodies a difficult task, as bricks and twisted girders, piled up between the walls to beyond the second storey, must be removed piece by piece before the roll of the dead can be completed.

Some of the bodies taken out are mangled and charred beyond recognition.

Fireman Saved Many.

The fire was discovered at 3.30 yesterday morning in the elevator shaft by Night Clerk Hopkins. He rushed to the upper floors alarming the guests, until the flames drove him back. His efforts, however, saved many lives.

The hotel was erected half a century ago and the woodwork was as dry as tinder. It burned like matchwood, and within a few minutes from the time the fire was discovered the whole interior of the hotel was a mass of flames and the only means of escape left was by the windows.

The fire department rescued many persons by means of ladders, but some frenzied by the rush of the flames, leaped to the street.

R. S. Johnson of Pana, Ill, jumped from the fifth storey. His body struck a balcony and bounded far into the street. He was badly crushed and died in a short time.

As the flames increased men and women were seen in the windows of their rooms, imploring help. Some did not wait for the assistance of the firemen and leaped into the street.

Those who left their rooms before the flames cut off their retreat were able to make their way to the fire escapes and were saved with comparative ease.

MISTOOK OTTER FOR A SKUNK

Ops Township Young Man Committed Serious Offence Unknowingly

Lindsay, May 2.—William Eggleton, a young hired farmer, last night shot an otter in mistake for a skunk. At least that is his contention. While wandering through the premises of Mr. Horatio Moore, lot 28, con. 6, of Ops township, with whom he is employed, he was startled to see a small animal running swiftly over the ground in the orchard. Concluding that the skunk, or whatever it was, might cause some damage to poultry, he at once proceeded to get a gun. He returned and shot the animal. Upon picking up the carcass he was considerably surprised to discover that he had committed a serious breach of the law, which he thought next, might entail a large fine. However, to remedy the matter as far as was in his power he brought the otter in to Inspector Bradshaw, who, of course, was forced to confiscate the animal and bring the matter before the notice of Police Magistrate Jackson. It is said that in view of his ignorance of what the animal really was, he will probably get off.

Local Persons in Moving Picture Now Being Shown at the Crystal

An interesting feature of "A Trip Through Killarney," which is being shown at the Crystal today is the presence of three Peterborough persons in the picture. They were touring in the Emerald Isle at the time and happened to be caught by the persistent photographers.

They are probably the first local people ever seen in a moving picture film and are quite easily distinguished by their friends.

UNREST SAID TO EXIST IN INDIA

Causing Much Uneasiness to British Government.

London, May 4.—India is a source of considerable uneasiness to the British Government at the present moment.

The difficulty with the Mohmands seemed on the eve of settlement when on Saturday, according to reports received here, a new danger threatened in an attempt by an Afghan force, numbering from 13,000 to 20,000, which crossed the border divided into two bodies, to seize the blockhouses on Khyber pass, near Lundi Khotal.

The attacks were repulsed with trifling casualties on the part of the British, but the Afghans remained in from Lundi Khotal and another body is reported moving into Bazar valley by way of Lisote pass.

Gen. Willcocks, who is in command of the British forces recently despatched to quell the trouble, has gone to Jamrud, about ten miles west of Peshawur, at the entrance of Khyber Pass, and is hastening forward his troops to meet the new development.

All frontier telegrams are severely censored at Simla.

From Calcutta comes the news of the discovery of a plot to murder Europeans by means of bombs. The conspiracy appears to be of an extensive character and many arrests have been made. The responsibility for the plot is placed on the natives, a number of incriminating documents having been seized, together with a supply of bombs and other explosives.

The discovery of the plot was made through the arrest and confession of the author of a bomb outrage at Mozufferpur, the capital of the province of the same name, in Bengal, in which two Europeans were killed.

Whirled In Shafting.

London, May 4.—While working around a shafting in Carmichael's butter factory on concession 10, London Township, William Dinwiddie, a buttermaker, had the sleeve of his coat caught in a set-screw. He was whirled around the shaft several times. His arm was broken.

Young Man Drowned.

Fenelon Falls, May 4.—While assisting in putting in some stop logs in the slide, Joseph, son of Andrew Torrance, was accidently drowned. The canthook became fast and he held on to it too long and was thrown into the water, just above the falls.

Deabte To-Day.

London, May 4.—The debate on the licensing bill in the British House of Commons to-day promises to be a memorable one. Owing to the vast financial and labor interests involved, the measure has attracted widespread interest.

Man's Inhumanity.

Windsor, May 4.—In the Assize Court Saturday Mrs. Mary Spiers, plaintiff in an alimony suit against William Spiers of Owen Sound, said that once her husband knocked her down and beat her into insensibility because she asked him for two dollars. The judge awarded $5 a week alimony.

John Guilfoyle, who drives an ice wagon, was arrested Saturday night. He took two Detroit girls for a ride to Belle Isle, and is alleged to have attacked one of them, leaving her senseless from blows administered by the butt of a revolver.

Strike Averted.

Cleveland, May 4.—After voting 1,462 to 128 in favor of a strike, the motormen and conductors of the Municipal Traction Co. Saturday night practically reached an agreement with the mayor and traction officials that will eliminate the prospect of a cessation of work.

The men failed to secure outright the two-cent an hour increase in pay demanded, but are given an assurance that they may anticipate an advance after the Municipal Traction Co. shows a sufficient surplus.

DRESS-MAKERS

The nervous strain through which dressmakers have to pass at certain seasons of the year seems almost beyond endurance, and frequently brings on nervous prostration, fainting spells, dizziness, sleeplessness and a general breaking down of the feminine system, until life seems altogether miserable.

For all overworked women there is one tried and true remedy.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

restores the feminine system to a strong, healthy, normal condition.

Mrs. A. D. Trudeau, Arnprior, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered terribly from ulceration of the feminine organs for eight years. I tried four doctors but got no relief, and thought I would have to die.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me. I hope every suffering woman will take my advice and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

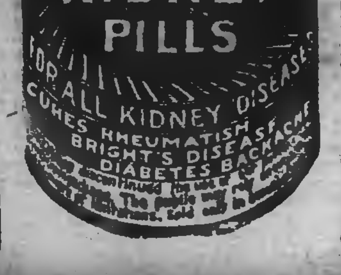
MONDAY, MAY 4, 1908.

THE GLOBE'S HOPE

In a leader of Saturday last the Globe well knowing that it is useless to hope for the ousting of the Whitney government heads its article with the campaign war-cry "Make strong the opposition." Naturally enough it would be a little absurd to think that Mr. Whitney was likely to be sacrificed for a member of the late Ross government as Prime Minister and for a man whose stipend of $4,000 per annum is paid by "friends" in addition to his yearly sessional indemnity. There is nothing in the opposition to attract any man and there is nothing in the record of Mr. Whitney that need bring one blush of shame to him. With this remark by the chief Liberal organ we heartily agree "It is therefore of the highest public interest that men of the first rank alike in ability and in character be elected to constitute the opposition in the next Legislature." This lofty and patriotic sentiment makes strange reading alongside the following from the Examiner anent the same campaign; "The Review childishly asks 'Can't we trust each other?' Frankly no. Not in politics, if we judge from the past. We all know that the world has come to set up less exacting standards of morality in politics and in government relations than in ordinary matters." This is an incitation to be an ass rather than a man. Who, even if he did not know what honour was, would be so crude as to plunge in this way the province into a chaos of distrust and mutual suspicion. Are statesmen, then, a corrupt generation! Is virtue itself a mere folly? When political honour comes to be abandoned love, honour and religion will also have become things of the past.

If Mr. Whitney does not deserve a renewal of public confidence then let him suffer the wages of political sin but if he be as we believe him to be the highest type of statesman yet evolved in Ontario, honest, faithful, sincere let confidence in him be renewed. Would the Examiner want a man of the type it describes — one with "less exacting standards." etc! We should not accuse even Mr. MacKay of filling these cynical requirements and coming down to this degrading estimate of poor human nature. Men are better than they seem not worse, and it is a burning shame to tempt them.



A GRAVE OFFENCE

Last year out of 1,162 patients admitted to the Provincial asylums 346 were foreign born or 30 per cent. In a few years this number has increased from 20 per cent. to the thirty per cent referred to. This is wholly due to the immigration mania of the Laurier Administration. An increase of nearly $30,000 for last year in the maintenance of foreign lunatics is a pretty serious thing. What a splendid contribution that sum would be to the roads of the north country. It means the usual yearly colonization expenditure upon the roads of about five or six counties. It means the building or repairing of about small bridges such as are constantly being required over small streams and in swamps. It means the education for one year of the children in the rural schools of two whole counties or nearly so. It means a new dress and a good one for every farmer's wife in the county of Peterborough. But it has all gone to the maintenance of 346 lunatics who should never have been brought to this country by the paid agents of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Administration or by anyone else. The wind-up of the present Ottawa Administration in the throes of the next general election is well typified by the fall of the Quebec bridge—complete but expensive.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Rev. Mr. Pogue's sermon on "The Christian and Public Life" was a splendid contribution to the work of the Church in general in its efforts to establish a reciprocation between the higher and lower life—a community and interchange of interest and action between the natural forces of daily life, as we might call them, and the spiritual forces of the Christian life. The reverend gentleman speedily produced his authority from Christ for seeking to remove temptation from the world and for labouring to improve the environment of the young. Some remark that the application of Christian principles to daily life is visionary; others that it is not desirable, and still others who, not believing, yet seek the advancement of the world on general principles that it is unnecessary. Whether the view presented is realizable or not, the sermon was a splendid contribution, as we have said, to this important subject. Next Sunday night Mr. Pogue speaks on "The Christian and Business Life." There was a very large and interested congregation.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Globe's estimate of Hon. Rich. Harcourt, who has finally retired from public life, is a very fair one. He was always polite and made an excellent representative. It was his associates that damned him.

For the information of the Fenelon Falls Gazette we may say that if a wage in Germany is $5 per week and in Canada $15 per week, the German wage is 200 per cent. less than the Canadian, or it is 33 1-3 per cent. of the Canadian, or if increased by 200 per cent. will equal the Canadian.

There is a general outcry in the Liberal press against W. H. Bennett, M.P. We do not wonder. If any one man more than another has made the grafters feel the lash, it is he. If a man's value to his country is to be calculated by what he has saved it, Mr. Bennett must be worth to Canada several millions at least.

"You must wake and call me early, call me early, mother dear; get my heaviest flannels ready; fetch my chest protector here; get out my winter ulster and the furs I put away—for I'm to be queen o' the May, mother, I'm to be queen o' the May."

If May doesn't improve rapidly we do not know what may have to be done about it.

"We all know that the world has come to set up less exacting standards of morality in politics and in government relations than in ordinary matters."—The Examiner.

Men who cherish such ideas may be expected to act up to them. But have we as a matter of fact fallen so low? Is the whole system of government beneath the level of the prize ring?

Mr. Fowler, M.P., tells of a tailor in his county in New Brunswick, who was appointed by the Laurier Government to inspect construction on an armery, the contract price of which was $4,700. The tailor neglected to report that the work was done and so went on drawing his pay for a year or two, receiving for inspection 40 per cent. of the contract price. A similar case is now reported from Antigonish, where $1,900 has already been paid for inspecting the public buildings under construction there. The inspector's pay is $3 per day, and has been going on nearly two years. It is found that the inspector was paid $1,095 for one year, so that he drew his three dollars for every holiday and every Sunday.—Exchange.

How careless some people are, and yet the Liberal press consider Mr. Fowler a nuisance.

Toronto Saturday Night. — Some months ago the opinion was expressed in these columns that Premier Whitney would be unable to redistribute the constituencies of the province without making the job a gerrymander — partizanship being a strong force and the self-interest of his personal friends great. The redistribution bill is now before the public, and notwithstanding the complaints made by the Liberals, the general view will be that the redistribution was conceived in a spirit of unusual fairness. No doubt the bill fails to equalize conditions in some districts where they stand in need of adjustment, but such changes as have been made are made with some respect for the principles of fair play. Those who criticise the bill must look far and wide for an example of anything better in the same line.

Hon. J. P. Whitney himself announced that the present redistribution was only a partial one. If he lives through the next election he will proceed to redistribute the province on a complete scale. It is all very well for the Opposition to cry "gerrymander!" but where is the redistribution unjust. The Ross Government has fairly bedevilled the country in its wriggling and twisting to keep in power and this has to be corrected.

If reliance can be placed on present indications there is danger of an enormous flood on the Ottawa river about the middle or end of May. The water is rising fast and the precipitation—greater than has been recorded for a long term —continues unceasingly.

The rain and snowfall has been 17.1 inches since December of 1907. The volume of flow at Kettle Island, just below the city, is 120,000 cubic feet per second, which is only 7,000 cubic feet per second less than that of the great flood year, 1876, at the same date.

At the foot of the Rideau locks the water rose 11 inches on Wednesday, 8 inches on Thursday and 17 inches yesterday.

Below the Chaudiere Falls the danger of flood is further increased by the fact of the Gatineau emptying in. It is estimated that the flow now is about 55,000 cubic feet per second. This immense volume of water sweeps in from the north and forces itself across towards Rockliffe, thus interfering with the outlet of the Ottawa, causing it to back up. With an ever increasing flow descending over the Chaudiere and the concurrent increasing flow of the Gatineau and other tributaries below, the result will be a rise in the river which would seriously affect the power plants by destroying the momentum. The stream below the Chaudiere would rise till the head would be reduced materially despite the volume of water from the Upper Ottawa.—Ottawa Free Press.

There probably has not been so much water in the upper reaches of all these northern waters for many years as this year. We have had a narrow escape from having decidedly too much of an otherwise harmless beverage in Peterborough.

Fear an Earthquake.

Catania, Italy, May 4.—Prof. Ricco, director of the observatory, has ascertained the exact position of the new eruptive mouths of Mount Etna. They are situated 1,200 meters east of the observatory.

The eruption proper has almost ceased, but the shocks and the emission of smoke from the central crater continue, and it is feared that a violent earthquake will follow the cessation, similar to the one in 1883.

BILL JONES.

Bill Jones he owns the grocery store
Where all the fellers go
An' set each night an' spin their yarns,
A most impressive row.
Bill seldom spins a yarn himself,
Jest uses of his ears
An' says, in confidence, he don't Believe quite all he hears.

Bill Jones he sets all by himself
Behind the counter there
An' listens to the things they say,
With sad an' patient air,
An' of he ketches trade enough
From them who nightly dwell
To pay him fur his light an' heat
He thinks he's doin' well.

Bill Jones he figures ev'ry night
On paper bread an' brown
The age of ev'ry setter there,
From Uncle Ezra down.
Bill says, "Ef they hev done es much
Es they make out, by swish,
They've lived two hundred years apiece
An' ketched a million fish!"

His Homecoming

By Cecily Allen.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Homer Sprague.

She was extremely fair to look upon. To Nat Gregory the realization of this fact was nothing new. But somehow just at this particular moment it was borne in upon him afresh and at a novel angle.

Her hair was blue black, so were her lashes, and her eyes were a wonderful blue, which, somehow, sometimes, turned to an equally wonderful violet.

The last time that Nat had looked into them his own had been full of stinging unshed tears. How could he stand six months in Panama with the light of those blue (or were they violet) eyes denied him?

But her notes had been so brief and unsatisfactory that even in hot, lazy Panama he had caught himself reading between the lines and finding there a selfish soul, the small narrow soul of the girl given to personal conquests, the soul steeped in admiration and fed on compliments.

She was smiling at him now across the car's broad aisle and above a great "granny" muff of gray squirrel. That huge mass of fur made her face look all the more piquant and dainty.

Occasionally the man on the right intercepted the friendly glances which Peggy Barton shot at the newly returned Gregory, and he glowered. Nat Gregory knew just how the chap felt. He had intercepted the same sort of glances, and they had made him squirm too.

She simulated a tiny cough and instantly raised the muff again. The cough was a good excuse for a fetching pose, but somehow the absurd little deception annoyed Nat Gregory. It is so sometimes with men who have had their minds and souls opened and broadened by travel and contact with men of affairs.

So he let his glance wander to the girl next to Peggy. She smiled at the returned traveler, too, but it was a different sort of smile, a wholesome, friendly smile, without any vague sense of ownership behind it. Peggy Barton always assumed that air with men—her sister Janet, never.

For, you see, Janet was the ugly duckling of the Barton family, famous for its pretty daughters and the good matches they made. Janet was the youngest, and she might not have been considered homely if Peggy had not been so brilliantly, scintillatingly beautiful by contrast.

There were those, principally women and young men without prospects, who said that Peggy Barton always dragged her younger and less attractive sister around with her as a foil.

Something of this was passing through Nat Gregory's head as he sat watching the little comedy. The other chap would be furious if Nat crossed the aisle and talked with Peggy, and Peggy would be furious if he did not. So he would strike a happy medium. He would join the party and talk to Janet.

How well he could remember their many trips together—Peggy, Janet and himself—to the links, where he and Peggy played golf and Janet sat on the veranda or disappeared in the woods where wild flowers were thick; to the matinee, where between the acts he and Peggy discussed the love interest of the play as if it were a personal matter, while Janet read the advertisements in the programme; to the rink, where he and Peggy skated together and Janet found some girl friend as a skating partner or sat against the wall making humorous mental comment on the circling tide before her.

What a jolly little beggar Janet had been in those days! If she had been bored she had never shown it, and—He was standing before the trio now.

The man, Fred Marsden, had been duly introduced. Peggy had turned the full battery of her wonderful eyes without the aid of the "granny" muff upon Gregory's tanned and clean cut face, and Janet had murmured something about "old times."

"I haven't skated—why, it is nearly a year since I've been on ice," he was saying to Janet. "I've a good mind to get admittance to this party and give you all a chance to laugh at my awkwardness. Do you think I could rent a decent pair of skates at the rink?"

Marsden was politely but not effusively reassuring. Peggy was mischievously pleased to pit the rivals on skates, and Janet just murmured, "Do come."

"I wonder how it will feel to the little girl if she has a real partner all afternoon," thought Gregory as he locked his skates. Before he and Janet had circled the rink a dozen times he realized that she was a splendid little person on the ice and a most appreciative listener, never giving thought to the tricksy steel beneath her trim boots.

No, she was not "out" yet. Next winter perhaps she might come out at a tea. She was still the little sister of the reigning beauty. And didn't he think Peggy handsomer than ever? He did, and he said so, with a heartiness and a lack of tenderness that a more experienced girl than Janet would have interpreted correctly.

They lingered so late that the rush of home going toilers caught them in its swirl on the return trip. When they reached Gregory's corner, Janet mechanically extended her hand.

"Indeed, I'm not going to leave you in this crush. I know I'm a self invited member of this quartet, but Marsden has his hands full to steer Peggy through the crush. You'll need me."

Janet flushed and dimpled. Nat almost gasped. He had never seen a dimple in her chin before, but then Janet had never laughed up into his eyes in just that way.

"I'm coming up to call tomorrow night if I may," said Gregory as they drew near the Barton home.

"You'd better ask Peggy if she'll be home," said Janet soberly. "I think there's a dance on at the St. Andrew tomorrow evening."

"But you said you were not 'out' yet. You can't go to a St. Andrew dance," he said, with a fine assumption of elder brotherliness.

"Oh!" said Janet. And again the dimple cleft her chin.

"Fred Marsden is so tiresome," said Peggy as she permitted Janet to unlace her boots and spread out her dinner frock. "He seemed to think that Nat Gregory had no right to skate with me. And we were old friends before Fred moved here. Nat has improved, too, don't you think so?"

Janet bent down to plait a chiffon flounce that had not come unplaited.

"Oh, I can't see that he has changed any," she fibbed, her face now as rosy as the pink chiffon.

At that particular moment Nat Gregory was sitting before the grate fire in his room, fingering a parcel of letters tied with deep violet ribbons. Then he laughed—a short, chuckling, eloquent laugh—and laid the letters, ribbon and all, on the glowing coals.

"It was just when she peeped at me above that silly big muff! Of course I never really cared for her, but somehow I knew it was all up when she gave me that look to make the other fellow squirm. Heavens, how I used to squirm too! Now, Janet wouldn't make a man squirm. And where in time do you suppose she had been hiding that dimple? By Jove, come to think of it, I never looked to see whether she had a dimple or not in the old days."

For a few minutes he sat very quietly watching the mass of letters turn from flame color to yellowish pink and to pinkish gray. Then, whistling, he went down to the library, closed the door and picked up the desk telephone

"Is Janet in? Yes, Miss Janet Barton. All right. Hello, Janet, is this you? This is Nat—Nat Gregory. Oh, I just happened to think that you did not answer my question. Are you going to the St. Andrew dance tomorrow night? No, you did not answer my question. All right, then, I'm coming, about 8:30. Nonsense! I used to call on—er—other girls before they came 'out.' All right—goodby. Oh, wait a minute. Say, I want to know—would you mind telling me—did you always have a dimple in your chin? No, really, I never did—goodby."

He hung up the receiver, crossed to the mantel and by the aid of the low, broad mirror readjusted his tie. But evidently this was done mechanically, for what he said very gently to the tanned, clean cut reflection in the glass was:

"Funny how some girls can say 'of course' and make it sound like something ever so much better. Funny—no just great!" And then he leaned back in the most comfortable chair in the room and sighed contentedly. This was better than squirming, decidedly better.

Half a Loaf.

The negro's love of titles of whatever sort is amusingly illustrated by a story told by the governor of a southern state.

It appears that the congregation of a colored church in Georgia conceived the notion that it would add greatly to their dignity if the pastor of the church were enabled to add the initials D. D. to his name. A member, hearing of an institution in the north which would, for value received, confer such a degree, entered into correspondence with that end in view. Reply came to the effect that the sum of $75 would obtain the desired dignity.

A difficulty arose, however, in that the congregation were unable to raise more than $30. Finally, after much confabulation, the congregation delegated one of their number to see the thing out. The following message was sent to the institution mentioned:

"Kindly forward our pastor one D., we being unable to afford the other at this time."—Harper's Weekly.

"Pelorus Jack."

Near the mouth of Pelorus sound, on the Nelson side of Cook strait, is the home of a remarkable sea animal known throughout New Zealand as "Pelorus Jack." He is gray in color, about fourteen feet in length, and his pastime is to wait for coastal steamers and to escort them for several miles on their journey. As a boat approaches "Jack" may be seen heading toward her to take up his accustomed position beside or in front of the bow of the vessel. There, sometimes for twenty minutes, he hovers round, rushing so quickly from side to side that the eye can scarcely follow his movements. When he considers he has gone far enough, with a last sudden plunge he dives once more and for the last time, disappearing in a whirl of foam, to be seen no more that trip.—Sydney News.

The Problem.

"Literature is very difficult," said one authoress.

"Yes," answered the other. "The problem is to be a financial success without being a social failure."—Washington Star.

The Vancouver Bar Association has asked for an impeachment of Mr. Justice Martin for neglect of duty.

BEAUTY OF MARS.

Wonderful Color and Grandeur Revealed by the Telescope.

Viewed under suitable conditions, few sights can compare for instant beauty and growing grandeur with Mars as presented by the telescope. Framed in the blue of space, there floats before the observer's gaze a seeming miniature of his own earth, yet changed by translation to the sky. Within its charmed circle of light he marks apparent continents and seas, now ramifying into one another, now stretching in unique expanse over wide tracts of disk and capped at their poles by dazzling ovals of white. It recalls to him his first lessons in geography, where the earth was shown him set ethereally amid the stars, only with an added sense of reality in the apotheosis. It is the thing itself, stamped with that all pervading, indefinable hall mark of authenticity in which the cleverest reproduction somehow fails.

In color largely lies this awakening touch that imbues the picture with the sense of actuality. And very vivid are the tints, so salient and so unlike that their naming in words conveys scant idea of their concord to the eye. Rose ocher dominates the lighter regions, while a robin's egg blue colors the darker, and both are set off and emphasized by the icy whiteness of the caps. Nor is either hue uniform. Tone relieves tint to a further heightening of effect. In some parts of the light expanses the ocher prevails alone. In others the rose deepens to a brick red, suffusing the surface with the glow of a warm late afternoon. No less various is the blue, now sinking into deeps of shading, now lightening into faint washes that in places grade off insensibly into ocher itself, thus making regions of intermediate tint the precise borders of which are not decipherable by the eye.

Superimposed upon its general opaline complexion are now and then to be seen ephemeral effects. At certain times and in certain places warm chocolate brown has been known to supplant the blue. Often, too, cold white dots are scattered over the disk, dazzling diamond points that deck the planet's features to a richness beyond the power of pencil to portray. So minute are they that good seeing is needed to disclose them. It is at such moments that color best comes out. To those who know the sun only as golden and the moon as white, even in its color scheme Mars would stand forth a revelation.—Percival Lowell in Century.

Maiden Speeches in the Lords.

By waiting twenty-four years before making his maiden speech Lord Langford exercised an oratorical restraint as rare as in some cases it would be commendable.

The Earl of Rochester in the days of Charles II. was not equally modest, for he took an early opportunity of addressing the house of lords, with disastrous results. "My lords," he began, "I rise this time for the first time—the very first time, my lords—and divide my speech into four branches." Here he paused for a few seconds, grew purple and confused and finally blurted out, "My lords, if ever I rise again in this house you may cut me off, root and branches and all, for ever."

Lord Byron was more fortunate, for his maiden effort was declared by Sir F. Burdett to be "the best speech by a lord since the Lord knows when."

Lord Rosebery's maiden speech after three years of silence was a model of modest oratory, opening with a plea for that favor and indulgence which the house always shows to those who address it for the first time, "even in a larger measure on account of my extreme youth and inexperience."—St. James' Gazette.

Not Even "Just as Good."

When it became necessary during the civil war to resort to the draft in order to provide recruits for the Union armies, many men who did not care to go to the front or could not afford to do so organized themselves into clubs or groups for the purpose of mutual protection. When one of their number was drafted an assessment was made upon all of them, and the money thus raised was used in hiring a substitute.

An organization of this kind was formed in a small town in Illinois, and one of the members, a stalwart, fine looking man, was drafted. With the money raised by the stipulated assessment he procured a substitute, a little, wizen faced chap, who looked like a scared rabbit. He took him to the office of the provost marshal.

"Mr. Marshal," he said, "here is my substitute."

"I see," answered the officer dryly as he looked at the two men. "Funny how people like to get the best of the government in a bargain!"

Curious Marriage Customs.

Among the East Indian Gonds a bride is carried on her brother-in-law's back to the house of her friends and is made to weep with each of them, while they give her small presents of money. When the ceremony is about to be performed at the bridegroom's house the bride hides in another house and calls "Coo!" and the bridegroom's brother-in-law searches for her. As she enters the bridegroom's house two spears are planted before the door to make an arch, and the bridegroom pushes her through, the girl hanging back.

On the day after the wedding the bride and bridegroom throw mud at each other for sport.

Among the Marass all the women of the bridegroom's party are shut up in a house with the bride's sister's husband. They all set upon him and beat him, so that he is usually glad to escape as soon as possible.—Pioneer of India.

KEPT IN RUSSIAN JAIL.

Englishman Dragged From Bed at Dead of Night.

Russian police methods have once more moved the British Foreign Office to action. This time the case is more flagrant than usual, a London merchant having been summarily arrested and cast into prison in Odessa.

The unfortunate individual it Mr. N. Luxemburg, who carries on business in Cheapside, and is well known among London and Continental business men. On Feb. 26 he left England for a continental tour. He visited Berlin, from which he sent a picture post-card—the last direct communication any of his friends have had from him—to his wife, and afterwards went to Odessa, where he arrived on March 5.

Later came the following cable from his agent at Odessa:

"Luxemburg arrested; am taking necessary steps."

Later a letter was received from the agent stating that Mr. Luxemburg was suddenly dragged out of bed at his hotel and clapped straightway in prison, without any explanation beyond "Orders from St. Petersburg."

The agent wrote that he had been unable to ascertain why the arrest had taken place; that no charge had at present been made; that he had not been allowed to communicate with Mr. Luxemburg, and that Mr. Luxemburg had not been allowed to communicate with him.

According to one correspondent Mr. Luxemburg was awakened at two in the morning. When he opened the door of his room an officer and five constables presented revolvers at him. He was removed to the prison, and placed in a filthy cell which had no bed. As a result he had a nervous breakdown.

It has been suggested that revolutionary pamphlets were found amongst Mr. Luxemburg's baggage, but it is asserted by those who should know that Mr. Luxemburg kept himself aloof from politics. The package which Mr. Luxemburg took with him contained sample boots and shoes.

Mrs Luxemburg has made personal representations to the Foreign Office, which has promised to make inquiries at once.

The British Government has taken energetic action. At the instance of the Foreign Office the British Ambassador at St. Petersburg has presented a note to the Russian Foreign Minister, calling attention to the arrest, and requesting that if there is any charge against Mr. Luxemburg his trial might be expedited, and, if not, that he should be released.

The matter, we understand, will be further pressed, and, if, as seems to be the case, a serious blunder has been made by the Odessa police, the British Government will consider the question of making a claim for compensation.

In addition to the representations which have been made at St. Petersburg, the British consul-general at Odessa has been instructed to inquire fully into the circumstances of Mr. Luxemburg's arrest, and to report as soon as possible.

PUSSY IN THE WALL.

Cat Alive After Being Bricked up for a Month.

From Sunderland comes a remarkable story concerning a cat which had been accidentally imprisoned in a wall during alterations. Some weeks ago, Mr. John Stephenson missed from his home in Chatsworth street, a Persian cat, and as the animal did not put in an appearance after the lapse of some days, it was concluded that it had been stolen. A few days ago a member of the family heard mewing, but the cat was not to be seen. The mewing was not heard again that day, but on the following day was repeated, and seemed to come from beneath the flooring. Boards were taken up, but the cat was not found. On the same day the cries of the animal were again heard, and this time seemed to come from behind the wall of the sitting-room. It being obvious that the cat was in some place of confinement about the house, Mr. Stephenson obtained help, and had the wainscotting detached and bricks removed. While these operations were in progress, the poor beast was discovered by one of the men. The cat had been a month in the ventilating chamber while alterations were being made to the place, and was bricked in. When found the animal was in a pitiful condition, but with careful treatment it is now gradually getting over its terrible experience.

Beer will be sold in New Denver on May 24th and some firworks exploded.

HIS FACE BADLY BURNED BY GASOLINE EXPLOSION

Mr. Edward Wesley Suffers Serious Injuries in Fire at "My Valet" on Saturday Afternoon—Accident Occurred in Cleaning Room—Loss a Heavy One.

As a result of fire breaking out in the cleaning department of the premises of "My Valet," on Charlotte street, Edward Wesley, 590 George street, was seriously burned about the face, hands and body and now lies in a precarious condition in Nicholls Hospital.

The accident occurred about twenty minutes past four on Saturday afternoon. The cleaning room is a small brick building at the rear of the store. It was completely gutted with the conflagration that occurred, and the contents were practically all destroyed, incurring a loss of about six hundred dollars.

Mr. Wesley is an old man of about seventy years of age. He is not an employe of "My Valet," but until a short time ago, his sons were the proprietors and he had been accustomed to spending an hour or two each day at the shop. On Saturday, as usual, he called, and had just walked into the cleaning room, bade Mr. Jas. Greer, who was alone in the building, good day, when the unfortunate affair happened.

What caused the fire is not known. It is said that Mr. Wesley had been smoking and may have dropped a match; gasoline fumes being prevalent and large quantities of this inflammable fluid being in the room, it quickly took fire. However, this is not substantiated. Mr. Greer did not raise his head from his work when Mr. Wesley entered and cannot say whether the unfortunate man was smoking or not.

How Mr. Greer escaped is a mystery. The room was at once enveloped in that even his boots and clothing flames. Mr. Wesley was able to walk out of the building. Dr. Marshall, who happened to be passing at the time, hurried into Mr. J. Gemmell's store and procured a blanket and by wrapping it around the injured man, subdued the flames.

The Dan Spence ambulance was was called and Mr. Wesley was removed to Nicholls Hospital. He was terribly injured. The hair on his head and beard were burned off as close as though he had been shaved. His face and hands were also badly burned. So complete was the burning that even his boots and clothing were rendered unfit for further use. His injuries are of a serious nature. He is being attended by Dr. Marshall.

The fire brigade were summoned and the blaze in the building was quickly gotten under control. However, considerable damage was done by fire and water. Two fur-lined overcoats, double and single sets of new harness, in addition to all the cleaning utensils were completely destroyed. "My Valet" was purchased about two weeks ago from Wesley Bros by Mr. Bruce Rickey. The loss is covered by insurance. Mr. Rickey intends securing suitable quarters for cleaning purposes and business will go on just the same as usual.

ENCOUNTERED A PERSON HE WASN'T LOOKING FOR

Last night a young man was taking a stroll with a young lady when some men whose bearing was anything but friendly, approached them The young lady became very much frightened and leaving her friend, ran home. Her escort returned and as he was walking along near where he encountered the men he saw somebody walking along. His movements appeared to him suspicious and he approached him and asked him if he was one of the party had given the young lady he was with such a fright.

"What if I was?" was the reply.

The youth proceeded to express some opinions when he suddenly realized that he was talking to one of the city policemen who happened to be out in plain clothes. The shadow cast by the trees along the boulevard had prevented him from recognising the officer. The latter looked at the matter in a jocular way and allowed the young man to pass on whithout molesting him.

REV. MR. BRACE SAID GOOD-BYE TO PARK-ST. CONGREGATION

Preached Farewell Sermon Last Night to Large Congregation—Much Has Been Accomplished During His Pastorate in Peterborough.

Rev. A. H. Brace closed his pastorate at the Park street Baptist church last night, preaching a farewell sermon to overflowing congregations, school room, vestry and standing room being occupied and numbers had to be turned away. The text for the sermon was taken from II. Cor. 13 verse, "Finally my brethren be perfect, be of good comfort, be of mind, true in peace, and the God of love and peace shall be with you."

In introducing his subject Mr. Brace said at such a time as this it was natural to take a retrospective. "In doing so," he said, "I find 105 have been baptised into the fellowship of the church, forty marriages had taken place, compared with sixteen of my two predecessors."

Mr. Brace paid a hearty and warm tribute to the press, which had contributed largely to the success of his pastorate. The editors and their staffs were all courteous and wise and he could not let the occasion pass without this acknowledgement.

A very pleasing feature to him was the number of heads of families who had been received into the fellowshop. The roll stood at 72 and had grown to 250, and after deaths and removals the membership will be considerably more than doubled, while the mortgage had been paid, the new lot paid for and a thousand dollars going to interest in the bank, and thousands more promised for the new church. The church removed and decks cleared for action, things were in splendid shape for an enterprising, aggressive campaign to erect the new church with the church with the citizens of Peterborough and the friends of the church outside ready to help.

The service was full of pathos and tenderness and the vast congregation rose and sang, "God be With You Till We Meet Again." The hand-shaking which followed was a trying ordeal for the retiring pastor.

Mr. Brace commences work on Sunday next at the Baptist church, Cobourg.

PETERBOROUGH WOULD BE A GOOD PLACE FOR DRY DOCK

It seems that the dry dock, such as suggested by the Otonabee Navigation Company, could be built cheaply. They submitted their views on the matter to the Board of Works on Friday night, who took the necessary action in the matter to have the proposition considered by the proper authorities. The existing conditions are such that it could be built easily and cheaply above Lock 6, which is situated at the end of the section of the canal entering Little Lake.

The nearest dry dock on these waters is situated at Bobcaygeon and that point is not convenient enough for one. Peterborough, with its greater means of securing mechanical means of repair for dry docked boats would be a much more suitable place.

It would seem that a dry dock at Peterborough would prove almost indispensible when the navigation on the canal will increase in view of its early completion. The dock, if built, will be, it is estimated, from 175 to 200 feet in length.

FISH SAID TO BE UNUSUALLY PLENTIFUL IN THE OTONABEE

According to reports brought in fish are more plentiful in the Otonabee river this year than for many seasons. This will be good news for the men who loves his rod and line. A gentleman who lives near the Otonabee river a few miles below the city, stated to the Review on Saturday that scores of 'lunge can be seen in the river. Never, he says, were they so plentiful, and he predicts great sport when the season opens. Bass, he states, are also unusually plentiful.

It is said that the increase in the number of game fish in local waters is due to the protection policy that has been followed during the past few years. There is no ruthless slaughtering of the fish as was formerly the case, and the good effects are becoming evident. The fishing in the Otonabee was splendid last year. This spring it promises to be even better.

RIVERSIDE PARK IS RAPIDLY BECOMING DRY LAND AGAIN

A few days ago Riverside Park was practically a miniature lake. With the exception of a small strip at the north end it was all under water, and the prospects were not bright for any baseball there until well on in May. The water is going down rapidly, now, however, and nearly three-quarters of the ground surface is now free from water. It is receding rapidly and the grounds should be in good condition for the opening game between the Peterborough team and the Alerts of Toronto. Considerable fixing up will have to be done, as the water carried in a lot of sticks and debris of various kinds that will have to be picked up before the park will be in good shape for athletic sports.

Work on the bleachers is to be commenced this week and they will be rushed to completion.

DROWNED WHILE MEN LOOKED ON

Tragic Death of Young Man at Fenelon Falls--Could Not be Rescued

Lindsay, May 2.—In full view of a number of men and boys Joseph Torrance of Fenelon Falls, 22 years of age was drowned this morning about half-past eight. He fell into the locks and was carried down by a current caused by the opening of the gates at that time was also carried over the falls. Up till a late hour to-day his body had not been recovered.

FIXING STOP-LOGS.

Torrance, along with William Parkin, Alfred Jewell, and Lockmaster Tom Junkin, was working at the locks fixing the stop-logs. A boat owned by Mr. Chas. Burgoyne was passing through and an attempt was being made to stop the swift current.

CARRIED OFF.

A slippery plank it is said, was responsible for the death of Mr. Torrance as the log he was handling was sent around with a swinging motion the momentum carrying him off his too insecure position. He fell back into the raging water and though both he and the men made frantic efforts to save his life all was in vain.

PETER WARNER FOUND GUILTY

Magistrate Reserved Sentence for One Week---Allowed to go in the Meantime

The man charged with stealing a quantity of lead and copper from a Stewart street residence, and who had his trial on Friday last, came up before His Worship for judgment this morning. The magistrate found him guilty but reserved sentence until next Monday. In the meantime, he is to make restoration to the defendant, the goods that he had stolen. His Worship said that he would give sentence according to the restoration made. The prisoner was allowed out in the meantime.

FORMER LOCAL MAN DIED IN VICTORIA B. C.

Death of Mr. J. B. Ormond To-day at Noon--Demise Was Unexpected

Word was received in the city today at noon of the death of Mr. J.B. Ormond, brother of Mrs J R. Stratton, and a former well known resident of Peterborough having been born here. A year ago last January the late Mr. Ormond gave up his business at Ottawa and removed to Victoria. The climate out there, apparently did not agree with him, the dampness seeming to have a serious effect on him. About two months ago his friends became alarmed at his condition. He was about to dispose of his business and return to Ontario, when he became very much worse. While he has been sick for some time his death was not expected, and it came as a great shock. Mrs. Stratton was preparing to leave for Victoria this week. While she had word from day to day as to his condition his death was not looked for.

The late Mr. Ormond or "Jim" as he was familiarly called was a great favorite. He had many friends in Peterborough who will regret to learn of his sudden demise. He leaves a wife, his parents and two brothers and four sisters to mourn his loss.

The brothers are O. B. Ormond and Albert of Victoria, BC. The sisters are Mrs. J R Stratton of this city; Mrs. Gooding of Kenora, Mrs. McDonald, and Miss V. Ormond of Victoria. The funeral will take place on Wednesday in Victoria.

SATURDAY WAS 23rd ANNIVERSARY

Of the Battle of Cut Knife Hill in Riel Rebellion

Saturday was the 23rd anniversary of the battle of Cut Knife Hill, the decisive engagement in the Riel rebellion. Col. Miler stated that there were no local troops who took part in this battle. They had set out for the scene of the rebellion but had not got as far as Cut Knife Hill when the fight there took place.

The members of the Carpenters' Union, No. 672, are requested to meet this evening at 8 o'clock to make arrangements for the funeral of the late Brother Thomas Corkery.

It was owing to the passing of the local option bylaw in the lakeside town that its proprietors withdrew from conducting the Central.

Obituary

TRENT CANAL OPENED.

All the locks and bridges on the Trent Canal are open today including the lift lock. Some painting and a few finishing touches are being put on the big lock but everything is ready for the reception of the boats. The canal is now open from Lake Simcoe to Hastings. The lockmasters all look for a very heavy season this year.

NEW VENTILATORS.

The Government has a number of men down the river putting ventilators on the lighthouses. The trouble last year was that the carbonic acid gas from the lantern could not escape and this caused a very smoky and poor light when the best is wanted in such a position. There was talk last year of acetylene gas plants for each light house but as yet nothing has been done to that effect.

THEATRICAL

"WE ARE KING"

"We are King" which was presented at the Grand on Saturday night is modelled, as is at once perceptible to the audience, a great deal after Anthony Hope's dashing play of the fictitious kingdom of Rurtainia. "The Prisoner of Zenda." It has a marked element of comedy, however, that the latter piece does not possess.

The main part of the story tells of the establishment on the throne of a double of Hector, King of Gomberg, by the prime minister of the small kingdom and his friend the baron. The King's double turns out to be really the heir to the crown and marries Princess Olivia of Baronia, whom he falls in love with for her true worth while she is on a visit to the palace as Fraulein Therese and on the pretention of writing an historical account of Gomberg.

Mr. Edmund Carroll assumed the dual role of Gustavas Venner the King's double, and Hector, the King, and was virile and appealing in the serious phases of the part and droll in his comedy characterizations. Harry Ash, as the repulsive looking lodge keeper, did splendid work and Wm. McKagney and W C Maxwell were excellent as Count Sexendorf, the prime minister and Baron Stanbach respectively. Miss Marie Clifton was pleasing as Princess Olivia and Miss Lita Hill made the most of her opportunities in the role of Baroness Stanbach.

FISH PLENTIFUL IN LOCAL WATERS

Suckers and perch are attracting the attention of the anglers these days, and large numbers of these species of the finny tribe are being captured daily. Some fine strings are being pulled out, and the quality is said to be extra good. The fishermen are anxiously awaiting for the opening of the season for lunge and bass.

MR. JOHN HOGAN GOES TO LINDSAY

Mr. John Hogan, of the Examiner staff, leaves on Wednesday for Lindsay, to become city editor of the Free Press, the new daily which will be issued there this week. Mr. Hogan has been with the Examiner for the past eight months and has proved himself an efficient and energetic newspaper man. He will be much missed in Peterborough, but will have the best wishes of many local friends for success in his new position. He has been prominently connected with the Young People's Movement of St. John's church, and be much missed there.

IMMIGRATION

The House at Ottawa has had a long discussion on immigration matters. Had it not been carried on along purely party lines, we might expect more good to result, but even as it was, it is well to have the attention of our legislators and the public at large focused upon the question. Probably we are wise in concluding that the methods employed by the Government are not quite so objectionable as opposition speakers try to make them out to be, and yet that they are not quite above reproach. For instance, whatever may be said in favor of assisting immigration from the British Isles, it is difficult to see why one cent should be spent in bringing in immigrants from the continent. And there is no doubt that we have gone too much upon the assumption that the main thing was to get the country filled up fast. Whatever may be said for the past now at least, quality counts for vastly more than quantity. To wisely limit our immigration is now our task, and it will be found a more difficult one than was that of stimulating it throughout the years when we were less known and less appreciated.— Christian Guardian.

SPORTING NEWS

IT WILL BE A GREAT NIGHT OF HANDICAP WRESTLING

Two Crackerjack Preliminaries to the Hurtubise-Kennedy Bout—Artie Edmunds, Champion Lightweight Strong Man of America, Will Meet Local Wrestler.

What should be the most exciting exposition of the wrestling game ever seen in Peterborough is billed to take place at the Grand Opera house on Wednesday night. Eugene Hurtubuise, who needs no introduction to the Peterborough sporting public and Frank Kennedy, who has also been the subject of much discussion lately in local athletic circles will meet in a wrestling bout in which Hurtubuise has to throw Kennedy four times in an hour or lose the match. Whether or not "Gene" can fulfil the contract is what has caused so much talk concerning the go and the uncertainty of the affair is the point that gives it such great sporting worth. It is a matter of much conjecture and to pass an opinion would perhaps be out of place. Both men are in the pink of condititn. Kennedy is confident his giant antagonist can't pin him four times, with each of five seconds' duration, and from the first moment the game will be fast and furious.

A HANDICAP NIGHT

Two preliminary wrestling bouts will be put on. Cerney Burns, the clever local boxer, and wrestler will meet J. Crough in the first one for best two in three falls for the welterweight —145 lb— championship of Peterborough. Both boys are strong and well scienced and should furnish a great bout.

Artie Edmunds, who will give his renowned physical culture exhibition will endeavor to throw that husky local lad, Jack Wilson in 15 minutes or lose the $25 forfeit placed on the match.

The sale of seats is now on at the box office at the Grand.

BOYS IN NORTH END HOLD EIGHT HOUR WALKING GRIND

Finished on Saturday Afternoon at Five O'clock With Bruce Regan the Winner—Covered 39 Miles 4 Laps—Walk Aroused Much Interest.

An eight hour walk, participated in by a number of local boys, came to a close on Saturday evening at five o'clock. It was held in a large field in front of the Nicholls Hospital, and there were nine entries, five of whom finished. One hour was walked on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, and four hours on Saturday, from one o'clock till five.

The standing at the finish on Saturday was as follows:—

Bruce Regan, 39 miles 4 laps.
Johnnie [illegible], 38 miles 4 laps.
Herbert Dixon, 36 miles 2 laps.
Reginald Dixon, 35 miles.
Vincent Mulligan, 33 miles 2 laps.

The following boys started, but did not finish:—

Wallace Mulligan, 27 miles 6 laps.
Claude Brown, 25 miles.
Willie Hickey, 17 miles.
Howard Armstrong, 12 miles 6 laps.

The track was measured correctly and seven laps made a mile. The walk was conducted along much the same lines as the one recently held in Brock street rink, and excited a lot of interest in the north end of the city. The walkers were boys about twelve and thirteen years of age, and some of them walked like vardios. The winner, Bruce Regan, showed especially fine style, and promises to become a walker of some note. The other boys who finished are also comers in the pedestrian game. Each walker had his trainer, who supplied food and water as the "ped" made his way around the beaten track. The walkers never stopped, but ate and drank as they walked along. The four hour grind on Saturday proved too strenuous for many of the boys and they dropped out after going a couple of hours. One boy, Vincent Mulligan, found that his shoes were galling his feet, so he removed them and completed the walk without what Whittier calls "the prison cells of pride." On Saturday, when the rain was falling, some of the boys carried umbrellas, but others struggled on without any shelter from the downpour. The walk had many amusing features, and the attendance of spectators became larger each evening. Some men working in the vicinity of the field neglected their duties in order to watch the boys. Mr. David Jordan was so taken up with the sport that the work at his greenhouse was neglected and the transplanting of the seedlings into boxes was considerably delayed.

Wilfrid Hall was the official timekeeper, and certifies to the correctness of the score given above. The record of each contestant was displayed on a large sign card at the entrance and proved interesting as the laps were chalked. The time made was remarkably good, considering the youth of the contestants. The boys are greatly taken up with the walking game and some of them propose taking a jaunt to Lakefield next Saturday. A number of matched races are also being arranged. It is likely that some of them will enter the walking tournament on May 25th.

CRICKET

The first practice of the Cricket club will be held on Nichols Oval at 6.30 tomorrow night in preparation for a game on May 24th. A full turnout is requested of all cricketers in th city.

WALKED TO CHEMONG IN AN HOUR AND TEN MINUTES

The Hiking Club held their first tramp on Saturday afternoon to Chemong Park. They report that the roads were in very bad condition after the recent rains, but are not discouraged in the least. They made the tri pfrom Smith street in one hour and 10 minutes, and after enjoying a good lunch at Sergt.-Major Brittain's cottage, the return trip occupied one hour and 20 minutes. The next trip will be to Springville on Saturday, May 9th, when the club will visit Dr. Mann and study astronomy for an hour.

The time made in the trip to Chemong was very fast, and the boys must have been in great condition to stay with it. Sergt.-Major Brittain, who is well known as a fast walker, set the pace. The Hiking Club should develop some very fast walking material. Great enthusiasm is shown by the members and jaunts will be carried on regularly.

BATTER UP! PLAY BALL!

The baseball season is now on in full swing. There is every indication the game will boom in Peterborough this year. The Review has always looked after player and fan, and rapped out many a bit of encouragement to those who follow the sport. All managers, captains, secretaries and players are requested to send in details of any games played or news of any games to come, all of which will find space in our baseball column. There is a supply of score cards at this office suitable for recording a game by innings, which are at the disposal of any team manager in the city. These cards should be filled in properly at the conclusion of the game and left at this office as soon as possible so as to insure publication in the Review without delay. Properly authenticated box scores will also be gladly received and published.

Call at the Review office and secure a supply of score cards.

NO PLACE WHERE GATE COULD BE COLLECTED

For Walking Match in Warsaw—Walk Was Billed to Take Place There To-day

There was some place of a walking match in Warsaw which was scheduled to take place today. There are several young pedestrians in that village and in the surrounding community who think they could make things interesting for Stenner, Warsaw's representative in the big six day walk that was held here.

It is not probable that any match will take place there however as there is no place where it could be held, where gate money could be collected. However, great enthusiasm is shown in Warsaw over walking, and it is quite likely there will be some entries from that place at the next tournament held in Peterborough.

The walking germ seems to be a particularly contagious one and all over the county the villagers and farmers are greatly impressed with pedestrianism as a sport. At no athletic event ever held in Peterborough has there been so many in attendance from the rural sections.

THE PROGRAMME FOR THE WEEK

A Big List of Events is Arranged in Y.M.C.A. Athletics

The Y.M.C.A. athletic programme for the week will be as follows:

WRESTLING

Kennedy has wired that he will be here tomorrow for his battle with Hurtubuise on Wednesday night. He is in great trim for the bout.

EDMUNDS WILL MEET MULDOON

The Pocket Hercules Will Take on New York Wrestler—Giving Ten Pounds in Weight

"Will wrestle you at 138 pounds, catch-as-catch-can, best two in three falls, pin falls only to count, strangle hold barred, in Toronto, any day you say, for $200 purse and $50 side bet," was the wire Art Edmunds, the Pocket Hercules, received from Young Muldoon, of New York, yesterday.

"O.K. Make it Saturday night, May 9. Send on your weight forfeit," writes back Edmunds.

Two hours later Muldoon wired $25 forfeit to make 138 pounds at 3 o'clock Saturday, and the match, which promises to be the best of Edmund's career, will be pulled off Saturday night, May 9th, at the Labor Temple, by the New Crescent Athletic Club, which gladly put up the purse demanded.

"Every time I hit the mat I have to give away weight," said Edmunds. "I am giving away ten pounds here, and meeting my man on an equal footing, but I have no complaint to make. I can beat him, too. This will be my last appearance here before I go back to New York to fight in those 10-round goes and I want to show my Toronto friends how good I am on the mat. These handicaps with heavy men only show how I can stand punishment. Here I can battle it out and give and take. Muldoon is good, for he holds the New England States championship, but he side-stepped me in New York. I guess he'd sooner take a chance at me here than lose his title in Gotham."—Toronto Star.

WILL BE HERE THIS EVENING

Kennedy and Edmonds Coming for Wednesday's Bouts—Both in Great Shape

Mr. Chris Graham received word by wire today that Kennedy and his trainer would be here tonight. They will be accompanied by Artie Edmunds.

Both men are in great condition for their bouts.

Edmunds' physical culture exhibition is being looked forward to with much interest and has been the source of much comment in the city.

CALEDONIANS WON SHIELD

Vancouver, B.C., May 2—The Caledonians of Calgary won the People's Shield and championship of Canada here today defeating Ladysmith two goals to one. The game was fast all through. HAVING CHILDREN'S EYES EXAMINED

People Suffer Through Life With the Disadvantages of Impaired Vision, as a Result of the Neglect of the Eyes in Childhood.

It is a familiar fact that the acuteness of vision varies extremely among adults, and that certain defects of the eye, such as shortsightedness, can be so completely remedied as to restore to the individual almost perfect sight. Now, there exists among children just such differences in the acuteness of vision as is observed in adults, and many of the defects of the eye originate in the failure of the parents to appreciate these differences. It is a pity to put glasses upon a child, but a greater pity to neglect such when the future well-being of the eyes depend upon their help. Many parents and teachers nowadays realize the importance of having children's eyes properly examined to know whether or not glasses are necessary.

Don't think you are economizing by denying yourself a nice Tailored Suit and wearing a ready-made suit. It doesn't pay. One of my Suits, while it costs a little more at first, is so substantially tailored of the best materials that it will wear, hold its shape and look well after the ready-made is discarded. PARTYISM CONDEMNED BY PETERBOROUGH CLERGYMAN

Rev. Robert Pogue Hopes for the Day When its Funeral Will Take Place—Men Forget Religion When They Go to the Poles, He Says

"When men go to the polls they leave their religion at home. This is one of the reasons why corruption exists in high places why vice furnishes boldly in our cities and why gambling goes on right under the eye of the law."

This was one of the sentences in the sermon on "The Christian and Public Life," preached by Rev. Robt. Pogue at St. Paul's church last night. It was a masterly address that made a deep impression upon a large congregation, which included many members of other churches in the city attended St. Paul's to hear Mr Pogue deal with this important subject. In hi sermon he came out strongly against the party system of government, and hoped the day would soon come when the funeral of partyism would take place.

In commencing Mr. Pogue said that some persons might consider that as a minister of the gospel he was going out of his way in dealing with such a subject as "The Christian in Public Life." There were some who thought that nothing but the simple gospel should be preached from the pulpit, but he did not agree with this. There was a growing conviction that the pulpit had a wider scope. He believed that the minister of today was doing the greatest work who modelled his ministry after the prophets of the Old Testament. They had not dealt solely with gospel subjects, but had a wider range of work. The fact that the pulpit had been silent on public questions, Mr. Pog ueconsidered, was one of the reasons why vice and corruption existed in the land, in high places as well as low.

Continuing, Mr. Pogue pointed out that it was the duty of the Christian to take a part in public life. The government of the country was not to be left in the hands of the politician and the non-Christian. The Christians should rule the land and wield such a power that the legislators will enact the legislation asked for. Christ's kingdom was to rule the earth.

The party system of government was next dealt with by Mr. Pogue. Partyism, he said, should not find favor with the true followers of Jesus Christ. In casting his vote the Christian should vote for the principles enunciated by Jesus Christ and not for any party or sect. Two followers of Christ could not vote on different sides and do what Christ would have them do. Christ cannot be on both sides at the same time.

"The trouble is," said Mr. Pogue, "that men leave their religion at home when they go to the polls. They will vote for party in almost every vasem no matter what is at stake. They profess to be true followers of the Master, but fail in their duty as Christians when they go and cast their votes. Partyism is, therefore, almost a curse to the country, inasmuch as it is practically responsible for the prevalence of corruption, vice, the liquor traffic and gambling. God hasten the day when the funeral of partyism will take place."

A noted writer had said that "true statesmanship consisted in discovering which way God is going and removing the obstacles from the way." Was this the view held by the majority at the present day. It should be, said Mr. Pogue. It was the true ideal which all should aim to reach.

TRAMPS WILL SOON BE SEEN

These are the days when the genus hobo starts out into the open from the castles of rest all over the country, where they have spent the winter months at the expense of a generous people and take once again to the road. Willing enough to accept the shelter of a city jail over the winter months, the tramp insists upon his reguler all summer holiday jaunt to and through the country. Deprived of the joys of riding the bumpers, counting railroad ties, star gazing from the top of a sweet scented haystack bed, or arguing point of law as to the meum and teum with farmers' dogs, and life to the tramp would not be worth living. No people follow more literally, the scriptural injunction to take no thought as to food, drink, raiment or the day after, and few people are as care free.

General report has it that the tramp will be more numerous than ever this summer. This is bad news. Satisfied as he may be with himself and his mode of living, he is a nuisance and pest to everyone upon whom he forces his acquaintance. Sympathy bestowed upon him is wasted indeed. The greatest kindness that could be done to him would be to discourage him. This sort of kindness he should get in the largest possible dose from every police officer, police magistrate and judge in the land. Canada is a country of workers, and there is no room in the hive for the drones. There should be plenty of room for them all on the gaol stone or wood piles, and if they discover that it is to the pile they will be sent if caught in Canada they will soon learn either to adopt work as a means of livlihood, or give this country a wide berth, remaining in the republic to the south, from where most of them originally came.

AN ARAB FABLE

Prohibitionists, if they don't know it, will enjoy an old Arab story which is supposed to explain the bad luck attached by superstition to peacock feathers, writes Arthur Brisbane in the Cosmopolitan. After Satan, with the help of Sin and Death, had constructed the bridge over Chaos so that he and his assistants might comfortably visit the earth, he made his first appearance in Paradise. In that happy garden, the grapevine was growing quite innocently—no alcohol in the grass. Satan watered the roots of the vine with the blood of a peacock. When the leaves began to grow he poured on the blood fo a monkey. While the grapes were green he watered the vine with the blood of a lion. And finally, when they were ripe he watered the vine with the blood of a hog.

As a consequence, say the Arabs, the man who drinks the forbidden juice, first struts like a peacock, drinks a little more and begins to dance and act foolishly like an ape, drinks more and rages like a lion, finally, having drunk his fill, lies down in the mire like a hog.

A GENUINE COBALT OPPORTUNITY

The Casey Mountain Cobalt Mining and Developing Company, Limited

INCORPORATED UNDER THE ONTARIO MINING COMPANIES INCORPORATION ACT

No Personal Liability Not Subject to Call

CAPITAL $250,000.00

250,000 Shares - - $1.00 Each

HEAD OFFICE, Manning Chambers, - - - - - - - TORONTO

As previously announced in this space, we give some particulars concerning our mining properties, which should be of interest to the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity:

PROPERTIES CONTROLLED

The Company's holdings consist of 8 forty acre claims in one Block situate about eighteen miles from the Town of Cobalt in the Township of Casey, on what is known as "Casey Mountain," upon which deposits of native silver have been encountered, running over 8,000 ozs, per ton.

BUILDINGS, MACHINERY, DEVELOPMENT, Etc

There has been erected on the property a large boarding house, sleeping camps, blacksmith shop, shaft house, boiler house and Superintendent's quarters. A modern steam plant has been in operation during the past ten months and about 300 feet of underground development work has been done, besides considerable surface work, trenching and stripping of veins.

12 TRUE FISSURE VEINS UNCOVERED

There has been uncovered to date 12 fissure veins, varying in width from 16 inches to 8 feet, all carrying silver, cobalt, nicolite and arsenic. These veins have been stripped for several hundred feet, and all have free walls, and are well defined.

Big chimney, or lode of ore struck at 50 foot level.
16 feet wide from wall to wall.

While the main shaft was at a depth of 50 feet on a 30 inch vein a tunnel was driven into the mountain along the vein, and at a distance of twenty feet a chimney of ore was broken into 16 feet wide, with silver values of about $20.00 per ton, and we believe this to be the greatest strike of low grade ore ever encountered in the district. This tunnel was continued for a distance of 75 feet through this chimney of ore, when it was decided to sink the shaft to the 100 foot level, and again tap this great lode at this lower level. While driving tunnel at the 100 foot level the large body of ore was encountered at a distance of only 10 feet from the shaft, the chimney having widened 10 feet in the 50 feet of depth, and values were found to have increased fully 40 per cent., and we have in sight or above us several thousand tons of silver ore that will net the Company a handsome profit with the installation of a concentrating plant that can be installed with a capacity of 100 tons per day for the sum of $15,000.00 that will reduce the ore 15 tons to one and thereby save freight charges on 14 tons of rock.

COBALT, NICOLITE AND LEAF SILVER ENCOUNTERED AT 120 FOOT LEVEL

Apart from the enormous body of low grade ore in sight, there has been encountered, while sinking the main shaft, cobalt, nicolite and leaf silver in the metallic form, these metals having come in at the 120 foot level, and another chimney of yet unknown width has also been struck at this depth, directly opposite to the one encountered at the 50 foot level, and our Superintendent reports that the two great lodes of ore are coming together which will constitute one continuous body of ore.

It is now proposed to drive a tunnel into this large ore body at the 125 foot level, aud commence bagging ore for shipment, as the last report received a few days ago from our Superintendent stated that he had unlimited quantities of good ore in sight.

We give the following reasons why "Casey Mountain" will become one of the great dividend paying mines of the Cobalt district and there are many:—

First.—A large area, that is a regular net work of veins, running for three-quarters of a mile through the entire property, that will go down several thousand feet, and not pinch out.

Second.—We have the stuff in unlimited quantities, and the property has scarcely yet been scratched.

Third.—A capitalization of only $250,000.00 in which to pay dividends on.

Fourth.—No promotion stock has been issued to promoters that has not been paid for.

Fifth.—A management that are endeavoring to do a mining busines, (not a stock speculation.)

Sixth.—The directors of this Company have shown their faith in the property by investing heavily in the stock, and up to date very few shares have been disposed of outside of friends of the Company, as it has been the desire of the directors to hold the stock as closely as possible and dispose of only sufficient number of shares to enable the Company to carry on development until returns are received from shipments, and for a short time only the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity will have an opportunity of a small block at par value, $1.00 per share, and those desiring to invest should make applicationat once to the Head Office, Manning Chambers, Toronto, as this will be the only Treasury stock that will be issued at par value.

Additional information can be had during the next few days by applying to R. G. Williamson at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, President of the Company, or Dr. H. A. Wood, Secretary-Treas., 408½ George St, Phone 20A, Peterborough, Ont.

IMPERIAL TO THE CORE SAYS PRINCE OF WALES AT LONDON

Tribute to Canada at the Dinner of the Colonial Institute—Refers to the Quebec Tercentenary and the Achievements of the Canadian Pacific.

London, May 5.—The Prince of Wales presided at the dinner of the Royal Colonial Institute, whereat a distinguished company, including the Dukes of Argyll and Marlborough, Lords Crewe and Alverstone, Sir Edward Girouard were present. Lord Strathcona wired his inability to attend. The prince, responding to the toast to his health, proposed by Hon. T. Price, Premier of South Australia. He claimed no one in the room had touched so many portions of the Empire as he. He retained a lasting impression of the loyal and affectionate welcome and the generous hospitality of many kind friends made during his happy, memorable experiences.

"This summer I shall again cross the Atlantic in order to represent the King at the celebration of the first colonization of Canada by Champlain 300 years ago," he said amid cheers. "Although the time unfortunately does not permit my visit being extended beyond Quebec I look forward with much pleasure to revisiting the Dominion for the sixth time and joining with its people in this great national commemoration." (Cheers.)

Proposing "British Dominions Beyond the Seas," the prince dwelt on the marvelous development of the Empire and the rapid communication, pointing out incidentally how the Canadian Pacific had helped to make the nation.

"But though we have been successful in many ways, we must not lose sight of our common interests, aims and objects of fulfilment, whereof there must be mutual effort, and mutual self-sacrifice. We earnestly hope that progress may be made in thoroughly grappling with Imperial defence.

"I also commend to your consideration the importance of reciprocity in educational matters. As chancellor of the Cape of Good Hope University, I trust the old universities of these islands will always maintain sympathetic relations with those of the younger portions of the Empire. We know what has been done through the Rhodes' scholarships. Oxford a quadrennium ago chose for regius professor of medicine Dr. Osler, one [illegible] a most distinguished sons, while Prof. Bevey, though born in England, has been brought from McGill to be rector of an important Imperial college in science and technology. (Cheers.)

"New means of intercourse and interchange of thought between members of the Anglican church throughout the Empire have been initiated in the coming pan-Anglican congress, members whereof will be given hearty welcome throughout the country. (Cheers.) Is there not much to be accomplished by strengthening these social relations by the Mother Country by making it clear to her children they always are certain of finding a home, not in name only, but in reality, and the same warm-hearted hospitality, as has always been extended to us by every portion of the globe where the British flag flies.

"We must foster now and always the strongest feelings of mutual confidence and respect by methods of education, by unity of action and everything that leads towards the noblest ideals of civilization, by utilizing great powers of science, by means of defence by sea and land. We must strive to maintain all we esteem dearest. If we hold our hands across the sea we shall preserve to the future generations a noble heritage, founded upon the highest patriotism, knit together by ties of race, and mutual sympathy and regard." (Cheers.)

Lord Crewe, in making an Imperial survey, remarked that Canada had made most essential strides in material progress, and he was confident it would continue to do so.

Dr. Parkin spoke eloquently on Imperial education. The most probable dissolvent of the Empire would be ignorance. There was a price to pay for Empire, viz., education. Ruling classes were unfit for their work unless they followed the example of the prince. Why should not British men be trained for colonial universities? There was a growing feeling that the Colonial Office should be drawn away from party politics. It was not the place where inexperienced statesmen ought to be put to sow wild oats. (Cheers.)

PREMIER INDICATES THAT ELECTIONS MAY COME SOON

Sir Wilfrid Makes Important Announcement—Minister's Rights to Retain Files Called in Question—Hon Mr. Foster Proceeds to Dig up Something—Speaker Compels Minister of Marine to Withdraw Offensive Language.

Ottawa, May 5.—That the Government has finally decided to appeal to the country this year was indicated by the Prime Minister yesterday when he announced that the Aylesworth election bill and Manitoba boundaries bill would be proceeded with at once.

Mr. Lemieux said the old-age pension bill would be proceeded with on Thursday.

Last night Richard Blain (Peel) precipitated a discussion on the right of the Minister of Marine to retain possession of the original file that had been laid on the table of the House at the request of a member. Both Campbell and Foster had made an effort to inspect the documents, but the Minister had refused.

During the short time the file had been in his possession Mr. Blain secured copy of one letter, which showed that there was an agreement, dated July, 1903, in which C. S. Patton, agreed to pay to one C. S. Cameron $2,000, if he would get him from the Government an order for 500 Patton fire extinguishers at $15 each, $1,000 to be paid on receipt of the order, $1,000 three months afterwards "and proportionately for further orders." Mr. Blain pointed out that Patton had sold 600 extinguishers.

Mr. Brodeur expressed surprise at the unfairness of Mr. Blain. "Insinuations—low, base insinuations," he began, but he was compelled by Mr. Speaker to withdraw the expression.

Proceeding, Mr. Brodeur attempted to show that he had not written a letter quoted by George Taylor on Friday, but Taylor insisted that it was written on his authority. The Minister declared that the contract given to Cameron had been cancelled.

Mr. Speaker gave the opinion that when a Minister quotes from a public document, it is necessary to lay it on the table, if the demand is made for it, for inspection for the purpose of the debate in progress. Mr. Foster then requested that the papers be again laid on the table and Mr. Brodeur complied.

George Taylor said the country might as well have a sack of wool or a man of putty as the Minister of Marine, who thus attempts to get away from responsibility. He was also surprised Brodeur should play the baby act by posing as one who is persecuted.

Mr. Foster pored over the original file not more than ten minutes when he found evidence which put a different fact on the transaction than that given by Mr. Brodeur. On Dec. 14, 1901, A. W. Fraser wrote the Department on behalf of Mr. Patton, who, he said, was "a good friend of the Liberal party and a liberal [illegible]." Moreover, Mr. Patton was willing to wait for his money until after the Minister got his estimates through.

There, said Mr. Foster, was the old virus of making contracts without the authority of Parliament. Then, on March 9, 1904, there is a letter ordering 600 extinguishers, followed in a few days by a letter from the Department stating that an order had been made in giving the order to Cameron and that it was not intended for O. E. Culvert. The same day there was a letter from Cameron to the effect that his interests were preserved by an agreement with Culvert and interposing no objection to the contract going to Culvert.

Mr. McLean (Queen's) brought up the rights of sailing vessels in coaling ports. He wanted legislation by which every vessel would receive its cargo in turn, claiming that sailing vessels were delayed for months sometimes before getting cargoes. In one case a Norwegian vessel took on coal at the dock, sailed to Montreal, returned and got another cargo of coal before a Canadian sailing vessel could get in.

Mr. Brodeur said that the subject had been referred to Mr. Parsons, Department agent at Halifax, who reported that all piers were private property of the coal mine owners and the Government could not interfere. This was the Minister's opinion also.

Answering Claude Macdonell, Hon. Mr. Lemieux said that practically the letter-carriers have an eight-hour day, and under the law it is possible for them to obtain a period of vacation greater than three weeks allowed other members of service, and any increase of salaries recommended by Civil Service Commission must receive the consideration of the Government.

Mr. Oliver told Mr. Herron that the Southern Alberta Land Co., successors to Robins Irrigation Co., had made application to the Government to exchange 186,000 acres of land granted by their contract, for a similar amount outside the area. No decision had been reached in the matter.

Mr. Crockett was informed by Mr. Paterson that the collector of customs at Bathurst, N.B., had written to him in reply to the complaint that he had engaged actively in the late provincial election in Gloucester. The collector stated that he had spoken at meetings, defending himself against personal charges, and the Minister considered that no further action was necessary.

Tom Lawson's latest stock venture was the subject of interpellation by Claude Macdonell in the Commons yesterday afternoon.

Hon. Frank Oliver stated that the attention of the Government had not been called to Lawson's advertisement with respect to placing on the market shares of the Yukon Gold Co., of which Daniel Guggenheim was represented to be president. The Yukon Gold Co. hold placer mining claims in the Yukon Territory, situated on Bonanza, Eldorado, Bear and Hunker creeks, but as no record of production by creeks has been kept the Government is not in a position to corroborate the statement that these claims have a production record of approximately $100,000,000.

PLOT TO KILL KITCHENER HAS BEEN DISCOVERED

Bomb Outrages on a Huge Scale Planned in India—Over Thirty Arrests Made—Telegraphic News From All Over the Continent.

Calcutta, May 5.—The police are investigating the native plot revealed here yesterday, to murder Europeans by means of bombs, and the more they go into the matter the more serious and widespread does the conspiracy appear.

Documents seized at the house where bombs and explosives were being manufactured reveal that it was part of the plot to kill Lord Kitchener, commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, and other high officials.

The authorities believe they are facing an attempt at revolution. A number of prominent Bengalese are implicated, and sensational arrests are expected to follow.

An examination of thirty persons arrested yesterday confirm the gravity of the bomb conspiracy. Some of those in the hands of the police denied complicity in the affair, while others made startling admissions regarding the intentions of the organisation against public officials, and of actual attempts at the use of bombs, which, however, proved unsuccessful.

One man said he had traveled all over India in connection with the movement, which he described as a great revolutionary campaign against the Government. The prisoners were remanded.

Conference a Fizzle.

Regina, Sask., May 5.—The conference between the Premiers of the three prairie provinces was concluded yesterday and broke up without the Premiers arriving at any definite plans for taking over the elevator system of the west.

Owing to a misunderstanding the grain growers did not send representatives to place the scheme before the Premiers.

Thou Shalt Not Envy.

New York, May 5.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., addressed the Bible class of the Fifth avenue Baptist church, arraigned the rich man who told lies, destroyed men's reputations and took advantage of those weaker than himself in order to achieve wealth and power. He warned the young men of the class to refrain from envying such a man and his wealth.

Ladies' Enterprise.

Winnipeg, May 5.—The campaign started yesterday morning by the ladies of Winnipeg to raise $75,000 for a Young Woman's Christian Association building, is already an assured success. It is said that if the citizens respond as generously as they have already done, the amount will be over-subscribed when the lists close on the 18th inst.

A Rare Dish.

London, May 5.—The art collection of the late Marchioness Conyngham was sold at auction at Christie's yesterday. Among the silverware, a James I. rosewater ewer and dish with the London hallmark of 1618, weighing ninety ounces, realised 4,000 guineas. A similar specimen is in Windsor Castle.

HARRY K. THAW IS TIRED OF FARE AT THE ASYLUM

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., May 5.—Harry K. Thaw's fight for liberty, which has been in progress almost every moment since he shot down Stanford White on the crowded Madison Square Roof Garden Theatre, nearly two years ago, was continued in the Supreme Court here yesterday. Thaw is now endeavoring to prove his sanity and his right to freedom.

Young Mrs. Thaw, who has begun suit for the annulment of their marriage, has not seen her husband in more than two months, but has offered herself as a witness should her testimony be necessary to obtain his freedom. Thaw himself will go on the stand.

He looked rugged and well, and his color indicated that he has had plenty of outdoor life at Matteawan. It was decided that he shall not be returned to the asylum while the hearing is in progress, but shall be confined in the Duchess County Jail. Thaw expressed his pleasure.

Mr. Mack, in opposing the hearing, said he was informed that it would cost Duchess County $30,000 to have the proceedings tried there. He thought it would be bad for the taxpayers if the precedent were established that such cases must be tried there, and Mr. Garvan, in support, said that the trial would involve sending a commission to Paris, Monte Carlo and other places in Europe to obtain evidence as to Thaw's sanity. The case should be concluded under the jurisdiction where it originated.

Mr. Graham opposed the motion. "We strenuously object to having the case transferred to New York, and our witnesses made subject to subpoena by the district attorney's office. There has been intimidation of witnesses before in that direction, and we want none of it in these proceedings."

Justice Morschauser denied the motion to transfer the hearing, but offered to sit in New York to hear the people's testimony if both sides consented.

CASE LOOKS LIKE MURDER

Ghastly Discovery of Dead Body of Young Foreigner Near Toronto.

Toronto, May 5.—Every indication points to a foul and bloody murder having been committed in the heart of David Faskin's bush, near Clarkson's Crossing, on or about April 16. Clarkson's Crossing is in Toronto Township, Peel County, about sixteen miles west of Toronto.

The decomposing body of a Salvonian or Russian youth, of about 17 years of age, was discovered half buried, by three young men Sunday afternoon, and an inquest was held on the spot by Coroner Sutton of Cooksville at 4 o'clock yesterday.

The left jaw and cheekbone were broken and the ear on the same side of the head was smashed, evidencing a heavy blow with a club. Drawn tightly around the neck was a long red woollen scarf, tied in a slip-knot and stretched to its limit, by which the body had been dragged from the spot where the blow had been struck to the place where it was found. It was heaped over with stumps and withered leaves.

His name, according to notebooks and pamphlets found on his person, is Lintck Olekca.

Accused of Wife Murder.

Fielding, Sask., May 5.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Henry Steinberg, accused of the murder of his wife, near here. It is alleged that he poisoned her and then skipped the country. Steinberg was formerly a scenic painter and clay moulder of Boston, Mass., who claimed he brought his wife to Western Canada for her health. He is now said to be living with another wife at Cincinnati, O.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM BURNING

Colored People in Brantford Just Got Out in Time.

Brantford, May 5.—E. M. Turner and his wife, colored people, residing at 10 Brock lane, this city, had a narrow escape from a fire which destroyed their home at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. At that hour, while both were in bed, a lamp which they had left burning, exploded.

Turner ran to the nearest alarm box and broke the glass, but failed to pull the knob. The alarm did not sound, and it was twenty minutes before a neighbor was aroused who knew how to turn in the signal. In the meantime Mrs. Turner got out, clad only in a sheet. Before the department arrived the house and furniture were entirely destroyed. The loss will be about $700.

Ran Over the Siding.

Guelph, May 5.—The Grand Trunk Railway passenger train, No. 19, running north from Guelph on Saturday evening, crashed into a freight at Moorefield. The engine was badly smashed, as well as several freight cars, and Fireman Smith and Conductor Cox were injured, but not seriously. No passengers were hurt, and the engineer escaped injury. The freight was on the siding, and ran over the switch. The signals were against the passenger, but the brakes failed to work, and it is said that a passenger interfered with the valves.

Small Force From West.

Ottawa, May 5.—About 170 officers and men will constitute a composite regiment for the Quebec tercentenary celebration, to come from the three western military districts with headquarters at Winnipeg, Calgary and Victoria respectively.

Owing to the great cost of transportation, etc., the Militia Department has found it inadvisable to bring a large contingent from Winnipeg district. The force will be about 110 men, while from the other two districts about thirty men each will come.

Wicked Fight In Restaurant.

Kingston, May 5.—In a fight in Beefsteak Jack's restaurant in Ontario street serious results followed. Cunningham, the proprietor, it is said, assaulted his wife, hitting her in the face and knocking her down. Her daughter, colored, seized a carving knife and slashed Cunningham on the arm. Frenzied, Cunningham assailed the girl, and, it is alleged, almost severed the girl's hand by a fierce cut on the wrist. She will be maimed for life.

WATER WAS SHUT OFF YESTERDAY

And as a Result the Street Sprinkling Could Not be Done Properly

Many citizens were complaining about the dust yesterday and Mayor Rush brought up the matter at the meeting of the Council last night. The chairman of the Board of Works, Ald. Phelan, explained that the water was shut off yesterday as a result of the frost the previous night and it was impossible to do the street sprinkling properly.

Ald. Neal said that the watering carts should be brought into use earlier in the day.

Ald Phelan promised that the matter would be carefully looked into, and everything done to make the street sprinkling as satisfactory as possible.

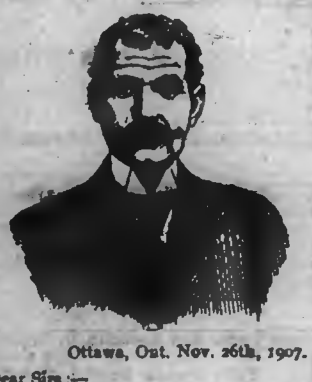
NO MORE RHEUMATISM

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HIM

Christopher D. Graham is a well known citizen of Ottawa—formerly in the City Hall and largely instrumental in forming the Ottawa Hunt Club. Mr. Graham's voluntary testimonial as to the great benefit he received from taking "Fruit-a-tives" will carry conviction.



Ottawa, Ont. Nov. 26th, 1907.

Dear Sirs:—

I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for a long time — pains in my shoulder and joints practically all the time. I tried various treatments without benefit and then I was recommended by a friend to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes of the tablets and now, for a long time, I have been entirely free from all rheumatism and rheumatic pains.

I wish to state, also, that I suffered from haemorrhoids, or piles, for years, I used all kinds of ointments and treatment and nothing did me any good, but after taking "Fruit-a-tives" for my rheumatism I am entirely cured of these dreadful piles. (Sgd) C. D. GRAHAM. 149

"Fruit-a-tives" — or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box —6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

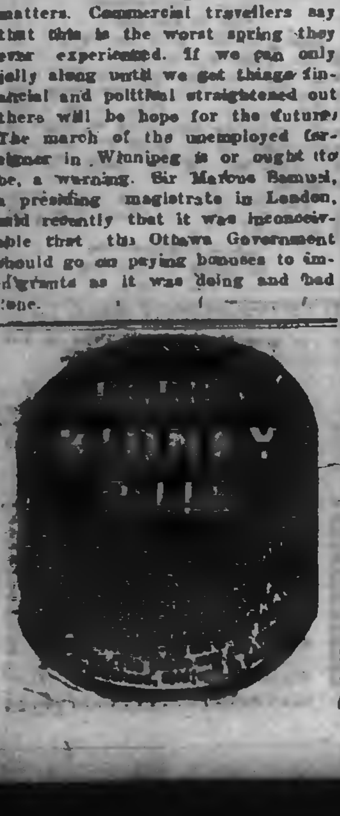
THE ABATTOIR

This question is new to Peterborough but not to any of the larger places in Canada or the United States An abattoir is as much a necessity as a public water supply when a town gets large enough. Cleanliness means health and a large share of prosperity as well. It is both necessary and invaluable. A properly kept and properly inspected slaughter-house means inspection of meats and that means the saving of the people's health from destruction by impure food. It is appalling to think of what is suffered by the public, especially by the poor, through lack or proper meat inspection. As to the merits of the individual scheme we can say little because we are not experts, although it looks well. But let us by all means have an abattoir and the sooner the better.

THE WEST

From what business men say, it is pretty much "make or break," with the west this year. Payments, as the eastern creditors assert, are not being deferred. They are simply not being made. Large business concerns are able to pay such magnificent sums as $25, on account of their large indebtedness to Ontario manufacturers. "The Toronto Star suggests that a good crop in the west means a Dominion general election. It means more if money is in circulation. It means the temporary salvation of the business world in Canada from panic."

Last year the Dominion Government tried to make a catspaw of the banks by securing capital for the moving, etc., of last year's crops. But the banks did not bite. What will be the upshot this year is hard to say. One thing is certain, however, and that is the complete financial depression of the west at the present time. Our "all" is staked on the west, so we may well keep our "weather" eye open in the immediate future. There is no good in mincing matters. Commercial travellers say that this is the worst spring they ever experienced. If we can only jolly along until we get things financial and political straightened out there will be hope for the future. The march of the unemployed foreigner in Winnipeg is or ought to be, a warning. Sir Marcus Samuel, a presiding magistrate in London, said recently that it was inconceivable that the Ottawa Government should go on paying bonuses to immigrants as it was doing and had done.



ASSESSORS' SALARIES

At the present time the local assessors are being paid $500 each for ten and a half months' work. This means practically that they receive $500 each for the twelvemonth since a year so seriously broken is useless for other purposes. That this sum is wholly inadequate in the light of increased rates of living and of the amounts paid for similar services else where none will deny. The assessors have applied for an increase to $750 each for a year's work. For such important and responsible public servants even this amount is hardly enough. That they will succeed in their petition will be the wish of every man who wants to see good work fairly recompensed.

MAKING IT UNANIMOUS

The City Council of Toronto will to-day, without a dissenting voice, authorise the Mayor to sign a contract with the Hydro-electric Commission for 10,000 horse-power of electric energy from Niagara. The storm of opposition to the project has entirely subsided, largely, it is believed, because there is some arrangement or understanding between the Government and the Electrical Development Company that will give the latter company some share of the generation of power at Niagara for the filling of the Hydro-electric's Commission's contracts. The proposal made some time ago by the Government that the Ontario Power Company should be called on for all power needed west of a line drawn between Hamilton and Owen Sound, and the Electrical Development Co. for all power needed by the Commission east of this line, seems to be hmore favorably regarded now than when first presented. Whatever the upshot of the negotiations may be, it is certain that the Electrical Development Company is much less antagonistic to municipal power than it was in January.—The Globe.

When the Electrical Development Company offered the Whitney Government its whole stock in trade for $20,000,000 all the Liberal journals from the Globe to the Examiner roared with rage because Mr. Whitney refused the offer. He said the province could not afford such an enormous sum. "Well then, why did he concoct a policy of confiscation that will ruin us with the British investor," cried these journals. Apparently but only apparently, the famous Power Policy of Mr. Whitney was to prove a white elephant. Time has now served to show the utter hollowness of these awful wails. The clipping from the Globe at the head of this article is the plain statement of the true condition of the whole affair. The Government only wants what is reasonable from the E. D., the O.P. or any other company, and its power policy was the means of bringing that about. Hamilton comes in just as Toronto does. The extravagant profits of the investor are cut in two. But the investor is satisfied, notwithstanding his cries. He has a good margin of profit and the province is saved. So much for the power of the Power Policy.

THE KING AND THE PRESIDENT

May 25 will be a great day for London, for that is the chosen date on which King Edward and President Fallieres will open the Franco-British Exhibition —now commonly called the Entente Exhibition —at Shepherd's Bush. It is not too much to say that to our grandfathers it would have been unthinkable that a King of England should unite with the head of a Republic —and that Republic the direct heir of the French Revolution —in celebrating an occasion of the kind on British soil. Happily we have learned to recognize the right of our neighbors to select the government that suits them best, and the old idea that the French people are of necessity our hereditary enemies has passed away. We have often proved our mettle against the French, and they against us, and nothing but good can come of it now if friendly feelings prevail permanently on the opposite sides of the Channel. President Fallieres will have a rousing welcome in London because he represents France, and to the Londoner of the present year, of grace nothing will seem more natural and fitting than that the King and the President should combine, in our capital, to promote an enterprise for extending the mutual interests of the British Empire and France.

THE NOBLE HORSE

Mr. Harold Bolce draws a heavy bill of complaint against the horse in Appleton's Magazine for May. The beast is responsible for most of the cost of street cleaning which in this city amounts to $6,000,000 per annum. Since maladies fly in the dust, physicians would charge the maintenance of the New York hospitals against him—an item of $4,000,000, yearly. If motor trucks were substituted for the 120,000 horses in our streets, each truck being as efficient as four to six of them. Mr. Bolce thinks $18,000,000 might annually be saved. The cost of delivering food to a population of 4,285,425 exceeds by 10 cents per capita each day, he reckons, the cost by motor delivery, or $156,000,000 a year. Twenty thousand people die annually in the State by infections attributed to dust their worth to society is $2,500 each, or $50,000,000 in all. Sanitary experts behold with dismay the "formidable fact," that the cities of the United States comprise a total quadruped population of 2,916,881 notoriously costly horses and 173,908 dangerously expensive mules.

The animals are indeed a prolific source of dust, disease germs and disease breeding flies. Cities would be better off without them. Mr. Bolce's computations of the bills they run up are not calculated we think, for absolute acceptance, but they are suggestive.

PROSPERITY DUE TO IMPROVED AGRICULTURE

Too few people understand the real sources of wealth. These are largely the products of a farm. The prosperity which we have enjoyed for a decade has been largely due to good crops, but it has been due in a much greater degree to an improved system of agriculture. Some years ago the Canadian farmer looked upon wheat as his only source of profit. He grew a few other things, mostly for his own use, but his thoughts, his calculations were all for wheat —it was his fetich. He lived practically on his credit all year round until harvest time. If the wheat crop was good all was well, if it failed he was in hard case for another year. The wheat was his only resource. But during the past few years, through the work of farmers' institutes and agricultural colleges and the stimulus given to observation and experimental work by an increase of the reading habit on the farm, the business of agriculture has been revolutionized, especially in Ontario. "Mixed farming" is now the rule. The farmer does not put all his eggs in one basket. He grows various crops and he pays much more attention than formerly to raising stock. He aims to have some sort of product ready for market every month in the year. If one source fails he has another—one that will bring the ready cash when it is needed. It took him a long time to learn that it is often more profitable to feed grain to cattle, which in prime condition will bring a higher price, than to sell it by the bushel at a low figure. And it took him still longer to cultivate the courage to put his knowledge into practice. But he has done it. Mixing farming has had more to do with prosperity which we have enjoyed than anything else. This unusual prosperity has made it possible for certain smart non-producing manipulators of stocks and of such commodities whose value depends almost solely upon the attitude of the public mind to evolve a crazy system of "finance." We have just seen the result. But the real sources of wealth are unimpaired, and all the coming winter the farmer will be effectively working them. Now, as that cheerful writer, "The Kan," observes, "winter is the time when this country makes her money. Winter is the time when she fattens her stock and gets out her cordwood and pulpwood, and sawlogs, and ties, and timber, when she hauls her stone and gravel. —Bobcaygeon Independent.

A TRIUMPH FOR CONSERVATIVES

Halifax, N.S., April 29.—Messrs William Roche and Michael Carney, the two Liberal members for Halifax in the Dominion Parliament. did not profit by the experience of Hon. Wm. Pugsley in New Brunswick. The Minister came to that province and managed a campaign that proved disastrous to the Liberals. Roche and Carney have been absenting themselves from Ottawa to assist the Liberal candidate. Dr. A. C. Hawkins, in his contest for the Mayoralty of this city in opposition to A. B. Crosby, oConservative, and in civic affairs the M.P.'s, bore a similar fate to that of Pugslye in the provincial area. Crosby was today elected Mayor over Hawkins with a majority of 942.

It was a tremendous sweep for Crosby, in which he carried every ward in the city, except Ward Six, which was known to be Hawkins' stronghold. Roche and Carney made the fight their own, the Liberal machine having formally decided that it must be a party contest. Every influence that could be brought to bear by the members and by the machine on the Government employees, who are a large factor in Ward Six, was utilized. They were threatened with dismissal if they did not vote for Hawkins and in a number of the booths Hawkins' representatives were officials of the Government. It is a severe blow to the Liberal party.

The importance of the contest from a political point of view is emphasised by the fact that not only is a Conservative Mayor thus elected by nearly 1,000 majority, but of the six aldermen elected in the various wards every one of them is a Conservative. The Liberal machine nominated the six defeated candidates. Mayor-elect Crosby held a big meeting to-night with his friends to rejoice over his victory and that of the Conservative aldermen in this memorable contest.

BIRDS OF PREY

Westminster Gazette.—There was a poetic appropriateness in two weddings which were celebrated in London last Saturday, in which Mr. Bird led Miss Linnet to the altar and Mr. Wren was linked to Miss Nightingale. Although it is seldom that one comes across two of these ornithological weddings in one day, they are by no means uncommon. Not long ago a church near Dublin was the scene of an interesting marriage in which a Mr. Crowe was united to a Miss Crowe by the Rev. Canon Peacock, the wedding march being played by Mr. Rook. Much more remarkable, however, was a match which set Edinburgh in a flutter some years since. The bride was Miss Henrietta Peacock and the bridegroom was Mr. Robin Sparrow. The Rev. Mr. Daw performed the marriage ceremony; Mr. Philip Hawk officiated as best man and Miss Larkins as principal bridesmaid; while the marriage lines were extracted by Mr. John Crow, session clerk. "It is worthy of further remark," adds a reporter, "that the sexton's name is Raven, one of the pew owners is a Gull, and the assistant sexton is a Henry Laycock.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, May 4.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending May 2 were 2650 cattle, 84 sheep and lambs, 2285 hogs and 2133 calves, while the supply for local consumption this morning consisted of 700 cattle, 1100 hogs and 300 calves. A strong feeling developed and prices show an advance of ½c per lb., as compared with a week ago, the run to-day being fully 300 head smaller than this day week, on account of the somewhat scarcity of good to choice beeves throughout the country, for which drovers had to pay higher figures. Buyers were not disposed to operate freely at the higher prices, but sellers showed no disposition to force sales and by noon few were left unsold. Exporters paid 5¾c to 6c for steers, and 5½c for cows.

Supplies of sheep and lambs were exceedingly small, in fact, there were none on the market and trade in consequence was dull, but the undertone to the market was firm, as buyers were willing to contract with drovers for small supplies for delivery later in the week at full prices, which they would not accept on account of the scarcity in the country. Choice yearling lambs were quoted at 7c to 7½c, and sheep at 5½c per pound. The market for spring lambs has been weaker since this day week and prices are $1 per head lower. The offerings to-day were small, for which the demand was good at $3 to $6 each. A fair trade was done in calves, the supply being ample, at from $1.50 to $5 each. The market for hogs was stronger and prices were fully 25c per cwt. higher than a week ago, attributed to light receipts. A fairly active trade was done with sales of selected lots at $7 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

The Obstinacy Of the Princess.

By Troy Allison.

Copyrighted, 1908, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

The princess stamped her foot as energetically as any ordinary person would have done. "There's no earthly use being born a princess," she said. "I want my own way occasionally, and I never get it."

The minister raised both eyebrows. "But, your highness, I was sent to reason with you."

"There's no reason in it," she flashed back. "There's anything but reason in my being trotted out like a horse to be inspected by this conceited person merely because he's decided to marry!"

"To think of the son of so powerful a throne being called a person!" The minister's eyes shone through his glasses, blankly dismayed.

The princess shrugged her shoulders in a noncommittal way; then she seized the minister by both lapels and continued her argument. "O minister who is not plenipotentiary, if you feel too badly about not being able to reason with me remember even Napoleon failed once, and maybe you two will go down into history together. As for reason"— The princess snapped her slender fingers disrespectfully close to the minister's nose and left the room and the man.

The sudden indisposition of the princess was an unexpected detail in the preparations for receiving the royal visitor, who arrived the next day.

She awoke when the first sunrise crept over the sky, yawning from the weariness of having spent twenty-four hours trying to be still. The gilt clock showed that there were at least two hours before the palace would awake.

She crept out of bed and dressed stealthily, threw a light wrap over her shoulders and went through the door that led from her apartments to the rose garden. She went swiftly toward the summer house that was her favorite retreat. She stopped on the threshold and stared at the young man complacently smoking a cigar on her own pet bench.

He hurriedly threw away the cigar and bowed low before her. "Good morning," he said, and the princess noticed the charm of his voice. "I scarcely expected any one else to be awake so early in the day. I hope I'm not trespassing."

The princess was startled, but determined at the expense of veracity to keep the household from learning that the condition of her throat was not so serious as the physician had vouched for.

"I didn't—er—expect to find any one here myself," hedging for time to create ideas. "The fact is I have been awake almost all night attending the—er—princess, and when she at last slept I slipped into the rose garden to be refreshed by the early morning air."

She looked charmingly confused, and the man, evidently a most polite young fellow, declared his intention to leave her in undisputed possession of the rose garden. But the princess was fond enough of an adventure to sweep away a few conventionalities in order to experience the unusual.

"No, no; by all means remain seated, sir," she said, seating herself on a neighboring bench. "I am not so selfish nor, indeed, so unsociable. I judge, sir, that you are connected with our royal visitor's retinue?"

The man hesitated, then smiled genially.

"Yes, you are right. I generally—always, in fact—accompany the prince in his travels."

"Then tell me about him," she broke in eagerly. "I shall not be able to get a glimpse of him while he is here, and I must own to a certain amount of curiosity concerning him."

"Upon one condition"—he leaned toward her, evidently struck with an idea—"that you tell me about the Princess Constancia."

"A bargain!" she cried, and her eyes smiled again. "You take first turn. You are a visitor, you know."

He puckered his forehead in a thoughtful frown. "He's rather a good natured chap," he said at last doubtfully.

"Pooh! Of course he is—always has his own way and is never crossed in it, I haven't a doubt," she scoffed.

"There's where you are wrong," he said energetically. "The king has as strong a will as—er—as the prince has, and they are eternally clashing."

She traded her first bit of information with every indication of pride in it.

"Strong will! The combined powers of both your king and your prince couldn't equal that of our princess. And temper! You never saw any one with such a fiendish temper," she whispered confidentially.

"So bad as that?" feebly. "I—we heard that she was quite charming."

"Oh, I don't deny that she is rather nice to look at, but she—she has boxed my ears several times," beginning to take a delight in her creative imagination.

He leaned forward and grasped the arms of the bench, tense with indignation.

"And you have to submit to it! You poor little thing!" his eyes full of commiseration and admiration.

The princess put on the first meekly submissive air mortal man had ever seen her wear.

"What could I do?" plaintively. "There are times when she is really nice to me."

"There's one thing certain," he broke in vehemently, "such a vixen would not make a desirable wife for the prince."

"I don't know that he's too good for her," she said defensively. "I don't care much for the prince. He's too conceited."

"I beg your pardon!" he exclaimed in astonishment. "I never heard— How on earth could you get such an idea into your head?" he demanded.

"Doesn't he go from one country to another, expecting all girls of suitable age and birth to be trotted out for his inspection, just like selecting a necktie?" indignantly. "If I were a princess I would positively enjoy having him ask me to marry him!"

He could not take his gaze from the flushed, piquant face.

"If I were a prince I should be broken hearted if you treated my proposal with such scorn," he said fervently.

The princess rose hurriedly.

"I think I must see if the princess needs me."

"Won't you tell me your name," he asked, standing with his head uncovered, "and that I am to have the pleasure of seeing you later in the day?"

"I am afraid—I must not," she faltered, "and please, please do not mention that you have met any one here. I want to be free to come here again," she added innocently.

His face suddenly lost its doleful look.

"Would I be much in the way if I happened to be smoking my cigar here when you come?" he suggested boyishly.

"Not in the least—if you can get away from the prince," she said as she started down the path.

On the last day of the prince's visit she came into the rose garden a trifle earlier, but he was there, just as she had found him for the last three mornings.

"You are leaving this afternoon, I hear," she said in greeting.

"And I am to leave without knowing your name?" he asked gloomily.

The princess' eyes were wistful.

"It's best to let it remain simply—an episode," she answered, with a reflection of his despondency.

"But I must know—I will know!" He seized both her hands and held them firmly.

"I can't tell you—now," she gasped, "but if the prince is to be at the regatta next month, perhaps I'll be able to see you then. I know our princess is going."

The gloominess lifted from his face.

"I'll see you—I'll find you—I'll defy all the powers that be—for you!" And he suddenly took her in his arms and kissed her.

For a moment the princess did not stir; then she gave a startled exclamation and slipped from his embrace.

Two days after the departure of the prince and his retinue she found herself well enough to go to the room that the minister considered his own special den. Her curiosity could no longer be restrained, and the minister, having always proved wax in her hands, could surely be induced to tell all he knew about the late visitors.

While talking her glance fell upon a small photograph lying on the table before her. Her eyes widened and her breath came faster.

"Who's that?" she demanded eagerly, stopping the minister in the middle of what he considered a well chosen remark.

"Don't you know?" he asked in astonishment. "I believe it is, though, the first photograph taken with a full beard. It's the prince, your highness, and he graciously put his signature on it for me."

The princess took the picture in her hand, looked at it intently, then gave way to a peal of hysterical laughter which caused the old man to lean over her anxiously.

"Shall I ring for one of the maids, your highness?" he asked her perplexedly.

The princess sat up and wiped her eyes on a dainty lace handkerchief.

"No, no! Don't ring! I never felt better in my life. I have an inspiration. I don't want to have a marriage arranged for me. There is no romance in such procedure. If you will only leave me free until after the regatta I promise to arrange for myself a marriage that will please every soul in the country. Give me freedom for one little month," she coaxed, standing before him and placing an eloquently persuasive hand on each shoulder.

He looked into her eyes helplessly.

"I shall never be able to understand the feminine mind," he said dolefully.

Shooting Stars.

Shooting stars are not real stars at all, but are small bodies which the earth runs into and which are made so hot by friction in the atmosphere that they are burned up. The real stars, as those of the Dipper, are very, very far away, so far that no one knows the distance. They are bright bodies like our sun, but seem like points of light because they are so far off. As the earth moves about the sun it frequently meets little bodies. It is moving so fast that when it strikes them the friction in the air is very great, and usually they are burned up. They seem like moving stars, but are really only a few miles above us in our atmosphere. Sometimes one is so large that it comes through the air without being wholly burned up and falls on the ground.—St. Nicholas.

Olive Oil and Long Life.

Many have wondered at the great age men attained in Biblical times. An age of 120 years was not at all unusual in those days for men to attain in full possession of their faculties before they were gathered unto their fathers. There is a cause for everything, and is it unreasonable to attribute this long life, in part at least, to the fact that all these men perhaps daily freely used olive oil? They lived in the land of the olive and regarded it as one of their greatest earthly blessings, for it gave them health and "length of days."—Homeopathic Envoy.

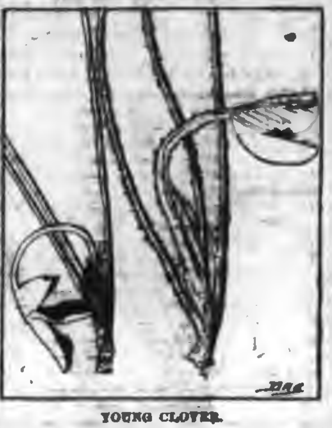
OREL CLOVER.

Exceptionally Large Harvest From the First Crop.

By CHARLES J. BRAND, bureau of plant industry.]

One of the most frequent complaints made by European growers against American clover seed is on account of the dustiness of the hay produced from this seed. This dustiness is due almost wholly to the hairiness of the plant. That there is a great difference in this respect between the hairy domestic and smooth foreign types is strikingly shown by a comparison between the two. The hairy form of plant shown in the cut was produced from American commercial seed, while the smooth one is a promising Russian clover from the government of Orel, designated as No. 16. The difference in hairiness is accompanied by other distinctions, the most important of which from an economic standpoint is the much greater succulence of the smooth plants and the consequently finer quality of the hay, the loss due to coarse, woody, uneatable stems being reduced to almost nothing.



YOUNG CLOVER.
[Hairless Orel clover and American red, showing smooth and hairy varieties.]

The hairless Orel clover overcomes in an effectual way various objections to clover growing by maturing practically two weeks later than the domestic strains of medium red clover. This factor is of special importance in sections where corn is the chief crop. At the time when a farmer is compelled to put up his clover hay grown from the ordinary strains of seed it is, as a rule, of the highest importance that he be concentrating all of his energies on the cultivation of his cornfields.

There is one drawback in the lateness of maturing of the Orel strain of clover—namely, that it militates against the production of a second heavy crop. However, in southern Indiana, in a typical part of the clover section, the Kief and Orel strains gave in the order mentioned the best yield of seed after recleaning.

In addition to the advantage of the smooth clover already mentioned—its exceptionally large yielding power for the first crop—the fine quality and dustlessness of its hay also command attention. In reference to its yielding qualities, it has been found that under comparable conditions in a number of different states it has outyielded from a few hundred pounds to almost two tons all of the domestic strains that have been under test. This in itself is of great importance, but the actual gain in value is not adequately covered by this fact alone. On account of the succulence of the plants of this promising variety the general quality and texture of the hay are so much finer that the percentage of waste due to refusal of animals to eat hard, woody portions is reduced to a minimum. Some observations on this point indicate that cattle waste from 5 to 10 per cent more of the coarse hay of other strains than of this hairless type. On a farm in Nebraska where some experiments were carried on, in preparing the seed bed for the clover the land was double disked with a pulverizing machine and well leveled with a common harrow.

Oats were used as a nurse crop, one-half of all plats being sown to the Early Champion variety, the other half to the Kherson oats, a variety of Russian origin that has proved exceedingly valuable in Nebraska.

The clover was sown at the same time as the oats. Seeding began on April 15, but on account of unavoidable delays due to inclement weather was not completed until April 21. The seed was sown at the rate of ten pounds to the acre, and by April 25 seedling plants had appeared on all the plats.

Johnson Grass.

Throughout the south, under proper conditions, it is considered an excellent hay grass. If tried, great care should be taken to keep it under control.

However, it is exceedingly difficult to eradicate the grass on land where it has obtained a foothold, and for this reason it may become a pestiferous weed. Hogs are rather fond of the root stocks and when confined upon a plat of the grass will destroy it. But on soil adapted to its growth it requires great care to eradicate it. If one wishes to grow Johnson grass, the best plan is to devote a field to the purpose without expecting to subsequently put the field in cultivation. With care it can be confined in this field. After a few years the ground becomes so full of root stocks that the development is hindered. To rejuvenate a field it should be plowed and harrowed in the spring or else thoroughly disked.—A. S. Hitchcock.

The hotels at Quesnelle find it difficult to accommodate all the men who apply for board and lodging.

GARDENING NOTES.

The Hardy Early Vegetables—Onions and Peas.

The very hardiest crops should, of course, be sown first. These include onions, parsley and peas. For onions the surface of the soil is made as smooth as possible by raking the lines drawn one-half inch deep and sixteen inches apart, seed sown at the rate of half an ounce to 100 feet of drill, covered to the level of soil and well primed by treading. For varieties I have found nothing better than Southport White Globe, Yellow Danvers and Red Weathersfield, states a writer in American Agriculturist. If a red is wanted, there are larger growing sorts than these, but when keeping qualities are considered there is nothing superior.

Cultural Requirements.

In regard to cultivation, there is not a great deal of difference in the requirements of the various vegetables. All are alike benefited by frequent hoeing and stirring of the soil, especially during dry weather, as it breaks capillarity and thus prevents the subterranean moisture from being lost at the surface of the soil. Peas should be sown in drills two inches deep, four inches wide and four feet apart at the rate of three pints to 100 feet of drill. The first sowing of Daniel O'Rourke variety should be made about April 6, the second of Gradus variety April 15. Sowings are made at intervals of about ten days up to the end of May. A good main crop variety is American Champion. When about two inches high a little soil is drawn up to the plants and brush set for support. We usually begin pulling about June 15. My experience with peas is that the first and midsummer crops invariably give satisfactory results, but the latest sowings are sometimes attacked by mildew should damp and sultry weather prevail about the time they reach maturity.

Light or Heavy Oats.

Of recent work in feeding horses that reported by F. W. Taylor of the New Hampshire station is of interest, as it has to do with the comparative value of light and heavy oats for draft animals. Three pairs of work horses of Percheron blood were used in the test, one in each lot being fed heavy oats for thirty days and the others light oats. During an additional period of thirty days the conditions were reversed. In every case sixteen pounds of the oats—that is, five pounds in the morning, five pounds at noon and six pounds at night—were fed with mixed hay of average quality ad libitum. All the horses were used for farm work, requiring average exertion and endurance. As shown by weighings taken twice a week, one horse lost on both light and heavy oats, five gained on heavy oats and four gained on light oats.

The total gain or loss in any case was not material and was not much greater than the variation in weight from one day to another. The practical results of this experiment seem to indicate that pound for pound the light oats have nearly the same feeding value as the heavy oats. Although the heavy oats contain a higher percentage of protein, fat and nitrogen free extract and a less percentage of fiber than the light oats, it seems probable that the relative proportions of these constituents in the two grades are such that they are more easily and thoroughly digested. The percentage of kernel, as would be expected, bears a close relation to the weight per bushel. It should be remembered that, although the two grades are practically equal pound for pound, they are not equal quart for quart and that in feeding by measure, as is usually done, due allowance should be made for the heavy oats and a less quantity given. Since oats are bought and sold by weight instead of measure, there seems to be no gain made in buying the heavy oats at a much advanced price over the light oats.

Growing Timber.

In growing trees solely for the sake of their timber very little pruning will be required, and that mostly to regulate growth when the trees are young, the object being to secure lengthened, clean trunks instead of short stems and bushy tops. An upright leading shoot should be encouraged and all other branches kept subordinate. In the case of a young tree producing several upright or leading branches, the best placed and most central should be selected as the permanent leader and all others discarded by pruning them back close to the trunk. Trees that are planted purposely for timber are set quite closely, so that they may become crowded and their tops drawn up toward the light. The side branches, being in the shade, die off, and in this way natural pruning is effected. Of course the trees are thinned when they become overcrowded by cutting out any inferior, partly suppressed or misshapen specimens. After the formative youthful period in the life of a forest has been passed it is only practicable to prune off branches two inches or more in diameter from the individuals in the stand which have been selected for the final crop. Such pruning should be made close up to the trunk. Pruning should be done at a season in the year when the wounds will heal over in the shortest possible time. To prevent germs of decay from gaining an entrance through wounds caused in this way it may be practicable to coat the wounds with coal tar.—Bureau of Plant Industry.

Alfalfa Yields.

Not only is there a greater amount of food nutrients in alfalfa hay compared with other fodders, but because of its rapid growth three, four and sometimes five cuttings in favorable seasons can be secured.

Beer will be sold in New Denver on May 24th and some fireworks exploded.

SLACK FOR THE PATTERN MAKERS

Trade is Lax All Over Canada—Very Quiet Locally

This is one of the slackest seasons that the pattern makers have experienced for some time. All over Canada the trade is at a low ebb and men are being laid off by the larger and small concerns with pattern-making departments.

The local situation is effected in common with that of other places and there is practically nothing doing for pattern-makers in Peterborough.

There is also a general slackness among many of the other trades.

CITY COUNCIL HAS NUMBER OF REQUESTS FOR GRANTS

House of Providence, Orange Order, Salvation Army Band and Peterborough Band Ask for Grants—Referred to Finance Committee

Orangemen Expect Fifteen to Twenty Thousand People Here on July 13th—Mr. W. H. Moore, K. C., Objects to Proposed Position fo Sidewalk on Rubidge Street—Other Business Dealt With

The City Council had a well filled fyle before it when the regular monthly session was held last night. A large amount of business had accumulated during the month and it took nearly three hours to clear the blotter. Those present were Mayor Rush, Ald. Johnston, Tovey, Elliott, Morgan, Buller, Bradburn, Turner, Gillespie, Neill, McIntyre, and Phelan.

RUBIAGE ST. SIDEWALK

The Council first met in committee of the whole and heard Mr. W. H. Moore who appeared in reference to a proposed granolithic sidewalk on Rubidge street.

Mr Moore asked that the proposed granolithic sidewalk on Rubidge St. between London street and Dublin street be placed on the east side instead of the west side of the thoroughfare He pointed out several reasons why the walk should be on the east side of the street. That was the natural place for it. There was a board sidewalk on the east until a short time ago.

Ald Phelan said he agreed with what Mr. Moore had said. He favored putting the walk on the east side of the street but the Board of Works had ruled otherwise greatly to his surprise.

Ald. Johnston said the sidewalk should be placed where the Board of Works has decided. It would serve the convenience of a larger number of people than if put down where Mr Moore wanted it.

Ald. Neill said that as there was some difference of opinion it might be well for the chairman and the members of the committee to look over the ground and reconsider their decision if it was found advisable.

There was some more discussion on the matter but no definite conclusion was reached. In regular session afterwards the Council decided to have a report from the city engineer upon the matter.

The Council then went into regular session.

ORANGEMEN WANT GRANT

Mr. J. P. McWilliams waited on the Council on behalf of the Orange Order and asked for a grant of $150 to decorate the city on July 13th, when a big Orange demonstration will be held here. Four years ago, $125 had been granted for a similar purpose. That was hardly enough and a grant of $150 would be very acceptable this year.

He also asked that the Orange Order have full control of Central Park for the day. If the Orangemen had exclusive control of the park there would be no liquor sold there. Such might not be the case if other parties were allowed booth privileges. Mr. McWilliams hoped that the council would see its way clear to give the sum asked for.

Mr. W. H G. Armstrong, County Master, stated that there would be a larger crowd in Peterborough on July 13th than ever before in the history of the town. Between 15,000 and 20,000 people are expected. Invitations have been received from lodges all over the district signifying their intention of celebrating the 13th at Peterborough. Lodges as far east as Kingston will be here if suitable transportation transportation arrangements can be made. A large amount of money would be left in the city and business men would be greatly benefitted. More money would be left in the city that day than on any other ten days during the year.

Mr. Jos. James also spoke in support of the Orangemen's request. There would be thousands of visitors in Peterborough on July 13th and it was desirable that the city should look its best and create a favorable impression on their minds. The Orangemen did not want to bring visitors here if the city was not properly decorated.

On motion the request was referred to the Finance committee.

Mr. Ozias de Laplante said that about a year ago the city expropriated some property belonging to his father in connection with the extension of George street. His father was anxious that there should be a settlement, as the matter had been hanging fire for a long time.

The Mayor recommended that Mr. Laplante take up the matter with the City Solicitor and the chairman of the Board of Works. This was agreed to.

SIDEWALK WANTED.

Mr. Howard Shirter appeared before the Council and spoke in favor of a petition to extend the sidewalk the sidewalk on the south side of King street.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE.

The chairman, Ald. Johnston, reported as follows for the Fire, Water and Light Committee:

Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That seven incandescent lights be placed on Crescent street and the arc lamp on that street removed.

2. That the arc lamp at the corner of Hunter, and Downie streets be replaced by five incandescent lamps on Hunter street, between Reid and aPrk streets, and that the Peterborough Light and Power Company be permitted to put in an additional pole at the corner of Charlotte and aPrk streets, as requested by the PCouncil.

3 That an advertisement be inserted three times in each of the loca lpapers and in the Toronto Telegram for a Chief of the Fire Brigade, at a salary of $1,000 a year, his duties to begin on July 1st next.

Ald Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Buller, that the report be adopted.

Ald. Morgan moved that clause 3 be struck out for the present, until there is a concrete statement of what the charge will mean. His motion was seconded by Ald. Elliott, but did not carry and the report was adopted in full.

LEGAL COMMITTEE.

The chairman of the Legal Committee reported as follows:

1. That a grant not to exceed $100, be made to the Peterborough Garrison towards assisting in the entertainment of Sir Frederick Borden during his recent visit to Peterborough to lay the corner stone of the new Armouries.

2. That, acting on the advice of the City Solicitor, no action be taken on the claims of Mrs. Hinds, W. D. Dixon, James McWilliams, Charles Johnston and A. J. Warne.

3. That the City Solicitor be instructed to defend the action of Miss Brown against the city for damages.

The report was adopted.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

Ald. Bradburn, chairman, reported as follows for the Property Committee:

1. We recommend that no action be taken on the application of W. A. Mcllmoyle for a rebate on account of the purchase of the market tolls last year.

2. We recommend that the matter of a Public Library be referred to a Committee of the Whole Council.

3. We recommend that the chairman arrange for the admission of Reynold Myers into the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives at a cost of $7 a week to the city, provided the benefits to be paid him by Court Stanley Ancient Order of Foresters are assigned to the city and the court agrees to pay them to the city to go towards the expense of maintaining him in the hospital.

4. As there is a by-law which imposes a license fee on entertainments and others are paying these fees, this committee, while it is in sympathy with the plan of the Peterborough Concert Party, does not see that it can recommend their request for permission to give concerts in the park, to be granted unless the license fee is paid, but if the license fee is paid we recommend that they be permitted to use the Central Park for their concerts.

5. We recommend that the City Treasurer be instructed to pay Mrs. Martha Reid $100 on account of the purchase of land from her for the extension of Aylmer street, as recommended by Mr. Thomas McKee, the valuator.

6. We recommend that no action be taken in regard to the purchase of Ramsey's map of the city.

7. We recommend that J. T. O'Connell be replied to that the Council is willing to sell him lots 10 and 11 plan 22, for $200.

8. That Mr. Brown be given the free use of the market room on May 25th, for the purpose of exhibition of farming implements.

BOARD OF WORKS.

The report of the Board of Works was presented by the chairman, Ald. Phelan, and adopted, with the exception of clause 19, which was referred to the City Engineer to be reported upon.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Ald. W. H. Bradburn, acting chairman of the Finance Committee, reported as follows:

1. That no action be taken on the communication of Roger, Bennett and Goodwill, in regard to an account for Dr. McClelland.

2. That $2 be refunded to M. C. Tooley on account of dog taxes paid by him.

3. That no action be taken on the application of F. Marino for a pedlar's license at a reduced fee.

4. That $4.56 be refunded to T. H. Hooper on account of an eating house license fee.

5. That a grant of $25 be made to the Peterborough Teachers' Institute.

6. That the following accounts be paid:

PRESENTED WITH HANDSOME CANE

Mr. John Hogan Remembered by Chief Roszel and Police Force

The police station was the scene of an interesting presentation this morning. As a mark of the high esteem in which he is held by Chief Roszel and his staff of policemen, Mr. John Hogan who has for the past eight months been a reporter on the Examiner and who leaves tomorrow morning for Lindsay was presented with a handsome cane. Chief Roszel made the presentation and in doing so referred to the pleasant relations that had always existed between him and Mr Hogan. Mr Hogan would be much missed from Peterborough and the best wishes of the Chief and his staff followed him in his new sphere of newspaper work. P. C. Newhall was also present and added a few words of regret at Mr. Hogan's departure.

"John," although taken completely by surprise made a suitable reply, thanking the Chief for his kind remarks and the handsome cane.

Mr Hogan leaves in the morning for Lindsay to assume the City Editorship of the Free Press. The presentation was but a fitting tribute to his worth and popularity.

Ald. J. J. Turner, of the firm of J. Turner and Sons, left last night for Quebec, where he is consulting with the civic authorities regarding the decorating of the above city for the tercentenary celebration to be held there in July. Messrs. Turner & Sons received a letter from the clerk of Quebec asking them if they would be willing to take a contract to decorate the city. RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS GAVE A DECISION TO-DAY

Regarding the C.P.R. Crossing at Aylmer Street—Railway Company Will Have to Pay Three Quarters and City One Quarter of the Cost of Protection.

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, May 5—The City of Peterborough applied to the Railway Commission this morning for orders to instruct the CPR. and GTR to provide and maintain protected crossings at Aylmer and Reid streets.

For the CPR. Mr. A. R. Creelman, KC., argued that according to precedent each party should bear an equal part of the cost although the Board's engineer suggested three-fourths for the Company and one-fourth for the city at the Aylmer street crossing.

City Solicitor Hall argued that this was not an ordinary crossing and that the Company should pay all costs.

Judge Mabee said this matter had been disposed of before but both parties had been dissatisfied with the apportionment of the cost. The City could not now ask gates instead of a watchman but only a reapportioning of the cost. Mr. Hall had questioned the jurisdiction of the board and if he wished he could appeal from it but the Court held there was jurisdiction. So far as the city was concerned it had contributed to the necessity of the protection of the crossing by increased traffic and should pay some though the Railway Company had increased the necessity much more. The board therefore agreed that three-fourths of the cost should be borne by the CPR and one-fourth by the city.

Mr. Hall then offered to withdraw the Reid street application as it was practically the same case against the GTR; Mr. Cowan for the Railway Company then submitted to him a draft order for his consideration.

MISSIONARY INSTITUTE MEETINGS TO-DAY

The Missionary Institute continues today and a large number of delegates arrived this morning. This morning they visited the exhibit in St. John's schoolroom and inspected it.

Denominational conferences are being held this afternoon from half past two until 3.15. The Baptists are meeting in Murray street church, the Methodists in George street church, the Presbyterians in St. Paul's and the Anglicans in St. John's church. The ministers in charge of these meetings are Revs. J. R. Webb, E. A. Pearson, J. G. Potter and Dr. Langfeldt.

At 3.30 this afternoon a session is being held in George street church at which an address by Rev. J. G. Brown, DD. on "The present urgency in the Foreign Field," was given. Mission study class from 4.45 to 5.45 pm this afternoon and from 7 to 8 pm this evening.

Tonight the special speaker in St Paul's church will be Rev. D. McTavish, D.Sc. His subject will be "The awakening of China." It will be illustrated with limelight views.

IS GLAD TO GET BACK TO LAND OF THE MAPLE AGAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hemsley returned to Peterboro this morning after spending several months in their native land, England. They crossed the pond last January and have been the guests of friends at Reading, Berkshire.

Mr. Reading expressed himself as glad to get back to the land of the maple again, and says there is no place like Canada, not on this side of the great divide at least. He had a most enjoyable time during his visit but says that times are far from being good in England. Work is very scarce; in fact one can hardly buy a job. There are hundreds of people out of employment and some of them are in very hard circumstances.

Mr. Hemsley plays a G trombone in the local Salvation Army band and this instrument was greatly missed during his absence. His fellow bandsmen are glad he is back to strengthen the trombone section.

SOUTH WARD WILL HAVE A PARK NEAR NEW SCHOOL

The South Ward has been provided with a park. At the meeting of the City Council last night a by-law was passed providing for the issue of debentures for $3,000 to pay for the property adjacent to the King Edward school. It is about two acres in extent and will be converted into a park.

Ald. Butler said that the South Ward was not getting a fair deal in the matter of parks. The other wards had been much better provided for in this respect and he thought that a bigger park should be purchased for the south end.

Ald. Tovey agreed with Ald. Butler, that the South Ward should have a better park, but he was in favor of taking this one as a starter and have the lines out for more in the near future.

Ald. Neil also spoke on the question and the by-law passed after a short discussion.

It is likely that trees will be planted on the park this summer. The order for trees for the King Edward school grounds was duplicated and there is a supply of trees on hand if the city cares to buy them. Ald. Bradburn was authorized last night to look into the question of securing trees.

SOME HOT STUFF FROM PROSPECTIVE FIRE CHIEF

At the meeting of the City Council last night the following letter was read:

To the Mayor and Council of the City of Peterborough;

Gentlemen—I see that you propose to change the present fire brigade for a paid brigade, and I therefore offer my services as chief of the new institution. I have all my life worked without pay so that your proposal for a paid brigade appeals to me

I have had considerable experience in handling fires, being at one time engaged in clearing a 200 acre farm where the bush had to be burned. Besides I have fired hundreds of old bums while in the hotel business, ending by firing myself, so that I am now open for anything that may turn up.

As water is the chief factor in extinguishing flames, I may add that I have a proper conception of its value, as I have a partiality for water in all forms. Besides I have sold millions of gallons mixed with whiskey, saying nothing as to the quantities which I have myself consumed.

As to salary—I will leave this to your honorable body. I might add, however, that I would expect a retiring allowance at the end of my term, in any, 25 or 30 years to keep me in my old age.

I would appear and address you in person only that I met with a severe mishap a few days ago. I was holding a brass button in my mouth to cure the earache when I accidentally swallowed it. My throat has not got over the strain sufficient to allow me to speak in public.

I may also add that I am the only man in Canada who can whistle a due on his thumb nail, so that I would be in a position to entertain the boys at the fire hall and keep them in nights.

Hoping for a favorable reply, I am.

Yours truly,
WM. SNOWDEN.

SPORTING NEWS

A BIG STRING OF HORSES ARE ELIGIBLE FOR NAMED RACE

The track at the Driving Park has been harrowed and is rounding into good shape. It has been gotten into condition much earlier than last year and anybody who happens down there these days see the horses stepping fast halves. There promised to be a big field in the named race on the 24th, the green pace having been changed to a named race for which, among others the following horses are eligible;

W. Leahy's green horse; Chas. Fife's two Black Mac colts; Joe Steele's Duke; W. Stenson's colt; Richard Kellahar's two Black Mac colts, Mr. Blake's brown mare; George Powell's 2 year old, by Sidney Pointer; McKee's colt; Hickson's Nellie Keswick; Porter's bay colt; Hogg's stable string; H. Elmhirst's Black Mac. W. Leith's colt; Ira Nattress' Barrel of Apples; Wm. Elmhirst's Harold Hartwood; Art Elmhirst's Tippin Buggy; George Lipsett's Bangtail; Lillico's Keswick mare; Godfrey's City Boy.

A LINE ON SOME OF THE HORSES GETTING INTO SHAPE FOR RACES

Benny Dunsford is working out Hazel Belle and Queens Baron this season and with his careful handling they both should be at their best. Harry Direct, the horse that made such a good showing in the Turf Club's races last winter is being looked after by his owner, Mr. Jack Cottingham.

Mr. George Powell has Lady Gothard in charge and with his experienced teamer doing the work she may be expected to step some fast miles this season.

Mr. Eddie Jones has a fast green bay mare that he will probably start in the .30 division. Those who have seen her work are favorably impressed with her. She is a nice actor and can go over the road some.

There are other good horses for the Turf Club's races on May 25th. The 2.18 event may be changed to a free for all as there will probably be some horses here with marks too fast for the .18 limit. On the whole the most successful turf matinee ever held in Peterborough is anticipated.

BATTER UP! PLAY BALL!

The baseball season is now on in full swing. There is every indication the game will boom in Peterborough this year. The Review has always looked after player and fan, and rapped out many a bit of encouragement to those who follow the sport. All managers, captains, secretaries and players are requested to send in details of any games played or news of any games to come, all of which will find space in our baseball column. There is a supply of score cards at this office suitable for recording a game by innings, which are at the disposal of any team manager in the city. These cards should be filled in properly at the conclusion of the game and left at this office as soon as possible so as to insure publication in the Review without delay. Properly authenticated box scores will also be gladly received and published.

Call at the Review office and secure a supply of score cards.

EDMUNDS AND KENNEDY HERE FOR BIG WRESTLING NIGHT

The Conditions of the Go Between Hurtibise and Kennedy —Edmund's Thinks it Will be Whirlwind Affair

Artie Edmunds and Frank Kennedy are here for their bouts to-morrow night. Everything is prepared in connection with the handicap go between Hurtubise and the husky New Yorker. The latter has been doing hard and constant training for the bout and is in condition to put up a big resistance. The conditions of the bout are briefly synopsized as follows:—

Hurtubise to throw Kennedy four time in 60 minutes actual wrestling, pin falls of five seconds duration to count. One fall against Hurtubise gives the bout to Kennedy. The strangle hold is barred.

Edmunds in conversation with the Review, was of the opinion that the bout would be a whirlwind affair, but did not care to give for publication any opinion regarding the outcome of the bout.

A. C. Yokome, sporting editor of the Review, has been agreed upon as referee for the match.

ANOTHER WALK IS BEING HELD

By Boys in the North End of the City

The walking craze has certainly taken a great hold on the small boys and walking tournaments are being held in all parts of the city. An eight hour walk participated in by a number of local boys, came to a close on Saturday night and another one was commenced by the same bunch of boys last night. The walk is held in a large field in front of Nicholls oval. One hour is walked each day except on Monday and four on Saturday.

WALKING

Mr. George Stevens is contemplating holding walks in Toronto and Port Hope. Mr. Stevens is an energetic promoter and his efforts should meet with much success.

HORSES BEING EXERCISED

Weather is Favorable for Workouts on Roads and Track

This weather certainly sets one thinking of the racing season. The horsemen are delighted to be able to have their animals out again.

The roads are getting into good condition and the horses are being worked out on them as well as on the track at the Driving Park. Anybody strolling down there these days may see the horses working fast halves.

BASEBALL

STRATHS PRACTICE.

The Strathconas had a lively work out at Nicholls Oval last night. There was a big squad of players on hand and they tore around at a snappy pace. The Straths have a fast lot of ball artists and will make the other six teams go some.

Last evening the employees of A. W. Cressman's organized a Base Ball Club and elected a management consisting of Messrs. H. Cressman, R. Patterson and E. Koen, after which they elected, Honorary President—Mr. A. W. Cressman.

President—J. Bitterson.
Vice-President—A. Temple.
Sec.-Treas.—S. Tisdale.

The Cressman bunch put up a good showing on the ice last winter and hope to make the baseball diamond hum during this summer. The team has not as yet been picked, but from the large male staff there should be no trouble in selecting a winning nine.

SAYS THE BLUFF HAS BEEN CALLED

National Sporting Club Offers $12,500 for Fight Between Burns and Johnson

Special to the Review

London, May 5th.—The National Sporting Club, the richest organization of its kind in the world, has called Tommy Burns' bluff by offering a purse of $12,500, the loser to take $2,000 with side bets odd $5,000 for a twenty-round fight between Burns and Johnson, on the night of the Derby. A representative New Jersey man has a wager of $500 on Johnson. Even the staunchest supporters of Burns admit that the matter has been put squarely to Burns who must now either fight or quit.

NEW STORES TO BE ERECTED ON HUNTER ST., EAST CITY

An old landmark has been removed from Ashburnham. The blacksmith shop on Hunter street formerly occupied by Mr. John Craig, was torn down yesterday. It has stood for over forty years and the greater part of that time was occupied by Mr. Craig. Mr Patrick Hogan owns the property on which the blacksmith shop stood. It is understood that it is his intention to erect two stores on the lot. These will be most modern and up-to-date. They will be suitable for anyone desirous of starting up a grocery or drug business. They will be a valuable acquisition to Ashburnham and will greatly improve the appearance of Hunter street.

DROP LETTERS WILL ONLY COST ONE CENT IN PETERBORO'

Ottawa, May 4.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General, has given notice of a Government measure to reduce the postal rate on all drop letters in cities where the letter-carrier system is established from two cents to one cent. This is along the line of the policy of the Government to devote the steadily increasing postal revenues of the country to a reduction of rates and betterment of the service wherever possible. The reduction will mean a considerable decrease in the postal taxation in each city of Canada, the number of letters posted for delivery in the same city forming a large proportion of the total mail.

CONCRETE ARCH BRIDGE IS SPOKEN OF WITH MUCH FAVOR

A local gentleman who takes an interest in the beautifying of the city, drew the attention of the Review to-day to an improvement that can be made in connection with the proposed new Smith street bridge. This structure spans the river between two of the prettiest parks in the city—Nicholls Oval and Inverlea Park. To replace the present bridge by a steel structure would be an improvement, but from an artistic standpoint a concrete arch bridge was greatly to be preferred. It would add very much to the appearance of the locality and while the first cost would be greater than that of a steel bridge, still in the end the concrete bridge would be the cheaper, as a properly constructed concrete structure is practically indestructible.

It would require a three-span bridge to stretch across the river at that point. The city engineer should give these suggestions careful consideration.

EXPENSIVE WORK THIS

It Cost Corneluis O'Connor of Ennismore Over $49 for Destroying a Culvert

Cornelius O'Connor, of Ennismore, was heavily assessed in County Magistrate Edmison's court yesterday afternoon. He was found guilty of destroying a culvert at Ennismore by rolling heavy stones against it and was fined $20 and costs and ordered to pay $5 damage. The total amounted to a little over $49. O'Connor was found guilty a short time ago of breaking a culvert in the same spot as the last one and was fined a small amount and had to have the culvert repaired.

THE SEATS ARE SELLING FAST

Big Sale for "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire"—Roselle Knott Seen to Best Advantage

The plan for "Alice Sit by the Fire," opened this morning at the Grand Opera House and there was a big demand for seats. There is every indication that there will be a particularly large sale for the production which is one of the most popular ever written by J. M. Barrie, the author of "The Little Minister," "Peter Pan" and other excellent plays.

HAVING CHILDREN'S EYES EXAMINED

People Suffer Through Life With the Disadvantages of Impaired Vision, as a Result of the Neglect of the Eyes in Childhood.

It is a familiar fact that the acuteness of vision varies extremely among adults, and that certain defects of the eye, such as shortsightedness, can be so completely remedied as to restore to the individual almost perfect sight. Now, there exists among children just such differences in the acuteness of vision as is observed in adults, and many of the defects of the eye originate in the failure of the parents to appreciate these differences. It is a pity to put glasses upon a child, but a greater pity to neglect such when the future well-being of the eyes depend upon their help. Many parents and teachers nowadays realize the importance of having children's eyes properly examined to know whether or not glasses are necessary.

MANUFACTURERS ENDORSE PAID BRIGADE PROPOSITION

Present a Resolution to the City Council—Ald. Morgan Strenuously Objects to the Methods of Fire, Water and Light Committee—Aldermen and Manufacturers Express Their Views

It looks as if the proposition to have a permanent paid fire brigade in the city was going to be carried to a successful issue. At the meeting of the City Council last night the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee containing a clause to advertise for a fire brigade chief in the local and Toronto papers was adopted. The salary specified is $1,000 per year.

Representatives of the Manufacturers' Association waited on the Council and presented a resolution in support of the proposed change, and also endorsed it verbally. Ald. Morgan and Ald. Elliott objected to the adoption of the clause in the Fire, Water and Light Committee's report regarding advertising for a fire chief.

The following communication was received from J. H. Larmonth, Secretary of the Peterborough Manufacturers' Association;

At a meeting of the Peterborough Manufacturers' Association held on Thursday, April 23rd, the following resolution was passed;—

Resolved,—That this Association express to the City Council its earnest approval of the measure to install a permanent paid fire brigade, and will endorse and support any municipal legislation to that end."

"That a delegation from this Association would like to meet the Council and further express the Association's views regarding this most important subject.

"That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the City Council."

Mr. J. H. Larmonth spoke briefly in support of the resolution. The proposed change would be a benefit to local manufacturers and merchants, principally in the reduction of insurance rates. The Manufacturers' Association was of the opinion that if the change was made, the paid brigade should be sufficiently manned. He stated that in Brantford, a city not much larger than Peterborough, there is a permanent brigade composed of eighteen men. He thought that nearly that number would be needed here.

Mr. James Kendry said that if the proposition went through, enough men should be employed to make the paid brigade an efficient organization. He did not think that there would be any reduction in the rates. He wished to impress the point that if the change was made that at least twelve men be employed; the Underwriters' Association recommended fifteen. The manufacturers did not think that three or four paid men would be any use.

Ald. Neill asked if the manufacturers had any definite information that there would be no reduction in the insurance rates.

Mr. Kendry stated that he was practically sure that such was the case.

Mr. Larmonth read a letter from the Underwriters' Association, which showed that there would likely be a slight decrease in the rates.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin agreed with what the other speakers had said, and stated that if the change was made, the brigade should have enough men to make it efficient in every respect.

AN OBJECTION.

Ald. Morgan said that the Manufacturers' Association of Peterborough was practically a fixed assessment Association, as all the members of it, or practically part of them, were members of firms that had fixed assessment. He read a letter from the chief of the fire brigade at Brantford, showing that the cost of the brigade there per year was over $12,000. If a permanent brigade was needed in Peterborough, the matter should be put carefully before the people. It was humbugging the public to say that a paid brigade in Peterborough could be maintained for $5,000 per year.

"This business of paying the firemen $450 per year is no good," Ald. Morgan said. "The men get more than that working as corporation labourers."

He moved that no action be taken until the matter be put in good shape and submitted to the ratepayers next January.

There was no seconder for the motion.

Ald. Neill said he would move that the matter be left in the hands of the committee. He believed that there would be a reduction in the rates if there were a permanent paid brigade.

Ald. Elliott said that before any change was made there should be a concrete proposition to put before the people. It was no use going ahead on guess work. He thought that the members of the fire brigade who had done faithful service for the past twenty-five years should have been called in and consulted when it was proposed to make the change. If this had been done the present trouble would not have been stirred up.

Ald. Bradburn said the whole discussion was out of order. The Fire, Water and Light Committee had not yet made a report, and the matter should not be discussed until the report was moved.

There was no further discussion on the matter at this phase of the meeting.

The population of Napanee is 3,026 an increase of 123.

Rev. E. A. Pearson brought up a matter of the Sunday School Association dealing with the visit of Rev. Dr. Crews on May 31st. A committee consisting of the President and Revs. E. A. Pearson and R. A. Pogue were appointed to look after the arrangements.

The annual exchange of pulpits is to take place on the 24th of May;

St. John's church—Dr. Langfeldt.

Charlotte street church—Rev. R. A. Pogue.

St. Andrew's church—Rev. J. R. Webb

George street church—Rev. H. J. Keith.

He was loyal to the Association and his warmth of heart and kindness was worthy of example. Personally he had demonstrated a strong Christian character. Mr. Davidson moved that the Association express its regrets at his departure and its best wishes for his future prosperity. The motion was seconded by Rev. J. G. Porter. Mr. Brace was presented wit a book, "The Heart of Christianity."

The paper of the morning was an able one on Dr. Orr's book, "The Virgin birth of Christ." It was read by Rev. E. A. Pearson.

The meeting then adjourned.

OBTAINING BOARD IN CITY UNDER FALSE PRETENCES

It is understood that there are certain persons from a neighboring village, in the city, who are not delegates to the Missionary Institute, but who have been billeted on citizens who promised to board delegates to the convention. It is said that these people who are obtaining their meals and lodging free while in Peterborough, are not attending or taking any interest whatever in the meetings of the Institute, but are spending their time in the theatres and generally enjoying themselves in the city. A lady delegate from the same place as those who are representing themselves as such, is the authority for the above statement. There is no doubt as to its trueness and, it would be wise to have the matter investigated and have the guilty parties reprimanded.

PUBLIC ABATTOIR MAY BE ESTABLISHED IN PETERBORO'

Mr. H. P. Kennedy Submits a Proposition to the City Council—Company Will be Formed if Suitable Arrangements Are Made—Council Will Take Up the Matter

Prospects are bright for the establishment of a public abattoir in Peterborough in the near future. At the meeting of the City Council last night the following letter was read from Mr. H. P. Kennedy;—

To His Worship the Mayor and members of the City Council of Peterborough:

Gentlemen.—At the request of several members of the City Council, I have looked carefully into the matter of the best means of establishing a public abattoir for the city of Peterborough, whereby all meats offered for sale in the city of Peterborough might be inspected on foot before being slaughtered, and after being slaughtered before being offered for sale, by a competent inspector, and believe that the only way to have this carried out to a satisfactory conclusion would be to have one central abattoir and have the city engage a competent inspector, who would be placed at this abattoir, and that everything in connection with the plant be made subject to his ruling and the approval of your Council.

I have made several enquiries outside regarding meat inspection as it is in force at present and have furnished you with all the communications that I have up to date. While in Ottawa this week on a deputation to interview Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, and Dr. Rutherford, Veterinary Inspector General, I was given the following information from the Government records showing the number of carcasses of cattle, sheep and hogs condemned since Government inspection went into force on September 1st, 1907;—

The period covers 7 months up to March 31st, 1908:—

Total number of carcasses condemned on account of disease...	4991
Total number of carcasses condemned on account of immaturity	1473
Total number of carcasses held on suspicion...	5477

Besides the above there were condemned.—

Portions of hogs......	52872
Portions of cattle...	10505
Portions of sheep	7612

This certainly shows an alarming state of affairs and proves conclusively the need of inspection to protect the health of our citizens.

I might also draw your attention to the fact that on account of Government inspection being placed on all houses doing an export business the tendency is to market all suspicious animals at local markets where there is no inspection in force, so that in a city like Peterborough, since Government inspection went into force we are doubtless getting a larger percentage of diseased cattle than we were previous to September, 1907.

I have at the present time parties willing to unite with me in the forming of a company to establish an abattoir suitable for the requirements of the city of Peterborough and to have all the details in connection with it subject to the approval of your Council.

We would be willing to slaughter stock for the public at the following maximum charge;—

Cattle per head—$1.00.

Hogs per head—25 cents.

Calves per head—15 cents.

Sheep and lambs per head—10 cents.

This charge would cover the cost of slaughtering and cold storage for 24 hours. Parties having their slaughtering done would receive of the offal of the hide, heart, liver, tongue and fat.

In case of any animal being found diseased the carcass and all offal would be held by the inspector and converted into fertiliser, the loss falling on the original owner.

For a city the size of Peterborough we estimate the above charges would be most reasonable, as these are the rates now in force in the city of Toronto, where the quantities being slaughtered are much larger.

The Company taking up this enterprise would have to be insured the protection of the City Council and would want a by-law passed that no meats be allowed to be sold in the city of Peterborough unless bearing the stamp of the City Inspector or the Government official stamp. We would also want a franchise to protect our business for, say, a term of from 15 to 20 years, with a clause in the agreement that the plant could be taken over any time after 5 years by the city at a valuation.

I enclose you another letter received from Dr. J. G. Rutherford, also a copy of regulations governing the inspection of meats issued 1907, and if there is any other information that I can furnish you with, I will be glad to do so.

If the above proposition, as outlined meets with the approval of your Council, we would appreciate a reply at your earliest possible convenience.

Yours respectfully,
H. P. KENNEDY.

ENDORSED BY DOCTORS.

After Mr. Kennedy's letter had been read, the following communication was read by the city clerk;—

To His Worship the Mayor and members of the City Council:

Gentlemen.—We, the undersigned medical practitioners of the city of Peterborough, have had brought to our attention the possibility of the establishment of public abattoir in our vicinity, whereby all animals being offered for meat purposes might be slaughtered and subjected to inspection by a competent veterinary, appointed by the City Council.

We have given this matter careful consideration, and in view of the startling revelations that have been made during the past few months since the Dominion Government have had rigid inspection enforced at houses doing an export business in meats, we feel the necessity for similar inspection in Peterborough is urgent, and can heartily endorse a movement of this kind.

The health of our citizens is of first importance, and when a certain percentage of the cattle in the country are known to be affected with tuberculosis and other diseases, certainly too much care cannot be taken, and if all meats being offered for sale in the city of Peterborough were, as is proposed, slaughtered at one centre the sanitary laws could be rigidly enforced.

J T S Halliday, M.D.; W Caldwell, M.D.; J H Eastwood, M.D.; G E Marshall, M.D.; T W H Young, M.D.; J Birnie, M.D.; H V Frederick, M.D.; T Newton Greer, M.D.; J A Morgan, M.D.; J Malcolm McCulloch, M.D.; J V Callivan, M.D.; R P Boucher, M.D.; T P McCullough, M.D.; N C McKinnon, M.D.; W D Scott, M.D.; F C Neal, M.D.; George Burnham, M.D.; W E Brown, M.D.; M McClelland, M.D.; W D Buchanan, F.R.S.C.; G Stewart Cameron, M.D.; J Bingham, M.D.; E McGrath, M.D.

On motion of Ald. Neill and Ald. McIntyre, the matter was referred to the committee of the whole council to be dealt with at the next meeting. The government inspector at the local plant of the Matthews Co. will be asked to appear before the committee and give further information in order that the Council may deal with the matter in a most intelligent manner.

MISSIONARY INSTITUTE WAS OPENED WITH ABLE ADDRESS

St. Paul's Church Filled to the Doors Last Evening—"The Call of the Canadian West" Subject of Interesting Discourse by Rev. Canon Tucker of Toronto

The Missionary Institute was formally opened last evening in St. Paul's church, when a large gathering of men and women, principally the young people assembled to hear a most able address and to learn something about missions. Judging from the large number present last evening, the Missionary Institute will be a great success. "The Call of the Canadian West" was the subject of Rev. Canon Tucker's address last evening. It was intensely interesting, and a topic which, at the present time is commanding the earnest attention and consideration of the people of the East. The speaker was followed closely in his remarks, evidencing that a greater interest has been aroused in missionary work, and especially in the missons of our own Dominion.

The meeting last night was presided over by Rev. H. J. Keith, pastor of Knox church. After an opening hymn, Rev. Wm. Major, of All Saints' church, read a portion of Scripture and pronounced a prayer.

On behalf of the Ministerial Association, the president, Rev. J.R. Webb pastor of Murray street church, extended a hearty welcome to the visiting delegates and all those who were present. He referred to the object of the Institute, that of awakening a deeper interest in the missionary work of the church, as being one worthy of the deepest thought and consideration. "All God's creatures were fulfilling His purpose," said the speaker, "but have we ever stopped to consider what programme He has given us to carry out?" On each one rests a responsibility to do something for the furtherance of Christ's Kingdom, and it is by supporting the missionary cause that this responsibility can be met.

THE MAYOR'S WELCOME

On behalf of Mayor Rush, who was unable to be present through press of business, Mr. Frank Adams read the following address from the Mayor, extending a welcome to the visitors to Peterboro:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to Peterboro, on behalf of the citizens. We are always glad to welcome visitors to our city, and the pleasure is increased when they are engaged as you are in an endeavor to learn methods for making the world better.

A study of missions and missionary efforts has a most beneficial effect upon those who engage in it, for it gives a fuller knowledge of the world and its peoples, widens our sympathies and makes us citizens of the world in the best sense of that phrase. It is pleasant to see so many representatives of different church organizations meeting together in a united effort, for such gatherings cannot fail to benefit our own country, and when the object is as is the case at this meeting, to study in a practical manner how to organize and conduct missionary work, the world at large will share the benefits.

I hope that your visit to Peterboro will be a pleasant one, and that you will be able to take sufficient time from the duties which have called you together to see something of our city. We are one of the younger cities, but not of the smallest, for of the fifteen cities of Ontario we rank seventh in population, and first in the value of manufactured products per head of population. There are many points of interest, and although the season is not far enough advanced to see some of them at their best, they should not be omitted while you are here. You will notice by the buildings in course of construction, including the Normal School and Collegiate Institute buildings, that the city is still advancing. We wish you to feel at home while you are here, and we hope that your sessions will be most profitable and that you will leave Peterborough with such pleasant recollections that you will soon return.

(Signed) H. RUSH,
Mayor.

Mr. Fred C. Freeland then rendered a solo, "Nearer My God, to Thee," in splendid voice.

REV. CANON TUCKER.

In beginning, Canon Tucker expressed the pleasure he felt at being present. He was delighted to see such a large gathering, and furthermore he was glad to see so many men. A few weeks ago he said that he addressed some one hundred and seventy-five men, all members of one of the small churches of Peterboro. It was a glorious thing to have these men working in the churches. The speaker paid a compliment to Peterboro's fine array of churches. "What better combination could be produced than men and the church?" asked the Canon. He was glad to hear the Mayor urge the study of missions. By so doing the church is to be as much benefitted as those living in heathenism.

Two thoughts that engage the minds of church members, said the speaker, are that vast numbers of new people—a quarter of a million a year—were pouring into Canada and that church-going persons were being impoverished by the large amounts given annually to missions. "Because the mission field is so enormous, we are constantly giving," said the Canon, "But what is the call of the West, and does it justify our support?" he asked.

In introducing his subject, the reverend gentleman said that to solve that question it is necessary to leave out China, Japan, India, the Isles of the Sea, these foreign lands with their millions of inhabitants who are living in darkness and have never heard the name of Jesus Christ. We must leave out nine-tenths of the Canadian mission field," he continued, "leav out Muskoka, Cobalt and New Ontario. Leave out the two shores of the Hudson Bay, the McKenzie River District, British Columbia, with its thousands of mining and lumber camps and Winnipeg and the prairie cities and towns." What is left," asked the speaker. "Saskatchewan is left, and into that province is pouring thousands upon thousands of immigrants. At the clouse of the South African war a large number of colonists was being sent to South Africa but the word came that they could not go. They came to Canada and, after days of travelling, reached what is now known as Saskatoon. The railways heard of this wonderful land of promise and soon here and there along the railway lines sprung up towns and villages. Along the Canadian Northern are situated one hundred towns and three hundred farming communities. Likewise along the Canadian and Grand Trunk Pacific, the same towns and farming communities prevail.

"When you think of these towns without a Sunday, without a minister, do you not want to give up something to help your friends out there?"

In conclusion, the speaker dwelt strongly upon this necessity from a national standpoint of dealing promptly and properly with this important problem. He spoke at some length upon the national aspect of the question, saying that the building of a nation was a matter of citizenship. He referred to the struggle that had taken place in England and in this country to obtain liberty and commented upon the fact that in spite of this struggle there were men who would sell their citizenship at $10 per head. An Englishman or a Canadian would sell himself for the price of a sheep, for half the price of a bullock. He hoped to see the day when men who tried to buy or sell a vote would have to hide their heads like a murderer.

A quartette consisting of Messrs. Miller and Ferguson and Mrs. Miller and Miss C. Kidd sang in excellent manner "Take My Yoke upon Thee." The meeting closed, with the usual devotional exercises.

A GENUINE COBALT OPPORTUNITY

The Casey Mountain Cobalt Mining and Developing Company, Limited

INCORPORATED UNDER THE ONTARIO MINING COMPANIES INCORPORATION ACT

No Personal Liability Not Subject to Call

CAPITAL $250,000.00

250,000 Shares - - $1.00 Each

HEAD OFFICE, Manning Chambers, - - - - - - TORONTO

As previously announced in this space, we give some particulars concerning our mining properties, which should be of interest to the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity:

PROPERTIES CONTROLLED

The Company's holdings consist of 8 forty acre claims in one Block situate about eighteen miles from the Town of Cobalt in the Township of Casey, on what is known as "Casey Mountain," upon which deposits of native silver have been encountered, running over 8,000 ozs, per ton.

BUILDINGS, MACHINERY, DEVELOPMENT, Etc

There has been erected on the property a large boarding house, sleeping camps, blacksmith shop, shaft house, boiler house and Superintendent's quarters. A modern steam plant has been in operation during the past ten months and above 300 feet of underground development work has been done, besides considerable surface work, trenching and stripping of veins.

12 TRUE FISSURE VEINS UNCOVERED

There has been uncovered to date 12 fissure veins, varying in width from 16 inches to 8 feet, all carrying silver, cobalt, nicolite and arsenic. These veins have been stripped for several hundred feet, and all have free walls, and are well defined.

Big chimney, or lode of ore struck at 50 foot level.
16 feet wide from wall to wall.

While the main shaft was at a depth of 50 feet on a 30 inch vein a tunnel was driven into the mountain along the vein, and at a distance of twenty feet a chimney of ore was broken into 16 feet wide, with silver values of about $20.00 per ton, and we believe this to be the greatest strike of low grade ore ever encountered in the district. This tunnel was continued for a distance of 75 feet through this chimney of ore, when it was decided to sink the shaft to the 100 foot level, and again tap this great lode at this lower level. While driving tunnel at the 100 foot level the large body of ore was encountered at a distance of only 10 feet from the shaft, the chimney having widened 10 feet in the 50 feet of depth, and values were found to have increased fully 40 per cent., and we have in sight or above us several thousand tons of silver ore that will net the Company a handsome profit with the installation of a concentrating plant that can be installed with a capacity of 100 tons per day for the sum of $15,000.00 that will reduce the ore 15 tons to one, and thereby save freight charges on 14 tons of rock.

COBALT, NICOLITE AND LEAF SILVER ENCOUNTERED AT 120 FOOT LEVEL

Apart from the enormous body of low grade ore in sight, there has been encountered, while sinking the main shaft, cobalt, nicolite and leaf silver in the metallic form, these metals having come in at the 120 foot level, and another chimney of yet unknown width has also been struck at this depth, directly opposite to the one encountered at the 50 foot level, and our Superintendent reports that the two great lodes of ore are coming together which will constitute one continuous body of ore.

It is now proposed to drive a tunnel into this large ore body at the 125 foot level; and commence bagging ore for shipment, as the last report received a few days ago from our Superintendent stated that he had unlimited quantities of good ore in sight.

We give the following reasons why "Casey Mountain" will become one of the great dividend paying mines of the Cobalt district and there are many:—

First.—A large area, that is a regular net work of veins, running for three-quarters of a mile through the entire property, that will go down several thousand feet, and not pinch out.

Second.—We have the stuff in unlimited quantities, and the property has scarcely yet been scratched.

Third.—A capitalization of only $250,000.00 in which to pay dividends on.

Fourth.—No promotion stock has been issued to promoters that has not been paid for.

Fifth.—A management that are endeavoring to do a mining busines, (not a stock speculation.)

Sixth.—The directors of this Company have shown their faith in the property by investing heavily in the stock, and up to date very few shares have been disposed of outside of friends of the Company, as it has been the desire of the directors to hold the stock as closely as possible and dispose of only sufficient number of shares to enable the Company to carry on development until returns are received from shipments, and for a short time only the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity will have an opportunity of a small block at par value, $1 00 per share, and those desiring to invest should make applicationat once to the Head Office, Manning Chambers, Toronto, as this will be the only Treasury stock that will be issued at par value.

Additional information can be had during the next few days by applying to R. G. Williamson at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, President of the Company, or Dr. H. A Wood, Secretary-Treas., 408½ George St., Phone 20A, Peterborough, Ont.

A REPLY

Peterborough, May 4th,

To the Edior of the Review,

Sir,—In tonight's edition of the Examiner there is an account of the grand rally of the great Liberal party on Saturday evening last at which Mr. R. R. Hall spoke He condemned the Whitney government for dismissing D. H. Moore and George Cochrane Did Mr. Hall tell the immense (?) gathering how the Laurier government dismissed every Conservative employee on the Trent Valley canal here? Did Mr. Hall tell his immense audience that more than one half the employees in the several Departments at the parliament buildings at Toronto are Grits and that Mr. Whitney refused to discharge them but had the case been reversed and the Grits after 30 odd years in the cold, come into power, how many Conservaitve employees would have been left? I venture to say not one. There was also a letter signed "True Citizen." in the same issue re Mr. Gillespie being elected as one of our aldermen in which election all joined but let me tell "True Citizen" that Mr. Gillespie will find a political contest a different game from a municipal one, and all this guff, that is being sent forth at these immense rallies is only guff and nothing more and on the night of the 8th June those who howl so loudly now wil sit in their back sheds and try to figure out how it was done.

I am glad to see our old friend, Rolly McWilliams, hand in glove with his quondam enemies. Verily the lion has lain down with the lamb, but the lamb doesn't know enough to get out of the way.

Will Mr. R. R. Hall tell us how he figures the coming contest for the Commons as a whole and this riding in particular.

NEW BRUNSWICK OFFICIAL CONFESSED TO THE PREMIER

Late Surveyor-General Flewelling Left Pathetic Admissions of His Defalcations—Shortage Extended Over Many Years.

Fredericton, N.B., May 6.—At the inquest into the suicide of Deputy Surveyor-General Flewelling, held in the Parliament Buildings last night, Premier Hazen read a letter addressed to him, written by the deceased just before his death, in which he made a full and manful confession of defalcations. The letter was long and pathetic. In it he stated that he was behind in his accounts to the extent of $12,000. The shortage extended over many years, and arose from the fact that the Surveyor-General's Department was allowed by the Legislature to carry an overdraft each year to the amount of $20,000. He had confused his own private account, along with that of the Department, and as each year came round he had always met the balance by making an overdraft for the amount due. The statements he had made to the Government, he stated, were always correct, and that which he made on Oct. 31 last would be found absolutely correct. But the burden was more than he could bear, and this was the reason of his passing out of this world.

Premier Hazen broke down several times while reading the letter.

The jury returned a verdict that death was due to suicide, caused by financial worry.

FIGHTING BUBONIC PLAGUE; STREETS FLOODED WITH OIL

Great Distress Prevails in La Guaira—Centres of Infection Are Burned and Oil is Burned in the Streets.

Caracas, April 6.—The plague stricken port of La Guaira, shut off from the world by land and sea, has two heroes to-day, the American consul, Thomas P. Moffat, and the Venezuelan physician, Dr. Gomez Peraza. The first has become famous as the only consul in La Guaira who did not sign the document drawn up a month ago by the Board of Health, stating that "the sanitary condition of La Guaira is perfect."

Dr. Gomez Peraza was he who assisted the first examination of cases of bubonic plague, and he reported to the Government that several deaths had resulted. Dr. Peraza was immediately arrested and thrown into jail. People began to die mysteriously and rumors circulated as to how the sick persons only lived 24 hours. Then last week it became known that Dr. Peraza had been suddenly liberated from prison and that no steamers were stopping at La Guaira. When Dr. Peraza returned to La Guaira from the Caracas jail, he was met at the station by a great multitude and was paraded about the city.

Every measure is now being taken in La Guaira to stamp out the bubonic plague. Centres of infection are burnt, the streets are flooded with oil, which is set afire, and lumber piles are thrown into the sea. Distress is, however, becoming general and provisions are becoming very scarce. Flour is $25 a barrel. The plague is also costing the Government hundreds of thousands of dollars in loss of customs revenues, and if the port of Puerto Cabello should also be closed later, the revenue of the country would be practically destroyed.

CELEBRATE MASS ON THE STAGE

Scene in Father Vaughan's Play Causes Spectators to Gasp.

Chicago, May 6.—Gasps of astonishment came from an audience composed largely of Roman Catholics when the curtain lifted on the second scene of Rev. T. J. Vaughan's play, "A Woman of the West," produced in the Bush Temple Theatre Monday night.

The interior of a Catholic church, showing the altar, and an actor in the vestments of a priest performing the ceremony of the mass were presented and continued for almost three minutes.

Father Vaughan said he had not consulted with his superiors in reference to the depiction of the mass upon the stage.

"The celebration of mass is stopped before the consecration of the host. It is simply a picture," he said; "a living painting, and should offend no one any more than the reproduction of the same thing in water colors or oils."

Engine Crew Drown.

St. Louis, May 6.—A thunder storm of unusual severity, accompanied by wind of almost tornado velocity, swept over this vicinity early yesterday.

A bridge on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, near Bellville, Ills., was washed out and caused the wreck of a freight train. The engineer, conductor and brakeman were caught under the engine and drowned.

Quarrymen Struck.

Kingston, May 6.—A number of Welsh quarrymen at Gananoque struck for higher wages, and attempted to cross the river via Clayton, and get work on Wellesley Island in the United States domain, within sight of the Canadian town. They were refused admission by the immigration officer at Clayton.

Two Fishermen Drown.

Picton, May 6.—By the capsizing of a punt while three men were fishing at Black River bridge two men, William Mack and his 14-year-old son, were drowned. Fred Peeling, who was in the boat, swam ashore. Mack, Sr., was 50 years of age, and leaves a widow and several children.

Train Killed an Indian.

Belleville, May 6.—While walking on the G.T.R. near Marysville an Indian named Maracle, 62 years of age, was killed by a train.

P. H. Daynard, 77 years old, residing in Sidney, tried to cut his throat. Dr. B. Faulkner put in ten stitches. He will live.

No Legal Reciprocity.

London, May 6.—(C.A.P.)—The annual meeting of the bar passed a resolution that until colonial conditions are assimilated it is undesirable that there should be reciprocity.

Searched Gipsy Camp.

Newcastle, N.B., May 6.—Parker Mason, the six-year-old son of Frank Mason, is missing. Searching parties have gone through the gipsy camp and the steamers in port.

Stole Poor Funds.

Kingston, May 6.—Some sacrilegious person entered Grace Methodist Church, Gananoque, stole the funds of the poor box, some $5, and drank the communion wine.

SHE CALLED HIM A SPRING CHICKEN

Suffragette Prevented Winston Churchill From Speaking.

Dundee, May 6.—Winston Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, who is heading his campaign here for a seat in the Commons, was compelled to retire discomfited after a single-handed combat with the suffragettes.

The Minister had arranged to address a gathering of workmen during their dinner hour outside the Blackness foundry, but before he arrived a militant suffragette, Miss Maloney, drove up in a waggonette and appealed to the men not to listen to Mr. Churchill until he apologized for the accusations he made in a previous speech, that the suffragettes in Peckham had allied themselves with the forces of drink, and allowed themselves to be carried in men's arms in the streets.

When Churchill arrived in an auto, she exclaimed: "Here's the spring chicken we're looking for. He won't face me and I won't let him speak," and by clanging a loud hand bell she was able to prevent Churchill from making his address.

Bernier Going North Again.

Ottawa, May 6.—Capt. Joseph Bernier left yesterday for Sorel in connection with getting the cruiser Arctic ready for another trip to the far north. Capt. Bernier's plans are laid for the next two seasons' work in asserting Canadian authority over the islands which lie to the north of the mainland of the Dominion, and if these plans are realized he will spend next winter in the Arctic.

Australian Importation of Rifles.

Birmingham, May 6.—At the annual meeting here of the Birmingham gun trade, the chairman announced that he had just received an intimation that the Australian Government had placed an extra duty of $25 per barrel on imported guns not bearing authorized proof marks.

This, the chairman declared, would put a stop to the importation of unproved arms from America, a trade which had grown to such proportions as to seriously injure the British trade.

To Curb Anarchists.

Chicago, May 6.—Extermination of anarchy is the scope of a bill drawn by Assistant Corporation Counsel Hole, which was introduced in the Legislature yesterday. It provides that any person who shall publicly advocate by spoken or written work the killing of any person shall be deemed guilty of a felony.

Farmer Lost an Eye.

Guelph, May 6.—James Black, a well-known farmer living in Eramosa township near this city, sustained a most peculiar accident. A cow ran at Mr. Black who had in his hand an iron crowbar. The bar was knocked into his face and hit him in the eye. The injured optic had to be removed at the hospital.

Seeding In the West.

Winnipeg, May 6.—The Canadian Pacific Railway's weekly crop report shows that 85 per cent. of the seeding has been completed in some sections. Wet weather has retarded operations in some localities, but seeding is much in advance of other years.

RESIGNATION OF MEMBERS OF FIRE BRIGADE AND CHIEF

Have Been Handed City Council—Firemen Signed Letter of Resignation at Meeting Last Night—To Take Effect on Tuesday June 30th.

Chief Rutherford of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, and the members of the brigade have placed their resignation with the City Council. A meeting of the members of the brigade was held last night at the fire hall and every fireman was present with the exception of Mr. C. Rutherford, who was confined to his house through illness. The meeting was held behind closed doors and Chief Rutherford occupied the chair. The resignation of the brigade was decided upon. The letter of resignation was drawn up and signed by each individual member of the brigade.

INDIVIDUAL RESIGNATION.

The brigade's letter of resignation is as follows:

To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Peterborough—

We the undersigned members of the Peterborough Fire Brigade wish to tender you and your Council our individual resignations as our service has ceased to be of any value to the city. The resignation to take effect at 12 o'clock on the night of June 30th, 1908.

John Gibbs, assistant chief; W. G. Metheral, 1st Lieutenant; C. Butcher, 2nd lieutenant; W. P. Adamson, treasurer, W. R. Turner, C. R. Metheral, Arbole Moore, S. Sharpe, W. Evans, J. A. Haggart, A. J. Mitchell, E. A. Jones, D. E. Yarnold, A. A. Ranger, C. Rutherford.

CHIEF'S LETTER.

Chief Rutherford announced that he had prepared his letter of resignation to be handed to the City Council. The letter is as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the City of Peterborough.

Peterborough, May 5, 1908.

Gentlemen,—I observe by the local papers that you are advertising for a man to fill the position of Chief Engineer of the Fire Department of the city, and it leaves me no alternative but to tender my resignation to take place forthwith.

After a continuous service extending over a period of nearly 28 years, during which time the greatest unanimity and good feeling existed between the members of the brigade and myself, I am naturally loath to take the step which has thus been forced upon me.

Under the new conditions which you propose to inaugurate, I trust you will have the same efficient service as well as harmony and good-feeling that has ever characterized the old, so that the ratepayers may feel that they are getting some return for the largely increased expense which the new conditions will impose.

Yours truly,
T. RUTHERFORD.

THE RECORD OF THE CHIEF

After having been connected with the Peterborough fire brigade for forty years, twenty-eight of which were spent in the capacity of chief, Mr. Thomas Rutherford, chief of the local brigade has tendered his resignation to the city council. His letter of resignation will be found in another column of the Review.

CHIEF SINCE 1881

In 1881 Mr. Rutherford was appointed permanent chief of the fire brigade by the town council of Peterborough. He has filled the office from the 18th of August of that year, succeeding Chief George Mitchell. At that time the brigade has 60 members forming two companies. Nothing but the pole tax payment was given the firemen by way of remuneration and the first regular payment was voted the brigade when Mr. Rutherford was appointed Chief.

NEW BRIGADE

In 1881 a new brigade was formed each man getting $30 a year as salary from the fund for fire protection.

The present 57th regimental band was started by the fire brigade about 26 years ago with Mr. Finch Miller as leader.

CUT DOWN TO 16 MEN

Later the strength of the brigade was cut down to 16 men their yearly salary being increased to $75 and for the past four years it has been $150. This is the present figure.

CAUSE OF FRICTION

The members of the brigade this year asked for an increase in their salary of $50 a total of $200 a year which they considered reasonable on account of the increase in the population of the city and the consequent widening of the fire circuit. The city council was not satisfied to meet their views and the question of a paid brigade was brought up. On this account the men resigned.

CHIEF WAS POPULAR.

Chief Rutherford has been very popular with the men and has rendered good service in his official capacity. He has been faithful in the discharge of his duty and his record is a splendid one.

FORTY YEARS A FIRE FIGHTER

MR. THOS. RUTHERFORD
Who has sent in his resignation as Chief of the Peterborough Fire Brigade.

THE OPPOSITION WILL FIGHT AYLESWORTH'S ELECTION BILL

Mr. Borden Describes the Measure as Inadequate—Declares That One Clause Does Away With the Secret Ballot—Serious Omissions Noted—The Premier Announces Proposed Bills—To Amend Customs Act.

Ottawa, May 6.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday made his promised announcement as to Government measures yet to be introduced this session.

First, there is the civil service bill, which, he said, would be introduced next week. There were also bills to provide for the extension of the boundaries of Manitoba; to amend the Manitoba Grain Inspection Act; to amend the Lands Act; respecting aid to railway construction, including the Hudson Bay Railway; relating to adjudication; to Chinese immigration; to make the Yukon council wholly elective, and to amend the Customs Act.

In reply to R. L. Borden, who thought it strange we could not get copies of the U.S. boundary treaty, Sir Wilfrid said the treaty had yet to be signed by the president and also that authority had not yet been received from the Colonial Office to lay the two treaties before the House.

The fight over the Aylesworth election bill was begun yesterday, the Minister of Justice moving the second reading. Opposition members declare they will keep the House in session for weeks before they will allow the bill to pass in its present form.

Mr. Aylesworth devoted two hours to the first clause, providing for preparation of new voters' lists in Manitoba and British Columbia. His main argument was that such a measure is absolutely necessary owing to the overlapping of Federal and provincial constituencies in those provinces.

Mr. Borden asked why the bill was not made to apply to other provinces where the boundaries of constituencies were not co-terminus.

"The Dominion might be divided," said Mr. Aylesworth, "for purposes of describing the system of preparing lists, by a line separating Ontario from Manitoba. East of that line lists are prepared on the basis of municipal assessment roll; west of that line, by registration." The first clause was designed to deal with difficulties which had arisen under the latter system.

The Manitoba statute provided for preparation of lists by registration clerks. As these lists were prepared for 40 provincial constituencies, as compared with only ten for the Dominion House, and as boundaries were not in any way co-terminus, there was a great deal of overlapping. In some cases voters were designated by their postoffice addresses, which was no guide to their residence when the office was close to the line. He instanced the case of one registration district in St. Boniface for the province, whose list contained 226 names; while 140 voted in Selkirk and 86 in Provencher for the Dominion.

In the Federal election of 1904 all the returning officers got from Ottawa were simply lists of names by local registration districts and out of them they had to carve somehow names entitled to vote in a certain Federal constituency.

The Government had the right to make by revision, Federal lists for any province when available provincial lists were more than a year old. In 1904 the Manitoba Legislature changed its law, requiring that registration must take place annually, thus declaring the Dominion act no longer applicable. The Manitoba lists of 1903 were prepared without any idea that they would be required for a Federal election, and the returning officer found a difficulty before him of preparing lists for widely-extended constituencies, and to avoid overlapping he crossed out the names of voters not belonging to the particular constituency with red ink, which operation was responsible for the coining of the phrase, "the thin red line." This was the same course proposed by officials of the province of Manitoba, said Mr. Aylesworth, and Dr. Roche asked who these officials were, but the Minister did not hear, while the Government members attempted to shout down the Marquette member. Mr. Aylesworth pleaded his deafness as a reason for ignoring Dr. Roche, Opposition members cried, "He does not want to answer," when the Speaker interposed that this was not a proper remark.

Mr. Aylesworth proceeded to say that the purpose of the present bill was to make a repetition of the mistakes of 1904 impossible. He adverted to the attitude of Conservatives in 1898, when they insisted on the House controlling its own voters' lists. This led in the subject of an amendment, which was defeated on a straight party vote. The Opposition view was then expressed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who held that voters' lists should be prepared from municipal assessment rolls.

Mr. Borden thought there could be no doubt that the election law needed reforming, and he would be pleased if the Government had brought down a measure to simplify the controverted Elections Act, so as to obviate delays that had arisen in connection with election trials, and to prevent a member escaping from the courts by reason of technicalities.

Mr. Aylesworth's bill was inadequate, the clause dealing with contributions aiding rather than preventing such contributions. Another clause did away with the secret ballot. There should be provision for automatic bye-election, and when three or four were pending, they should be held on the same day. No reason existed for delaying elections in British Columbia beyond the usual day. Another omission was the prohibition of participation of civil servants in elections, and making the bribery of constituencies with public works an offence.

Mr. Borden, Dr. Roche and Mr. Greenway all took part in the debate. Mr. Alcorn, who is father of an election amendment act, considered that what was wanted by the Government was to vote entire foreign population of employes on the Transcontinental Railway. He spoke for over two hours and Mr. Bole moved the adjournment of the debate, which will go on to-day.

MR. BOOTH'S STATEMENT; MR. LOUGHRIN'S FALSE CHARGE

A Complete Refutation of an Election Yarn—The Ross Heeler Cannot Change His Spots—The Well Known Lumberman's Denial

Ottawa, May 5.—Mr. J. R. Booth has made the following statement in reference to the published report of the charges made by Mr. John Loughrin, ex-M.P.P.:—"There never was a meeting of lumbermen held in my office that I was not present at. There never was a meeting held at my office where Mr. Cochrane's election was discussed or his name mentioned. I never discussed Mr. Cochrane's election with Mr. Loughrin in any form. I had not then, nor since, any particular interest in Hon. Frank Cochrane. I have never asked or received any favors from him or his Government, or any other Government. I am sorry Mr. Loughrin should so far forget himself as to make this statement he is reported to have made."

A CEMETERY IN BACK YARD; FIVE PEOPLE ARE MURDERED

Ray Lamphere Accused of the Crime—Body of Andrew Heldgren Had Been Dismembered and Put in Different Sacks Before Burial.

Laporte, Ind., May 6.—One of the most gruesome murder mysteries ever unearthed in this state came to light last night, when the bodies of five persons, all of whom were murdered, were found in the yard of Mrs. Belle Guinness, who, with three of her children, was burned to death on the night of April 28, last.

So far, only two of the bodies have been identified. These are Andrew Heldgren, who came to this city from Aberdeen, South Dakota, for the purpose of marrying Mrs. Guinness, whose acquaintance he had made through a matrimonial bureau, and that of Miss Jennie Olsen Guinness, a Chicago girl, who had been adopted by Mrs. Guinness. She disappeared in September, 1906, and was said to have gone to California. The other bodies were these of two men and a woman. None of them has been identified.

Sheriff Butler, under the direction of John Heldgren of Aberdeen, S.D., yesterday began digging in the ground near the wrecked home of Mrs. Belle Guinness, who, with three children, a week ago yesterday, was burned to death.

At the depth of four feet the body of Andrew Heldgren was found. Andrew Heldgren was a brother of John Heldgren, who came here Jan. 2 to visit Mrs. Guinness.

In another place was dug up a body thought to be that of Jennie Guinness, 16 years of age, whom Mrs. Guinness had reared, and who had disappeared in September, 1906, when it was said she had gone to Los Angeles, Cal., to attend school.

It appears that Andrew Heldgren of Aberdeen, S.D., became acquainted with Mrs. Guinness through a matrimonial agency. Heldgren spent almost a month visiting Mrs. Guinness and others in this city. He was supposed to have started on a trip to Norway and Sweden.

When Heldgren was here Mrs. Guinness was trying to make a loan from a local bank. Heldgren offered to lend her the money. Early in January she borrowed $1,500 from him. ... before that Heldgren had drawn from Aberdeen through a local bank $3,000.

Dismembered Body Found.

When news of the burning of the Guinness home was received by John Heldgren, he started for this city to investigate the disappearance of his brother. Andrew Heldgren's body was found to be dismembered, and the arms, legs, trunk and head put in different sacks and buried.

Sheriff Smulser and Prosecutor Smith say they are confident they will be able to connect Ray Lamphere with the murder of Heldgren and Jennie Guinness. Lamphere is under arrest here charged with the murder of Mrs. Guinness and her children. He is a carpenter.

The way in which the Heldgren body was dismembered indicates that some one familiar with the use of a saw did the work. Lamphere worked for Mrs. Guinness at the time of the disappearance of Heldgren, and it is alleged that he appeared one day in a local barber shop wearing a coat belonging to Heldgren and carrying Heldgren's gun.

It was current gossip at the time that Lamphere was jealous of Mrs. Guinness and Heldgren.

May Have Murdered Husband.

Jennie Olsen Guinness was a Chicago girl who was reared by Mrs. Guinness. When the girl disappeared in September, 1906, it was Mrs. Guinness who reported she had gone to the Los Angeles school. The theory is advanced that the girl knew too much in connection with the death of Mrs. Guinness' husband, who succumbed to wounds in the head four years ago.

Mrs. Guinness had stated that her husband's injuries were caused by a meat grinder falling on his head. Lamphere, before the fire in the Guinness' home, said, it is alleged, that Mrs. Guinness was trying to get rid of him and have him sent to an insane asylum because he knew too much about her.

A CAR CRUSHED HIS LIFE OUT

Toronto Tailor Missed His Footing and Was Mangled by the Wheels.

Toronto, May 6.—Fred Cook, a young married man, living at 116 Claremont street, was frightfully mangled in trying to board a rapidly moving car at Yonge and Gerrard streets at 6.15 last night. He died of his injuries at Grace Hospital at 10.15 o'clock.

Cook, who is employed by James Robertson, a tailor, at 378 Yonge street, ran to catch a southbound College car. He caught the handle-bar of the rear platform of the motor, but missed his footing and was dragged. He was crushed under the wheels of the trailor.

WON SEAT BY BARE MAJORITY

Liberals Win Wolverhampton by Narrow Margin.

London, May 6.—The declining popularity of the present Government was again revealed by the result of the bye-election in Wolverhampton East to replace Sir Henry Fowler, who, as Viscount Wolverhampton, took his seat in the House of Lords. The Liberals retained the seat in the Commons, but by a bare majority of eight, as against a majority of 2,865 in 1906, the result of yesterday's elections being as follows: G. R. Thorne, Liberal, 4,514; L. S. Amery, Unionist, 4,506.

Great Loss in Mining.

Washington, May 6.—Government tests with coals at the fuel testing plant now located in St. Louis, but which it is hoped soon to secure for Pittsburg, show, according to a report just issued, that 200,000,000 tons of coal, enough to supply the needs of the country for six months, are being wasted every year in the United States through improper mining methods. This waste represents a loss of more than $300,000,000, for the coal is worth at least $1 a ton.

FATAL FEUD IN OLD KENTUCKY

One Man Mortally Wounded and the Other Shot Dead.

Jackson, Ky., May 6.—Edward Callahan, the last surviving prominent leader in the notorious Breathitt County feuds, was stabbed and mortally wounded in his store on Long's Creek by his brother-in-law, John Spicer. Spicer was in turn shot dead by Callahan's 17-year-old son. Spicer and the elder Callahan had been quarreling over a suit for divorce which Callahan had begun some months ago against his wife. During the dispute Callahan leaped over his counter and struck at his brother-in-law, who drew a knife and stabbed him repeatedly.

Callahan was known throughout the fourteen years of feud complication as the chief lieutenant of Judge Jim Hargis, who himself died three months ago from a pistol shot fired by his own son.

Daniel White, a Hargis feudist, on Monday, shot and killed Jim Fugate, of the Cockrill faction. The two men fired upon each other on meeting in the street.

The Erindale Mystery.

Erindale, May 6.—Although the body of the murdered Slavonian youth which was found in David Faskin's bush Sunday was identified by two reputable farmers of this neighborhood, who viewed the remains at the post mortem yesterday and gave a partial description of the supposed murderer to Detective Millar of the Attorney-General's Department, the mystery is as deep as ever.

Two resident farmers have identified the body as one of a pair of young foreigners whom they had seen in an hotel at Port Credit on Tuesday of last week.

Dr. Bowie found no cause of death than from the blow on the head. The skull had been completely shattered all round by the blow. There are bruises on the face.

Girls Struck by Engine.

Montreal, May 6.—Two girls, Eva Page and Flora Miron, employed by the American Tobacco Co., narrowly escaped death last night.

The girls were crossing the tracks of the Grand Trunk at Rose de Lima street where the crossing is quite unguarded and when in the middle of the track a light engine came along at a lively pace and struck both, knocking them to either side of the tracks.

Miss Page was picked up unconscious, but outside of a bad shaking up escaped serious injury, but Miss Miron was badly injured and had to have her left arm amputated at the shoulder.

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Frank Emsley, Lindsay, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"When I wrote to you some time ago, I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the feminine organs and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do.

"A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman.

"I most heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer with female troubles."

SMITH ST. BRIDGE

A local engineer has suggested that the new bridge over the river at Smith street be a "concrete arch" bridge. We do not know what the city engineer intends to erect, but this strikes us as a good idea. Such a bridge would be both picturesque and substantial without being unduly expensive either in the first instance or the long run. The Engineering News of March 21st contains a number of illustrations of "concrete arch" bridges in similar situations. A wooden bridge in these days is a pretty expensive luxury. An iron or steel bridge no doubt has its advantages but none of them has an advantage over the simple concrete mixture, which can stand the changes of temperature and the strain, etc., without a loss of strength, and can be made an ornament of the style and kind of the Roman arch, if desirable. With this improvement and some attention paid to the river banks, the Otonabee above the Dickson dam might be made a picturesque stream.

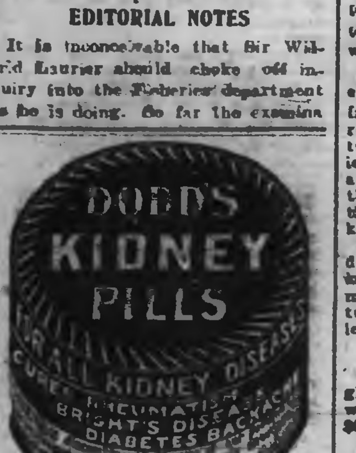
We hope the suggestion of the engineer who made it will be considered.

THE C. N. R. GUARANTEE

Col Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer has announced that the agreement signed by the Ross government subsequent to the Ross guarantee of the CNR. was as any reader who chooses to examine it may plainly see really a subsequent guarantee with the terminals left out. There is no denying this statement. Through carelessness or design the province remained unprotected by the Ross government in its agreement subsequent to the guarantee. Why was this agreement made by the Ross government in 1904 prior to a general election? Why was such an agreement ever made by any body at any time? It looks as if this campaign uproar originated and carried on by the Liberal press had a cause if not the one specified. The Whitney guarantee of 1905 was founded on this valid and compulsory agreement. At the first opportunity the evil was remedied and that was in the "closing hours" of the session. It was remedied however, and the province is safe.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is inconceivable that Sir Wilfrid Laurier should choke off inquiry into the Fisheries department as he is doing. So far the examination of Mr. Courtney, one of the late Commission has been a disgrace.



It is reported that a company is being formed of leading Liberal capitalists to get a subsidy from the Laurier government towards building a canal from James Bay to Lake Superior. This is an age of wonders. There would be a fine chance for a rake-off in this project. On one occasion it was advertised that close connections would be made between the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa R. R. and the T.V.C. Similar connections could be made between the new canal and the G.T.P.

In speaking in support of Mr. Lennox of North York, Hon. Mr. Matheson made the following interesting statement regarding the CNR. guarantee. He said that an agreement had been entered into by the Ross Government in 1904 after the passing of the first guarantee. The mortgage drawn later by the Whitney government was based on this agreement. That was why it did not include the terminals. That was why the new guarantee was necessary.

From the Toronto Mail.

The Whitney Government has been in office for rather more than three years. During its term it has abolished the numbered ballot and has destroyed the stuffed ballot-box.

To education it has given a larger grant. From the school book monopoly it has relieved the people.

Agriculture has received a new impetus and the great mining industry has been encouraged.

Popular rights have been protected by a Railway Commission appointed to conserve them, and labor is offered protection from prison competition.

New Ontario has been made a more promising field for settlement. All Ontario has been benefitted by careful administration.

The revenue of the province has been augmented without any increase in taxes.

While the public services are more liberally assisted, the public debt has been reduced by $678,000 and a cash surplus of $1,600,000 has been recorded.

The three years have been fruitful of good legislation and of honest work for the public. Another term will be willingly accorded to Mr. Whitney and his colleagues.

This is a fine record for any administration we should think but the best of all is that which refers to our happy release from that badge of slavery.

OBSTINATE SCALP DISEASE CONTRACTED BY CHILDREN

Mrs. Annie Pugh of Pine Lawn, London, Ont. says; "It is now eighteen months since my two children Cassie and Lily aged respectively 10 and 4 years contracted the itching eczema of the scalp. There first appeared small red pimples which soon burst or broke forming sores and scabs over the whole scalp under the hair. We were compelled to have their heads completely shaven of the hair, their condition became so unpleasant. A great number of ointments, soaps and washes were used, all of no avail until we tried Zam-Buk. After several applications of this balm the condition of their scalp was much improved. The children suffered cruelly from the intense itching and it was almost impossible to keep them from scratching. The disease on my youngest daughter's scalp was the worst of the two, her head being one mass of sores and scabs from which a foul odor arose. It was so unsightly I had to keep her head covered after beginning with head covered always with a cap. It was several months after beginning with Zam-Buk before the children were completely cured of this terrible disease. The case of the younger child proved the most obstinate but Zam-Buk balm conquered the disease, banished the scabs, and cleaned and healed the sores most effectively. In about three months Cassie's scalp was cleaned of all traces of the disease, and in about six months from commencing with Zam-Buk, Lillie's scalp was also smooth and clean. Since then their hair has grown almost as thick and long as before. I am most grateful for their cures and do not hesitate to recommend Zam-Buk to others."

For healing eczema, running sores, cuts, bruises, burns, boils, eruptions itch, chapped hands, and diseases of the skin, Zam-Buk is without equal. All druggists and stores, 50c or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co. Toronto.

DANGERS OF THE LAW

Muskegon, Mich., May 2.—Gladstone Dowie, son of the late Prophet and Apostle J. Alexander Dowie, of Zion City, and who has ever boasted that no woman had ever kissed him, is the unkissed no longer. He was publicly kissed in court today by a pretty girl client for whom he had won a victory.

He was counsel for Miss Sybil Paterson, who had sued to collect $60 from her employer. When the jury returned a verdict in her favor she turned to her lawyer, Gladstone Dowie, with a beaming smile of gratitude and, before the astonished son of the prophet divined her intentions, threw her arms around his neck and kissed him.

The hitherto unkissed attempted to duck the blow, and as a result the kiss fell upon his breast, but the girl meant better than that. Dowie turned white and hurriedly left the court room.

The receipts of St. Thomas Anglican church, Hamilton, for the year were $6,125.02 and the deficit is $691.64.

Mayor Campbell, of St. Catharines, was refused permission by Secretary Douglas of the Water Commission to examine the books.

BASS AND 'LUNGE DESTROYED IN OTONABEE RIVER

The Way the Water in Otonabee is Raised and Lowered Causes the Spawn to Decay

A prominent South Monaghan farmer is the authority for saying that the government is killing more fish than that wrought by illegal fishing. He stated that the spawn of bass and maskinonge was found in large quantities that would have eventually have made millions of fish. The water in the lower stretch es of the Otonabee river is raised abnormally and then lowered. The bass and maskinonge swim up the creeks at high water and spawn on the meadow grass. When the water recedes millions of what otherwise would have developed into fish are thus destroyed. The South Monaghan farmer though the water in the river could be controlled much better to avoid this wanton destruction

Ministers of City and Their Wives Had Pleasant Gathering

An enjoyable gathering of the ministers of the city and their wives was held last evening in one of the rooms of the George street church. An excellent repast had been prepared and a pleasant social time was spent. The gathering was held primarily for the purpose of saying "goodbye" to Rev. and Mrs. A H. Brace, who are leaving for Cobourg. There were many references to the pleasant relations that had existed between Mr. Brace and the other ministers of the city and to the regret felt at his departure. Mr. Brace made an appropriate reply.

Mr. Telgemann, of Kingston, who will be in charge of the production, was present, and after going into the matter very carefully, it was decided to postpone the event till September. "Leo, the Royal Cadet," will be produced under the auspices of the 57th Regiment band.

WOULD LIKE HANDICAP MATCH WITH LOCAL HEAVYWEIGHT

Artie Edmunds Willing to to Take on Hurtubise With the Latter to Throw Him Three Times in an Hour—His Big Task With Muldoon

Young Muldoon, the New York lightweight wrestler, who is to wrestle Art. Edmunds, the Canadian champion, in Toronto, at the Labor Temple Saturday night, will be there Wednesday. Florrie Barnett, of the Police Gazette, Muldoon's manager, has wired to that effect, and says that his man will be ready to take on any Canadina up to 145 pounds after he gets through with Edmunds.

Harry Gatersby, the Yorkshire welweight, wants a go with Muldoon, and says he will challenge him if he wins Saturday night. There are plenty of people who say that Edmunds, who has never been beaten within ten pounds of his weight, can and will trim Muldoon. It will be a rough-riding contest, for Edmunds is just as ready for a gruelling contest as is Young Muldoon, who is notorious for his rough tactics.

MULDOON'S RECORD.

The Toronto lad is going up against a stout proposition when he gives away eight or ten pounds in weight and tackles Young Muldoon, of New York, the New England States lightweight wrestling champion, at the Labor Temple, Saturday night, is evidenced by the record of Young Muldoon for the past year. In that time he has won nineteen matches defeating the following;—Young Roeber, Sam Regers, Lou Robarn, Great Athos (the bull-fighter), Al. Turner, Ed. Woodman, Peter Lyon, Jack Corbin, Young Sharkey, Jim Burns, Jack Dawson, Al. Levinson, Joe Bourne, Jack Hague, Frank Becker, and James Barnes. Of the list Edmunds has taken the measure of Young Roeber, Lyon, Burke and Young Sharkey, and beat them just as fast as Muldoon did.

EDMUNDS CONFIDENT.

"What do you think of Muldoon?" Edmunds was asked by the Review. "He's a real wrestler," was the reply." "a man that is capable of putting up a great argument, and undoubtedly one of the best wrestlers in the business. But I am not afraid of him. He is strong and scienced and goes at it in a very strenuous way, but I like the way he works, and am willing to take a chance with him. I realize that the concession of ten pounds in weight is a serious handicap. I am preparing for the bout of my life and will be in great condition for the battle."

WOULD MEET HURTUBISE.

"What do you think of the Hurtubise-Kennedy match?"

"It should be a great go and should prove one of the fiercest and most interesting mat fights seen for a long time, such that Hurtubise will have to do fast work to get his man four times within the hour."

"How would you like a handicap match with Hurtubise?"

"I'd like it all right, in fact I'd be very agreeable to one."

"If one were arranged for Hurtubise to throw you three times in an hour it should make a very interesting bout?"

"Yes, it should," was the reply, "and the conditions would be most satisfactory to me."

A match between Hurtubise and Edmunds would certainly be a great contest and should prove a great drawing card if it were held in Peterborough.

Sheriff Hall is busily engaged these days working on the Voters' lists for the coming Provincial elections. The Sheriff expects to have the lists ready for distribution by the end of the week.

The county police are on the lookout for a man by the name of Moore who has escaped from the House of Refuge.

THEATRICAL

PRIMROSE MINSTRELS

That monarch of minstrelsy master of the black art, George H. Primrose, put on a bright and amusing show at the Grand the night before last. The performance was cordially received by the audience and was interesting throughout. As a singing organization the troupe is a particularly strong one, the quartette being especially good. The various acts and specialties were also of much merit while some crisp and new jokes added materially in the matter of laughter production.

MANY CUSTOMERS BUT NO SELLERS

No Market This Morning---Farmers are Not Coming in on Wednesdays

There was a large number of ladies at the market this morning looking for butter and eggs, but they were obliged to go home without them as there were no farmers on the market to-day. It is a pity that the farmers around Peterborough do not come to the city on Wednesdays. If they did they would find a ready sale for their butter and eggs.

HOT AIR

Editor of the Review;

Sir,—Now that the householders of Peterborough are putting away their stoves, furnaces and hot air appliances would it not be wise for the Reform party to shut off their hot air blast by closing up the vituperative hot air bomb shells that emanate from the editorial department of their representative sheet. Let them clean their own back yard before they throw stones at their neighbors. Let the truth and honesty prevail, not the hot air vaporings that proceed more from addlepated or be-fogged brains that show no common sense in their effusions.

OLD MAN.

Ten engineers on the G.T.R. between Sarnia and London are back as firemen because of lack of traffic.

HOMEMADE BEAN BAGS.

Game Still Retains a Fair Degree of Popularity.

While the safe and comfortable bean bag has been sidetracked to some extent in favor of more strenuous forms of diversion, it still retains a fair degree of popularity.

In one family where the bean bag retains its old time prestige a German auntie made for the little folk a set of bags that has been much admired and is highly appreciated. The set consists of four bean bags, two round ones and two square ones, which are all rather small, and all crocheted with mercerized thread in the respective flag colors of different nationalities and made as follows:

United States.—A round bag. Begun in center and crocheted round and round—seven rows in red, seven in white, seven in blue. The reverse side crocheted in same way—twenty-one rows—in blue. The two round sides of bag are crocheted together and finished with tiny narrow scalloped edge.

Spain.—A square bag. Four rows, fifty stitches in length, in yellow, three rows of red, seven rows of yellow, three of red and four of yellow. The reverse side in solid red.

Germany.—A round bag. Seven rows of black, seven of white and seven of red, with a black reverse side.

Italy.—A square bag of same dimensions as the Spanish one. Seven rows of red, fifty stitches long; seven of white and seven of green; reverse side of plain green. The bags should be crocheted closely to admit of being filled with small sized beans and should not be filled very full.

The nationalities represented in a set could vary with individual taste, and a set could consist of two, three, five or even seven bean bags. But whatever combination is chosen the multicolored bean bags make an attractive showing and a charming present, while they are in the making an easily handled and pleasing sort of fancy work.

A Place For Everything.

The woman who says all that is necessary to smooth the housekeeper's pathway free from even pebbles of annoyance is to have a place for everything and then keep it in its place has even devised a special resting place for the lids to her pots and pans.

Being tired of breaking her back stooping into her pot closet to find the one lid to fit a special pot, she devised a pan railing in her pantry, where the pans now repose just within reach of her hand and only a step or two from the range.

Under the rather high cupboard at one side of the pantry she fastened two wooden cleats, deep enough to allow the largest lid to slip in easily, yet not fall through to the floor, and the entire width of the wall apart.

Across the front of these strips she fastened a strip of wood about an inch wide and a quarter of an inch thick, stained it the same color as the woodwork and has a place where every lid in the house may go and yet be found instantly when wanted.

No matter how hastily the lid is put away, the handle will catch on this horizontal strip and prevent it from slipping through.

Martial Law In Tobacco War.

SCHEDULE GOVERNING LOCAL TEACHERS SALARIES

Presented at Board of Education Meeting Last Evening—Lady Assistants With Non-Professional First Class Certificates Receive Maximum Salary of $600.

The schedule governing the salaries of the teachers of the Public school of the city was presented to the Board of Education last evening at their regular monthly meeting. Upon motion it was adopted. It is as follows:—

To the Chairman and members of the Board:

Gentlemen,—Your Supervision Committee beg to report and recommend that the salary schedule adopted by the Board on March 11th, 1907, be amended to read as follows and to take effect from 1st September, 1908:—

1. P.S.—Lady Assistants—Holders of professional first-class certificates who have had two years' successful teaching under such certificates, to receive the minimum salary of $500 per annum, increasing to the maximum of $650, as per clause four of the 1907 schedule.

2. P.S. Lady Assistants.—Holders of professional first-class certificates who have had less than two years' experience under such certificate, to receive the minimum salary of $450 per annum, increasing to the maximum of $650 as per clause 4 of the 1907 schedule.

3. P.S. Lady Assistants—Holders of non-professional first-class certificates to receive the minimum of $400 per annum increasing to the maximum of $600 as per clause 4 of the 1907 schedule.

4. P.S. Lady Assistants—Holders of professional second-class certificates to receive the minimum salary of $400 per annum, an increase to the maxi- of about $675.00 as per caluse four of the 1907 schedule.

5. Kindergarten Directoresses — Those engaged in teaching two classes, one in the forenoon and the other in the afternoon, to be placed on the same schedule as second-class lady assistants, viz, a minimum salary of $400 and a maximum of $575.00. Same annual increase to apply.

On account of your Board's relation to the Normal School your Committee has found it necessary to ask the Board to make the above changes as it will be necessary when engaging additional teachers to have a considerable proportion of them holders of professional first-class certificates. The present minimum salary will not attract many teachers, and it is hoped that the proposed amendments will overcome the difficulty.

The changes are meant simply to overcome the difficulty of not being able to secure teachers holding professional first-class certificates.

Belleghem, the desks having been first approved by the Principal and the Commercial Master. Dr. Morrison, chairman of the committee, presented the report. Upon motion, it was adopted.

MR. MOWAT'S REPORT.

Mr. W. H. Hill, Chairman Committee on Appointments—

Dear Sir,—On the re-opening of the schools after the Easter vacation, Miss Nicholls was still unable to resume her duties and the supply teacher, Miss Brown, continued to take charge of her class. A new primary form was opened at the Queen Alexandra school and placed temporarily under the charge of Miss Howson, a duly qualified teacher, who is home on her vacation from the university.

Miss Warner has asked leave of absence for the month of May on account of illness, but it will not be necessary to engage any one to take her place for the month, as the chairman of the Supervision Committee has agreed to have Miss Gillespie, of the Central school, and Miss Rush, of the East City school, take charge of both classes, teaching one in the forenoon and the other in the afternoon. Miss Nicholls hopes to return to her duties on Monday next.

Yours truly,
A. MOWAT.

SUPERVISION COMMITTEE.

The Supervision Committee reported that the following changes had been made in the organization of the schools on the re-opening of the schools after the Easter vacation:

In the Queen Alexandra school an additional primary form was opened and placed temporarily under the charge of Miss Howson, a duly qualified teacher, and a former member of the Peterborough Public school staff.

Owing to the illness of Miss Warner, it was found necessary to have Miss Rush and Miss Gillespie take charge of both the Central and East City kindergarten schools. These teachers now teach the whole day having the Central class in the forenoon and the East City class in the afternoon.

TEXT BOOKS TO BE PURCHASED.

Moved by Dr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. Hill, that the Supervision Committee be authorised to advertise for tenders for text books and supplies for the school year, 1908-1909, with power to award contract.—Carried.

Inspector Mowat stated that he had at the close of the Easter vacation changed the boundary of the North Ward school extending it from Edinburgh street to Dublin street. This change would only be until September.

It was moved by Mr. W. H. Hill, and seconded by Dr. Morrison, that the Committee on Appointments be authorized to secure any additional teachers required at the beginning of the fall term.

Mr. B. F. Ackerman moved, seconded by Mr. W. S. Robinson, that the Property Committee have the authority to ask for tenders for fuel for the Collegiate Institute and Public schools.

A Galician and a Frenchman, both inexperienced, were killed at the La Rose mine by drilling into a missed hold.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE MAY BE TAUGHT IN LOCAL SCHOOLS

Committee Appointed to Look into Matter at Last Night's Board of Education Meeting—Report of Annual Ontario Educational Association Presented by Mr. W. H. Hill.

At the meeting of the Board of Education last evening, Mr W. H. Hill, who was a delegate to the annual meeting of the Ontario Educational Association held a short time ago, presented a very comprehensive report dealing in detail with the matters taken up by the convention.

The reading of the report was followed by a discussion on the advisability of introducing a manual training and domestic science course into the public schools of the city. Mr. Hill stated that Mrs. Hoodless, lecturer on domestic science, would willingly come to Peterborough and give an address. Mr. Hill thought that the Peterborough schools were equal to those of other large cities with the exception of the domestic science departments.

Mr Dumble thought that domestic science and manual training should be taught in the schools. The Board was making a mistake in not having these sciences taught in the schools. It would educate the poor people to be more economical. At present they live from hand to mouth, whereas if they were skilled in cooking they would know how to put to use the cheaper foods they are obliged to use. If there was one room where domestic science could be taught, and pupils could attend once a week, they would learn something that they would value in later years. Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Dr. Morrison that Messrs. W. H. Hill, W F. Nelson, Inspector Mowat, W. S. Robinson and D. W. Dumble be a committee to take up the matter and look into it, and report at the next meeting of the board. This motion was carried.

THE REPORT

The Chairman and members of the Board of Education,
Peerborough, Ont.,

Gentlemen,—The 47th annual meeting of the Ontario Educational Association brought together a large number of trustees, inspectors and teachers from all parts of the province.

Subjects of wide interest are discussed before all the members of the Association, at which are called General meetings, while those of a more technical character are dealt with in separate sections into which the General Association resolves itself. There were frequently from twelve to fifteen meetings taking place in the different sections at the same time, and, as a consequence, only a general idea of the matters discussed can here be given.

A question that created considerable interest was the medical inspection of school children. It was shown that the practice has been generally adopted in the American cities with gratifying results. Among other advantages claimed were: 1, the prevention of the spread of contagious diseases: 2, the grouping together of children mentally weak, where greater attention can be given them: 3, the proper care of the eyes and the teeth of the children.

A question of even greater interest was that of domestic science and manual training. It was treated before the Trustees' section by Mrs. Hoodless and before the general association by Inspector James L Hughes. The former made a strong plea for Domestic Science showing the value to society of organized knowledge of a matter that affects every home. It was shown that rapid progress is being made in this work throughout the province and the Minister of Education in reply to a deputation of trustees and teachers that waited upon him informed them that he had under consideration the advisability of making both domestic science and manual training compulsory in our schools.

Another matter that came in for general discussion was that of Kindergarten classes. Wherever they have been established they have proved exceedingly expensive. The solution that has been adopted in Hamilton, Kingston, Guelph and other places is to have the directresses and their assistants teach the whole day, having one class in the forenoon and a different class in the afternoon. The objection made to this method was that it puts too great a strain upon the teachers. Dr. Embree, the president of the Association, who has given the matter careful consideration, held that the Kindergarten work is more trying than that done by the primary teachers, and, if they make it so, it is bad teaching since it involves the expenditure of a corresponding amount of nervous energy on the part of the children which should not be required of them.

A matter of interest to the members of the Board was the consideration of the effect of student teachers upon Model School pupils. In dealing with this question the principal of the Ottawa Model School held that no bad results followed as the teachers in training generally taught well and their presence in the model school stimulated the regular teachers to put forth their best efforts.

The matter of increased grants to urban schools was discussed It was explained that the Minister of Education had asked the House at the last session to increase the grant by $200,000. This would have been proportioned to the grant made to the rural schools and indicates the Ministers' attitude in the matter, but the grant was cut down to $60,000. This amount is to be divided not on the basis of population but on the value of the school buildings, equipment, teachers' certificates, and length of experience of the teachers. The increase in the grant was approved and the Minister was urged to further supplement it so as to have rural and urban schools on the same footing so far as the Government grant is concerned.

The qualifications and appointment of public school inspectors came in for a good share of discussion. The Public school teachers urged the Minister urged the Minister to lower the necessary qualifications so that those engaged in public school teaching could be promoted and take charge of this branch of the work.

Dr Packenham voiced another section in urging that the Government, instead of the County Councils, assume the responsibility of appointing and paying the salaries of the Inspectors. He held that as a result better men would be appointed and domestic science, 2222 that, since they would be servants of the Government, their advice could be more easily secured by the Education Department.

The Public School teachers also demanded a larger representation upon the Advisory Council and they passed a motion disapproving the "state salary" advertisements for teachers.

The movement to further decrease the number of examinations did not meet with the approval of any of the different bodies of teachers or inspectors and the High School teachers passed a resolution disapproving of the experiment the Department is making in not having any examination in Arithmetic and English Grammar in "approved" High Schools. They also condemned the idea of "approved" High Schools which the Education Department is now trying as an experiment.

The composition of the Entrance Boards occasioned some discussion. As at present constituted the boards contain but one public school representative which was not considered enough since the examination has to do wholly with public school pupils.

A great many subjects of particular interest to the different bodies of teachers were dealt with in the various sections, and teachers and trustees alike could not help but be benefitted by meeting together and taking part in the discussions.

That the Peterborough teachers are interested in these meetings was shown by the fact that upwards of twenty members of the Collegiate and Public School staffs were present.

Respectfully submitted,
W. H. HILL,
Chairman Delegate.

PAY EFFICIENCY AND ORDINARY TO HELP FINANCE THE TRIP

Of 57th Regiment to Quebec—Smart Battalion Drill Last Night—Medical Examination Strict This Year.

pay efficiency

Commanding Officer Lieut.-Col. Stevenson put the Regiment through an exceptionally good half hour's battalion drill last night. There was a good turnout especially of the left half battalion.

THE QUEBEC TRIP

As stated in the last militia orders every man in the regiment has the opportunity of going to Quebec, the 57th being slated to go there for the Tercentenary Celebration. The conditions in connection with the trip are that every man who goes up to 50 per cent of the regiment will receive 6 days pay for the annual drill for year up to 60 per cent six days pay, which practically means every man who goes contributes the whole of his regimental pay to the regimental fund.

STRICT EXAMINATION

The medical examination this year is very strict and all men have to come up to the required standard It has been found necessary to do this to have the regiment in a state of efficiency. SPORTING NEWS

HURTUBISE WILL ATTEMPT HIS BIG FEAT TO-NIGHT

Will Try to Throw Kennedy Four Times in an Hour—Edmund's Great Physical Culture Exhibition—The Other Bouts.

Tonight will be one long looked forward to by local lovers of the wrestling game. The choicest possible line of mat work will be dished up at the Grand Opera House. The chief attraction will be the handicap bout between Hurtubuise and Kennedy in which the former must throw his opponent four times in an hour or lose the game. Can he do it? That is just the question and he will struggle mighty hard to make good on his big undertaking.

A NOTEWORTHY EVENT

The bout will be full of zest no matter how it comes out and should be a great magnet to the local sporting fraternity practically the whole of which seems greatly interested in the contest. It will be easily the best handicap bout ever pulled off in Peterborough and one of the most uncertain ever held in Canada.

EDMUNDS' EXHIBITION

The physical culture exhibition of Artie Edmunds the strongest lightweight in the business and one of the finest developed wrestlers in America will be the most interesting and scientific physical culture turn ever seen by a local audience. Edmunds' exhibition has created a furore wherever shown in Canada or the United States shows his beautiful development to the best advantage. He has been engaged at a great expense.

LOCAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

Corney Burns and J. Crough will wrestle for the 145 pound championship of Peterborough. Crough is a wrestler of experience and was a strong competitor in the Canadian championships a short time ago. Both of them go fast and strong and the bout between them will be a pounds heavier than Edmunds and hummer.

EDMUNDS AND WILSON

A chance to see the best light weight in America in action will be given when he will endeavor to throw Jack Wilson, a local lad of considerable strength and skill, four times in an hour. The time limit is fifteen minutes. Wilson is some should put up a good resistance.

THE PROGRAMME.

The order of the programme is as given below.

Physical Culture Exhibition — Art Edmunds.

Wrestling Bout —Corney Borns vs Jack Crough, 145 pound championship of Peterborough.

Wrestling Bout —Art Edmunds vs Jack Wilson. Edmunds to throw Wilson in fifteen minutes or forfeit $25.00.

Handicap Wrestling Bout —"Gene" Hurtubuise vs. Frank Kennedy, New York. Hurtubuise to throw Kennedy four times in one hour for a purse of $50 and side bet of $100. Strangle hold barred and pin falls of five seconds duration to count.

Mr. G. N. Grahaam will referee the preliminaries and A. C. Yokome will act for the main bout. The opera house orchestra will be present and play during the evening.

FIRST PRACTICE OF CRICKET CLUB HELD LAST NIGHT

The first practice of the Cricket Club was held last night at Nicholls Oval. The crease, although a trifle slow, was in pretty good condition and the practice was a useful one.

The following players were in attendance:

Lovekin, Derieu, Delafosse, Hall, Pomette, Clarke, Edwards, Pailey, Wilmot, Matthews and several others.

The next practice will be held on Friday evening at 6.30. Prospects for a good team in Peterborough are the best this year that they have been in some time and a full attendance of players is looked for at all the practices. The club has everything necessary in the way of material and all that is required to make the season a successful one is the co-operation of the playing members.

Arrangements are being made for a game to be held on May 25th and it is necessary that the local eleven get right down to business to be in condition for the match if it is played.

PETES' PITCHER HAS ARRIVED

"Freddy" Clements in the City—In Fine Shape for Saturday's Game

Fred Clements, who will do the twirling for the Peterborough baseball team this summer, arrived in the city to-day and will reside here for the season. He is in great shape, having been working out in Toronto, and should keep the Alerts guessing in Saturday's game at Riverside Park. A big crowd will be on hand for the opening of the season, and the game promises to be a hummer. The Alerts are coming down with a strong nine and have an idea that they will put it over the Petes. The Alerts will line up as follows;—

Pitchers—Hawkins and Mawhinney.

Catcher—Dalzell.

First base—Spence.

Second base—Morgan.

Third base—Haliburton.

Short-stop—White.

Fielders—Oldfield, Morgan and Gibson.

The diamond at Riverside Park has been marked out and the field will be in fine shape for Saturday. Shortstop Maddocks, of the Petes, looked after the laying out of the diamond and it has been well done.

My Valet, 206 Charlotte St. has secured temporary premises while repairs are being made to the cleaning room which was damaged by Saturday's fire and all work will be turned out in the usual prompt and satisfactory manner. 3d

HAVING CHILDREN'S EYES EXAMINED

People Suffer Through Life With the Disadvantages of Impaired Vision, as a Result of the Neglect of the Eyes in Childhood.

It is a familiar fact that the acuteness of vision varies extremely among adults, and that certain defects of the eye, such as shortsightedness, can be so completely remedied as to restore to the individual almost perfect sight. Now, there exists among children just such differences in the acuteness of vision as is observed in adults, and many of the defects of the eye originate in the failure of the parents to appreciate these differences. It is a pity to put glasses upon a child, but a greater pity to neglect such when the future well-being of the eyes depend upon their help. Many parents and teachers nowadays realize the importance of having children's eyes properly examined to know whether or not glasses are necessary.

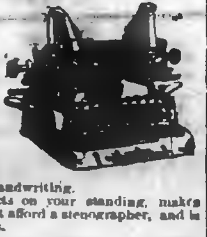
You Can Easily Operate This Typewriter Yourself



Don't worry your correspondent—

Don't write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out — that may leave him in doubt— that he can't easily read.

And don't fill out legal papers or card memos — or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own handwriting.

It looks bad, reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and is sometimes ambiguous.

You can write out your letters— make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy— enter your card memos —make out your accounts, or a hotel menu— or do any kind of writing you need, on ANY kind, size or thickness of paper, and SPACE any way you want, on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn, with a little practice, to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly, as an expert operator on the OLIVER. Because the OLIVER is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 80% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 80% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

80% easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "humoring"— technical knowledge —long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the OLIVER to any reasonable space - you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the OLIVER is the typewriter for the doctor, the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant, the hotel proprietor—or any man who does his own writing.

Write us now for our booklet on the simplified features of the OLIVER.

9 DAYS' CLEARANCE SALE

OF CANCELLED ORDERS

Many merchants in Manitoba and the North-West, anticipating their usual Spring business, ordered as lavishly as ever, but were, later, through the crop failure and the peculiar trade conditions, obliged to cancel these orders right and left. DR. McTAVISH'S FINE ADDRESS ON "THE AWAKENING OF CHINA"

At Second Evening Session of the Missionary Institute—A Comprehensive and Interesting Lecture—Splendid Attendance

The second evening session of the Missionary Institute held last evening in St. Paul's church was marked by an even larger congregation than was present at the opening meeting. All the pews down stairs were filled and the gallery was needed to accommodate the gathering, which was a truly representative one, the churches of the city sending large quotas. The service was an interesting and profitable one, the principal item of the programme being an eloquent and learned address by Rev. Dr. McTavish, whose subject, "The Awakening of China," was very interestingly set forth, the subsequent use of many stereopticon slides adding to the interest of the address.

After devotional exercises had been conducted, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt gave the opening address, referring to the object for which the Institute was being held. The gathering had assembled with no selfish motives, but to promote God's truth and to assist in the work of the Church. The qualification necessary to entitle one to render service towards the Master was discussed by the speaker. Only when people considered themselves as nothing were they eligible for the service of God, and this statement was illustrated by a reference to the lesson of the evening, which was that of Moses and the burning bush.

The keynote of the speaker's remarks was that God wanted His people to be unfit, their extremity being God's opportunity. He urged upon his hearers to cast aside every other consideration and to go away from the meetings impressed with the idea of their own nothingness and a reliance upon God's power and mercy. If they did so, the meetings would not have been wasted.

Miss Helen Davies' beautifully clear and resonant soprano was displayed to fullest advantage in the solo, "Crown Him," which was sing with feeling and expression.

ADDRESS OF THE EVENING.

Rev. Dr. McTavish in beginning, said that although he had never seen China, he had made it the subject of much study, especially during the past two years. China was a remarkable country, remarkable for one thing, for its history, a definite record of three thousand years. The speaker drew a comparison between the Chinese and the forerunners of the British race, showing that the Chinese had been hundreds of years in advance in civilization and in inventions. It was no wonder that the Chinese people looked upon the English-speaking people as barbarians from the edge of the world.

China was remarkable too, for its position and resources. It was one-third larger than the whole of Europe and was immensely rich in agriculture and minerals, every mineral found anywhere in the world was to be discovered in China. In one province of China there were six hundred billions of coal, enough to supply the world for one hundred thousand years. The coal area of China was 240,000 square miles.

REMARKABLE FOR ITS PEOPLE.

China was remarkable for its people, of which there were 400,000,000, every fourth man in the world being a Chinaman. The Chinese were not to be judged by the Chinese who were found here, any more than Italians were to be judged by the navvies working on the road. The true Chinese people were men of tireless industry, unfailing patience and marvellous economy. "The only place on earth where Jews couldn't live were China and Aberdeen," remarked the speaker. The Chinese were not a tricky people, and the speaker illustrated that statement by showing that until recently in Japan the banks had been in charge of Chinese. The Japanese could trust them when they hadn't confidence in their own people.

The speaker went on to speak of why the Chinese had not progressed with the western peoples. One reason was that they deemed it irreverent not to follow the precedents of their ancestors, and another was that their golden age was in the past, and not in the future.

Rev. Dr. McTavish passed on to speaking of China's cruel wrong, dealing with the introduction of the opium trade into the country by Great Britain and showing how the evil had been forced upon the people. The privileges gained by Great Britain were, however, purchased at an awful price, the British Government reaping $1,300,000,000 from the opium trade, while the effect upon the Chinese was most disastrous. A second treaty was signed in 1850 between China on one hand, and Britain, Russia and the other European powers on the other, by which privileges were given to European powers.

THE BOXER REBELLION

The Boxer rebellion was next referred to, and the speaker emphatically claimed that the outrage was caused by the greed of the European powers and not because of the missionaries, as had been alleged. Dr. McTavish spoke at some length upon the negotiations between the powers and China, which resulted in the rebellion.

INROADS BY POWERS.

The inroads on China by the European powers were dealt with by the speaker who pointed out how Germany had seized a seaport, Russia had forced China to allow her to run a railway through Manchuria, France had extended her influence and territory in the south, and Britain had taken possession of another seaport. These ingressions had brought about the Boxer rebellion and the death of 200 missionaries and between 20,000 and 30,000 Christian Chinese.

The defeat of Russia by Japan was an indication, the speaker thought, of what would come some day to Germany at the hands of the Chinese people.

China was waking up in military circles. The Chinese were not a military nation as was Japan and the soldiers until recently occupied the lowest social scale. However, when Japan had come over and defeated them they learned the lesson that the only way to fight fire was with fire. They have begun to organize ad to equip with modern weapons diers in China.

Socially and educationally, they were awakening in China. Many young men were being sent into Japan, to Europe and America to study the methods of civilization. What they needed, however, was religion, to learn to know Christ, and the speaker in conclusion, strongly urged this point upon his hearers.

During the offertory a male quartette from the George street church rendered a most enjoyable selection, rendered a most enjoyable selection. Fred Miles taking the solo very acceptably.

The programme for the evening was brought to a close by the showing of a number of interesting slides depicting the people and conditions in China, Japan and India. Brief but instructive explanations were given by Rev. J. G. Browne and Rev. Mr. Armstrong, of Toronto, and following Rev. Mr. McTavish's address, the gathering found them most interesting.

Rev. H. J. Keith was the chairman for the evening.

A GENUINE COBALT OPPORTUNITY

The Casey Mountain Cobalt Mining and Developing Company, Limited

INCORPORATED UNDER THE ONTARIO MINING COMPANIES INCORPORATION ACT

No Personal Liability Not Subject to Call

CAPITAL $250,000.00

250,000 Shares - - $1.00 Each

HEAD OFFICE, Manning Chambers, - - - - - - TORONTO

As previously announced in this space, we give some particulars concerning our mining properties, which should be of interest to the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity:

PROPERTIES CONTROLLED

The Company's holdings consist of 8 forty acre claims in one Block situate about eighteen miles from the Town of Cobalt in the Township of Casey, on what is known as "Casey Mountain," upon which deposits of native silver have been encountered, running over 8,000 ozs, per ton.

BUILDINGS, MACHINERY, DEVELOPMENT, Etc

There has been erected on the property a large boarding house, sleeping camps, blacksmith shop, shaft house, boiler house and Superintendent's quarters. A modern steam plant has been in operation during the past ten months and above 300 feet of underground development work has been done, besides considerable surface work, trenching and stripping of veins.

12 TRUE FISSURE VEINS UNCOVERED

There has been uncovered to date 12 fissure veins, varying in width from 16 inches to 8 feet, all carrying silver, cobalt, nicolite and arsenic. These veins have been stripped for several hundred feet, and all have free walls, and are well defined.

Big chimney, or lode of ore struck at 50 foot level.
16 feet wide from wall to wall.

While the main shaft was at a depth of 50 feet on a 30 inch vein a tunnel was driven into the mountain along the vein, and at a distance of twenty feet a chimney of ore was broken into 16 feet wide, with silver values of about $20.00 per ton, and we believe this to be the greatest strike of low grade ore ever encountered in the district. This tunnel was continued for a distance of 75 feet through this chimney of ore, when it was decided to sink the shaft to the 100 foot level, and again tap this great lode at this lower level. While driving tunnel at the 100 foot level the large body of ore was encountered at a distance of only 10 feet from the shaft, the chimney having widened 10 feet in the 50 feet of depth, and values were found to have increased fully 40 per cent., and we have in sight or above us several thousand tons of silver ore that will net the Company a handsome profit with the installation of a concentrating plant that can be installed with a capacity of 100 tons per day for the sum of $15,000.00 that will reduce the ore 15 tons to one and there y save freight charges on 14 tons of rock.

COBALT, NICOLITE AND LEAF SILVER ENCOUNTERED AT 120 FOOT LEVEL

Apart from the enormous body of low grade ore in sight, there has been encountered, while sinking the main shaft, cobalt, nicolite and leaf silver in the metallic form, these metals having come in at the 120 foot level, and another chimney of yet unknown width has also been struck at this depth, directly opposite to the one encountered at the 50 foot level, and our Superintendent reports that the two great lodes of ore are coming together which will constitute one continuous body of ore.

It is now proposed to drive a tunnel into this large ore body at the 125 foot level, and commence bagging ore for shipment, as the last report received a few days ago from our Superintendent stated that he had unlimited quantities of good ore in sight.

We give the following reasons why "Casey Mountain" will become one of the great dividend paying mines of the Cobalt district and there are many :—

First.—A large area, that is a regular net work of veins, running for three-quarters of a mile through the entire property, that will go down several thousand feet, and not pinch out.

Second.—We have the stuff in unlimited quantities, and the property has scarcely yet been scratched.

Third.—A capitalization of only $250,000.00 in which to pay dividends on.

Fourth.—No promotion stock has been issued to promoters that has not been paid for.

Fifth.—A management that are endeavoring to do a mining busines, (not a stock speculation.)

Sixth.—The directors of this Company have shown their faith in the property by investing heavily in the stock, and up to date very few shares have been disposed of outside of friends of the Company, as it has been the desire of the directors to hold the stock as closely as possible and dispose of only sufficient number of shares to enable the Company to carry on development until returns are received from shipments, and for a short time only the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity will have an opportunity of a small block at par value, $1 00 per share, and those desiring to invest should make application at once to the Head Office, Manning Chambers, Toronto, as this will be the only Treasury stock that will be issued at par value.

Additional information can be had during the next few days by applying to R. G. Williamson at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, President of the Company, or Dr. H. A Wood, Secretary-Treas., 408½ George St, Phone 20A, Peterborough, Ont.

TORONTO REGIMENTS DO NOT RECEIVE ANY PAY

Yet the Drills Are Well Attended—Parade State of Grenadiers, Queen's Own and 48th Highlanders

A great many members of regiments in smaller cities are continually talking of their regimental and efficiency pay as though those very paltry inducements and not the true military spirit induced them to become volunteers in the militia. This applies to some extent to the local regiment of the 57th Rangers.

It is learned on the best authority that the regiments of the city of Toronto do not draw one cent of their government pay either regimental or efficiency every cent going into the regimental funds. The men turn out to drills with great regularity and are well satisfied with the conditions.

BIG TURNOUTS

The average parade state of the Royal Grenadiers Toronto, is 500, on parade and of the 48th Highlanders, between 500 and 600. The Queen's Own average about 800 on parade. The numbers given above represent the turnouts of the respective regiments during their spring and fall drills

PRESENTATION TO THE CHIEF

Firemen Present Chief Rutherford With Handsome Picture of Brigade

At last night's meeting of the local firemen they presented Chief Rutherford with the handsome large picture of the brigade given that body by Mr. R. M. Roy, the photographer who took it.

Mr. Rutherford wishes to thank the brigade for their presentation and places great value on the gift which will always be a memento of pleasant associations.

Mrs. J. W. Drake, wife of Major Drake, of Windsor, is dead.

WEDDING BELLS

CAVANAH—JUDGE

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's cathedral, this morning, the contracting parties being Mr Roy Cavanah of this city and Miss Mary Judge of Kingston. Rev. Father Kelly officiated. Miss Mabel Sullivan was bridesmaid and Mr. Charlie Cavanah, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride was becomingly attired in a dress of pale blue silk with white point d'esprit trimmings. She wore a white ostrich plume hat and carried a white prayer book and pearl beads. The bridesmaid wore a becoming costume of dark blue silk with a white hat. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful gold bracelet set with pearls and rubies, to the bridesmaid a gold brooch set with pearls and to the best man a gold crescent stick pin set with pearls.

Numerous presents were given the bride by her friends, among them a handsome dinner and tea set from the men of the Bell Telephone Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Cavanah left this morning for a wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and other points, the bride's going away gown being a dark tailor made suit with hat to match. On their return the young couple will hold a reception at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Cavanah, at the Cavanah House. They will take up their residence on Simcoe street.

James Walsh, a Newfoundlander, was cut in two at the steel plant at Sydney by a moving car.

FINANCING OF THE G.T.P.; FIELDING IS IN NEW YORK

Only a Small Part of the Bonds Disposed of—Underwriters Want the Route Changed, But Government is Unwilling—Should Pass Populous Centres.

New York, May 7.—Finance Minister Fielding of Canada is in New York and it is said by financial men he is here in connection with the floating of the bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

The underwriters, Speyer & Co. and the Rothschilds, who are handling the financial end of the big enterprise, are meeting unusual obstacles in their efforts to dispose of the bonds, and not long ago a small fraction of the amount required for the construction of the railway was known to be taken up.

The underwriters have called Mr. Fielding and one of the contractors, M. P. Davis, to New York to discuss the situation.

It is understood that the investing public do not take kindly to the proposition owing to the great length of the unprofitable section of the railway upon which the Grand Trunk Pacific Co. will have to pay interest after ten years.

The cost of the eastern or Government section of the railway is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $115,000,000, the interest on which would be three and a half million dollars a year, with meagre returns owing to the barrenness of the country which is to be traversed between Quebec and Winnipeg. So that, realizing the impossibility of finding money for the construction, the underwriters are strongly urging upon the Government the absolute necessity of abandoning the present route and diverting the line through Montreal and the populous centres nearer Lake Superior.

The Government is said to be extremely unwilling to make the change, though strong pressure is being brought to bear on the Ministry at Ottawa.

THESE BURGLARS USED REVOLVERS

Made an Attack on Molson's Bank at Merlin—Fired at Watchman

Chatham, May 7.—Burglars raided the village of Merlin about 3 o'clock yesterday morning and fired a fusilade at the watchman of the Molson's Bank.

Entering the departmental store of J. N. Halliday, they managed to open the safe and got $10. At Arthur Smith's jewelry store they got a quantity of jewelry. They had opened the window of the bank and one was halfway through when J. Munro, the watchman, discovered them. He used his revolver and the burglars returned his fire. Nobody was hit and the marauders escaped.

It is thought they are the same party which have been burglarizing in Western Ontario for several weeks and who have used their weapons freely on more than one occasion.

The Attorney-General's Department will likely be asked to make a determined effort to round them up.

Great Fleet For Quebec.

London, May 7.—(C.A.P.)—At Portsmouth it is stated that the battleships Exmouth, Albemarle, Duncan, Russell and the cruisers Venus and Arrogant under Commandant Vice-Admiral [illegible] will precede the [illegible]. CATARACT CO. MAKES OFFER

Outbid Hydro-Electric Commission in Offer to Hamilton Council

Hamilton, May 7.—The Cataract Power Co., at an informal conference last night, offered to supply power for civic plants at ten per cent. less than the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, or at $16 a horse-power, which they guaranteed to be ten per cent. lower than the commission's price for power in Hamilton. It also offered to sell the street lighting plant, exclusive of poles, at for $50,000 cash with a yearly rental of $6.50 per each lamp, for the use of the poles. The company also agreed to stand by its offer to supply the new waterworks pumps. No decision was reached by the aldermen. Those friendly to the company regard it as a solar plexus for the commission, but the hydro aldermen say it would pay the company to supply power for nothing for the civic plants if they could shut out competition by so doing. They also point out that the city wants an underground system of street lighting and that the company's plant would not meet the needs of the city.

Prospector Drowned.

Cobalt, May 7.—The first drowning accident to take place on the Montreal river this season is reported in the camp from Red Pine Rapids. Everett May, a young man from Blenheim, Ont., was going up the river on a prospecting tour in a canoe with a companion when the canoe was caught and swamped, and May was drowned.

Cotton Operatives Strike.

The Opposition Leader's Opponent.

Owen Sound, May 7.—W. S. Middleboro, barrister and ex-mayor of Owen Sound, will be the Conservative candidate for the Commons and Geo. M. Boyd, ex-M.P.P., will carry the banner again in the fight for the seat in the Legislature for North Grey against his old-time opponent, Hon. Mr. MacKay.

This was the decision of the largest convention ever held in this constituency. The other names which came before the convention were: T. I. Thompson, ex-M.P., for the Commons, and George B. Carnahan of Meaford, both gentlemen moving the resolutions to make the selection of the choice of the majority unanimous.

BRITAIN'S GOLD IN DOMINION

Distinguished Gathering at Canada Club, London, Eng.

London, May 7.—(C.A.P.)—A distinguished gathering attended the Canada Club dinner at the Ritz Hotel last night.

Charles A. Henson, who presided, testified as to Canada's stability during the crisis and expatiated on the value of the fact that London, the financial centre of the world, had been thrown open to the Dominion to a remarkable extent during the last sixteen months and at least $125,000,000 sent to Canada on the most gratifying terms. This was an intelligent preference and an emphatic answer to the allegation that there was an appalling ignorance about Canada throughout the Empire. (Applause.) The chairman also referred to the tercentenary celebration to be a portion of the Empire which would not only circle the world, but dictate the peace thereof. Regarding naval defence, he said many Canadians were ashamed of Canada's position to-day. The time would come when Canadians should assume their share of the burden (applause) or stop talking. (Hear, hear.)

Lord Vivian, Sir H. Craig and Hon. J. W. Taverner also spoke.

A Confucian Temple For New York.

Wholesale Murder by a Boy.

New York, May 7.—A 16-year-old boy known as Carmello and employed in a barber shop in Brooklyn early yesterday cut the throats of his employer, Antonio Peraso, Mrs. Peraso and three barbers, while they lay asleep. The wounds of Peraso and his wife were believed to be mortal, while those of the barbers were serious. The boy escaped.

Th police have a theory that the boy was an agent of a Black Hand gang which had been demanding money of Peraso.

Carmello used a pair of scissors and a razor upon the barber and his employes.

Peraso was awakened by a stab wound in his neck and engaged the boy in a desperate struggle. He was unarmed and the boy, clutching a razor in his hand, slashed his employer several times about the face, neck and hands. His three assistants staggered into the room and attacked the boy and drove him from the room.

MR. THOMPSON AT WARSAW AN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION

A Large Attendance Notwithstanding Rain—The Candidate Heartily Endorsed—The Record of the Whitney Government Compared With its Promises—General Satisfaction—A Conservative Victory is Assured.

Warsaw has a fine town hall and a fine lot of people who turned out in goodly numbers last evening to attend the meeting advertised in behalf of the candidate for the Legislature, Warden Thompson. Mr. Thompson may well be proud of his reception. The letter which Mr. Joshua Smithson sent in lieu of his presence was one of deep regret at not being able to attend through illness and was an inspiration to those present to work hard for a good and just cause. Mr. Moore's son was present to represent his father. Mr. Wilson was the efficient chairman of the evening. He announced the order of the speakers and also that a representative of the opposite side would be allowed the usual time. Mr. T. J. Crowe accepted in behalf of Mr. McNulty. Ald. Buller, president of the Young Conservative Club of Peterborough was first introduced and made an excellent impression. He had been, he said, with Warden Thompson on various deputations governmental and otherwise and found him to be a man of weight who was well able to look after any interests entrusted to him. He assured the audience that he had been through the "back country on business of his own but had found that the people there intended to support Mr. Thompson and the Whitney administration. Ald. Buller then referred to the Power policy of Mr. Whitney and to his clean record and appealed to the young men to get out and work for a good government and a good candidate. His remarks were greeted with loud applause.

Mr. Crowe began by complaining that he was sandwiched in the wrong place whereupon he was assured he could have part of his time later on if he liked. He attacked the late Conservative convention at Norwood at which Warden Thompson had been chosen as candidate. Mr. Thompson had bribed delegates and generally had acted in a corrupt and outrageous manner. Mr. Moore had been thrown down by everybody. Mr. Moore was a gentleman and the speaker could certify to it. Mr. Smithson would have been selected if it had not been for the snowdrifts. There was Mr. Andrews too. He had no chance the way the proceedings had been conducted. He also attacked the Warden as an imported man. "Who wants an imported man in their [illegible]" exclaimed Mr. Crowe. He attacked the spoils system sympathizing with Mr. George Fitzgerald, and others who had been maltreated. He then attacked the government as bright as one could wish. The with considerable vigour if not effect.

Mr. Thompson the candidate was next introduced and was received with hearty applause. He denied Mr. Crowe's assertions with regard to himself and proceeded to speak of Mr. Whitney's record. The prospects both in the riding and elsewhere were people appreciated good clean government. The province still held 102 out of 126 millions of acres of land and was most important that this should be in honest, capable hands. It was the chief source of the people's wealth. The mineral wealth of the province was large and it behoved the public to look closely after its interests in that particular also. The Ross government and its predecessors gave away the pulpwood to favorites and he gave one instance where Mr. Whitney had revoked a concession which he sold again at an advance of $300,000. Other instances such as that of Cobalt Lake and Kerr Lake were given where 'give-aways" had been rescued and re-sold at an advance of hundreds of thousands of dollars. These were some of the reasons why the Whitney government had plenty of money to spend on rural education and colonization roads. The Gillies limit also was and was likely to be a source of large annual income. Mr. Thompson showed how the present government while demanding better equipment for rural schools, better teaching and better paid teachers was returning larger sums to the school sections and would be able through its splendid administration of the people's natural sources of wealth to make the people of this province equal in education and fitness to any people in the world. High schools were being used in certain localities as centres of agricultural teaching. In the future these would become agricultural colleges to the extent required. The Whitney government also will furnish any farmer with a drainage expert to lay out a satisfactory drainage system if desired. Vegetable experts could be had in the same way at a day's notice. The government furnished prizes for seed competition. As for himself, he was a farmer's son and had remained on the farm till 21 years of age. In his last year he had travelled 800 miles behind the plough. He would have been a farmer yet but for the fact that his father had not been able to give him land to work. However, he was of some benefit to the farmerr as was the farmer to him. He paid out last year fifty thousand dollars in wages He had been a resident of the riding for ten years. He worked as hard as he could for Mr. Moore when that gentleman ran and had more than helped in the 44 majority given him in Havelock. Mr. Thompson pleased the audience immensely and sat down amid long continued applause.

Mr. Crowe was then allowed to mount the platform again. He returned to the charges regarding the convention and spoke slightingly of the administration of the license law in comparison with the time when he was license inspector. But he was no sorehead he remarked.

Mr. Burnham was next introduced. He said he wanted this convention business cleared up without delay. He himself had been present throughout the convention and could testify that not one word of protest by anybody had been made till after the polling at the end of the day. No ruling was made by the chair that had not first been submitted to the very large and representative meeting and approved. There had not been one single instance of irregularity or impropriety at that convention as he would testify.

Ald. Buller endorsed Mr. Burnham's statements fully as he himself had been present and knew whereof he spoke.

Mr. Thompson at this juncture came forward and finally and flatly declared that he had not been guilty of bribery or any improper conduct. Mr. Crowe interjected that a ruling had deprived Mr. Moore of some votes. Mr. Burnham replied that that ruling had been left to the meeting and had been decided by it which statement Mr. Moore's son acquiesced in. The convention slander was completely cleared up and set at rest, thanks to the opportunity afforded by Mr. Crowe. The audience loudly cheered Mr. Thompson at the finish. Mr. Burnham explained for Mr. Crowe's benefit a large number of things which that gentleman did not seem to understand. "Do you know, Mr. Crowe, that Mr. Robert Jaffray and Rev. J. A. Macdonald, the present editor of the Globe, are members of that very University Commission which you and your leader are attacking? and that the Globe claims that Mr. Whitney got the idea of it from the Globe?" The speaker urged the electors to come out and vote whichever way they voted.

Mr. Sexsmith, the candidate for the Commons, said that he had had a lot to do with Mr. Thompson in a business way and found him a thoroughly fair and square man. There is no valid excuse for anybody's not turning to and helping to elect a supporter of the government that had done away with the numbered ballot. The speaker compared in detail the spending of government money on the township roads at present and in the past. There was really no comparison he said, for it was now squarely and honestly done where before it was a common swindle. (Cheers.)

The meeting broke up with rousing cheers for the King, the candidate the chairman and Mr. Whitney. It will be a long time before a party candidate will have a more thoroughly satisfying and pleasing meeting in Warsaw or elsewhere. It was the general opinion of those present that Mr. Thompson would win on June 8th, hands down.

PROPOSED ELECTION BILL WAS AGAIN UNDER FIRE

More Discussion on Mr. Aylesworth's Measure—Mr. Boyce Alleges it Would Promote Corruption and Ballot Thieving—Mr. Conmee Says Ontario's Election Cannot All be Held the Same Day.

Ottawa, May 7.—The Aylesworth election bill occupied yesterday afternoon in the Commons, Duncan Bole (Winnipeg) resuming the debate. He said that as Mr. Borden had called for the names of persons left off the Manitoba voters' list he would supply the information. He then proceeded to read a couple of affidavits made by Galicians alleging that 400 names were put on the Manitoba lists in one constituency by fraud, perjury and impersonation.

Mr. Borden remarked that the proceedings complained of were under the nationalization act enacted by this Parliament.

Mr. Boyce (Algoma) answered the affidavit scandal, pointing out that although the election referred to was held over a year ago and a session of the Manitoba Legislature had been held in the interval, not a word had been heard before of the alleged fraud, either in the Legislature or in the press.

The Aylesworth bill would promote corruption and ballot thieving and he dealt at length with the operation of the act in the unorganized portion of Ontario, where the system was in force last election. Hundreds of bogus names were sworn to and put on the list in Algoma, and the Government candidate made every effort to prevent appeal proceedings.

Mr. Boyce described the Aylesworth bill as an "engine of tyranny and oppression," and in accepting it the Prime Minister had sacrificed his loftiest ideals and principles for the retention of power.

Mr. Conmee argued that the condition of affairs warranted such a bill, and diverted to a discussion of the impending elections in Ontario. It would be physically impossible for the enumerators in northern Ontario to complete their lists and give opportunity for appeal before June 8. It was not the intention of the Ontario Government, Mr. Whitney to the contrary notwithstanding, to hold all the elections on the same day. Mr. Conmee will have the floor again today.

R. L. Borden asked if the resignation of Col. Gourdeau, Deputy Minister of Marine, had been accepted, and the Minister replied that he had asked for leave of absence and superannuation. The leave had been granted and the latter was still under consideration.

Mr. Lavergne (Montmagny) was told by the Prime Minister that the Government did not intend to proclaim any legal holidays during the celebration of the Quebec tercentenary. The use of French and English on the souvenir postage stamps to be issued for the tercentenary is still under consideration.

Mr. Lavergne was informed that it would be time to consider the appointment of Hon. Adelard Turgeon to the next vacancy in the Senate when such vacancy arises. His question as to whether Turgeon had been accused of graft in the administration of his department of Crown Lands in Quebec was out of order.

Amending Postoffice Act.

Mr. Lemieux yesterday afternoon introduced his promised bill to amend the Postoffice Act. It proposes to restore the one-cent drop letter in cities and towns where there is free delivery and also provides that postal officers may be promoted to the office of superintendent after five years' service, instead of ten, as at present.

A financial superintendent will be appointed to audit books of postoffices of the Dominion, thus relieving inspectors of this part of their work.

Mr. Henderson asked for a half-cent drop letter rate in towns and villages where there is no delivery system. Mr. Lemieux said the new rate in cities would help the Department to give better facilities in rural districts.

Mr. Porter asked if the Minister had considered conditions at Belleville, where there are two postoffices. If a letter bearing a one-cent stamp is dropped in the central postoffice for delivery at the station postoffice, the person to whom it is addressed is required to pay two cents additional postage.

Houghton Lennox asked that the free delivery system be extended to Allandale, which had become a part of the town of Barrie.

ROUND THE WORLD TOUR OF YANKEE FLEET TAKING PLACE

End of the First Stage of the Journey—An Imposing Pageant—San Francisco En Fete—Illuminations and Festivities.

San Francisco, Cal., May 7.—Into the world-famed harbor of San Francisco, to be reviewed by the Secretary of the Navy in honor of the first great stage of their tour around the world, and to be entertained for ten days or more in the most elaborate and picturesque fashion that the residents of the city, with an immense fund at their disposal, have been able to devise, the 16 battleships of the Atlantic fleet, accompanied by the six hardy little black-hulled destroyers and a squadron of auxiliary and despatch boats, sailed into the presence of a multitude unnumbered that covered all the high hills, coast and precipices, tall buildings, army reservations, wharves and park spaces that surround the Golden Gate and the shores of the spacious bay.

Thirty vessels were in the imposing line, stretching far out toward the dimly distant Farallones that swept within the gateway.

Fourteen vessels of the Pacific fleet, eight of them heavily armored cruisers and rivalling the greatest of the visiting battleships in displacement and weight of gunfire, joined the line inside the entrance and then followed the greatest parade of ships of war the navy has ever seen.

On the top of Telegraph Hill, a huge "Welcome" sign, spelled of letters 50 feet high, was visible from every incoming ship and constituted the first expression of the cordiality with which the fleet is to be received.

The city was gay with merrymaking and the long program of entertainments planned in honor of the fleet is under way. Streets and buildings were illuminated for the first time in the history of the new city.

Official dinners, band concerts and a reception and ball at the Fairmount Hotel, with five thousand invited guests, were features of the first evening of the fleet's stay.

PORTUGAL'S KING WAS PROCLAIMED

Ruler of the Nation Was Much Ceremony—A Brilliant Event

Lisbon, May 7.—Manuel, the boy King of Portugal, yesterday solemnly took the oath of allegiance to his people and, with all the traditional observance, was proclaimed the ruler of the nation.

The day was observed as a holiday and the city was aglow in a brilliant sunshine and a myriad flags and banners. Through the streets, which were lined with troops, and filled with throngs of people, King Manuel, accompanied by the high dignitaries, drove in the state coach to the Parliament House.

King Manuel, who presented a striking figure in his cloak of velvet and ermine and who was followed by heralds and pages, was ceremoniously escorted to the throne. On His Majesty's right, resting on a credence table, was the royal crown, which, according to tradition, King Manuel does not wear and which is consecrated to the Virgin Mary, the patroness of Portugal. With the crown were the real standards, the sword and the crucifix and the famous missal of Concalves, the Portuguese missionary. Holding the royal sceptre in his left hand the King placed his right hand on the sacred book of the gospels and swore to maintain the Catholic religion and the integrity of the realm and to observe the constitution and laws of Portugal. After the oath had been taken, King Manuel read the following discourse:

"My ideal is the nation's prosperity, and my ambition is the winning of the people's love."

From the balcony of the Parliament building King Manuel was formally proclaimed King by the grand standard-bearer of the realm, whereupon the shouts of the heralds of "Long live the King" rose up, and the booming of guns carried the news throughout the city.

THE GROWING OF TOBACCO

Government to Secure Another Expert From France

Ottawa, May 7.—Two years ago, a tobacco expert, Felix Charlean, was brought from France to look into the possibilities of Canadian tobacco. He has been conducting experiments with selection, raising and curing of tobacco in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia, and has found that a high grade tobacco can be produced, but that the methods of production and curing followed in the past have been defective.

Now the Government is going to undertake a campaign of education for the benefit of the producer. M. Chevallier, an expert in the growing and curing of tobacco, has been secured, and will soon arrive from France to assist Mr. Charlean in the work. An English-speaking expert is to be hired for Ontario, and it is expected that next year there will be a man for British Columbia.

Last summer the Department leased a number of lots from tobacco producers and had them planted with the proper sort of seed, and attended to in the most scientific way. Remarkable results were obtained.

There will be many more of these plots this year and demonstrations and lectures on the way to cure tobacco will be continued.

NEW WAY TO BE WELL

Healthfulness of Oranges.

The one lesson which most people never seem to learn is, how to guard their health.

We have been eating oranges since time immemorial, yet how many of us know that orange juice contains a medicinal principle which has a marked action on the stomach, bowels, kidneys and skin. Some physicians go so far as to say that they can cure the average case of Indigestion, Constipation, Billiousness and Dry Skin with orange juice and proper diet.

This can be easily proved to the satisfaction of any sufferer. Take the juice of one or two oranges every morning before breakfast, take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" every night at bed-time, exercise a reasonable care in diet, and the proof will be found in health.

The cure will be greatly assisted and hastened by taking "Fruit-a-tives" in conjunction with the orange juice. "Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the medicinal principle of oranges, apples, figs and prunes are many times increased by the special way in which they are combined. Then tonics are added and the whole made into tablets. "Fruit-a-tives" may be obtained at all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price—50c a box—6 for $2.50. "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

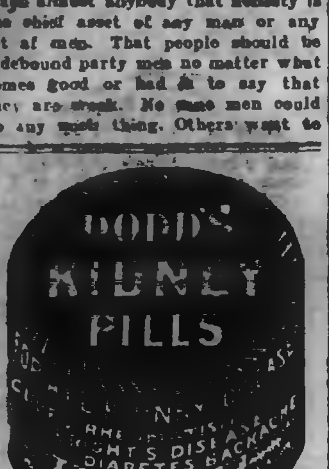
THE LICENSE LAW

It is very gratifying to all lovers of fair play and decent government to find in the report of the Dominion Alliance for Ontario, the strongly expressed approval of that body of the enforcement of the license law in Ontario. The Alliance has also taken occasion to remark that there has been a "tightening-up" of law enforcement generally. A tightening-up of law enforcement generally is the highest compliment that this or any other body could pay to a government. There are opportunities in the course of expending $7,000,000 annually, for graft that are varied and manifold. It is possible to accomplish this without detection. It is possible to omit the collection of dues "for a consideration," and this can be done also without detection. It is possible also as we have seen to "help out" and to "let off" friends in a multitude of ways that need not appear in the public accounts. In fact a government that has "friends" is crooked, partial and unjust. Such "friends" are always these who respond only for a financial consideration. They stand ever ready to rob their country and their fellow-citizens in the name of enterprise and productive energy. They pay $1 and expect a return of $100 for it. Like the Marine and Fisheries Department at Ottawa, they manifest an entire lack of conscience.

Ultimately therefore the political struggle is between the sheep and the shearers. The latter have the whiphand in every way and unless there is an honest government at the point of control to protect the sheep, politics becomes a huge joke with the joke on the public.

One then is led to say in the words of the Examiner, "the world has come to set up less exacting standards of morality in politics and government relations than in ordinary matters." The world must be doting if it has done any such thing. So to do is merely the more willingly to stand for the shearer to do his shearing. Then too the Examiner says that "a parson thinks it no sin to cheat the customs." This is a nice tribute to the clergy. In fine the fact is that the one great essential in the business of the nation or province, as in the business of individuals is honesty. Loan companies and banks go to the wall and bring ruin to numbers. Why? Because of some official's lack of honesty. Then an absconder or defaulter will spread destruction and disaster in the circle by his operations and will depart for regions unknown. So much for his dishonesty. The whole system of police, and surely it is extensive enough, is for the purpose of counteracting just what the Examiner pleads for, viz., less exacting standards of morality. Common sense and a moment's reflection will trace almost anybody that honesty is the chief asset of any man or any set of men. That people should be hidebound party men no matter what comes good or bad is to say that they are weak. No sane men could do any such thing. Others want to win at all costs. We know what class they belong to. They will be found also at baseball matches and are the ones who cry "Kill him! Kill him!" when an opposing player is doing good work.



EDITORIAL NOTES

Amongst the pre-election alarms that look good, bad and indifferent, there is one that seems to convince the most sceptical viz., the declaration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that the Aylesworth Bill for registration of western voters must go through at once.

The theatre is now being used extensively in U.S. to depict realistically the great sacred drama of history. The era of abstract teaching in that country seems to be on the wane. People are more than ever desirous of being entertained, and unless some form of entertainment is mixed up with their religion it is found difficult to get them to attend to it.

The political contest on June 8th next will be the twelfth general election for the Ontario Legislature since since the passing of the British North America Act. Following Confederation the Sandfield Macdonald Administration, a coalition Ministry, remaining in power from July, 1867, to Dec. 19th, 1871, to Oct. 25th, 1872, following which Sir Oliver Mowat was in power from Oct. 25th, to July 25th the Hardy Government came into power and continued until Oct. 17th, 1899. The Hon. Geo. W. Ross first took office on October 21st, 1899, and his administration continued until February 7th, 1905, when the Conservatives were returned under the leadership of the present Premier. The Legislature at present is composed of 73 Conservatives, 24 Liberals, one Independent Liberal and one Labor representative. The next House will contain 106 members, four additional representatives for Northern Ontario in the new ridings of Temiskaming, Sudbury, Fort Francis and Sturgeon Falls, and four more for the city of Toronto.

MODERN REALISM.

Historic Inn Deliberately Fired to Provide Cinematograph Pictures.

Ye Olde Red Lion at Hampton-on-Thames, England, was recently burnt to furnish a fireman's holiday. Despite a history going back to Cardinal Wolsey and a guest-list including Pope, Dryden, Swift, Colley, Cibber, Peg Woffington, and Kitty Clive, the place had been doomed to make way for a modern hotel.

Its internal fittings had been removed, and to Capt. Graham, the captain of the local fire brigade, came the idea of making the shell serve a useful purpose—to give good practice to his men and to help the orphan fund of the National Fire Brigade Union by affording to cinematographers and photographers the opportunity of taking realistic pictures and contributing to the fund from their profits.

The window frames, accordingly, were wreathed with cotton wool soaked in paraffin, and oil and inflammable materials were scattered about the interior.

When the cinematograph was in position the fire broke out in the lower part of the house and spread rapidly.

The alarm was given, and the Hampton Fire Brigade and the brigade of the Metropolitan Water Board from the neighboring reservoirs rushed to the inn with three steamers and several fire escapes. The place by then was enveloped in flames, and floods of water were soon playing upon it.

A number of people were able to make their escape from the taproom by the front entrance, but presently several persons, including two women whose escape appeared to be cut off, were seen at the upper windows calling for help. They were brought safely through the flames and smoke to the ground by means of the escape. A man seen crawling along the roof, and another man at an upper window, were also rescued in the same way, and the last to leave the burning building was a man who escaped by jumping from the top of the porch over the main entrance. Two horses were also rescued from the stable.

The firemen continued to pour water on the house for fifteen minutes, when the conflagration was extinguished. The old house was considerably charred after the experiment, and swamped by the water from the engines.

KING EDWARD'S INFLUENCE.

Sent Letter Which Prevented Norway Becoming a Republic.

Two anecdotes of King Edward, which go to show that His Majesty is a strict constitutionalist in his own country, but is less strict when another country is concerned, are given by the Wiener Allgemeine Zeitung on high authority:

The first is that some years ago, when Mr. Chamberlain was at the Colonial Office, the King asked him to send him some papers relating to a colonial question in which His Majesty took a special interest. Mr. Chamberlain is said to have refused, declaring if His Majesty had no confidence in his Minister he might dismiss him, but that as long as the Minister enjoyed the confidence of the King and Parliament it was inconsistent with the constitution for anybody to interfere with details of administration. After a moment's reconsideration the King replied, "You are perfectly right."

The second story would show that it is owing to King Edward's influence that Norway, after the separation, did not become a republic. Bjoernstjerne Bjoernson, the great writer and Radical politician, who played a most influential part in that event, was convinced, it is said, by an autograph letter from King Edward that a monarchy would be a great advantage to Norway, particularly if King Haakon, whose wife is an English princess, should ascend the throne.

King Edward is represented to have pointed out that England was ready to secure for Norway, after her separation from Sweden, the same international position as was secured for Sweden and Norway by the treaty of 1855, by which England and France had guaranteed the territorial independence of the two countries. The King, it is said, added that he could much more easily attain this if Norway, instead of declaring a republic, elected Haakon King. His Majesty's arguments had so convincing an effect on Bjoernson that he dropped the idea of a republic. Thus, the Allgemeine Zeitung concludes, it is owing to a letter of King Edward that Norway is not a republic.

Decreased Drunkenness.

A recently-issued Blue Book in England gives some significant and interesting returns as to the results of the measures taken under the later Licensing Acts, and the diminished number of convictions for drunkenness or for offences arising from drunkenness. During the year 1907, 1,713 licenses ceased to be operative, the persons holding them, and those owning the leases or freeholds of the license-value, being compensated. The average amount paid for extinction of licenses appears to have been less than £1,000, which would have been greatly increased if the claims of those dispossessed had been fully satisfied. The total would also have been greater if the local authorities had claimed for licenses voluntarily surrendered by them, in the interest of the community, as they will be able to under Mr. Asquith's new bill if it becomes law as it stands. It has been said that the attack has been made chiefly upon license-holders with small means and therefore likely to suffer the greatest hardship. But the fact that the compensation paid varies in individual cases from £230 to nearly £3,000 seems to dispose of that allegation. Clubs during last year increased by 186, to a total of 6,907.

When Day Is Done.

By W. F. BRYAN.

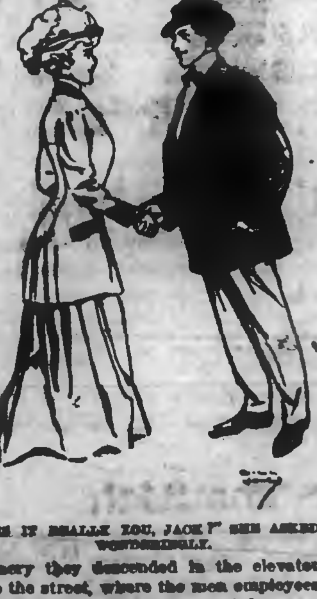
Copyrighted, 1908, by M. M. Cunningham.

Somewhere at the other end of the room a gong clanged out its harsh, brazen note, and soon the hum of industry and the clatter of machinery gave way to the chatter of tongues as the operatives shut off the power from their machines.

As they gathered about the inspection desk to turn in their day's work the great shafts overhead ceased their whirring and the sharp tune they had sung all day ended in a descending scale as the momentum died out. The day's work was done.

Now the girls were hurrying toward the wash room, a screened compartment, supplied with an iron sink, cakes of yellow soap cut to convenient size and a few roller towels of coarse cotton cloth. There was room for but a dozen at the sink, and, urged by the waiting line, the girls cut the ablutions scant and perfunctory.

When they had changed their working clothes for cheap and garish street finery they descended in the elevator to the street, where the men employees were waiting for the favored few.



"IS IT REALLY YOU, JACK?" SHE ASKED WONDERINGLY.

Ida Clark hurriedly rinsed her hands and slipped on her worn, dark skirt and frayed jacket. It was growing too warm for a coat, but she could not afford a new waist just now, and there were patches in the elbows of the old one. Her jacket was at least whole save on the edges, which now defied further binding.

For more than a year she had followed the regular factory routine, yet she had never become accustomed to this rush and turmoil of the streets when the mountainous buildings suddenly disgorged their hordes of workers into the narrow canyons below.

The hurrying armies, fighting their way east, west, north and south, terrified her, and as she found herself caught in the tide bound for her home she gave a little sigh of relief.

It would be all right until the corner was reached, when the cross current of humanity again would be encountered. She still dreaded the impact of the human tide. She thought of the quiet country lanes of home and how the sun was now slanting across the fields, just turning green under the warming sun.

Hers had been great hopes when she had left the country for the city. She had planned to study shorthand and typewriting while she supported herself at lighter clerical work. But there had been no office vacancies, and her fast vanishing funds had forced her to have recourse to the factory, where her back was soon wrenched and strained and her fingers twisted and tired from handling the heavy material she forced through the speeding machines.

It was vastly different from the machine sewing at home, for the factory exacted the utmost work from each machine, human or iron, while a sharp eyed forewoman prowled up and down the aisle ready to pounce upon any one who faltered.

Ida's hands were too stiff to hold a pencil after the day's work was done, and the dreams of advancement had to be forgotten in the necessity of the moment; but, though her muscles ached and her eyes seemed to burn in their sockets, she would not give up. She would not go back to Carsonville and confess failure.

She blushed as she thought of what going back meant. She had come to the city because Jack Deering had scoffed at the idea of her earning her own way.

Some unfortunate twist of his words had given Ida the belief that he offered himself only because she was left alone in the world, because of pity for her condition. She was too proud to admit her love when he did not confess his own affection.

Deering, looking only on the practical side of the matter, had never dreamed that he had been refused because of her belief that he did not love her. He had supposed that of course she knew how dearly he cared for her, and he had not thought it necessary to tell the oft told tale. So he had allowed her to go.

Ida had not lost her fresh coloring in spite of her hardships, and to the fear of the great masses of men and women homeward bound was added the dread of an encounter with one of the human brutes who presume their attentions will be welcome to factory girls because they dress well. More than once she had felt a hand placed familiarly upon her arm or had hurried on to escape the running fire of talk from a man who had dropped into step beside her and had persisted until a policeman came in sight.

Tonight Ida was frankly homesick. There was something in the breath of spring, tainted though it was by the reek of pavements and the noisome smoke of the city.

Back in the old days, when home was a home and not a hole in the wall, when she trod green earth and not the hard stones of the pavement, this was the hour she liked the best, when the day was done and the evening shadows changed into the purple night.

It was not often that Ida let herself get homesick, for those who would work by day must not cry all the night, but with this subtle suggestion of home in the air and in the sky the tears welled into her eyes.

The dreaded crossing, with its roar of traffic and its rush of humanity, was passed successfully, and Ida did not notice that a man turned out of the counter current and hurried after her as rapidly as he was able.

Not until a hand closed upon her arm did she realize that she had been followed. She wrenched herself loose and hurried ahead, but a second time the hand fell upon her arm, and she turned with a little cry.

"Please let me go," she said, while the tears blinded her eyes.

"Not much," was the triumphant answer. "I've spent too much time looking for you to let you go now that I have found you."

With a quick movement of her hand Ida dashed the tears from her eyes and looked up into the laughing face. It was not a handsome face. The sun had burned the skin to a deep brown, and the brow was wrinkled by lines of care, while the high cheek bones and the hollows of the cheeks gave to the face a ruggedness redeemed only by the kindly smile of the sensitive mouth and the twinkle in the clear gray eyes, but to Ida it was the face in all the world she most desired to see.

"Is it really you, Jack," she asked wonderingly, "or is it some dream?"

"I guess it's me, unless I've been changed in the last half hour," declared Deering as he smiled down into the upturned face and his eyes filled with pity as he noted the signs of care that marked it. "I've been looking all over for you. You never wrote back home, and I just couldn't stand it any longer. I left Jethro to do the plowing and planting, and I came down to look for you. It was a hard job, but I found you."

"And now that you've seen me I suppose that you'll be content and go back to the planting," suggested Ida.

"If you'll come with me," agreed Deering. "If you won't, I'll settle down here, for I love you too much, dear, to let you run away from me again."

"You love me?" she asked wonderingly.

"Of course," was the prompt response. "There isn't a man, woman or child in Carsonville that doesn't know that."

"You never told me," she reminded. "You wanted to marry me because I needed some one to take care of me."

"Did I have to tell you that?" he asked in astonishment. "I supposed you knew."

"A woman likes to be told," explained Ida. "The next time you ask a woman to marry you begin by telling her that you love her, not by explaining that you want to keep her out of the poorhouse."

"I love you," said Deering promptly. "Now will you marry me? We can be married tonight and start for home by the midnight train. That will get us in tomorrow just as the day is done."

"As the day is done?" sighed Ida happily.

For her the nightmare day of privation was done, and a purple twilight of peace was at hand. The spring breeze was still tainted with the reek of foul pavements, but for her it was blowing across the apple blossoms of the orchards at home.

Wonderful Paraffin.

Paraffin was at first a useless by-product of the oil refineries, but has now a thousand uses. Besides the use of paraffin for candles, 2,000,000 blocks of refined paraffin are sold every year for an infinity of purposes. A liberal arrangement with a chewing gum maker gave him the foundation for a million dollar fortune. Paraffin was applied to Cleopatra's needle in Central park, New York, when the surface of the obelisk began to scale off, and it stopped it. Stone fronts of houses are protected the same way, an application every three or four years being sufficient to prevent disintegration. Paraffin is made into colored crayons, which will stick on glass as well as paper. Paraffin is used in laundries to whiten the clothes and in polishing the surface of starched pieces. It is used for sealing canned fruits or anything put up in bottles by home folks, manufacturers, druggists or chemists. It is used generally as a substitute for beeswax, tallow and sealing wax and for insulating wires.

An Authority.

Schoolteacher—And now that we have finished discussing the lion and the tiger, who can tell me about the lynx?

A painful pause. Finally a small hand is hesitatingly elevated.

Teacher—Well, Tommy, can you describe the lynx?

Tommy—No'm.

Teacher—Then, why did you raise your hand?

Tommy—I thought Willie Wuggles could tell.

Teacher—And what made you think Willie could describe the lynx?

Tommy—'Cause his brother's a caddie.—London Globe.

Iron Duke's Battle Dinners.

The Duke of Wellington's cook on one occasion, when the battle was not going well, was urged to make his escape, though at the time he was busy preparing his master's dinner. He replied that he intended to go on with his work, for his experience of fifty battles had taught him that the duke always came home to dinner. He might sometimes be a little late, but he always came.

"Tagging the Hat."

Stung!

The leap year girl had just proposed.

"But I don't earn enough to support a wife," protested the cautious young man.

"Oh, that's all right," assured the maid eagerly. "We can live on bread and cheese and kisses."

But the cautious young man shook his head.

"No," he replied, "that would never do. If you baked the bread it would kill me, I could never endure cheese, and there are microbes in kisses. Good night!"

Calling for his hat and cane, he vanished into the blackness of the night.—Minneapolis Journal.

ROMANCE OF FINGER PRINTS.

Inspector Who Developed System in England Retires.

Many a criminal owes his detection, more or less directly, to Inspector C. Stedman, of the Criminal Investigation Department, just retired after twenty-five years in the force. Now he is only forty-five, and served, previous to police duties, in the post-office.

He joined at Stoke Newington, thence passed to Kentish Town, finding his opportunity in the C.I.D. in 1885. Ten years later he was selected to assist the medical expert engaged in the introduction of the anthropometic system, and was placed in charge of the officers who had to carry out that work.

When the more subtle finger print system was introduced in 1901, Mr. Stedman was promoted to inspector, and given charge of that department, under the Assistant Commissioner. This post he held until his retirement.

His quick perception of what was required, his grasp of details, and general readiness were so far appreciated that he was raised to the rank of first-class inspector C.I.D., and was offered that of chief inspector, on condition that he remained some time longer in the service.

The latter he declined, being of opinion that a quarter of a century is long enough for any officer to remain in a police force.

During the last few years Mr. Stedman has visited every prison in England and Wales for the purpose of instructing warders in the taking of finger-prints, at the same time calling at police offices in the various districts to instruct the police in the same work.

He has also taught the system of finger-print classification to a number of colonial and foreign police officers, so that although the public may be little acquainted with his work, he is better known to the police and prison officials of this and other countries than, perhaps, any police officer.

To Mr. Stedman was also due much of the development of the photographic branch at Scotland Yard.

Since the inception of the Finger Print Department, the tracing of criminals has been remarkable, many notable crimes being elucidated through it. One of the earliest was the Deptford murder. Here, two brothers Stratton murdered Thomas and Ann Farrow, who kept an oil shop in High street, Deptford. Evidence against the youthful ruffians was at the outset not of a highly incriminating nature, but an ordinary japanned cash-box found in the shop parlor with its lid forced open, eventually forged the link in the chain necessary to prove their guilt beyond doubt. Some finger-prints were noticed on this box, and being considerably enlarged were found to correspond with those of the elder Stratton. The production at the Old Bailey of these enlarged prints, and their comparison with those of prisoner's by Inspectors Stedman and Collins created at the time a sensation. Whirl by whirl and curve by curve Mr. Stedman pointed out to judge and jury the fatal resemblance, convincing even the most sceptical.

Only last year 'Smith of Nowhere," as he styled himself when charged with burglary in North London, was found wearing gloves when apprehended. Although this fact did not seem to weigh with the magistrate, who discharged him, it did with the police authorities, who took his finger-prints. It was then found that he was a notorious criminal, who under many aliases had suffered several terms of imprisonment in South Africa, his last being four years for a violent robbery.

This evidence eventually proved useful, for "Smith of Nowhere" and Smith of many aliases, who in company with the notorious Chicago May, shot at and wounded Eddie Guerin, the escaped Devil's Island convict, was proved to be a dangerous individual with a remarkably bad record, owing to the unerring evidence of finger-prints.

His companion on his voyage from South Africa, Louis Ferraria, also owes a retirement from public life to their powers. Within six weeks of Smith's receiving his life sentence at the old Bailey, a set of finger-prints arrived at Scotland Yard, photographed from a door in Eastbourne. On search they proved to be those of Ferraria, who received the punishment due to a convict and not a first offender, as he represented himself to be.

This man who some time ago was dazzling New York as "Lord Barrington" on his confinement in "The Tombs" had his finger-prints taken and sent to Scotland Yard. He was there recognized as an old "lag" who had undergone penal servitude here on more than one occasion.

Another link with the old country was provided at the Leavenworth Penitentiary, Kansas, by a set of finger-prints sent over for inspection belonging to a man serving a life sentence there. They proved to be those of a men who, while a soldier in Malta, was sentenced to a life sentence for attempted murder.

Mr. Stedman is most enthusiastic over the "print" system, and considers it the only perfect and reliable method of identification, and declares that among the many thousands he has examined he has never found two alike.

Many devices are resorted to by criminals who have reason to dread the system. Remarkably delicate rubber gloves have been resorted to by some, while others use pumice stone or powder, to wear away the ridges of the skin just previous to an attempted crime. These methods some regard as effectual, but the department, when questioned, smiles "its inscrutable smile" and "shakes its head." In addition to being an expert at his work, Mr. Stedman is an enthusiastic collector of old china and an adept carpenter and mechanic, many of his spare hours being spent at a lathe which he has fitted up in his home.

The Doctor—Wait a moment, Jones, I think I hear an auto coming. This is an ideal spot for an accident.

HINT FOR LAUNDRESS.

How to Set Colors and Starch Wash Dresses.

Every one should know how to give explicit directions to the laundress. Take, for instance, a jumper suit in tobacco brown linen or boys' Russian suit in the same color. After being washed with pure white soap and having salt in the last rinsing water the starch should be mixed with boiling coffee (previously strained) instead of water, or it will leave white streaks and smudges over the surface.

For one suit take a tablespoonful of starch, one-half teaspoonful of borax (dissolved in a spoonful of boiling water), a quarter of an inch of tallow candle and mix into a smooth paste with two tablespoonfuls of cold water, and add enough boiling coffee to make a stiff jelly. For ordinary hot water starch these are the correct proportions, using boiling water in place of the coffee. While tan linen does not require special coddling, still some shades of buff and gray are liable to spot and streak. To obviate this use a tablespoonful of black pepper in the first water. This will also keep them from fading, says the Housekeeper.

Most colors require either salt or vinegar in the last rinsing water to fix them. As a general rule, the lighter colors take salt, the darker vinegar. Both are used in the proportion of a tablespoonful to a quart of water. When in doubt, use both. For lilac, mauve or purples vinegar will be found to slightly intensify as well as preserve the color. Blues are often ruined by their first trip to a careless laundress. Any shade of blue may be permanently fixed by soaking first in a bucket of water into which an ounce of sugar of lead has been poured.

If one wants a suit stiff it should be dried before starching, but in the shade, never in the sun, as colored clothes are sure to fade while wet, on the same principle that one bleaches white garments in strong sunshine. They should of course never be boiled. Pale green is a color that fades easily, but a little alum in the rinsing water will fix it.

Tussore and other washing silk are so easy to wash and iron, requiring no starch, that they are very practical for summer outings where there is difficulty in getting regular laundry work satisfactorily done. One can wash and iron three or four little girls' tussore dresses in half an hour oneself at a pinch, as they are ironed while wet.

White wash silk waists are useful in the same way, making it easy to have a supply of fresh waists, independent of delayed laundry bundles.

Rabbits Eat Up the Farms.

Some idea of the expenditure and efforts made by the farmers in Queensland to mitigate the rabbit pest may be gathered from the fact that in the colony 16,153 miles of close netted fencing have been erected, the maintenance of which involves an outlay of $700,000 per annum, including the interest on the capital expended for fencing, which represents approximately $4,000,000.

To keep this mileage in repair alone costs $400,000 per annum. Despite these precautions but little headway can be made against the multiplication and ravages of the pest.

This condition of affairs is stated to be mainly the fault of the Government, which takes no steps to arrest the fecundity of the animals upon the vacant state land.

Had to Fight Wolves.

A despatch from Cheyenne, Wyo., says: Attacked by a large pack of timber wolves, the drivers of the Italian car Zust, in the New York to Paris automobile race, were forced to use rifles and pistols near Spring Valley, to drive the hungry animals away. The car was creeping along over a muddy road, when the cry of the wolves was heard behind them, and the animals, growing bolder each minute, surrounded the car. They were not frightened by the tooting horn of the machine, nor did they fear the lights that were flashed on them. They snapped at the rubber tires and mudguard, and then the revolvers were brought into use. Cowboys afterwards picked up pelts of twenty wolves slain by the Italians.

British Wolves.

The last wild boar in Britain perished before the reign of Charles I.; the wolf was exterminated in Scotland in 1680, and thirty years later the killing of the last wolf in Ireland finally extinguished the race in the British Isles.

LUMBER DEPOT WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Cavendish Lumber Co. Suffer Severe Loss—Costly Blaze in Anstruther on Tuesday Afternoon—Storehouses, Blacksmith Shop and Stables Burned to the Ground.

Shortly after dinner on Tuesday, fire broke out in the depot camp of the Cavendish Lumber Company. The camp is situated on the border between Anstruther and Cavendish, and about sixteen miles from Gooderham. Two storehouses, the blacksmith shop and stables were completely destroyed. The loss incurred is in the neighborhood of three thousand dollars, but is mostly covered by insurance.

How the conflagration originated is a mystery. It started in the storehouse and it is thought that a lighted match must have been dropped in the building. There were five men present in the camp. When a fire starts in the woods like the one on Tuesday, it is useless to fight it, as the proper facilities for doing so are not available. However, an effort was made to save surrounding buildings with the result that one storehouse was not burned. The horses were taken out of the stables and several other things of value were saved.

The buildings destroyed had stood a long while, having been erected a good many ygo by the Dickson Company.

Mr. L. J. Labelle, one of the officials of the Cavandish Lumber oCmpany, is in the city to-day and is registered at the White House. He statedt hat the drives were now on their way to the mills at Lakefield and Peterborough. There are about 150 men enggaed on the drives.

SMITH STREET BRIDGE IS GOOD FOR ANOTHER SEASON

The question whether a concrete or steel bridge should be built to replace the present structure over the Otonabee river at Smith street is being discussed to a considerable extent by citizens generally. All are agreed that a cement bridge would be the most ornamental and durable but it is feared that the cost would be too great. One alderman who was spoken to by the Review was strongly in favor of a concrete one and intends advocating in that direction when the matter comes up in the council. He contends that a cement bridge would be practically indestructible whereas a steel bridge would not be so durable and there would be the additional cost of having it painted frequently.

It is learned that no action will be taken regarding the building of a new bridge until fall. The present structure has been repaired sufficiently to make it safe for another season so nothing need be done until next spring. The city council has plenty of time to consider the matter and to go into every phase of the question very fully.

HAVELOCK TO SPEND $1,000 ON CEMENT SIDEWALKS THIS YEAR

Village Council So Decided on Monday Night—War Will be Made on Dogs Without Tags—Arbitration Over a School Difficulty.

Special to the Review.

Havelock, May 7.—A lengthy meeting of the Village Council was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, May 4th, when some very important business was transacted. Councillors Knox, Campney, Wood and Philips were present, Reeve Thompson coming in later. On motion of Councillors Knox and Wood, Councillor Campney took the chair and the minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Joseph Cataract, work on streets, $1.

Joseph Cowen, work on streets, $1.50.

School Board, current expenses, $325.

Mrs. Hardy, prisoner's meals, 50c.

Globe Printing Company, advertising debentures, $4.95.

Mail and Empire, advertising debentures, $4.50.

Jas. Brill, constable salary, $40.

Jas. Parcels, municipal work, 50c.

Jas. Thompson, accounts, $2.

A long discussion was held on the matter of how to make all dog owners pay the dog tax. Assessor Scott stated that he had 123 dogs on the roll, but was confident that there were at least 200 dogs in the village. Last year only 71 persons bought dog tags. The clerk was ordered to procure 150 dog tags and an attempt will be made to make every dog-owner buy a tag. The Council will will likely pass a resolution that all dogs found on streets without a tag will be shot.

Petitions asking for sidewalks on north side of Alexander street and south side of King street, were received but the Council decided to lay the matter over until next meeting.

The old matter of transferring Eli King from school section No. 15, Havelock to S.S. No. 6, Belmont, was brought up. Some years ago arbitrators took Mr. Eli King from S.S. No. 6, to S.S. No. 15, and Mr. King has to pass school No. 6, on the road to school No. 15. Advice was received from the solicitor saying that the Council could do nothing themselves. At last it was decided to appoint arbitrators to settle the matter. Havelock will bear 1-3 of the expenses while Belmont pay 2-3. S.S. Joyce was appointed Havelock's arbitrator. Belmont will appoint another, while the school inspector will form a third arbitrator.

It was decided to hold the Court of Revision at the next regular meeting on June 1st.

Moved by Councillor Knox, seconded by Councillor Philips, that Mr. Scott see Belmont assessor and appoint a date for equalization of assessment for that portion of S.S. No. 15, outside of this corporation.

A discussion was held on how to keep cattle and horses from pasturing on the streets, Mr. Wm. Hotten was appointed pound-keeper.

The lengthy part of the meeting then took place when the matter of cement sidewalks came up. The Council were divided on the question. Some proposed to lay them by frontage tax, while others favored the general tax. Some years ago, a small piece was laid by the frontage tax. It was argued that it caused much more work, in figuring up the percentage each one should pay. And that everyone had to pay the same amount in the end. At last it was decided on motion of Councillor Knox and Wood, to expend $1,000 this year on cement sidewalks by general tax and that Council be committee to inspect sidewalks to see where cement sidewalks should be laid.

The auditors presented their reports of the village, park and school books which showed the accounts to have been carried on in a highly creditable manner. The auditors, H. T. Andrews and Ed. Fennel, received $10 each for their valuable services.

COLLEY WAS NOT PROVED GUILTY

Did Not Empty Filth on Bank of Otonabee River on Friday Last

John Colley was charged with emptying filth on the eastern bank of the Otonabee river on Friday night last at the police court this morning. Several witnesses were heard but there was no evidence sufficient to make a conviction. Colley was allowed to go but as there was a large number of scavengers in court His Worship told them that if ever any of them came up before him for such an offence he would impose a heavy fine.

SMALL PIECE OF PROPERTY NEVER SOLD BY THE CROWN

A dispute as to the ownership of a lot at the rear of Mr. Fred Mitchell's store on Hunter street reveals the fact that the lot really belongs to the Crown. Mr. Mitchell's store has been purchased by the Times Printing Company, and Mr. W. H. Robertson intends extending the new building over this piece of property, which is 6 feet wide and 52 feet long. Several merchants objected to Mr. Robertson occupying it. It was never really sold, but when Mr. James Stevenson owned the stores on Hunter street he had barns erected on the lot. However, Mr. Robertson is going to build on it.

SUMMER SCHOOL WILL AGAIN BE HELD AT CHEMONG

At the Missionary Institute last evening Rev. Mr. Foster, of Smithfield, announced that the Summer School that was held at Chemong Park last summer, would again be held this year. The study of the Bible and missions is taken up. The afternoons are given to recreation and thus many have their holidays at the time of the Summer School in order that they might attend. The study of Dr. Brown's book on "The Foreign Missions" will be taken up.

SUNDAY BASEBALL WILL NOT BE PERMITTED HERE

Eleven Ball Players Were Fined Five Dollars in Police Court This Morning for the Offence—The Magistrate's Judgment.

Eleven ball players were fined five dollars each at the police court this morning for playing the game at the Fair grounds on Sunday, April 26th. His Worship's judgment was a fine of five dollars and costs but Chief Roszel asked that as it was the first offence to leave off the costs. The Magistrate willingly consented to this. These ball players appeared in court a week ago and pleaded guilty. Judgment was reserved for a week.

His Worship gave a written judgment as follows:

The information herein charges the defendants with having played ball on Sunday, the 26th day of April, 1908, at a place within 500 yards of the city boundary, contrary to the provisions of what is commonly called the "Lord's Day Act," 8 Victoria chapter 45, section 14. RSUC. 1859 ch. 104

It was admitted that a number of young men on the stated Sunday gathered on the fair grounds and indulged in a game of base ball. Mr. Gordon, their counsel, submitted that the Act of 1859 was not in force.

The original act was George III, Chapter 49, and this Act was by 40 George III, ch. 1, passed July 4, 1800 declared to be in force in Upper Canada, 1845, it was made the law of Canada. It was introduced into the consolidated Statutes of Upper Canada, ch 104, 1859 and has never been repealed and frequent convictions have been made under it.

The preamble of the Act is in these words:

"Whereas it is expedient to enact a law against the profonation of the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday, which day ought to be duly observed and kept holy. Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of Canada enacts as follows;

"Section 3—It is not lawful for any person on that day to play at skittles, ball, football, &c" and the Act imposes a penalty not exceeding $40.

Now it is as important today to preserve the sanctity of the Sabbath as ever it was, and Society will not tolerate all the evils that follow an utter disregard of the laws intended to preserve to us the Christian Sabbath.

I find the defendant guilty of a violation of this excellent law, and inasmuch as the conscience of the offender was not sufficient to save him from committing an offensive violation of the law, I must impose such a fine as will deter young men from supposing that the community will willingly let go a law intended to preserve to a Christian people the sanctity of the Lord's Day.

I adjudge that the defendant do pay a fine of $5 and costs to be paid in ten days and in default of payment distress and in default of distress ten days in jail.

D. W. DUMBLE,
Police Magistrate.

PAT McCARTHY OF TORONTO PURCHASES HAZEL BELLE

Dr. Johnston Sells His Speedy Mare for $500—Will be Used for Matinee Purposes—Has Mark of 2.21 1-4

Hazel Belle, 2.21 1-4 has been sold by Dr. Johnston to Mr. Pat. McCarthy of Toronto. The figure realised on this fast and nice actioned mare was $ 500. Mr. McCarthy intends using Hazel Belle for a matinee mare and will race her at Dufferin Park, Toronto, and later on at the Grand Circuit. Mr. Gerald Dunsford who has had charge of her for Dr. Johnston, will handle her for her present owner. He has driven her to her high mark on different occasions and as he understands her well will without a doubt, look after her to best advantage.

Hazel Belle is 7 years old and shows a nice burst of speed. Her sale will mean a distinct loss to Peterborough racing circles.

She will be looked upon to make the mile around 2.15 when she gets stepping on the big mile tracks.

Local horsemen will probably have a chance to see her in Peterborough next fall as it is the intention of her owner to start here at the meet then.

THROWN IN QUICKSTEP TIME; KENNEDY HAD NO CHANCE

Hurtubise Gets His Man Twice in Five Minutes—First Fall Four Minutes Second Fall One Minute

Kennedy Strained Shoulder Muscles and Had to Quit After second Fall—Edmunds' Fine Physical Culture Exhibition—Fast Preliminaries.

It was thought by a great many that when Hurtubise took it upon himself to throw Kennedy four times in an hour that he was up against a proposition that was altogether too big for him. The local heavyweight proved last night, however, that the contract he had undertaken was a comparatively easy one. The bout only went five minutes and in that time "Gene" secured two falls, the first one in four minutes and the second in one minute. It was quite apparent that Kennedy had no chance whatever against the amazingly strong Hurtubise. The falls were the fastest imaginable and Kennedy on both occasions was pinned so securely that there wasn't the slightest ground for dispute.

After this second fall he rose very slowly as though in distress and when he had gone to his dressing room Drs. McWilliams, of Keene, and Fredericks, visited him and found that the muscles of his shoulder had been wrenched to such an extent that it was impossible for Kennedy to resume the contest. The latter, who, to give him credit, is a very game man, was willing to go on, but such a thing was not to be thought of.

Announcer Geo. Lynch informed the crowd that Kennedy could wrestle no longer and the latter spoke a few words himself, giving Hurtubise every credit for defeating him and expressing regret at being unable to continue. A. C. Yokome, who refereed the bout, impartially, then gave the decision to Hurtubise by default. His announcement to the audience was received with cheers by the admirers of "Gene."

EDMUNDS' EXHIBITION.

The bill opened with Artie Edmunds performing his famous physical culture stunt. The muscular development and control of this little wizzard of physical science is phenomenal and he got lived up to all the words of praise spoken of previous to the performance. Edmunds is a clean and well muscled athlete, his muscles being large and showing great strength and absolute control. Despite his ponderous biceps and shoulder muscles, he is not at all muscle-bound, his work showing great freedom of muscular movement and a development that is really remarkable. His exhibition is performed in a cabinet and occupies about twenty minutes. The little wonder's act made good emphatically with the crowd.

CROUGH WINS HIS BOUT.

Crough and Burns put up an argument that gave the spectators plenty for their money. The first call of time Burns ducked and caught his opponent around the legs bringing him to the mat. The latter assumed the upper position, however, and after three minutes and 30 seconds of wrestling, Crough obtained the first fall.

While Crough was working for a spin in the second fall Burns doubled on him like lightning and threw him on a neck and crotch hold. It was a quick and pretty turn and caught the crowd. Time four minutes.

Crough got the third fall in four minutes on a half Nelson.

EDMUNDS AT WORK.

J. Wilson, a Peterborough boy, and Artie Edmunds next interested the spectators. The conditions called for Edmunds to throw Wilson in fifteen minutes and he did it in eight. Wilson was willing and worked hard but had no chance of course, against his powerful and scientific little antagonist.

Wilson worked hard with several good holds and the go gave Edmunds an opportunity of showing his cleverness. After eight minutes on the mat the pocket Hercules put a nice comfortable scissors on Wilson and waited for him to come.

THE BIG BATTLE.

Of the main bout there is really not very much to say. It all happened so quickly. Kennedy was away out of his class and could show no form against Hurtubise, who had a full understanding of the responsibility of his position and made the best of matters from the outset. He gave Kennedy the razzle dazzle of his life and threw him around in great fashion.

The latter had no chance to do any of his nice head spinning as "Gene" couldn't see it that way and closed in on his man with a determination to get the four falls in the shortest possible order.

On a body hold he forced Kennedy over for the first fall after four minutes going with the wrestling all in Hurtubise' favor.

The men had hardly squared away for the second fall when Hurtubise landed his adversary on the mat and locked a body and neck hold on him. Kennedy was stood on his shoulder and the big human compression machine commenced his work. Down, down, went Kennedy's neck and shoulders until his points were pinned and Hurtubise held him in vice lock until the referee had counted the five seconds for falls as agreed upon in the conditions. As before stated, Kennedy strained his shoulder muscles and had to quit.

Mr. Geo. Graham made a most capable referee for preliminaries and Mr. W. E. Wasson acted as timer for all the bouts.

HARRY BURRIDGE COACHED THE TEAM IN HIS SLEEP

Jack Connors, who has returned from Youngstown, Ohio, tells a good story about Harry Burridge which shows that the former Peterborough catcher is always in the game. After a hard workout one day, Harry left the bench early in the evening and went to bed in order to have a good night's rest. A couple of hours later when the other members of the team were retiring to their rooms, they heard someone shouting in Harry's room, and looking in they saw "Shorty" sitting up in bed and yelling excitedly:

"Shoot her over to second there! Come on now, everybody in the game!"

Burridge was coaching the team in his sleep and doing it with his eyes shut tightly too.

Harry is making good with the Youngstown squad and is already a favorite with the Youngstown fans. He is hitting well and is also doing good work behind the bat. He was a little off color in his throwing the first of the season but has since steadied down and is hurling the pellet about with great accuracy.

BATTER UP! PLAY BALL!

The baseball season is now on in full swing. There is every indication the game will boom in Peterborough this year. The Review has always looked after player and fan, and rapped out many a bit of encouragement to those who follow the sport. All managers, captains, secretaries and players are requested to send in details of any games played or news of any games to come, all of which will find space in our baseball column. There is a supply of score cards at this office suitable for recording a game by innings which are at the disposal of any team manager in the city. These cards should be filled in properly at the conclusion of the game and left at this office as soon as possible so as to insure publication in the Review without delay. Properly authenticated box scores will also be gladly received and published.

Call at the Review office and secure a supply of score cards.

HURTUBISE IS WILLING TO TAKE ON YANKEE ROGERS

The announcement at last night's wrestling match between Kennedy and Hurtubise the latter will meet "Yankee" Rogers as he succeeded in [illegible] Kennedy. At least these are the present calculations and it is possible that the match will be pulled off here at the Grand Opera House about the 18th of this month. If it is held it should be an attraction with power to draw an immense crowd. Hurtubuise's meteoric rise in the wrestling game has caused the wise ones to consider him as a man to be much feared by the good ones and there are many who prophesy that he could give the best of them a hard run.

Rogers has stipulated the conditions to suit himself and is willing to take on "Gene" with the understanding that he is to throw him three times in an hour or forfeit the bout. Further particulars will be announced later if the match is made. If it takes place it will be preceded by first class preliminaries.

THAT MAN HURTUBISE

That man Hurtubuise is certainly a riddle to the physical culture connoisseur. He has not the build of a strong man at first sight and yet upon closer visual inspection he looms up as a man of great physical strength. He is tall and with long sinewy muscles and is not chopped off and given to great bulk like the average heavyweight wrestler. Take [illegible], Jenkins, Hackenschmidt and the rest of the big fellows as models Hurtubuise differs widely from the orthodox heavy mat artist. But he is big of bone, tough of sinew and and has altogether a remarkable physique.

Comparing Kennedy and Hurtubuise with the two at rest, Kennedy looks to be the more powerful man of the two in the matter of momentary strength but there is something about the long lines of "Gene" that bespeaks great endurance. But Hurtubuise is not seen at his best until he gets his big form into physical play. Then his great strength is apparent and his fine condition becomes evident to the most casual observer. And besides his strength and staying power he has science enough to win.

BASEBALL

The Lindsay Warder remarks:—Lindsay will never have a Midland league team until some guy with plenty of the sordid coin of the realm backs a nine up. Hot air is all right in its place. It keeps the thing alive, but it takes "money to make the mare go."

And when it comes to the place for hot air, the Review would recommend Lindsay as a permanent abiding spot for it.

To decide a bet, who wins bet where A. bets B. that Hurtubise would throw Kennedy 3 times in 40 minutes? A. wins.

EDMUNDS IS NOT ALARMED

Big "Gene's" Great Showing—Ready to Meet Him in a Handicap Bout

It was stated in last night's Review that Artie Edmunds would be willing to go a handicap bout with Hurtubuise the local giant to throw him four times in an hour.

Edmunds stated this before the bout and last night after seeing the bout was still willing to make the match with Hurtubuise.

"What did you think of the bout?" he was asked.

"It was a great go," he said, "Hurtubuise is certainly a powerful man and a good wrestler."

PITCHERS HAVE SOME NEW CURVES

Leap Ball, Knuckler, "Merry Widow" and Serpentine Are Among Them

This has been a great spring for new baseball curves. According to the baseball scribes more newfangled slants have been invented by the twirlers during the training trip than for the last five years. A few of the latest are the leap ball, the "Merry Widow" curve, the slow spitter, the knuckle ball, the fade away drop, the starch ball, the banana twist and the serpentine.

According to the scribes these are a few of the newfangled twists which will be sprung upon the batters of the two major leagues this year. It is possible that these balls have been invented and that in practice they look mighty sweet, but it's a different thing to try to serve them up in the league games where so much is at stake.

Fred Glade, of the New York Americans is given credit for inventing the leap ball. Glade is said to deliver the ball with such great speed that just before it reaches the batter it apparently jumps three or four inches in the air. Considering Glade's great speed, such a thing is possible.

The "Merry Widow" curve is credited to many, but "Dusty" Rhoades is said to be the only one who possesses it. According to the dope, it just waltzes up to the plate, has more curves than a chorus girl and is mighty hard to solve.

The slow spitter belongs to Chech of the Clevelands. Other pitchers deliver the spitter with speed, but Chech sends it up like a freight train.

Cicotte, of Boston, is the originator of the knuckle ball. Christy Mathewson has the fade away drop and Richie, of the Philadelphia Nationals, the serpentine. He throws the ball grasping it with his entire hand. Manuel, of the Chicago Americans, used starch on the ball instead of saliva, while Martin Walsh, formerly of the Chicago Americans claims that rubbing the fingers on the banana peel instead of using the saliva, caused the ball to be much harder to hit.

PLAY FOOTBALL AND BASEBALL

Havelock Sports Are Discussing Arrangements for the Season

Special to the Review.

Havelock, May 6th—The local sports in town are considering what game they will support this year. They are undecided between football and baseball but in all probability they will organize a football team to enter the Midland League where they expect to make a good showing. Four years ago, this town had a splendid football team and made some of the surrounding towns look wise but although several of the players of that year have left town, still others have come to take their place who will likely hold up the old-time record of the Havelock kickers.

Havelock has some very good baseball players but in the last two years baseball seems to have lost ground in Havelock. Havelock won the championship of the Trent Valley Baseball League in two successive years and was tied for it on the third year with Campbellford when the Trent Valley League was dissolved and the championship was left undecided. The executive of the league did not use Havelock right either and the citizens did not feel like supporting a team that did not get fair play.

A meeting will be held shortly to organize a team. Havelock is booked to play a football match with Norwood on May 25th.

E. J. WEBB WON ENGLISH 7 MILE WALK

The seven miles walking and ten miles running championship of the Amateur Athletic Association were decided, in dull weather, at the Stamford Bridge, England. There were about 2,000 spectators present. The walk was the first event decided, and of the 44 overs, only three, viz., E. H. Neville, H. W. B. Daffern, and F. B. Thompson, the holder, who is training for the Marathon race, failed to start. The race, however, brought out some ex-champions in G. E. Larner, who was amongst those disqualified; F. T. Carter, J. Butler, and the two miles ex-champion, E. J. Negus, E. J. Webb, of the Herne Hill. He walked in sturdy fashion, and after leading nearly all the way, won easily from Carter. Eighteen competitors finished within 58 minutes, and nine more within the hour.

G. E. Larner, the old champion, drew out after going three-quarters of a lap, followed by Johnston and Yates. Half way round the second lap, Yates went up int second place, Webb then lying third and Johnson fourt. At the end of the first mile (time 7 min. 6 1-5 seconds) G. E. Larner led by half a dozen yards from Yates. Half a mile later G. E. Larner was disqualified, and, at two miles (14 minutes 26 seconds), Webb and Yates were respectively first and second. At two miles and a half Yates was ruled out, and at three miles (22 min. 55 1-5 sec.) Webb led by 100 yards from Palmer, with E. T. Larner, Carter and Butler next in th eorder named. The feature of te next few miles was thhe fine walking of the Rev. S. L. Sarel, who, in the sixth mile, overtook Butler. Webb's time for four miles was 30 min. 7 sec., and six miles, when he had just lapped Butler, 45 min. 23 1-5 sec. At that point Carter was lying second, 150 yards behind Webb, and the last named eventually won by 300 yards from the ex-champion, with Palmer about as far again behind Carter. Webb's time was 53 minutes 2 3-5 seconds, and Carter's 53 minutes 43 seconds. The following qualified for large standard medals: Palmer, 54 min. 25 sec.; E T Larner, 54 min. 30 1-5 seconds; Withers, 54 minutes 4 seconds; Sarel, 55 minutes 9 3-5 seconds; Butler, 55 min. 28 2-5 seconds; Pateman, 55 min. 30 seconds; Schofield, 55 min. 30 3-5 seconds; Butler, 55 minutes, 28 2-5 seconds; Pateman, 55 min. 30 sec.; Schofield, 55 min. 30 3-5 sec.; Eaton, 56 minutes 0 2-5 sec.; Morris, 56 min. 1 sec.; B. C. Brown, 56 min. 60 sec.; Hawkes, 56 minutes 57 4-5 sec.; S W Brown, 57 min. 17 2-5 sec.; Harding, 57 min. 17 3-5 seconds; Philipson, 57 minutes 35 3-5 seconds; Manning, 57 min. 35 3-5 seconds; Hammond, 57 min., 53 seconds. The following, who finished in the order written, gained small standard medals for beating the hour:—Leatherby, Hurley, Burton, Bland, Conber, Short, Jacob, Sampson and Swabey. The first man to finish was E C Hayes, of the Archway H., whose time was 48 minutes 2 3-5 seconds.

HAVING CHILDREN'S EYES EXAMINED

People Suffer Through Life With the Disadvantages of Impaired Vision, as a Result of the Neglect of the Eyes in Childhood.

It is a familiar fact that the acuteness of vision varies extremely among adults, and that certain defects of the eye, such as shortsightedness, can be so completely remedied as to restore to the individual almost perfect sight. Now, there exists among children just such differences in the acuteness of vision as is observed in adults, and many of the defects of the eye originate in the failure of the parents to appreciate these differences. It is a pity to put glasses upon a child, but a greater pity to neglect such when the future well-being of the eyes depend upon their help. Many parents and teachers nowadays realize the importance of having children's eyes properly examined to know whether or not glasses are necessary.

FULL STRENGTH TO QUEBEC; NEW REGULATIONS ARE MADE

City Regiments Will Take all Men Well Drilled and Get Pay for Twelve Days Drill as Usual.

The officers of the local regiment are much delighted over the information they have received and which is stated to be well founded that the 57th regiment will go to Quebec full strength. The conditions as understood will be that all city corps will drill at their headquarters the 12 days as they have done in other years, be inspected as usual during June and receive the twelve days' drill pay for this term for as many as drill, as was the rule last year.

The regiments would not receive any pay for the trip to Quebec, but free transportation and subsistence, while at the centenary celebration.

The regiments would not receive any pay for the trip to Quebec but free transportation and subsistence while at the centenary celebration.

The corps could go to Quebec as strong as possible so long as they only include well drilled men. The change in the programme is said to be the result of the opposition in all parts of the province to regiments going to Quebec only drawing four days' pay all season, and especially was the unfairness of this impressed upon the minister of militia at a meeting with the officers of the Montreal garrison a few night ago when it is understood that the Minister agreed that better arrangements should be made.

A despatch from Ottawa says:

"It is understood on good authority that the Military Department will cancel the Quebec Tercentenary regulations and that the city corps will go in full strength to the ancient capital. City corps will drill at headquarters the twelve days as heretofore and be inspected as usual during June and receive the twelve days' drill pay for this term for as many as are drilled. For going to Quebec the regiment will receive free transportation and subsistence but this new arrangement compromises the old suggestion of their getting but four days' pay for Quebec, and none other for home drills. This move is the result of opposition from every part of the province made forcibly to the Minister of Militia."

Col. Stevenson of the 57th Regiment is out of the city at present and could not be seen regarding the above matter. The other officers of the corps said they had no doubt as to the correctness of the news from Ottawa and expressed themselves highly pleased with the new regulations.

It is proposed to organize a Merchants' Association in Peterborough and the banquet is being held in order to get the men together to discuss the proposition.

ORANGEMEN GATHERED TO DO HONOR TO REV. MR. BRACE

A large number of all the Orange societies gathered to do honor to the Rev. Bro. A. H. Brace, Chaplain of the County Lodge of West Peterborough in the Orange Hall, Simcoe street, on Tuesday night. The hall was filled to its fullest capacity and while a good deal of sadness prevailed, considerable enthusiasm was shown during the evening, and the Orangemen, while losing an enthusiastic member, feel that what is Peterborough's loss will be Cobourg's gain.

Bro. J. B. McWilliams, Past County Master, occupied the chair. He called upon Bro. W. H. G. Armstrong, County Master, to read the following address:

Peterborough, May 5th, 1908.

To Rev. A. H. Brace, Chaplain of the County Orange Lodge of West Peterborough.

Dear Sir, Knight and Brother,—We the undersigned, on behalf of Diamond Lodge, No. 80, and Weir Royal Black Preceptory No. 261, take this opportunity on the eve of your departure from Peterborough of expressing to you our appreciation of the many services which you have rendered to the cause of Orangeism, during your residence of five years in our city.

It is a matter of gratification to note the progress which our Order has made during this period and we do believe that a portion at least, of its prosperity may well be attributed to your undaunted zeal and fearless advocacy of the principles of the Orange Association; principles which have given the Anglo-Saxon civilization the lead, and made the British Empire the greatest nation which the world has ever seen. We rejoice to know that Protestants throughout the Empire are becoming more acquainted with the true object of our institution, and more generally recognize the necessity for its perpetuation in order to prevent the re-forging of the chains which were snapped asunder by the Reformation and broken into fragments by the Battle of the Boyne.

This assembly composed of the various branches of our Order in this District realize how impossible it is to repay the services which you have so freely given and we think that they can be recognized by putting into practice the incentives and resolutions prompted by them.

We believe that in your new field of action you will have many opportunities of advancing the principles of our noble Order which lie so near to your heart, and we hope they may awaken a more abundant fruitage of effort which will redound to the progress and prosperity of "Our most glorious Association."

We beg of you accept this umbrella not on account of its intrinsic value, but as a slight token of our kind regard for you, and we hope it may always serve as a memento of the friendship formed and the many pleasurable hours spent with us in our lodge gatherings.

With best wishes for your wife and family and that the utmost prosperity and happiness may be yours, is the earnest prayer of your brethren of West Peterborough.

Signed on behalf of the various lodges:

R. E. JUBY,
Reg. R.B.P., 261
CHAS. E. WILEY,
W.M., L.O.L. No. 80

Rev. A. H. Brace in reply, said how pleased he was to see the representatives of all the branches of the Order present. He would always remember the brethren here, and every time he took hold of the umbrella he should remember his brother Orangemen who had placed him in a position which he had not deserved. He referred to the blessings which he had received from his intercourse with the members of this Order.

The rest of the evening was spent in hearing addresses from representatives from all the lodges in the county who were present. A few of those who spoke, were:

W. H. G. Armstrong, County Master, Charles E. Wiley, W. M., Joseph Johnston, R. B. McGill, R. Wilson, No. 80; R. E. Juby, Jas. Garside, No. 1175; N. A. Howard-Moore, No. 60; Harold Dodds, D. Hamilton, John H. Briggs, Wellington, No. 457; W. G. Bartley, R. B. P., No. 261, and Joseph Jones Past Grand Master.

Ten or twelve other Orange Lodges from the county, and also Northumberland county were represented.

WEDDING BELLS

CAMPBELL—KETCHESON

A pretty May wedding took place at 2.30 p.m. yesterday afternoon, at the home of the bride's parnets, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ketcheson, 180 Rubidge street, when Alice Grace, their third daughter, was united in marriage to Mr. R. J. Campbell, of Sudbury, Ont. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. McMullen, of Frankfort, an old friend of the family in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. The bride looked ideal, gowned in Copenhagen silk, and was accompanied by her bridesmaid, Miss Ethel Vent, who was attired in a dress of pink silk. She entered the drawing room and joined the groom under an evergreen arch, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was being played by Miss Julia Choate, violiniste, with Miss Grace Taft playing the piano accompaniment.

The groomsman was Mr. Corbett Campbell, cousin of the groom.

After congratulations all retired to the dining room, which was prettily decorated with pink and white and where a dainty lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left on the 5.30 train for Midland, where a reception awaited them at the home of the groom's parents. The bride's going away gown was of brown Venetian cloth with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will make their future home in Sudbury.

The ceremony was followed by the christening of a little niece of the bride.

THE NOBLE HORSE

Mr. Harold Bolce draws a heavy bill of complaint against the horse in Appleton's Magazine for May. The beast is responsible for most of the cost of street cleaning which in this city amounts to $6,000,000 per annum. Since maladies fly in the dust, physicians would charge the maintenance of the New York hospitals against him—an item of $4,000,000 yearly. If motor trucks were substituted for the 120,000 horses in our streets, each truck being as efficient as four to six of them, Mr. Bolce thinks $18,000,000 might annually be saved. The cost of delivering food to a population of 4,285,435 exceeds by 10 cents per capita each day, he reckons, the cost by motor delivery, or $156,000,000 a year. Twenty thousand people die annually in the State by infections attributed to dust their worth to society is $2,500 each, or $50,000,000 in all. Sanitary experts behold with dismay the "formidable fact," that the cities of the United States comprise a total quadruped population of 2,936,861 notoriously costly horses and 173,908 dangerously expensive mules.

The animals are indeed a prolific source of dust, disease germs and disease breeding flies. Cities would be better off without them. Mr. Bolce's computations of the bills they run up are not calculated we think, for absolute acceptance, but they are suggestive.

The longest G.T.P. bridge is to be across the Battle River, and will be 2,772 feet long.

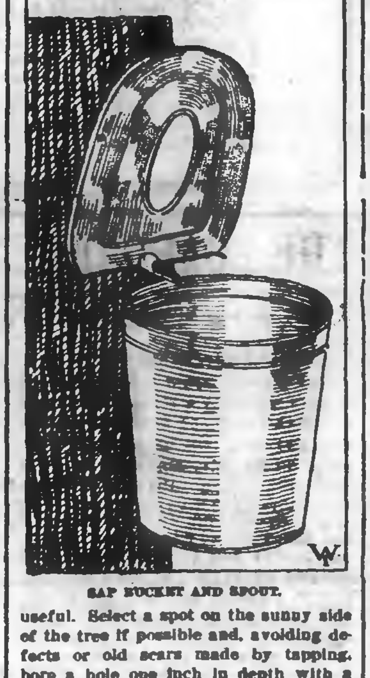
MAKING SUGAR.

Convenient Equipment For Gathering the Sap.

The sugar house, whether large or small, is best when built thoroughly tight and shingled. The space overhead should be left open to the roof, in which a ventilator should be built over the evaporator to permit the free escape of steam, but with the slats so arranged that no rain or snow can enter.

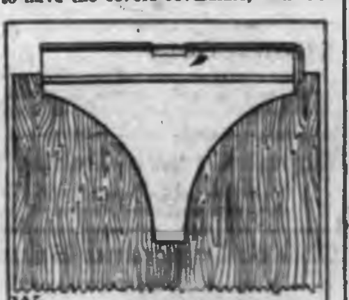
Before tapping a tree any loose bark which may fall into the sap should be brushed away from the trunk. For this purpose an old stiff broom or brush is useful. Select a spot on the sunny side of the tree if possible and, avoiding defects or old scars made by tapping, bore a hole one inch in depth with a three-eighths or half inch bit. The hole should be directed slightly upward to insure drainage. Trees under twelve inches in diameter at breast height should not be tapped, and except in the case of the largest and most productive maples there should be but one spout to a tree.



SAP BUCKET AND SPOUT.

The spouts should be of metal, preferably of malleable iron and heavily tinned. These are most lasting, but tin ones can be obtained at a slightly smaller cost. Wooden spouts are usually made of elder or sumac out of which the pith has been forced with a stick or burned with a hot iron. When these are used, a supply of them should be made before the sap season and stored in a cool place, where they will not check or warp.

Sap pails should be of tin or galvanized iron. Wooden ones are less durable and harder to keep clean. If wood is used, the pails should be enameled white on the outside as a protection against heating by the sun. It is best to keep the pails covered, for rain, snow or dirt will cause a deterioration of the sap and darken the color of the sugar and sirup. If sugar making is undertaken on a large scale, it is well to have the covers reversible, with one side painted red and the other white. By turning the red side up when the pail is emptied the gatherer will know it does not require his attention.



HINGE FOR WOODEN COVER.

[It is attached with five-eighths or three-quarter cleat nails.]

When covers are used a pail is hung to the spout by a hole in its rim. In this way the sap falls into a closed space, and the danger of evaporation and souring is greatly lessened. It is usually advisable to throw away the first drippings, for they are apt to be mixed with dirt or to turn sour and contaminate the later flow. The sap runs very clear at first, but as the season advances it shows a tendency to darken.—American Cultivator.

Pasture Seeding.

On fields which may be allowed to remain in pasture for several years the following mixture is recommended by Professor Zavitz: Four pounds of orchard grass, four pounds of meadow fescue, three pounds of tall oat grass, two pounds of timothy, two pounds of meadow foxtail, five pounds of lucerne clover, two pounds of alsike and two pounds of white clover, making twenty-four pounds of seed per acre.

Tanbark From Hemlock and Oak.

Over two-thirds of the tanbark consumed comes from hemlock and over one-fourth from oak. Chestnut and other woods contribute the remainder. More extract is secured from chestnut, however, than from all other domestic woods combined. A small quantity of extract of a little over a thousand barrels comes from the roots of palmetto.—Forest Service.

A Trip For the Teachers.

New York, May 7.—Before sailing for England yesterday, Alfred Moseley, the English educator, said that arrangements have been perfected for the visit of 500 school teachers from the United States and a similar number from Canada to England next winter.

Do Away With the Exams.

Chatham, May 7.—The Chatham Board of Education has decided to permanently do away with the entrance examinations and have pupils pass from the public schools to the Collegiate Institute on their merits during the year, with the proviso that those who wish to try the examinations can do so.

Attempted to Escape.

Alexandrovsk, Russia, May 7.—A group of important political prisoners made an attempt to regain liberty here. Some of them were killed and in turn they succeeded in striking down some of the prison guards, but ten got away.

The prisoners were led by Illinsky, the man who assassinated General Count Alexasis P. Ignatieff at Tver, Dec. 22, 1906.

Three, including Illinsky, were recaptured. Two were killed and four wounded. Illinsky was serving a sentence of 11 years imprisonment for the murder of Ignatieff.

Canadian Field Peas.

Without any doubt there are vast areas [illegible] our favored country well adapted [illegible] growing peas as a grain crop. But the areas in which the crop can [illegible] grown for pasture, for soiling uses [illegible] for fodder are vastly greater, for [illegible] peas can be successfully grown as a grain crop they can also be grown for the other uses named.

Peas can be grown as a grain crop with a reasonable degree of success in certain areas of New England and in much of New York and Pennsylvania. They are successfully grown in northern Michigan, northern and eastern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota. They will also grow well in North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and, indeed, in all the mountain states in which the elevation is sufficient to insure reasonably cool summer temperature and where a reasonable amount of moisture is present. In northern Ohio, southern Michigan, southern Wisconsin, southern Minnesota and South Dakota they are not so sure a crop as in the areas named, but sometimes they produce well.

Southward from the states just named peas cannot always be depended on to yield well. The summer temperatures are too warm for them. Even though they should produce a good crop of straw, if a hot wave should pass over them while in bloom they would not fruit well. But in all this section of country great use can be made of peas when grown with other crops for pasture for summer feeding and for fodder. Still farther to the south the wisdom of giving much attention to this crop is open to question. The southern cowpea has taken its place there.

The pea crop should be sown as soon as the soil can be worked freely, but it will suffer less relatively than the other grain crops if the sowing has to be deferred.—Thomas Shaw.

Ventilation of Incubators.

In natural incubation under usual conditions eggs are well ventilated, as fresh air can always reach them by diffusing through the feathers which cover them and foul air pass off in the same way. As might be supposed, it has been found that the degree of ventilation has a decided effect upon the percentage of eggs which hatch in incubators. In the tests made at the University of St. Louis 85.7 per cent of the fertile eggs hatched in an incubator provided with special ventilation, while only 44.3 per cent hatched in an incubator without ventilation.

Do Not Burn the Straw Pile.

It is the custom in many sections of the country to burn the straw in order to get rid of it. By so doing all the nitrogen and organic matter contained in the straw are destroyed and lost to the farmer. These losses represent many thousands of dollars annually. It is far better to use straw as litter and as an absorbent about the barn and sheds as mulching and as a rendezvous for stock where they can pick it over and tramp it to pieces so that it can be more easily handled and worked into the soil.

The Oyster Shell Scale.

Experiments show that it is advisable to employ the lime sulphur and salt wash for the control of the oyster shell scale only when it is desired to treat the trees during the dormant season, when they can be sprayed more thoroughly than when in leaf. In cases where this wash is employed for the control of the San Jose scale all the spraying of this character can be done at one time.—T. B. Symmons.

"INSPIRATION OF MISSIONS" SUBJECT LAST EVENING

Rev. T. E. E. Shore D. D. of Toronto Delivered Eloquent Address at Closing Meeting of Missionary Institute —Many Attended.

The missionary Institute that has occupied the attention of the young people of the city for the past three days was brought to a close last evening in St. Paul's church. The Institute can well be declared a success. A great deal has been learned as to what is being done in the cause of missions and a new interest certainly has been awakened in that direction. Although not as large as on the two previous evenings, the congregation was a representative one. The extremely inclement weather evidently detained many from coming out to the service. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. T. E. E. Shore, DD. of Toronto His subject, "The Inspiration of Missions," was dealt with in a most interesting and profitable manner. Dr. Shore is an eloquent speaker and held the interest of his hearers to a marked degree.

Rev. H. J. Keith of Knox church, acted as chairman and after the devotional exercises, Rev. R. A. Pogue gave the opening address. The object of a religious service was to honor God and Mr. Pogue stated that uppermost in the minds of everyone at the close of every religious meeting should be the thought, "What place have we given Christ in our living?" The whole problem of religion would be solved, he said, if everyone made Christ their King, and in their lives Crowned Him, Lord of All.

Miss C. Reesor then rendered a solo in splendid voice.

WHITBY 1908

Rev. S. A. Armstrong, MA, of Toronto, gave a short talk on the Summer Institute held annually at Whitby, dealing with the work taken up by the delegates to this convention. The Young People's movement assists people of various denominations along missionary lines. During the summer months, Institutes are held throughout Canada and the United States. The one of interest to the young people of Ontario is held at Whitby. The Ladies' College of that town is placed at the disposal of the young people. The Institute meetings are conducted for one week at the close of the College term. Last summer there were one hundred and eighty delegates gathered and this year there will be two hundred and twenty-five assemble. The mornings are given to mission study, the afternoons to recreation and the evenings to addresses by returned missionaries and prominent clergymen of the province. Mr. Armstrong urged different young people's societies represented in St. Paul's last evening to send delegates to Whitby and he was sure they would return profited and with much information for their respective organizations.

ADDRESS OF EVENING

Rev. Dr. Shore, in beginning, defined the church as an army of the living God, commissioned by Him to win souls for Christ. The church as anything else falls short of His purpose. But how often, said the speaker, when the church is confronted by some great crisis, its members are lacking in faith and endurance. Christ is King. He does not compel a service from His people but until they rise and do their work commissioned to them by their Master, they are not shouldering their responsibilities. The church's work lies in the world wide evangelization.

There is a touch of military in the command of Christ, but His marching orders were the end of many of His soldiers. The speaker remarked that while in Russia a few years ago he witnessed the departure of Russian troops for the Russian-Japanese War. There was no evidence of patriotism in their leaving. They left their homes reluctantly. On the contrary, the Japs went forth, glad to fight and die for their fatherland.

"We have Russians and Japs in our midst today," continued the reverend doctor. "Have we not the King of Kings and the greatest Kingdom?" he asked. The Japs represent those who are fighting for the spread of Christ's kingdom.

Rev. Mr. Shore thought that missions should be looked upon as an inspiration and not as a duty. They should be considered the greatest joy of the generation. It is the opportunity of the ages that now confronts Christian people.

"In Canada, with its constant increase of population going to become a country of sin and iniquity or shall it have an abiding influence for good?" is a question for Christians to consider. Then the scope of religious enterprises goes farther, even unto the ends of the world. The speaker drew attention to the fact that in South America, Africa, Persia, India, Japan Corea and China, there is on an average of one missionary to 150,000 inhabitants, showing how utterly unreasonable was the burden placed on those who had gone to labor in the mission fields. He thought that if Western civilization was to enjoy intercourse with the East, Oriental countries must first be given the Gospel of Peace.

In conclusion the speaker remarked that the spirit of modern missions was one of hopefulness and progress. The opportunity for work is widening and he urged the young people to realize this and to do their part in the world wide evangelization for Christ.

During the offertory Mrs. Miller of Murray street church sang a solo very acceptably.

RESOLUTION PASSED

A resolution was passed, to the effect that in the consideration of the great good that had been done by the Missionary Institute in this city, the Young People's Societies would suggest these Institutes as a grand means of awakening new interest in missionary work. Mr. R. J. Soden moved the resolution and Mr. H. Wilkie seconded it. It was unanimously carried.

IMPROVING THE C. P. R. STATION

Painters Are at Work at Havelock—Spring Cleaning Going on

Special to the Review.

Havelock, May 6.—Some improvements are being made at the C.P.R. station here. The platform at both front and back is being repaired and the painters are attempting to improve its appearance by a few coats of paint.

Many of the citizens are also improving the appearance of their yards and houses and the dumping ground at the east end of the town is gradually becoming filled up. Those who are dumping refuse should be careful to place it in the spot reserved for that and not all along the road as some are doing. Anyone who is found dumping refuse in any place but the dumping ground will be heavily fined.

A GENUINE COBALT OPPORTUNITY

The Casey Mountain Cobalt Mining and Developing Company, Limited

INCORPORATED UNDER THE ONTARIO MINING COMPANIES INCORPORATION ACT

No Personal Liability Not Subject to Call

CAPITAL $250,000.00

250,000 Shares - - $1.00 Each

HEAD OFFICE, Manning Chambers, - - - - - - TORONTO

As previously announced in this space, we give some particulars concerning our mining properties, which should be of interest to the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity:

PROPERTIES CONTROLLED

The Company's holdings consist of 8 forty acre claims in one Block situate about eighteen miles from the Town of Cobalt in the Township of Casey, on what is known as "Casey Mountain," upon which deposits of native silver have been encountered, running over 8,000 ozs, per ton.

BUILDINGS, MACHINERY, DEVELOPMENT, Etc

There has been erected on the property a large boarding house, sleeping camps, blacksmith shop, shaft house, boiler house and Superintendent's quarters. A modern steam plant has been in operation during the past ten months and above 300 feet of underground development work has been done, besides considerable surface work, trenching and stripping of veins.

12 TRUE FISSURE VEINS UNCOVERED

There has been uncovered to date 12 fissure veins, varying in width from 16 inches to 8 feet, all carrying silver, cobalt, nicolite and arsenic. These veins have been stripped for several hundred feet, and all have free walls, and are well defined.

Big chimney, or lode of ore struck at 50 foot level.
16 feet wide from wall to wall.

While the main shaft was at a depth of 50 feet on a 30 inch vein a tunnel was driven into the mountain along the vein, and at a distance of twenty feet a chimney of ore was broken into 16 feet wide, with silver values of about $20.00 per ton, and we believe this to be the greatest strike of low grade ore ever encountered in the district. This tunnel was continued for a distance of 75 feet through this chimney of ore, when it was decided to sink the shaft to the 100 foot level, and again tap this great lode at this lower level. While driving tunnel at the 100 foot level the large body of ore was encountered at a distance of only 10 feet from the shaft, the chimney having widened 10 feet in the 50 feet of depth, and values were found to have increased fully 40 per cent., and we have in sight or above us several thousand tons of silver ore that will net the Company a handsome profit with the installation of a concentrating plant that can be installed with a capacity of 100 tons per day for the sum of $15,000.00 that will reduce the ore 15 tons to one and there y save height charges on 14 tons of rock.

COBALT, NICOLITE AND LEAF SILVER ENCOUNTERED AT 120 FOOT LEVEL

Apart from the enormous body of low grade ore in sight, there has been encountered, while sinking the main shaft, cobalt, nicolite and leaf silver in the metallic form, these metals having come in at the 120 foot level, and another chimney of yet unknown width has also been struck at this depth, directly opposite to the one encountered at the 50 foot level, and our Superintendent reports that the two great lodes of ore are coming together which will constitute one continuous body of ore.

It is now proposed to drive a tunnel into this large ore body at the 125 foot level, and commence bagging ore for shipment, as the last report received a few days ago from our Superintendent stated that he had unlimited quantities of good ore in sight.

We give the following reasons why "Casey Mountain" will become one of the great dividend paying mines of the Cobalt district and there are many :—

First.—A large area, that is a regular net work of veins, running for three-quarters of a mile through the entire property, that will go down several thousand feet, and not pinch out.

Second.—We have the stuff in unlimited quantities, and the property has scarcely yet been scratched.

Third.—A capitalization of only $250,000.00 in which to pay dividends on.

Fourth.—No promotion stock has been issued to promoters that has not been paid for.

Fifth.—A management that are endeavoring to do a mining busines, (not a stock speculation.)

Sixth.—The directors of this Company have shown their faith in the property by investing heavily in the stock, and up to date very few shares have been disposed of outside of friends of the Company, as it has been the desire of the directors to hold the stock as closely as possible and dispose of only sufficient number of shares to enable the Company to carry on development until returns are received from shipments, and for a short time only the investing public of Peterborough and vicinity will have an opportunity of a small block at par value, $1 00 per share, and those desiring to invest should make applicationat once to the Head Office, Manning Chambers, Toronto, as this will be the only Treasury stock that will be issued at par value.

Additional information can be had during the next few days by applying to R. G. Williamson at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, President of the Company, or Dr. H. A Wood, Secretary-Treas., 408½ George St., Phone 20A, Peterborough, Ont.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION AND DOMESTIC SCIENCE

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—It would be amusing if it were not such a serious matter, to notice the way our Board of Education play with the question of the adoption of Domestic Science and Manual Training into our schools. Its like reading ancient history to read your account of the meeting of the Board of Education last evening. If you will look back in your columns about five or six years ago you will see the same enthusiasm displayed at the Board meetings, the same resolutions passed, the same committees appointed, delegates sent on two different occasions to visit Toronto, Guelph, Brantford, Stratford, Galt, etc. Mrs. Hoodless was invited and came and lectured on domesti ccsience, and a professor who was connected with the McDonald Training Schools was got to lecture on Manual Training and every-one was of the opinion that they were most desirable subjects to have taught in our schools.

Reading over your account of the meeting of the Board last night, I notice the same old programme of resolutions passed, committees appointed, &c., I presume the same old result will follow. The way this important question has been treated by the Board has been a farce. It is not a new question, and it is either a good thing or it is a bad thing. If it is a good thing, why have we not had it for years. That it is a good thing is proven beyond a doubt by its adoption by all the cities and towns not even half the size of Peterborough.

I notice that Mr. Hill, who was the delegate to the Educational Association meeting grows quite enthusiastic in his report over the matter, but this has happened before. I am told that our present School Inspector was amazed when he arrived here and found that neither of these subjects were taught in our schools.

I notice a deputation of teachers and trustees waited upon the Minister of Education asking to have those subjects made compulsory in all schools. If their their petition is granted there is some hope that we may get this boom. A matter that has reached such a stage that trustees and teachers feel called upon to as kthe Government to make it compulsory in our schools is surely not a question in any experimental stage. The question of the desirathingbility of having our girls taught something about how to keep a house and our boys how to use their hands—apart from the splendid effect it has in their general education that these subjects are acknowledged to have—it is one that the Board of Edpucation of such an important centre as we profess our city to foe should certainly appreciate it at its proper value.

We are not anxious to pay any more taxes than are absolutely necessary but we are anxious that our children shall have the same benefit in their education that children have who live in towns not half the size of Peterborough.

Yours truly,
A PARENT.

VOL. LVI., No. 108. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., CANADA, FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1908 TEN CENTS PER WEEK

RAVAGED BY THE STORM; DAMAGE ON GREAT LAKES

Destruction of Property at Toronto—High Water Along the Bay of Quinte—Elevator at Port Dalhousie Flooded—One Man Killed.

Toronto, May 8.—Lake Ontario again raged yesterday and hurled its waves against the Island, the Beaches and the wests hore and more damage was done. Much work done by the city has been spoiled. The water from the lake forced its way along Clandeboye avenue across into the bay. Fillings that have been made to save the sidewalks on the lake shores were washed out and further encroaches made upon the land. The storm was from the east and is fully as violent as that of a few weeks ago. Much damage was also done along the lake shore road west of the city and at Mimico.

Kingston, May 8.—Edwin Horsey, general manager of the Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario Navigation Co., has issued notices to the effect that the company, in view of the extremely high water and flooding of low wharves, will guarantee safe landing only at Kingston, Picton, Deseronto and Belleville. The company will not be liable for any damage sustained by landing passengers, freight and cattle at other places along the Bay of Quinte.

Port Dalhousie, May 8.—An easterly gale with rain prevailed here all yesterday. The lake is running high, and has caused much damage, putting the elevator out of business. The water is so high that it has reached the bins in which the grain is kept. The steamer Rosemount got her lighterage all right but the Fairmount is still at the elevator unable to get loaded on account of the high water. The electric lights in the village were put out of business on the same account.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., May 8.—One of the severest storms in many years raged here all Thursday, and much damage has been done along the waterfront. The unusually high water in the Niagara River and Lake Ontario lashed by a high easterly wind played havoc with the boathouses and other property along the beach. The Queen's Royal bathing houses were completely washed out, the garage nearby is nearly all gone, while the boathouse went out several days ago.

Chicago, Ill., May 8.—One man was killed and many pedestrians were put in peril by falling live wires, and others were blown down and injured during a terrific wind and rain storm which prevailed on Thursday.

LIBERAL LEADER WAS NOMINATED

Again Placed in Field for Old Constituency, North Grey.

Owen Sound, May 8.—Hon. A. G. MacKay, as was expected, will be the Liberal candidate in North Grey at the coming general elections. This was decided at the convention held here Thursday. The weather was wet, but the attendance large. There was considerable enthusiasm manifested, and the leader of the Opposition was assured that his interests would be well cared for during his absence on campaign work throughout the province. Mr. MacKay opened his campaign in the constituency at Shallow Lake, the cement centre, last night.

CROOKEDNESS IS THE CHARGE MADE

Trouble at Guelph Over Contract ---Serious Charge Hinted at.

Guelph, May 8.—A short time ago the water commissioners awarded the Lyth Co. of Buffalo the contract for supplying pipe for the construction of a conduit for bringing water to the city. The contract involved the expenditure of about $26,000. The Lyth Co. was approached by persons interested and told that it had secured a losing contract, its agent having not taken duty and other expenditures into consideration in figuring on the contract. It is said that the company was also told that it would be made worth its while to refuse the contract.

The Lyth Co. informed the water commissioners and Manager Hackney of the waterworks went to Buffalo and had the contract signed. He brought home with him a telegram sent the Lyth Co., it is said, by parties interested in another of the tendering companies, that contains information of an incriminating nature against the parties concerned.

Bank of England Statement.

London, May 8.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes: Total reserve, increased £40,000; circulation, increased £79,000; bullion, increased £118,947; other securities, increased £184,000; other deposits, increased £1,227,000; public deposits, decreased £986,000; notes, reserve, decreased, £91,000; Government securities, unchanged. The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability this week is 50.92 per cent., last week it was 51.86 per cent.

Railway Tunnels Into New York.

New York, May 8.—Sixteen and a half miles of tunnel work, composing the Pennsylvania Railroad's underground system of approaches to the centre of New York City, were completed yesterday when the second of the two tunnels through the Bergen Hill in Jersey City was holed through. The two single track tunnels under Bergen Hill are each more than a mile long and portions were driven through very hard trap rock necessitating the use of 840 tons of dynamite and three years of work.

Assaulted Wife With Pitchfork.

Brockville, May 8.—Andrew Johnston, an Augusta farmer, was found guilty of having assaulted his wife on two different occasions. Fines and costs aggregated about $50, and in default Johnston went up for six months. He must also secure two sureties of $400 each that he will then keep the peace or go back to jail for another year. The evidence showed that Johnston attacked his wife with a pitchfork.

Thaw Enjoys Himself.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., May 8.—Harry K. Thaw, occupying Sheriff Chandler's big bedroom on the top floor of the Dutchess Court House, has everything he wants except his liberty and his automobile. He requested the privilege of a ride in an automobile with a keeper, but the request was refused. A waiter from the Nelson House serves his meals.

PROPOSAL TO RAISE RATES

Presidents of Railway Systems Hold Convention.

New York, May 8.—Presidents of practically all the leading railway systems east of the Mississippi River were in conference at the Trunk Line Association offices yesterday, considering the question of a general advance in freight rates.

The scale now prevailing, with New York to Chicago as basis, divides rates into six classes at from 75c. to 25c. per ton. No conclusion was reached, but the advance most favored calls for an increase to 85c. as the maximum and 27c. as the minimum.

The entire matter will be left to the traffic officials of the roads interested for solution. They are likely to submit their reports by July 1, but such advances which may be recommended will hardly go into effect before Nov. 1.

The importance of yesterday's meeting may be judged from the fact that those in attendance included E. H. Harriman, President McCrea of the Pennsylvania road, President Newman of the New York Central and other Vanderbilt lines, President Underwood of the Erie, President Murray of the Baltimore & Ohio, and President Thomas of the Lehigh Valley.

Must Build or Forfeit Charter.

Ottawa, May 8.—The Railway Committee has adopted a bill extending for two years the charter rights of the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway Co., to build from Sudbury to Manitoulin Island. It was stipulated that if the company is to hold its charter rights, it must expend $25,000 in construction work on the Manitoulin end of the line before the middle of July.

Mrs. Dowie's Share.

Chicago, May 8.—Mrs. John Alexander Dowie was awarded $400 by the appraisers of the personal property of the late founder of Zion City. Instead of the great wealth supposed to have been held by Dowie, the total amount was $1,200. Mrs. Dowie received the widow's share, one-third. She still has a claim on the real estate.

The Chelsea Fire.

Boston, May 8.—After several weeks' work by the state police two men were arrested, charged with being responsible in part for the great conflagration at Chelsea on April 12. The two men under arrest are Jacob Lewitsky, 23 years old, of Boston, and Abraham Wolnitz, aged 30, of Chelsea.

DEBATE ON ELECTION BILL IS CONTINUED AT OTTAWA

Dr. Roche Moves an Amendment to Election Bill—Affidavit Read by Mr. Bole Made by a Galician Jailbird—Experimental Farms for Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia—Calls Attention to a Discrepancy.

Ottawa, May 8.—In the Commons yesterday Sir Frederick Borden, replying to a question said he was in communication with the Quebec tercentenary commission as to the participation of the army and navy veterans in the celebration. Although the veterans had paraded before the Prince of Wales in Toronto, it involved no expenditure so far as the Government was concerned. Nothing had been settled as to the regiments that would take part. It was not desirable that a question as to what regiments had intimated their willingness to go to Quebec should be answered at present.

The Minister of Agriculture said the Government was negotiating with Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia for the establishment of new experimental farms for which $40,000 is asked in the estimates. The Government is also considering applications from Quebec, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Mr. Graham was not able to tell G. W. Fowler whether the Peter Lyall, who presided at the banquet to Hon. William Pugsley in Montreal, was the same man whose firm some days later secured the contract for the G.T.P. terminals at Winnipeg. It was not within the purview of his Department he said.

R. L. Borden called attention to a discrepancy between two replies given by Mr. Brodeur. On April 1st Mr. Brodeur told the House that Deputy Minister Gourdeau had twice been asked for his resignation. On Wednesday Mr. Borden asked if the resignation had been accepted and the reply of the Minister was that Mr. Gourdeau had not resigned, but had asked for leave of absence and superannuation. The Prime Minister said he would ask the Minister.

Commissioner C. A. Young, of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission, was examined before the public accounts committee, in reference to the purchase of land in St. Boniface for terminals. Eventually he had made the purchase by taking options from John Henry Kern, a Winnipeg hotelkeeper.

Mr. Barker asked: "You knew that Kern paid $99,000 for the land and within a year sold it to you for $220,000. How did the country profit then?"

It came out that a portion of the lands had been obtained by Kern from the Arctic Ice Co. In this company were interested Messrs. Mackintosh and McLaughlin, who are second cousins of Mr. Young.

Dr. Roche, Conservative member for Marquette, Man., continuing the debate on the Aylesworth Election Bill, gave a description of the Galician Rudneski, whose affidavit Mr. Bole had read on Wednesday, alleging that the Conservatives had put a large number of names improperly on the voters' lists. Rudneski, said Dr. Roche, had been in jail and to-day was a criminal who had been obliged to flee the country. Moreover, it was stated that he had killed his wife in the old country.

In a four hours' speech Dr. Roche pointed the way to an honorable withdrawal on the part of the Government. He suggested the Government accept the provincial lists and hand them to the judges, their own appointees, to distribute the voters among the various polling sub-divisions. This would meet the main objection as stated by Mr. Aylesworth. Rather than submit to the measure in its present form, Dr. Roche thought the Conservatives would be justified in refusing to vote a dollar of supply. The Opposition applauded this suggestion vigorously.

He concluded by moving an amendment which in effect affirms the necessity of legislation with the object of insuring clean elections, but condemns the first clause of the bill as invidious and unjustifiable discrimination against the Provinces of Manitoba and British Columbia.

Mr. Crawford (Portage La Prairie) adjourned the debate at 11.30.

The impression prevails that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will withdraw the objectionable feature of the Aylesworth bill. As already intimated, overtures of peace have been made by the Government and rejected by the Conservatives, the proposal being to make the bill apply to Manitoba alone.

Ottawa, May 8.—The depletion of Canada's pulp wood forests was the subject of a debate in the Senate.

Senator Baird proposed a resolution declaring it advisable to appoint a commission of representatives of the Provincial Legislatures and other persons concerned with the crown lands of Canada to report on the best means for the preservation of forests in view of the large amount of logs and pulp wood annually exported from Canada.

Senator Domville called attention to the desirability of giving financial assistance to shipbuilders. Sir Richard Cartwright said the question would [illegible] attention of the Government. However, it was not one that would be rashly undertaken, but that the Government would have to be persuaded that the benefits hoped for would follow and that the bonus could establish a successful industry. The disadvantage of Canadian shipbuilders in having to pay duties on the parts they now brought into Canada for the construction of ships constituted something which might well be dealt with, though he did not pledge the Government on this point. Owing to custom regulations the shipbuilders did not always feel that they got the full benefit the present drawback allowed on these parts.

A bill granting divorce to Edith May Gillmore was read the third time.

The banking committee of the Senate resumed the consideration of Senator Campbell's bill to prevent steamship companies using bills of lading, by the terms of which they contract themselves out of liability for damage to goods in their possession while in transit.

D. A. Watt of the Allan line, declared that on flour Canadian shippers were charged a cent a hundred less, and on package goods two cents a hundred less, than was charged on shipments of American goods. He expressed the opinion that the Canadian millers had started on a punitive expedition against the Canadian steamship companies.

It looks as if there had been omitted from a return recently brought down in the Commons a report upon the Ross rifle, made by the British War Office experts. But that a test of the rifle was made and a report upon it sent to the Militia Department is shown by a return submitted to the Senate.

From the official correspondence it appears that in October, 1908, Lord Strathcona forwarded a report to the Minister of Militia enclosing that of the British War Office together with a copy of the report by the chief superintendent of ordnance factories, royal arsenal, Woolwich, referred to therein. The chief superintendent's conclusions were on the whole unfavorable. On the other hand, a report by Col. Sam Hughes, a member of the board of experts, which passed upon the Ross rifle in 1901, countersigned by Col. Otter as president of the board, speaks well of the arm. He says: "It is the strongest rifle I have seen, it is least likely to get out of order and is the simplest to dismount and to put together."

WERE PLAYMATES IN CHILDHOOD

And Now They are Going to be Maried After Many Years Have Passed

New York, May 8th. — A marriage which will unite two childhood playmates will shortly be solemnized in this city. Mrs. Margaret Leah Mitchell, then Margaret Brecken, was a school girl in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. Sidney David Fitzgerald, a boy somewhat her senior was her chum. But the boy grew up to leave his birthplace, and the girl attained womanhood to marry.

Four children were born to Mrs. Mitchell before twenty years ago she was widowed. Sidney Fitzgerald had also married, but he had settled in the West, and it was only on his visits to his father, the Rev. Dr. Fitzgerald rector of St. Paul's in Charlottetown, that he saw the friend of his youth.

Gradually Mrs. Mitchell's children drifted away from home. One son went to Vancouver, a daughter became a nurse in the Salem Hospital and Miss Laura Mitchell became a painter of miniatures and came to New York to study.

It was to be with Laura that Mrs. Mitchell a year ago came to New York to make her home. Here Sidney Fitzgerald, now seven years a widower, found her again. His home is in La Crosse, Kansas.

SIR SANFORD FLEMING HAS GOOD OPINION OF CARNEGIE

In an Interview With Mayor Rush He Pays Tribute to the Worth and Liberality of the Steel King

During his visit in Ottawa, His Worship Mayor Rush, had the pleasure of lunching with Sir Sanford Fleming, a former resident of Peterborough and one of Canada's leading men. Sir Sanford was pleased to meet Mayor Rush, and made interested inquiries about the progress of Peterborough. What was of special value to Mayor Rush was the information he gained from Sir Sanford of Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire, whose benefactions on behalf of public libraries have been more or less discussed in this city recently. Sir Sanford told the Mayor that Mr. Carnegie was a personal friend of his and that he recently had the pleasure of visiting him at his home in New York. The impression he had formed of Mr. Carnegie was of the highest order. He had won industrial and commercial victories and now he recognized that the millions he had acquired laid upon him corresponding obligations. Inspired by high ideals he undertook to distribute his wealth in the cause of education. He was making his task a labor of love, and his great object in life was to endeavor to contribute to the happiness of humanity—in providing means for instructing, elevating and refining his fellowmen. Sir Sanford showed the Mayor a portrait of Andrew Carnegie, personally presented to him by Mr. Carnegie with his autograph [illegible]

THE QUEBEC ELECTIONS; IS CAMPAIGN COMMENCED

Premier Gouin Not to Have a Walk Over—M. Pelletier to Take a Hand in—Will Mr. Bourassa Take Part? —Ex-Premier Parent Will Not be Passive.

Montreal, May 8.—The indications are that the campaign in this province will be a very active and interesting one and as the days pass by it becomes evident that Premier Gouin is not going to have the walk-over that he expected when he brought on the provincial elections the same day as in Ontario. The Premier will be here to-day, and on Saturday he will meet all the Ministerial candidates in this district, and about Thursday next, the Hon. P. E. Leblanc, surrounded by his 40 or more candidates in the Montreal district, will open the campaign with eclat in the Monument National.

The Liberals declare that Bourassa will certainly take no part in the campaign, but the Nationalists are of the belief that the ex-member for Labelle will be heard from in a very few days and that he will be sure to contest one of the constituencies.

The chief event, however, so far is the reappearance of Hon. L. P. Pelletier in the political arena, who will open his campaign in the county of Dorchester on Sunday, and that famous political leader will, no doubt, bring a great deal of energy into the fight that would have otherwise been absent. Mr. Pelletier announces that every Government candidate in his district will be opposed and especially the Ministers.

It is also stated by those who pretend to know that Hon. Mr. Parent, whom the present Ministers ousted from power, will be more than a passive spectator in the fight.

BRITISH BUDGET BROUGHT DOWN

Large Reductions in Duties on Sugar---Surplus for Year $23,630,000.

London, May 8.—The new budget presented to the House of Commons yesterday, reduces the duty on sugar from 4s. 2d. to 1s. 10d. per hundred weight. The reduction will become effective May 18 on raw and refined sugar, and on July 1 on articles manufactured with sugar.

The budget was presented by the Premier, Mr. Asquith, instead of by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. This departure from precedent is a result of the recent changes in the Cabinet.

Mr. Asquith, after commenting briefly on the present slackening of trade throughout the world following the boom year of 1907, announced that Great Britain's realized surplus for the year 1907-08 amounted to $23,630,000, which he said would be largely applied to the reduction of the national debt, which had already been reduced by approximately $90,000,000 during the past year.

Mr. Asquith estimated the total expenditure for 1908-09 at $764,345,000, and the revenue on the existing basis of taxation at $788,850,000.

Ceiling Collapsed.

London, Ont., May 8.—Great excitement prevailed in the northern part of the city yesterday from a report that part of the roof of St. Patrick's school, on Waterloo street, had fallen, and that many children had been caught in the wreck. Happily the first reports were greatly exaggerated. It was the matchboard ceiling in the upper floor that fell, and, fortunately, it came down en masse, resting on the tops of the seats. The children, between fifty and sixty in number, had time to crouch down on the floor, and in this way all escaped serious injuries, some fourteen or fifteen receiving slight scratches and bruises. One of the teachers was also slightly hurt.

Old-Age Pensions.

Ottawa, May 8.—The special committee of the House of Commons to consider the introduction in Canada of a system of old-age pensions met yesterday morning, with Hon. Mr. Lemieux as chairman, and decided to call Prof. Adam Shortt of Queen's University, Prof. Mayor of Toronto University and J. D. O'Donoghue, legal adviser to the organized labor bodies of the country, to appear before the committee and present their views on this matter.

Body Found In the Woods.

Brockville, May 8.—Going over the trail to a lumber camp between Ogdensburg and Gouverneur, two men discovered the body of Natulk Carl lying between two logs close to the trail. It had apparently been there all winter, as the clothing was light and the leaves beneath the body dry. The head was pillowed on a checked overshirt and standing on one of the logs was a quart bottle two-thirds filled with whisky, which told the story of the tragedy.

Costly Invitation Cards.

Vancouver, May 8.—En route to Ottawa to visit Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Earl Grey, thence to Washington where President Roosevelt will be interviewed, Harry J. Landahl of Dawson City is awaiting the arrival of three specially prepared invitations which will be presented personally, inviting them to visit the Klondyke at the close of the Alaska Yukon exposition to be held in Seattle next year. These "invitation cards" will cost $300 each.

Sailor Slashed With a Knife.

Kingston, May 8.—The second fierce fight within a week took place at "Beefsteak Jack's" restaurant yesterday. Robert Berde, a Norwegian, was slashed about the head with a knife, and George Anderson, a Dane, is locked up on a charge of assault with attempt at murder. Anderson does not belong to the sailors' union, and when Berde called him a scab he attacked him.

Smallpox Patient In Irons.

Edmonton, May 8.—A smallpox patient who broke quarantine here was recaptured and placed in irons to teach him to respect the laws of public health.

Poor Outlook For Cheese.

Kingston, May 8.—Local cheese men say that the season does not look very encouraging. A considerable quantity of last year's make remains unsold.

ICE BREAKER WAS DAMAGED

C.P.R. Steamship Milwaukee and Montcalm in Collision.

Quebec, May 8.—Shortly after nine o'clock last night, as the Dominion Government ice-breaker Montcalm was turning in the river, making for the Allan wharf, she was run into by the C. P. R. line steamer Milwaukee, which was on her way to Montreal.

The Milwaukee struck the Montcalm on the starboard side about 50 feet from the bow, cutting a very bad hole from eight to ten feet wide. The Montcalm, which immediately began to fill, was headed for her mooring at the Point Carey wharf.

Her after watertight compartments were immediately closed, but she began to settle forward. The Montcalm has been in dry dock all winter undergoing extensive repairs, and had just arrived from Gaspe, where she was engaged in breaking up the ice at the entrance to that harbor.

The Milwaukee apparently suffered no damage and continued on her way to Montreal.

POLITICAL ETHICS

Speaking of Sullivan and the reasons for his great popularity, Davies said:

"John L. was gruff. He never made any serious efforts to gain friends, yet to-day he is the most admired man connected with boxing. Why? Because he always fought on the level. It always seemed to me that the big fellow deserved special recommendation for being able to resist temptation while a young man. It's not so hard for an old fellow to be honest."

We have steadily maintained that the Examiner was wrong in saying that the world had come to set up less exacting standards of morality in politics and in governmental relations than in ordinary matters and that parsons thought it no sin to cheat the customs, etc., We still maintain it. Otherwise we should have to admit that the prize-ring is away ahead of politics and governmental relations and the cheating parsons. "Parson" Davies, although not a regular parson, and so not qualified for the Examiner's description, is a steady upholder of the ring and he gives John L. a clean bill of health, such as the Examiner et al. think is wholly unnecessary and highfalutin' in a politician. What sort of cattle does it think politicians are anyhow? And the parsons? And the public generally?

MR. WHITNEY

"Hamilton, May 6.—Electors turned out in great force last night to greet Hon. J. P. Whitney, Premier. They packed the Savoy Theatre, 2,000 strong, and crowded the overflow meeting in the auditorium of the Conservative Clubs. They cheered his appearance and cheered his appearance and cheered his speech. Bye-and-bye the subejct of education was reached. The cheering was longer and louder—it was all in anticipation.

"I think I understand the situation here," he began bluntly. "I have been told what has been said, and can imagine what will be said. It is concerning the establishment of a technical institution in Hamilton." (Prolonged applause.)

Mr. Whitney held up his hand to stay the cheering. "To my mind," he declared, amid silence, "the man who bribes an individual is a tyro in sin compared with the man who bribes a constituency. Let me tell you frankly and squarely. I am not here to promise anything to Hamilton. I am told I may lose votes by it. If so, I will lose them, but I do not believe that such will be the decision of the electors. In any event I propose to stand fast on that principle."

There was no applause.

"The Government will do what is right and fair by Hamilton," Mr. Whitney continued, "and we will do it no matter whom you elect. The Ontario Government may fail sometimes, being mortal, but it will not shed its self-respect. It will deal with Hamilton just the same if you elect two Liberals." (Very mild approbation.)"

The action of Mr. Whitney in declining to appear as willing to bribe the city of Hamilton on the eve of an election will be appreciated by all men. Some of those who appreciate it, however, will laugh at it as a piece of "highfalutin'" high-mindedness (see the Examiner on the fact that the world has come to set less and less store by morality in politics and governmental relations.) Others will think differently. If it were not for the sporting proclivities of the people most of them would never learn fair play and what is fair play, but common decency and square dealing? Two little boys, one six years old and the other possibly eight, were playing marbles. The younger boy cheated. "Can't you play fair, or are ye only a common dub?" cried the older one scornfully. That boy will be a man some day. He will be neither a degenerate, a deviate, a derelict, nor a coward. Such boys and such men are our real heroes and we know it. Women preserve for us our love of the lovely and the loveable. In more ways than one they hold us to a sense of man's responsibility. It is this element of strength in Mr. Whitney that engages the attention and admiration of all right-thinking people. Anyhow, even on much lower grounds the public prizes honest, fearless men. The business world demands them. There is no more room for drunks, bums, crooks and shysters nowadays, even in the business world. They are a poor investment. It is a matter worthy of note that fair dealing and honesty in the abstract and concrete merge into one and the same thing after all.

EDITORIAL NOTES

De Quiz—Have you heard a robin yet?

Gee Whiz—No, but I've seen a woman with her head tied up in a towel beating a carpet in the back yard.—Judge.

Protests are the order of the day. The geese who haunted and gave their name to Goose Island have abandoned that place of foregathering as a protest against it and its unsightly surroundings. To the small boy this part of Water street is known as Sloppy street.

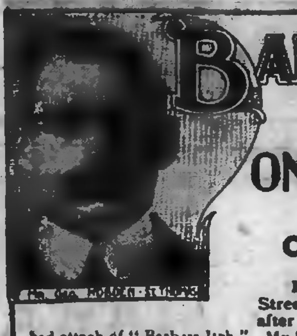
The Savoy theatre at Hamilton was jammed on the occasion of Mr. Whitney's great speech to the electors. There were also two large overflow meeting held at the same time addressed by the other ministers. It was a great gathering on a great occasion. They were satisfied also.

Ontario's premier parades the bargain sale of virtually obsolete textbooks as text-book reduction. It affects public school readers only, and will last only till the new readers are authorised.—Globe.

Does the Globe presume to say that this is either a fair or truthful presentation of the school-book case?

The Globe's assumption that Mr. Whitney used the word "hirelings" with referrence to the University Board in any other than a sarcastic sense is mere pretence and dishonesty. The word was used to suggest to the Globe that in its spasms of rage against Mr. Whitney it should dub these gentlemen along with the rest hirelings and hangers on, too.

The Examiner special from Warsaw re Mr. Thompson's very successful meeting there was, of course, a little "off." In the first place, it was not Mr. Madill, of Hall's Glen, who was chairman, but Mr. Wilson, of of Warsaw. Then the count of "47 present" was not made at the "peak" load. There was a much larger attendance than that, and with no boys —all good, solid men.



BARBERS RASH.

FACE and NECK ONE MASS of SORES.

CURED BY ZAM-BUK.

Mr. George Hobden, residing at 108 Manitoba Street, St. Thomas, Ont., says: "Three years ago after having a shave at the barbers' I had a very bad attack of "Barbers Itch." My left cheek broke out in a mass of red, watery pimples, and the more I bathed and rubbed (as the itching was intense) the more pimples appeared. This eruption gradually spread all over the lower part of my face and neck and kept getting more inflamed and troublesome until it developed into a mass of running sores and scabs. In the meantime I had been using one remedy after another, but instead of checking this disease, it grew worse. I was suffering cruelly when I happened to read an advertisement of Zam-Buk. I straightway obtained a box at the druggists and began using. The first application checked the itching and encouraged me to persevere in using. In a short space of time this wonderful salve had worked like magic, cleaning out the sores, healing them up and banishing the unsightly scabs. I kept on applying for a few days longer until I was positive of a cure and my face was smooth and free from all traces of pimples or eruptions. I am now cured, thanks to Zam-Buk."

ZAM-BUK'S WONDERFUL WAY!

Zam-Buk has revolutionised existing methods of healing cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, chapped hands, cold sores, chafings, and treats in a new, scientific and effective way the worst case of eczema, piles, ulcers, bad legs, blood-poisoning, festering, psoriasis, scurf, ringworm, children's scalp troubles, sores on the back, and all those inflamed, burning, irritable and diseased conditions of the human skin that incapacitate and torture their thousand victims. Police Magistrate Straightens Out a Mix up at Omemee

Lindsay, May 7—In Omemee the other day a man named Henderson, who apparently had imbibed to much of the product of the barley, assaulted a resident of the budding hamlet by the name of Ed. Dancy, and passed a few remarks concerning the genealogical tree of Dancy, which were hardly conducive to morality. The result was that County Police Magistrate Moore was called upon to officiate at a case in Omemee yesterday. The charge was assault and abusive language. After hearing the evidence the magistrate fined Henderson $2 for the charge of assault, and $5 for the abusive language charge together with the costs of the case. He was admonished to go and sin no more.

THE FIRST WESLEYAN PEER

It seems a strange thing that although Methodism has for so many years been such a spiritual power in Great Britain and her sons have distinguished themselves in many different ways, yet Sir Henry Fowler is the first Methodist who has ever been created a Peer of the Realm. There are many Lords, and there are forty Roman Catholic Peers. Yet so far Methodism has had no representative in the Upper House. Probably one reason for this may lie in the fact, of which Methodism is proud rather than ashamed, that she has gone by preference to carry the Gospel to the common people, and her ranks have been largely recruited from the middle classes and the poor. However, her sons have recently been forging their way to the front politically. Mr. Walter Runciman, who has recently entered the Cabinet and accepted the post of Minister of Education, is a member of the Methodist church and there are now forty-three or forty-four Methodist members of Parliament. This is quite a change from 1880 when the number was only seven. Probably by and by even the Lords will show a large besprinkling of Methodists.—Christian Guardian.

BUGGY DAMAGED IN RUNAWAY TO-DAY AT NOON

A Number of Hogs Going Down Geo. St. Frightened Horse

A runaway accident on George st. at noon to-day caused considerable excitement. Mr. Wm. Stabler was driving about three hundred hogs down George street. Mr. Jas. Bell was driving north in a buggy when he met the swine, just in front of Ackerman's harness factory. The horse became frightened and made for the side of the road, and collided with a telegraph post. The shaft of the buggy was broken and the top was also smashed.

A DAINTY GIFT.

The Girl Who Plays Will Enjoy a Music Case.

A dainty gift for the girl who plays is a cover to hold sheet music that can be laid on the piano or on a table near it. This prevents the unsightly litter of music that is often a source of conflict between mother and musical daughter.

Cut two pieces of heavy cardboard a little larger than the ordinary piece of music. Paste on each side with cotton batting and cover with linen taffeta, brocaded silk or even plain art canvas in a color suitable to the room.

Paste the outer covering down over the pasteboard and baste the lining to it, turning in the edges neatly all around. Overcast together with the tiniest possible stitches.

Finish around the edge of the outside with gold braid. The two halves can be joined along the back edge by a piece of elastic webbing in a harmonizing color. This will stretch so as to hold any number of sheets of music.

Fasten the case in front with a small gilt button and a loop of colored elastic rather than with ribbon, which soils easily and must be constantly untied.

It is better to keep the music in this case loose, but if preferred the sheets can be pasted togther and fastened to the back by ribbon run through the center and around the back of the case, or holes can be punched through case and music, and it can be tied in with three short pieces of ribbon.

These cases may be made of the simplest yet most artistic materials, such as cretonnes and English chintzes, or they can be elaborately embroidered on white silk or brocades, in gold and silver thread or in ribbon work.

An attractive cover for a green room would be of heavy green moire, with a medallion formed of half, quarter, eighth, sixteenth and thirty-second notes, worked in gold thread in solid embroidery and interlaced in an artistic way.

This should be large enough to hold a monogram, or the medallion could be oval in shape, with the word "Music Case" embroidered on the inside.

If a large floral design of taffeta is used, see that it comes evenly on the center of each board.

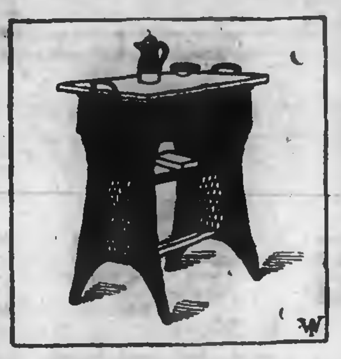
A TEA TABLE NOVELTY.

The Removable Tray Top Has Many Advantages.

For summer cottages and veranda use the new wicker tea table is both serviceable and attractive. Now that this style of furniture plays such a part in the outfitting of bungalows and delightful little cottages all that was needed to complete the necessary pieces was a tea table, for we are growing daily more and more devoted to our afternoon tea.

This novel table is made in an oblong shape, and it has a plain wooden top, over which fits a glass tray rimmed with Sheffield plate and provided with handles to match. The tray fits over the edges of the table top so there is no chance of its slipping.

The removable tray top has many advantages over the old kind. It makes the table useful for other purposes when the tea is not being served, and it saves the maid extra trips in bringing in the tea service, hot water, etc. The removable tray can be arranged in the kitchen and everything brought into the sitting room or to the veranda at once. It is always annoying to have to send for lemon, sugar and hot water, which are apt to be overlooked by the maid.



TEA TABLE IN GREEN WICKER.

The underpart of the table has shelves, which may be used for books or to hold empty teacups. They are always handy places, and when one is serving tea there never seems to be enough room to take care of all the dishes required in serving even a small group of friends.

A curate's assistant in wicker has recently been added to the novelties in tea accessories. This has a glass top also, but instead of forming a tray and being removable it is made like a lid to lift up from one end. There are shelves underneath, also covered with glass. The table runs on wheels and has handles made after the style of the expensive inlaid mahogany pieces without which a fashionable drawing room would now be considered incomplete.

Green is the favorite color for wicker furniture, partly because it is fresh and cool looking for summer and partly because it is a durable shade.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

In extreme cases of emaciation olive or cod liver oil taken internally is most desirable, but the oil should be ordered by a physician.

Children who bite their nails must be treated for nervousness, and no amount of scolding, whipping or coaxing can overcome the fault where it is a physical breakdown.

Red ears, which often proceed from the same cause as does a red nose, may sometimes be relieved by bathing the ears in water as hot as can be endured in which have been mixed a little cologne and borax.

A good hip reducing exercise if not carried to excess is to stand on a slight elevation, say on a hassock or the end of a steamer trunk, and swing the leg back and forth like a pendulum. At first take this motion quite slowly and later increase the speed and the height of the arc described.

Never on any account should children be allowed to wear boots or shoes which are not absolutely comfortable. If boots are at all tight or too short, corns of course will be one inevitable result; but, what is still a greater evil, the child will acquire an awkward gait, which will probably cling to it all its life. Care should be taken, too, that boots are not buttoned too tightly round the ankle, as this will often cause suffering to the little wearer.

Mr. Morgan's Collection.

Everybody knows that J. Pierpont Morgan, the great financier, would go to the end of the earth to procure a picture that was pronounced a masterpiece or a snuffbox that was said to have belonged to a French king, but few people are aware that within the last couple of years he has amassed the most valuable collection of carpets and rugs in the world. One particular oriental carpet—it is really little more than a rug, for it measures only about twenty feet by fifteen—cost $17,000. For this he recently sent a special messenger to Persia. It is the most perfect specimen of its kind in the world. The coloring is deep blue, red and a slight touch of orange, the design being vines in blue on a red ground, the border spirals, leaves and medallions. Another rug, which is supposed to be more valuable, though it cost considerably less, a mere $7,500, is of the royal Tabris workmanship and measures only fifteen feet by ten.

It seems that the fame of Mr. Morgan as a rug collector has now spread to Persia, China and the remote parts of the earth, with the result that he is now inundated with offers of "treasures." His post bag from these quarters alone is the cause of many unparliamentary remarks from his secretary, whose duty it is to open and read carefully every document sent to the multimillionaire, be it only the typical circular puffing a new gold mine or a patent medicine.

The body of W. G. Kennedy, a commercial traveller, was found in the harbour at Vancouver.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, May 7.—The total receipts of live stock as reported by the railways, at the city market for Wednesday and Thursday, were 83 carloads, composed of 1293 cattle, 1483 hogs, 156 sheep, 850 calves.

Exporters.

Not many export steers were offered, but some of those were bought for butcher purposes at as high prices as the best shipping cattle. Export steers, $5.50, to $6; export bulls, $4 to $5.25 per cwt.; export cows, $4.75 to $5.25 per cwt.

Butchers.

Butchers—Prime picked lots of butchers' cattle were scarce and sold at $5.75 to $6.12½; loads of good, $5.60 to $5.70; medium loads, $5.25 to $5.50; common, $4.75 to $5.15; good cows, $4.75 to $5; fair to good cows, $4 to $4.50; common cows, $3.50 to $3.90; canners and rough cows, $2.50 to $3.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report a fair trade during the week, having made a good clearance of all their purchases of the week, which amounted to over 200 cattle. The Messrs. Murby report prices as follows: Good steers, 1000 to 1100 lbs. each, at $4.75 to $5 per cwt.; good steers, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, at $4.50 to $4.75; good steers, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.90 to $4.25; good steers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $3.25 to $3.90; light stockers, 400 to 600 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.25.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a fairly good market for good to choice milkers and springers, but the common light cows were hard to dispose of at any price. One drover who brought in four cows of the common kind, that cost him $130 in the country, was only offered $100 for them on the market. Prices were reported at $25 to $60 each, and one extra choice heavy cow at $70. The bulk of the best cows sold from $40 to $55 each.

PRACTICE OPTIMISM.

This Art Makes Work a Joy and Life Happy.

In a recent number of Harper's Bazar Alice Fallows has an excellent and exceedingly helpful article upon the subject of "A Mind Cure For Women's Ills." Although every one of us would doubtless reap much benefit from a thoughtful consideration of the whole article, the last two paragraphs are especially worthy of every woman's most earnest consideration:

"Some mortals blessed of the gods are so nicely balanced that they live without effort in a delightful equilibrium of mind, body and spirit that makes work a joy and living a pleasant procession of useful days. The rest of us, and we are the majority, must achieve our equilibrium by efforts that make us appreciate Patrick's famous progress to heaven—two steps up and one back. The practice in self control that makes perfect is gained from just the trifling occurrences that seem so absurdly unimportant.

"An inflexible determination to meet what each hour brings efficiently and calmly and without irritation is the first requirement for nervous health. Next, the practice of optimism; not the flabby optimism that blinds its eyes to realities and wears a fatuous smile that never dies, but the intelligent optimism that sees two sides to every human happening and deliberately chooses the bright one until choice becomes a habit. This, in a nutshell, is psychotherapy, and by the application of it hundreds of nervous sufferers have won their way to health and peace of mind. Hundreds more, if they follow the prescription, can escape a breakdown altogether and learn a happier method of living than ever before. Out of this systematic training in the little things grows at last the trust, the 'wise passivity,' in meeting the hard facts of life, that is only another name for the potential energy that conquers them. When the practice of optimism has subjugated depression and an orderly body obeys an orderly mind, there comes as a reward the buoyant hopefulness of health, the joy in mere living, that throws out its arms and 'with a frolic welcome takes the sunshine and the storm.'"

TABLE DECORATIONS.

When one is using a special flower for the decoration of the table at a formal luncheon or dinner, it is artistic to have the same flowers used as a garnish for as many of the dishes as possible.

Thus if one has daisies and ferns in the center of the table have the lampshades of green paper cut in narrow frondlike pieces to represent ferns.

Serve the oysters in their shells, with a wreath of ferns around the outside and a lemon nestling in a bed of daisies in the center.

Twine the stems of sherbet glasses in maidenhair if it can be done just before sending to the table; otherwise it will be too wilted.

If you have grape fruit served in glasses, have them standing in a wreath of daisies, with ferns on the stems, or if the half fruit is served let the edge of the plate be wreathed with a mixed wreath of ferns and daisies.

The ices should be molded in the form of daisies if you care to go to the expense and should have a touch of pistache in them to represent the green.

NO DEBAUCH AT CAMPBELLFORD

Story Published in a Local Paper is Denied

An article appeared in the Peterborough Examiner, descriptive of the scenes on Campbellford streets on April 30th, the last night of the licensed system. The information was given a reporter by a furniture traveller. The article is entirely devoid of truth, and the only solution we can give to the traveller having made such a statement is that he had not himself yet recovered from the effects of a debauch on that night. He was certainly "seeing things at night.—Campbellford Herald.

THE REVIEW'S NEW STORY

One of the Most Interesting of Recent Day Accounts of Capital and Labour

Beginning tomorrow, Saturday, May 9th, the Review will publish the story of "The Lion and the Mouse," novelized from Charles Klein's great play It is an American story of the hour dealing with the billionaire. Its leading character is the richest man in the world. In the thinly veiled John Ryder the reader will immediately recognize another John of world wide fame. John Ryder's unscrupulous methods are revealed in the conspiracy to ruin an incorruptible judge who rules adversely to the interests of organized capital. The judge's daughter determines to save him. Her heroic struggles in conflict with the money octopus make a story of absorbing interest and great dramatic power. In his willingness to renounce his father's fortune for the girl of his choice, Ryder's son displays a nobility which wins the reader's warmest admiration.

Two cannon and an anchor from the fleet of Admiral Walker, destroyed by a storm off Egg Island in 1711, are offered the committee of the Quebec celebration for relics from the Quebec battlefields.

PLAGUE OF MICE TROUBLING PETERBOROUGH HOUSEWIFES

All of us have heard the tale of the three blind mice, but its a different story in Peterborough just now. There are a good many more than three mice and they are not blind by any means. On the contrary they have their eyes wide open all the time for any mischief that can be done and to get into every place where they shouldn't be.

According to many housewives there is a plague of mice in the city at the present time and they are causing no end of trouble. Cats, the kind that are good mousers, are coming into fashion again, and the hardware men are having a big sale of traps.

Although no organization has been formed, the women folks are apparently making a combined attack to beat off the enemy and if the mice are wise they will beat it to the tall timbers of Apsley or some other out of the way sort of place.

One lady caught twelve mice with a little spring trap yesterday and is still on the warpath after more mousey scalps. The housewives are carrying the war right into the enemy's quarters and intend staying in the field until they have stamped out the plague.

THE WEST EXPECTS BIGGEST CROP IN ITS HISTORY

Increase in Acreage Will be Tremendous—Glowing Reports From Many Points—Conditions Have Been Ideal

Winnipeg, Man., May 8.—While the central and southern states have been squirming in the grip of blizzard and tornado, the Canadian West have been experiencing the finest spring weather known in the history of the country. This year has been marked by as early a commencement of seeding operations as has ever been known, and all that was required to make the situation perfect was moisture. The winter was exceptionally mild, with a great deal less snow than the preceding year, in consequence of which the land dried up very quickly and allowed the farmers to get to work. Then came a few days of bounteous rains, followed by a light fall of snow, which is even more beneficial than rain at this season.

Reports received from Western points indicate that the increase in acreage will be tremendous and under favorable conditions Western Canada should this year more than ever demonstrate that she is the future granary of the world. Local grainmen are already making their estimate of what the Western wheat crop will be, and conservative men have stated that in their opinion 125,000,000 bushels of wheat alone will be threshed out in 1908. In this connection an estimate regarding wheat acregae made by W. H. McWilliams, an American prominent in the Winnipeg grain trade trade, and President of the Canadian Elevator Co., makes very interesting reading. This gentleman has reports from every section of the West, and says that 7,000,000 acres will be seeded to wheat alone this year, or an increase of 2,000,000 acres over last year. The increase in coarse grains is also expected to be very large, as advises from many districts show that the farmers arre seeding more and more acreage of oats and barley.

A Calgary despatch states that the winter crop in the country south of the C.P.R. will be by far the largest in the history of that branch at farming in the West, conditions from its early growth having been ideal.

Settlers from the United States continue to pour into the country. A great many of the better class of settlers from Iowa, Indiana and Illinois are purchasing land in the country tributary to Winnipeg, and one firm who makes a specialty of bringing in farmers from the first named state, disposed of 15,000 acres the other day.

LOCAL MAN SAYS BUSINESS IS DEAD IN NEW ONTARIO

Mr. M. Carton, Sophia street, Ashburnham, returned last evening after a six weeks sojourn in New Ontario. Mr. Carton had a number of grocery businesses in different parts but has now closed them all, having been back there for that purpose. He was forty miles north of New Liskeard

Speaking of conditions in New Ontario Mr. Carton said things were very dead. Merchants were feeling the stringency of the times, the hardest. The great rush into the country of settlers and prospectors has died away. The merchants feeling that the great boom would last, had heavily stocked their stores with prospector's supplies. They find that they cannot sell them and in many cases failures have been the result. In Cobalt several of the mines have been closed, but yet Cobalt is the scene of much activity.

Mr. Carton was of the opinion that this apparent lull in business would eventually prove a blessing. The settlers will now clear and cultivate their farms, and a slow but more solid progress will be the result. A great revenue to the farmers is realized from pulp wood that is in abundance in that country. Five dollars a cord is paid for it to pile it on the bank of the river ready for shipment.

"DAWN" WAS NEARLY SWEPT OVER DAM AT LAKEFIELD

The steam tug "Dawn," owned by Mr. Richard Sheehy, came very nearly being swept over the dam at Lakefield yesterday. She left the village wharf in the morning for Lindsay, where she was to get a load of stone and bring it down to Lakefield. On the return trip something went wrong with the engine, leaving the boat in a bad way. The current was very swift, and the "Dawn" was swept down at a great rate. It was only with the greatest difficulty that it was prevented from going over. It is now lying at Lakefield awaiting repairs.

REPORT OF PRESIDENT OF THE LAWN BOWLING ASSOCIATION

The report of the president of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Association, Dr. Greer, which was read at the annual meeting on Wednesday night, was crowded out of Thursday's issue through lack of space. It is given below;

Peterrborough, May 6th

To the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Association:

Gentlemen—I beg leave to submit my report of the transactions of the club for 1907.

It is very gratifying to note that the interest manifested in former years has been consistently sustained during the past season.

The Club is to be congratulated in possessing such excellent facilities for the full enjoyment of the game.

Favorable weather conditions coupled with the work of a good caretaker and the faithful supervision of an efficient executive have given us a very creditable bowling green, which will continue to improve as time goes on, under the wise care it will no doubt receive.

As the success of the club and the amount of pleasurre to be derived from the game depend so largely on the character of the green, I would like to emphasize the necessity of adopting the very best means within our reach to get as near perfection as possible in this regard.

To this end I would suggest the appointment of a special Green Committee whose sole duty would be to supervise its care. I would also recommend that the caretaker, in cutting the grass, rolling and watering the lawn should spend all the time that the said committee deem necessary to keep it in good condition.

SPLENDID SPORT

During the season much added interest was exhibited in the keen competition for the various prizes, which were generously donated by warm supporters of the Club.

Messrs W G Ferguson, A H Stratton, D H Moore, and Vice-President J E A. Fitzgerald, each presented a pair of bowls, for competition respectively, in the senior and junior Scotch doubles, and in the senior and junior singles.

The Frost Trophy, also, was again played for in the rink competition.

In this series many close and exciting games were played, and although the rivalry was keen, nothing but the very best of good feeling and true sportsmanlike spirit prevailed throughout.

Senior Scotch Doubles; Messrs J E A Fitzgerald, and W J Thompson

Junior Scotch Doubles; Messrs. M Kirne and R J Matchett.

Senior Singles; Dr. Holloway.

Junior Singles; J J Cunningham.

The Frost Trophy was won by the rink skipped by Mr. R M Waddell, the other players being Messrs. C. Frost, R Brightman and T. Matheson.

On the evening of November 27th a very enjoyable and largely attended smoker was held by the members of the Club in the Curling Rink Club room. A feature of the evening was the presentation of the prizes to the different winners. This interesting ceremony was very gracefully conducted by our esteemed past president, Mr. D H Moore.

THE GAMES

I deem it very much in the interest of the Club that the games in the various competitions be systematically arranged for, and played off as far as possible in accordance with the schedule and for the better accomplishment of this end I would recommend the election of a games secretary whose exclusive duty would be the supervision of all matters pertaining to games. I notice that other clubs have such an officer and I believe it would be very advantageous for us to follow this example.

During the season several games were played with outside clubs.

Port Hope visited us twice, the local club winning on both occasions.

There were home and home contests with the Millbrook club, Peterborough winning 3 out of 4 games played.

Two rinks from Bowmanville also honored us with a visit and were successful in defeating our boys by a close score.

In the interest of the club and the city I believe these outside games should be still more encouraged.

Regarding the financial affairs of the club, I am pleased to be able to report that they are in a satisfactory condition. As you will learn from the Secretary-Treasurer's report, our total receipts for 1907 were $294, and our total expenditure was $264.07, leaving a small surplus for the year of $29.93. But we carried over from 1906 a debt of $160 so that we close the year owing the Dominion Bank with interest to date $146.00.

I would strongly urge that provision be made for wiping out this debt this year.

$5 FEE SUGGESTED

A membership fee of $4 is inadequate to run the club and I hope you will see your way to raise the fee to $5 at least.

This, I think with the increased membership we are likely to have, will enable us to end the year with a clean sheet.

In conclusion, I desire to thank you for the honor you conferred upon me by electing me your president. The prosperity of the club, however, has been largely due to the work of the other executive officers, rather than to any efforts of mine.

My duties in consequence have been light and I wish to convey to the past president, the vice-president and other officers and members my grateful appreciation of their valuable assistance, and the kind treatment extended to me during the year and I bespeak for my successor the same measure of support and courtesy.

Respectfully submitted,
T. NEWTON GREER,
President.

The baseball match which was to have been played at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon between the Alerts of Toronto, and the Peterboro nine has been cancelled owing to the poor condition of the grounds. They would have been in fine condition had it not been for the downpour of rain. Had it cleared up last night the game could have been played, but to-days drizzle put an end to any hopes for the match.

The Alerts will be here on the following Saturday, May 16th, and will have a strong team. The local fans are getting worked up over the baseball situation and are anxious to get a line on the two local teams.

ST. CATHERINES' WALK WILL COMMENCE ON 18TH OF MAY

Local Pedestrians Will Enter—Walking Grinds for Toronto and Port Hope Are Now Under Serious Consideration —A Big Boom in the Sport

The big six-day walk at St. Catharines will commence on Monday, May 18th. The limit will be five miles an hour. The race will be held three hours a night for five nights and nine hours on Saturday. This will make the total time of the walk 24 hours, or 12 hours less than the one held it Peterborough. The Star Journal in St. Catharines and the Standard, the two journals there, will be publicity boomers for the event. It will be held at the Cameron Bros. and Bailey's rink, Philips street. Peterboro will be represented by Charlie Stevens, the best boy walker in Canada, and Dave Hartley, the holder of the long distance championship of Canada. About ten fast men from St. Catharines are expected to enter and it will be a great fight between the walkers of Peterborough and St. Catharines.

Jimmy Graham, the well-known Buffalo Kid will also be one of the starters. Stenner may also go up from here, and Harrison, the English pedestrian who did such splendid work at the tournament held here, is also one of those who will enter. Other good ones will take part.

There are 18 laps to the mile in the track at St. Catharines and the hardwood floor will form the track bottom, as no sawdust will be used. At the request of the management, Messrs. Cameron Bros. and Bailey, Mr. Stevens will act as referee and manager. He was most successful as promoter of the walking tournament here and should make an excellent man in the above capacities.

WALK IN TORONTO.

Mr. Stevens was in Toronto the other day and consulted Mr. A. Miln, manager of the Mutual St. rink, and Mr. Frank Ekmer, sporting editor of the Mail and Empire, concerning the holding of a six day walk in the Mutual St. rink. Both of the above gentlemen thought the idea a good one and the event may take place from the 25th to the 30th of this month. If held it could be under the management of Frank Ekmer of the Mail and W. A. Hewit, sporting editor of the Star, will probably be associated with him. Mr. Stevens will also probably be identified with the walk to assist the management and produce the walkers.

ABOUT PORT HOPE

Mr. Stevens was in Port Hope and had a talk there with those who would most naturally take an interest in the walking game there. A walk of four days at the time of the Old Boys' reunion was suggested and will likely be arranged for if the rink in the Lake Ontario Town can be secured for $50.

It seems quite reasonable that the management should be able to obtain the rink for the above figure on account of the big attraction that would be brought to Port Hope if the walk were held and of the great advertisement it would be to the town.

ATHLETICS

I see Joe Dwyer cannot keep out of the limelight. Joe was referee in a wrestling match in Peterborough the other night. The loser said, "Your rotten, Dwyer." But Joe heard that same thing in Lindsay last year when manager of the C.L.S. But before the season closed all the teams had to take their hats off to Joe, and with a fair shake his nine would have captured the jewellery. But that is all right "Josie." Stay in the game somewhere; you will be a long time looking up at the pine boards and the daisies. — Lindsay Warder.

OVAL NOT TO BE USED YET

Park Commissioners Do Not Wish Teams to Practice on it Until Further Notice

The Park Commissioners don't want the Nicholls Oval used again until further notice. It is, of course, not the intention of the commissioners to restrict the different athletic bodies in the matter of practicing, but it has been found necessary to have practices discontinued until the grounds have become dryer. At present they are in such a shape that they would be cut up if used and thus be affected for the rest of this season.

YOUNGSTOWN PAPER SAYS BURRIDGE IS MAKING GOOD

The following clipping from a Youngstown paper will be read with interest by local baseball fans;

Manager Sam Wright has started to weed out his surplus material and Thursday morning he handed out releases to three members of his squad. Those who have been let out are Pitchers John Moore and Frank Cook and Catcher Feist. Moore is a good pitcher and hails from Newark, O. He has been suffering from a sore arm all through the training season and has not been able to demonstrate to the management his true worth. When his arm "gets right" he should be able to land a berth with any good team on the circuit.

Cook is a Youngstown boy and also has a good future ahead of him. He too has been troubled with a sore arm and had hardly been able to throw a swift ball this spring. Feist is the catcher Manager Wright obtained from Wheeling of the Central league. He is a comer and is already a rattling good backstop.

As Wright had one too many in this department someone had to go. Burridge, the Canadian backstop, who played with Peterborough last year, is showing up better each day and it is probable that he will now land the soft pedal job. He is becoming better acquainted with the other members of the regulars and is expected to make an excellent addition to the team. Then, too, he's an important product, b'gosh.

In a letter to a friend here, Harry Burridge says that Jack Connors was up against a hard proposition to catch a place on the Youngstown outfield. The other competitors for positions were Jack McAleese, who has played in the Eastern League, Bill Thomas, a former member of the Boston American League, team, Kerr, who has been the leading fielder in the Pennsylvannia—Ohio league for four or five years, and Wagner, a cousin of the famous Hans. It will be seen that Connors was in pretty fast company.

PORT HOPE MAY HAVE BIG WALK

George Stevens Endeavoring to Make Arrangements for 4 Days Contest

Mr. Geo. Stevens, who managed the six-day walking contest held in Peterborough recently, was in town this week and endeavored to complete arrangements for a four-day walking contest in Port Hope, during the Old Boy's Re-union, beginning July 1st. Mr. Stevens interviewed the rink management and they asked $100 rent for the rink for four days. Mr. Stevens offered $50. No decision was reached. Should arrangements be completed the contest in all probability will be made a 32 hour affair with eight hours each day, on July 1, 2, 3 and 4th. Mr. Stevens is also planning a 12 day race to take place in Toronto.—Port Hope Times.

HAVING CHILDREN'S EYES EXAMINED

People Suffer Through Life With the Disadvantages of Impaired Vision, as a Result of the Neglect of the Eyes in Childhood.

It is a familiar fact that the acuteness of vision varies extremely among adults, and that certain defects of the eye, such as shortsightedness, can be so completely remedied as to restore to the individual almost perfect sight. Now, there exists among children just such differences in the acuteness of vision as is observed in adults, and many of the defects of the eye originate in the failure of the parents to appreciate these differences. It is a pity to put glasses upon a child, but a greater pity to neglect such when the future well-being of the eyes depend upon their help. Many parents and teachers nowadays realize the importance of having children's eyes properly examined to know whether or not glasses are necessary.

Many merchants in Manitoba and the North-West, anticipating their usual Spring business, ordered as lavishly as ever, but were, later, through the crop failure and the peculiar trade conditions, obliged to cancel these orders right and left. THE RAIN WILL GREATLY DELAY SEEDING OPERATIONS

"The low-lying land in Smith township is flooded and the roads are in very bad condition," said Reeve Scott, who is in the city today. He states that the steady downpour of rain will delay seeding operations for at least ten days.

"We were just getting nicely started" he said "when along came the rain and has put a stop to everything except the rising of water. The low places are covered with water and with average weather it will be at least two weeks before anything can be done to them."

Mr. Scott states that May will be nearly over before the seeding is completed.

ISLANDS IN STONY LAKE SUBMERGED BY HIGH WATER

If one were to take a trip through the back lakes at the present time he would be surprised to find that the beautiful rocky islands had disappeared. Mr. Pat. Young, of Young's Point, was in the city yesterday, and stated that the water was so high that many of the islands were submerged, and all that marked the spot where they are was the uppermost part of a cottage. In the opinion of the oldest summer residents of Stony Lake the water has never been so high since the spring of 1870. The difference in the low water mark last fall and now is eight feet.

The water around the cottages of Messrs. J. R. Stratton and W. H. Meldrum is within seven inches of the floor. Mr. Hopwood's island at Chemong is buried and many of the cottages built along the water front and in the south end of the park are surrounded with water. It is feared by many of the cottagers that their ice houses will be swamped and the ice swept away.

BAG OF GOLD IN A VALISE!

Toronto Man Reported to Have Made Lucky Purchase at Montreal

A despatch from Montreal says:

"A bag of gold in a valise." The news flashed through the crowd gathered around Auctioneer Hicks in the CPR baggage room, where he put 513 lots of unclaimed baggage under the hammer.

It was the first time the sale had been held in the baggage room off the platform the previous auctions having taken place in the immigration rooms in the basement and the change seemed to be appreciated by the two or three hundred purchasers assembled in the part of the building which was partitioned off from that in which the general baggage business of the day was carried on.

These sales are held annually in December, but as there was an accumulation of baggage that the station authorities wanted to get out of the way a supplementary auction was held today at which a miscellaneous assortment, of unclaimed baggage, chiefly trunks and valises but embracing odds and ends of various kinds, were put up and brought from twelve to fifteen hundred dollars into the company's exchequer.

The man who found a bag of gold in a valise was jeered at. "A gold brick," shouted some one.

But the man kept glancing at his treasure—about a dozen ounces of small nuggets in a little leather bag—and gold is worth $19 an ounce, or $200 in all. Nobody knew where they had come from. The man himself hustled away, evidently highly pleased with his three dollar purchase. He said his name was Jackson and that he came from Toronto.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review Does Not Hold itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

WHAT ABOUT THE PAST

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I presume you have seen the offer from the Liberal candidate for a mutual agreement between the two parties to indulge in no bribery, &c. It seems strange to me that these would-be purists are so suddenly anxious for a non-bribery campaign. If they will explain satisfactorily why they didn't put forth such an agreement in the days gone by, when their candidate was spending thousands of dollars in each of his elections and the poor Tories could not raise enough for legitimate expenses; then, I, for one, will be happy to urge upon our leaders the advisability of joining hands in the suggested agreement.

But after debauching the electors in three or four campaigns it is arrant nonsense for them to make any such suggestion now. What do you think, Mr. Editor?

HAVE TRAVERSED POISON ROUTE

Two More Dogs Fall a Victim—A Third One is Missing

Two more dogs took their departure for the land of peace yesterday via the poison route. One of them belonged to Mr. James Merrell, and the other to Mr. J. C. Smith. Both were found dead in the vicinity of Dixon Park and had apparently eaten something which did not agree with them. Mr. J. D. Pentland's dog has been missing since yesterday morning, and it is feared that he has partaken of poison and has lain down and died in some out of the way spot.

A WARM WELCOME IN PETERBOROUGH

Roselle Knott & Company Received With Much Enthusiasm in "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire"

Roselle Knott is a favorite with Peterborough audiences. And one does not have to go far for a reason for her popularity. As an exponent of the drama she has no equal in Canada and no superior on this continent, and has charmed local audiences by her clever delineation of difficult roles, vivacious manner, and pleasing personage. She appeared at the Grand Opera House last night with a splendid supporting company and won fresh laurels for herself in the character of Mrs. Grey in J. M. Barrie's masterpiece "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire."

A large and fashionable audience greeted the play and came away with nothing but words of praise for Roselle Knott and her company. It was her fourth appearance in Peterborough and it is ardently hoped that she will return again at an early date.

"Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire" is a charming drama which provides plenty of scope for Miss Knott's great ability. She was given excellent support by Andrew Robson, who did stellar work in the role of Col. Grey, just returned from India. Much interest centred in the appearance of Viola Knott, a daughter of Roselle Knott, who appeared here for the first time last night. She gave an excellent portrayal of the role of Amy Grey, and showed herself to be the possessor of much of her mother's histronic ability. John MacFarlane, as Stephen Rollo, was also everything that could have been desired. Ernest Truex as Cosmor Grey, was among the best in the cast and displayed great ability. The other members members were equally good.

So enthusiastic was the audience that several curtain calls were given at the end of each act.

To-morrow night "The Barber of Seville," will be presented at the Grand and judging by the way the seats are selling it will be greeted by a large audience.

BUY CASEY MOUNTAIN SHARES

IN THE

Casey Mountain Cobalt Mining and Development Company, Limited.

Chartered by the Ontario Government.

Authorized Capital - - - $250,000.00

Par Value of Shares Fully Paid Up and Non-Assessable, $1.00

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS:

PRESIDENT—R G. Williamson, Toronto, Ont., (formerly of Peterborough, Ont.) VICE-PRESIDENT—James Thompson, Havelock, Ont. SEC'Y-TREASURER—Dr. H. A. Wood, Peterborough. SUPERINTENDENT—D. Williamson, Haileybury, Ont.; D. A. Reid, Brandon, Man.

HEAD OFFICE - - - Manning Chambers, Toronto, Ont.

Why you should buy Casey Mountain shares;

Casey Mountain shares are fully paid-up and non assessable.

The Casey Mountain Mining Company has a large area, which is a regular net work of silver-bearing veins that will go down for thousands of feet.

Casey Mountain has the goods in unlimited quantities sufficient to last for generations.

Casey Mountain estimates that they have a silver bearing vein every 100 feet across the entire property, not counting cross-veins that will be encountered with underground development, and have uncovered 12 to date varying in width from 16 in. to 8 feet.

Casey Mountain is a mining proposition (not a stock speculation) and has been developed continuously during the past ten months, over 300 feet of underground work had been done, and one of the greatest ore bodies encountered that has yet been struck in the district, being 16 feet wide.

Casey Mountain Mines are situate on the adjoining lot to a property that according to good authority was sold last year for one million dollars, and whose shares are being sold at $7.00 each.

Casey Mountain is only capitalized at $250,000 00, a very important point to be considered in a Mining Company, and to give a comparison of our capitalization and a Company capitalized at two and one-half million dollars, that is, paying a dividend at a rate of 12 per cent per cent. per annum to its shareholders, which is equal to $300,000,00 on the total capitalisation; this amount of cash would mean 120 per cent. to Casey Mountain Shareholders. This point is worthy of great consideration for those investing in mining stock.

DIVIDENDS PAID BY COBALT MINING COMPANIES

Buffalo Mines, Limited (Cobalt) paid, during 1907	$ 81,000 00
The Coniagas Mines, Limited (Cobalt) paid during 1907	200,000 00
Foster Cobalt Mining Company, Limited, have paid	45,000 00
The Cobalt Silver Queen, Cobalt, paid during 1907	120,000 00
McKinly, Darragh, Savage Mining Co., Limited, have paid	45,000 00
Temiscaminga & Hudson Bay Co Mining Limited, have paid	746,120 00

(These shares could have been had at 50 cents and have sold as high as $190.00)

Cobalt Camp has produced 15,000,000 dollars during the past two years.

On the famous Homestead Mine in South Dakota the ore averages about $4.90 per ton, and over $69,000,000.00 has been paid in dividends. The Tredwell Mine in Alaska is running on ore that averages $2.00 a ton and is paying big dividends.

Casey Mountain Mining Company, Limited, has in sight thousands of tons of silver ore that will run $20.00 to a ton, and by treating 100 tons per day would mean a daily output of $2000 00, and allowing the sum of $500.00 per day for all expenses of mining, concentrating, freight and smelter charges, which is a large margin, would give an annual profit of nearly $500,000, or 200 per cent. on the total capitalization of the Company. The above figures are on our low grade ore only.

Quantity is what counts in a profitable mine, providing the grade is high enough to leave a margin over and above expenses.

Casey Mountain is practically a close Corporation, only sufficient shares having been sold to enable the Company to carry on development until returns are received from shipments, and only a small block remains unsold at par value $1.00 per share.

Buy Casey Mountain shares at once while they are on the market, as this will be positively the last opportunity of securing shares of this Company at one dollar each. Wire or mail reservation for shares to the Head Office, Manning Chambers, Toronto.

Additional information can be had from the Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. H. A. Wood, 408½ George Street, Peterborough.

C.P.R. HAS TROUBLE WITH ITS FREIGHT HANDLERS

Strike-Breakers Brought From Toronto—Many of Them Join the Strikers—The Rate of Wages the Cause Grain Shovelers Strike in Sympathy.

Owen Sound, May 9.—A strike that is assuming serious proportions is on here. Two hundred and fifty freight truckers on the Canadian Pacific Railway's through freight sheds walked out on the refusal of their demand for the restoration of last year's scale of wages, viz., 17 cents an hour.

To break the strike the railway brought from Toronto over 90 men. The train was greeted by hundreds of men, the strikers being augmented by curious spectators. At midnight the cars containing the Toronto contingent were shunted down to the sheds. Here they were greeted with hoots and groans, and some of the more mischievous of the crowd threw stones, several of the car windows being smashed.

On representation being made to the newcomers, they refused to leave the cars and go to work at the unloading of the Athabasca, which was lying at the slip alongside. Yesterday morning they were ejected from the cars and marched in a body up town, accompanied by many of the strikers. They stated that they had been hired in Toronto to come to Owen Sound to work on the grain and coal boats at 19c. to 20c. an hour. When on the way up, they say, that they were asked to sign the regular agreement as truckers to work at 12 1-2c. an hour, with the promise of a bonus. They did not know that a strike was on.

As a result of the strike the C. P. R. fleet is tied up, with the yards full of freight. The steamer Dundee lies at elevator "B" with a cargo, the grain shovelers going out with the other men, though they were receiving 19 cents an hour.

C. P. R. and the Longshoremen.

Quebec, May 9.—The Empress of Britain arrived yesterday. For many weeks there have been reports of the C.P.R. removing the terminus for the Empress from Quebec to either Three Rivers or Montreal, and it was not until the vessel had actually moored at Quebec that these rumors could be definitely disposed of.

The difficulty that has existed between the longshoremen and the C. P. R. is not by any means settled, but it has been decided to discharge the cargo at Quebec by the ship laborers, and after the freight is on the wharf the work of the longshoremen will then begin. It will then be for the company to either pay the increased price demanded or endeavor to employ outside labor.

THE BALLOTS ARE MISSING TRIAL HAS TO BE ADJOURNED

Another Hot Debate Over the Election Bill—Col. Gourdeau's Letter Asking for Leave of Absence Read—Ice-Breaker Montcalm Accident to be Investigated—To Invite the Ex-Governors.

Ottawa, May 9.—In the House yesterday R. L. Borden read a telegram from Sherbrooke to the effect that the clerk of the Crown in Chancery had been summoned to appear before the election court at Stanstead, and had reported that the box purporting to contain the ballots of the bye-election in January contained the ballots of the election of 1904.

The Prime Minister said the matter was brought to his attention a week ago, and it is being looked into. He added that the late clerk of the Crown in Chancery was an honorable and painstaking official, to which Mr. Borden agreed.

Dr. Reid called attention to the report of the ramming of the ice-breaker Montcalm at Quebec. Mr. Brodeur said he had given instructions to the wreck commissioner to hold an investigation at once.

Mr. Brodeur read the letter of Deputy Minister Gourdeau, asking for leave of absence. Writing March 31, Col. Gourdeau said:

"I have worried every moment since the publication of the Civil Service Commissioners' report, containing the accusation against the officials of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, which I feel are both unjust and untrue. I am convinced that a full and complete investigation will establish this and will clear the public mind of all the insinuations and reflections that have been made against them.

"As my presence in the Department as deputy head might in some quarters be considered prejudicial to the fullest enquiry, I beg to renew for the third time my application (for six months' leave of absence, preparatory to superannuation, and which I have so loyally hitherto refused to entertain under similar circumstances.

"I court the most rigid examination of all the Department's transactions, so far as I am concerned, and by placing myself in your hands I hope to assist you in that regard."

Mr. Fielding has returned from New York, and took the first opportunity to deny that his visit had anything to do with the question of the change of the route of the Transcontinental Railway. The report from New York was entirely without foundation. He went there on personal affairs, and had no negotiation with any financiers with respect to the bonds of the Transcontinental Railway. He added that there had been no negotiations with regard to a change of the route and no negotiations of any kind as to the matters referred to in the reports.

During the hour for private bills the bill to extend the time of the Grand Trunk Pacific branch lines was considered.

Houghton Lennox submitted an amendment declaring the right of the governor-in-council to take over the branch lines at a valuation upon the expiration of the lease of the National Transcontinental Railway, provided the sanction of Parliament is given.

Mr. Pugsley raised a point of order, that it was not within the power of a private member to submit a resolution which involved an expenditure of money. Mr. Lennox, however, pointed out that his amendment simply gave the Government the right to take over the branch lines, but the transfer must first receive the assent of Parliament.

Mr. Lennox was sustained by Mr. Speaker, and the discussion was continued by Messrs. Foster and Barker till the expiration of the hour.

The debate on the Aylesworth bill was continued by Mr. Crawford (Portage la Prairie), who dealt with the thin red line operations, claiming that very few qualified voters were disqualified by Leech. He asserted that there was no proper system of registration in Manitoba, and declared that in his own riding the lists were started with 600 or 700 Conservatives.

F. D. Monk, who followed, said the bill at first seemed innocent enough, but on closer examination it was found to be the most nefarious, most mischievous and most wicked piece of legislation that had ever come to his notice.

Mr. Monk had not lost faith in the Prime Minister, who had given the closest attention to the discussion, and who had no part in the framing of the bill.

Continuing in the evening, he expressed the fear that dishonest officials will be appointed to prepare the lists. For the curing of a grievance, Parliament had it in its power to refuse supply.

Emmanuel Devlin (Wright) argued that the new bill was necessary to bring under the municipal election law many classes of voters residing in the unorganized sections of the province. His other argument was that the bill "would cover many irregularities."

Mr. Lake (Qu'Appelle) commented on the failure of any Government speaker to defend the application of the proposed act to the Province of British Columbia. No one had even suggested that the British Columbia lists were perfectly fair.

Duncan Ross said, while admitting the lists were fair, the new law was necessary to make them applicable to the Federal electors.

The debate was adjourned at 11.15.

In the Senate yesterday afternoon Senator Macdonald of British Columbia suggested that the Government should invite the former Governor-Generals of Canada to be the guest of the Canadian Government at the Quebec celebration in July.

Those whom he thought should be included in this invitation were: the Duke of Argyle and Princess Louise, the Marquis and Marchioness of Lansdowne, the Earl and Countess of Derby, the Viceroy of Ireland and Lady Aberdeen and the Viceroy of India and Lady Minto.

Senator Macdonald further suggested that the Government should arrange a tour throughout Canada of those personages, so that they could see the progress which had been made.

Hon. Mr. Scott promised to have the Government's attention called to the suggestion.

MURDER AND SUICIDE AT VILLAGE OF HUNTSVILLE

Terrible Outcome of Jealousy—Nelson Smith of Berlin, Kills His Wife and Shoots Himself—The Deed Was Done With a Revolver.

Huntsville, May 9.—Jealousy is held to have been responsible for a double tragedy on the outskirts of this town yesterday, when Nelson Smith, an employe of the Galt, Hespeler, Preston and Berlin Railway, shot and killed his wife and then ended his own life with a bullet.

The shooting took place at the home of his father-in-law, James Goldie, a farmer. His wife, who was Miss Martha Goldie, had been visiting her parents. She was about 30 years of age and was married seven years ago.

Smith had just arrived in town. His home was in Berlin, where his mother and brothers reside. He had breakfast at an hotel and then went to the district school, where he asked to see his six-year-old son. He greeted the lad affectionately and asked him if his mother was at home and on being told that she was, he set off for the house. Smith seemed in his usual spirits and when he met his wife in the parlor, with her mother, he kissed her and seemed in the best of humor. The general conversation that followed was free from signs of anger or excitement, but a few minutes after Mrs. Goldie left the room she was horrified to hear two revolver shots.

She hurried back and found a younger daughter holding Mrs. Smith, while Smith stood nearby. To him she spoke, asking what he had done. Smith did not reply. He had evidently placed the revolver in his pocket, for his hands were free.

Mrs. Goldie pluckily attempted to hold him, but he brushed her to one side, knocking her down. He ran from the house to the lawn and there without hesitation sent a bullet into his own heart.

Mrs. Smith was shot twice, also in the region of the heart, one bullet having penetrated from the front and the other from behind. When Miss Goldie entered the room Smith was holding his wife in his arms. He made no objection when Miss Goldie gently took her sister in her own arms and lowered her to the floor.

Dr. Casselman, the coroner, conducted an inquest, at which formal medical evidence was taken, and Mrs. Goldie, a son and daughter, and a brother of the dead man also testified. They could throw no light on the cause of the tragedy, except that he was actuated by jealousy, and the jury returned a verdict to that effect.

Mrs. Smith was born on the farm where she died. She was the mother of two boys, aged 6 and 4. She was well and highly respected.

Smith was about 37 years of age, and formerly lived in Allandale. He was for some time employed on the G.T.R.

PRINCE VICTIM OF AN ARREST

Former Friend of the German Emperor Under a Cloud.

Berlin, May 9.—Prince Philip zu Eulenburg has been placed under arrest. The crown prosecutor took this step as a result of the testimony given by two men at his bedside to the effect that the prince had been guilty of wrongful actions with them 25 years ago.

Prince zu Eulenberg was involved in the court scandal in Berlin that grew out of the charges brought by Maximillen Harden, editor of Die Zukunet, last summer.

The prince was taken into custody at his castle at Liebenberg and brought in in an ambulance automobile forty miles to the Charity Hospital, where he was detained pending a further hearing of a charge of perjury against him. The prince's arrest is taken to mean the irretrievable ruin of this brilliant man, who was at one time a confidential friend of Emperor William.

The prince has been nearer to His Majesty during the greater part of his reign than any other German subject. He might have been Chancellor of the Empire if he had not refused the post. This he did possibly because stories of secret misconduct have long been circulating against him.

IMPROVEMENTS CONTEMPLATED

Changes to be Made on Ontario's Provincial Railway.

Toronto, May 9.—A large number of improvements are being made along the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway this season, and yesterday the commissioners considered a number of tenders and accepted several. The work for which tenders were advertised was frame stations at Moose Lake and Dane, a freight shed at Haileybury, a waiting-room at Thorneau, two water tanks, five section houses, a brick office and stores at Englehart, painting the stations from North Bay to New Liskeard, icehouse at Englehart, 40-foot concrete culverts, one five-foot concrete culvert and three abutments. In all, sixty-nine tenders were received.

The work of painting the stations has been given to the O'Boyle Construction Co., Limited. J. K. McConnell of Sturgeon Falls will build the five sections houses and the stations at Moose Lake and Dane. L. C. Wideman of Guelph and Englehart will build the waiting-room at Thorneau. The O'Boyle Construction Co. was awarded the contract for the office and store buildings at Englehart, as well as for the water-tanks. All the tenders accepted were the lowest.

C.P.R. Mechanics Organize.

Montreal, May 9.—The general committee representing the mechanical organizations of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in session here, has succeeded in uniting the organizations from the Atlantic to the Pacific under the title of the Federation of Railway Employes, and in event of a strike fully five thousand men would be affected. The organization takes in machinists and mechanics of all classes.

The committee has drawn up a demand which includes a nine-hour day and uniform rules and regulations. In the west the nine-hour day has been in operation for some time, but not so in the east, where ten hours prevails.

The firemen rendered good service, but the flames had obtained good headway before being noticed [illegible]

METHODISTS PASS THEIR OPINION

Pass Resolution on Political and Social Questions.

Nelson, B.C., May 9.—The District Methodist Conference unanimously passed the following resolution after a long and animated debate:

That, having regard to social and political conditions, we believe there is a great need for a very emphatic statement concerning the relations of the Methodist Church and the people the church represents to these great and fundamental questions.

(a) In relation to political life and conditions, we believe the laxness and the indifference of the majority of Christian people to the great political issues is most serious. It is a question whether the responsibility for much of the political corruption should not be placed upon those who seem most to deplore their existence, because of their failure to bring upon the political representatives the influence of their personal interest and activity.

(b) In relation to social questions, we believe that very much of the social unrest that prevails to-day is alien to the Church of God and is serious in its tendencies. Further, that social and economic movements are largely out of sympathy with the church's activity. We believe that much of this might be corrected would the church at large and the Christian people in general take a more active and intelligent interest in these questions.

MAN'S ESCAPE REMARKABLE

Exciting Experience of Trainman at Smith's Falls.

Smith's Falls, May 9.—Ross Edwards, a C.P.R. employe, had an exciting experience here. He was working in the yard and was in the act of turning a switch when his foot caught in a frog.

The train was backing down the track and was only a short distance from him, but he could not extricate himself. With great presence of mind, he grabbed the hand rail of the car when the train was close upon him and by sheer force succeeded in tearing his foot from the frog, but not before the flange of the wheel had grazed his ankle. His boot was torn in two, the upper portion coming off as though cut with a knife. He then managed to jump clear of the train and though his limbs were all intact his foot was swollen to an abnormal size and had turned black.

Impaled on a Fork.

St. Catharines, May 9.—What will likely prove a fatal accident occurred at Beechwood, a small settlement in Thorold Township. Miss Millan, a young lady, left her house to go in search of her father, who was at work in the barnyard. While coming around the corner of the barn she suddenly met him coming in the opposite direction with a pitchfork under his arm. A prong of the fork entered the young woman's eye and and pierced the brain. Since the accident Miss Millan has become paralyzed, and her life is despaired of.

Olympic Rifle Team.

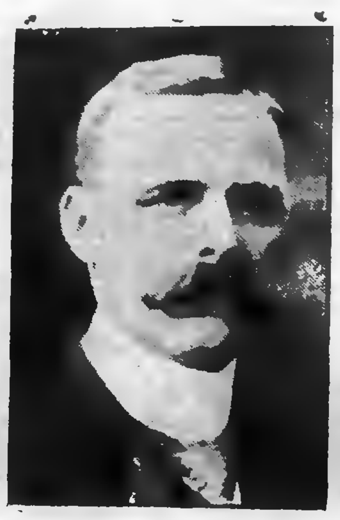
Washington, May 9.—The National Rifle Association announces that it will send a team of six principals and three alternates to represent the United States in the Olympic rifle matches at Bisley, England, July 9, 10 and 11. The selection of the team will be made by open competition.

Wreck of a Freight Train.

St. Thomas, May 9.—Eighty freight cars were mixed up in a wreck on the Michigan Central at Cayuga. Most of the cars were thrown from the tracks and piled beside them in long lines. The cause of the mishap is not known. No one was injured, but the damage to rolling stock was heavy.

NEW WHARVES TO BE BUILT AT WOLFE ST. AND MARK ST.

ALD. PHELAN



R. R. HALL, M. P.

ALD. McINTYRE

LOCAL DEPUTATION'S GOOD WORK

A new wharf will be built at the Wolfe street landing and also at the Mark street landing in Ashburnham. Five thousand dollars has been granted for this purpose by the Dominion Government and work will be commenced at once. Two splendid wharves will be constructed. The one at Wolfe street will be the larger and it will cost somewhat more than the Ashburnham one.

Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, accompanied by Ald. Elliott and Ald. McIntyre, has returned from Ottawa where they succeeded in getting a grant of $5,000 for the purpose of building the wharves. They waited on the Hon. Dr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, and presented such a strong case that the Minister said his department would grant $5,000 to build the two wharves. The deputation was introduced by Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., and were given a cordial reception by the Minister.

The deputation also waited on Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, and secured from this Department a "marine slip," which will be of great value to local steamship owners. This slip is used for pulling boats out of the water when it is necessary to bring them up on the land for the purpose of making repairs, etc. The slip will, to some extent take the place of a dry dock. It will arrive in Peterboro in the near future. The deputation was also introduced to Mr. Graham by Mr. Hall.

Ald. Phelan, Ald. Elliott and Ald. McMntyre deserve great credit for their work at Ottawa. With most deputations it is a case of getting promises of consideration, and other equally unsubstantial things. The three Peterboro aldermen, however, got what they wanted, and didnt return to Peterborough with their fingers in their mouths.

Fire Chiefs Convention.

Albany, May 9.—Michael E. Higgins, chief of the Albany fire department, as president of the International Association of Fire Chiefs, has completed the program for this year's convention, which will be held at Columbus, O., on Aug. 25, 26, 27 and 28. The heads of the fire departments throughout the United States and Canada will be in attendance.

School Books In Saskatchewan.

Regina, Sask., May 9.—The Morang school book contract was defended by the Minister of Education in a two-hour speech, during which he resented charges of graft alleged to have been made by the leader of the Opposition, and dared Mr. Haultain to make good.

In a short reply Mr. Haultain denied having made any charges of graft and stated that he had not done so because he was not in a position to prove graft. He promised, however, to make charges which he could back up when he spoke on [illegible]

Preferred Death to School.

Guelph, May 9.—A shocking suicide took place at Eden Grove, between Walkerton and Paisley. A boy named Calum, only eight years of age, hanged himself with a rope rather than go to school. He had got into trouble at school, either with playmates or the teacher, and refused to go back. His mother insisted, and he said he would die first. No attention was paid to the threat, and he was sent off. Later the body was found hanging by a rope, which he had placed about his neck.

INVESTIGATION IS COMMENCED

Major Hodgins' Charges Being Probed at Ottawa

Ottawa, May 9.—Major Hodgins' charges respecting the Grand Trunk Pacific commenced before the committee to investigate them yesterday. All the Transcontinental commissioners were in attendance, headed by S. N. Parent. There was a large attendance of members and of the general public.

At the outset, Frank Hodgins, K.C., who announced that he appeared for the major, asked for an adjournment, claiming that his client had only reached Toronto from Victoria the previous day, and that he had not had time to confer as to the facts of the case.

This proposition led to a good deal of cross-firing, but finally it was agreed that Frank Hodgins, K.C., should file a statement of the charges with the clerk of the committee on Monday night, and that the investigation should begin on Tuesday with the examination of Major Hodgins.

Frank Hodgins asked that counsel should be assigned to the major; in other words, that the country should pay the costs of the lawyer of the man who makes the charge.

Irish Coercion Bill Repealed.

London, May 9.—By a vote of 201 to 7 the bill repealing the Irish Coercion Act of 1887 passed its second reading in the House of Commons yesterday.

Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell strongly supported the measure, declaring the Coercion Act to be unconstitutional and intolerable. He maintained that Ireland, as a whole, was law-abiding, although in parts there is a spirit of lawlessness, which he deplored. He said that any attempt to govern Ireland by coercion would be political insanity.

Painful Burning Accident.

London, Ont., May 9.—Miss Annabel Purdy, South London, yesterday met with a painful accident that may have fatal results. Miss Purdy, who was ill with mumps, while helping herself to a drink of water upset an oil lamp left burning at her bedside, the blazing fluid setting fire to the bedding and her clothing. Her cries brought help, but before the flames could be extinguished she was so badly burned that removal to Victoria Hospital was necessary.

An Oil Gusher.

Leamington, May 9.—Yesterday a great oil gusher was struck on the farm of Wesley Reid, 7th Concession, Mersea, about four miles from this town, which will yield about 500 barrels a day. It is about the centre of the oil field here, which was the cause of so much excitement three or four years ago.

RUNNING

Four runners will tackle the Hamilton-Toronto grind for the Mulqueen cup next Wednesday. In addition to Sandy Begley, Will Thomas and T. J. McAughey, the Maitland Lacrosse Club will have a starter. He is Andy McKennedy, a plugger, whose friends claim he knows not when to quit. McKennedy is 21 years of age, and weighs 125 pounds. He ran in the Ward Marathon, Hamilton Herald, and R. C. B. C. Marathon races last year and always finished with plenty of reserve. McKennedy is a popular lad, and if he wins the Maitlands will make a loud noise. Billy Hogg, another North Ender, is training for the run, but his entry has not yet been received by the cup trustees. —Toronto Star.

TURF

COURTOWN II OUT.

Courtown II., the pride of the Dyment stable, the hope of the north and favorite of the Woodbine rail birds, has broken down hopelessly and will be sent to the farm at Barrie for a year.

The three-year-old son of Courtown and Lady Berkeley did his work yesterday morning in the mud apparently to the satisfaction of trainers and onlookers. Lorne Thompson had the leg up for the trial on account of the condition of the track, the colt being of an exceptionally playful nature. Courtown II. pulled up apparently all right, there being no indication of lameness. But soon after entering his stall the trainer noticed that the off front leg was filling. The injured member was at once placed in the tub, without improvement.

Johnny Dyment was naturally disconsolate over the unfortunate circumstance, Courtown II he considered the best plater he ever trained, and the first that ever went wrong in working out for the guineas. So well did Mr. Dyment think of Court. II. that he took him over the Canadian circuit as a two-year-old, giving him several starts. The colt's best performance under silk was his second to Johnny Blage in a five-furlong dash at Hamilton last fall.

The Barrie stable has Excise still left in the plate. He is by Cannie Boy —Flying Bess and unless showing a good trial will scarcely face the starter.

Provided the Driving Park track is dry enough, a good string of steppers will likely work out there on Monday.

BASEBALL

Maddock, Burns, O'Brien, Murphy, Edmunds and other members of the Peterborough baseball team, had a workout at Central Park this afternoon, but were forced to quit on account of the rain. The grounds were in a pretty slippery condition.

He comes here under the joint auspices of the Teachers' Institutes of the city and the county and will speak to the teachers especially in the afternoon. As he holds one of the most honorable positions in Canada and is a speaker of force and eloquence, it is hoped that the people of the city will take this opportunity of seeing and hearing him.

A RECORD HANDICAP.

About the quickest handicap match ever pulled off in Peterborough, or, for that matter, any place else, was held at the Y.M.C.A. this afternoon, when George McDonald, and a young man by the name of Stewart, came together. The conditions called for McDonald throwing his man five times in five minutes and he succeeded in doing so.

SLEEPING DRAUGHTS AND SOOTHING MIXTURES

A wise mother will never give her little ones a sleeping draught, soothing mixture or opiate of any kind except upon the advice of a competent doctor, who has seen the child. All these things contain deadly poison. When you give your baby or young child Baby's Own Tablets you have the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain one particle of opiate or narcotic, and therefore cannot possibly do harm—but always do good. Mrs. Geo. M. Kempt, Carleton Place, Ont., says:—"I have given Baby's Own Tablets to my baby since he was two weeks old. He was a very small thin baby, but thanks to the Tablets he is now a big, fat, healthy boy." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CONCERT POSTPONED

Last night was a disappointment to the committee having charge of the concert and entertainment at George street Sunday school, and as a consequence of the unfavorable weather the event had to be postponed. The downpour of rain kept many away and it was thought better to hold the programme and give it on another date than to run it off to an audience of only a few. Further announcement will be made in a few days. The friends who had paid admission received tickets good for the evening.

Nothing Did Good

Until She Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

Madame Rioux is the wife of M. Jos. Rioux, a wealthy manufacturer of lumber in St. Moise. Madame Rioux is greatly esteemed in her home town and her testimonial in favor of "Fruit-a-tives" carries conviction with it, as it is entirely unsolicited.

St. Moise, Quebec.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the marvelous good which I have received from the use of the famous tablets "Fruit-a-tives". I was a great sufferer for many years with serious liver disease and severe constipation. I had constant pain in the right side and in the back and these pains were severe and distressing. My digestion was very bad, with frequent headaches, and I became greatly run down in health. I took many kinds of liver pills and liver medicine without any benefit, and I was treated by several doctors but nothing did me any good, bloating continued. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I began to feel better, the dreadful pains in the right side and back were easier and when I had taken three boxes I was practically well. 150

THIS PLACE IS CERTAINLY AN EYESORE

East Side of Water Street Along the "Goose Pond" is Very Unsightly Spot

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," but there is one place at least in Peterborough that is neither a beauty and will never be a joy, as long as it is left in this present condition. The reference is to that portion of Water street which fronts on the "goose pond." A more unsightly spot could not be imagined. The side of the street and shore of the pond are being used for a dumping ground and a beautiful supply of ashes, tin cans, and rubbish of all sorts has accumulated. The effect is very striking though far from pleasing.

A prominent citizen remarked today that the city should have some other place for a dumping ground. That point on Water street is too prominent and an eye-sore to the many that pass that way and also to those who live on the west side of the street in that vicinity. He said that the bank should be properly graded, ground spread on it and grass seed sowed on it. If it were properly attended to, the place would be a beauty spot instead of an eyesore in the near future.

IMMIGRATION TRAIN PASSED THROUGH CITY

This Afternoon --- Three Young Men Got off Here --Positions on Farms Awaited Them

The "Empress of Britain" arrived at Quebec yesterday with a large number of immigrants on board. An immigrant train passed through the city this afternoon. Only three got off here and at once proceeded to the office of Mr. G. H. Howson, the local immigration agent, where he had positions on farms waiting for them. They were all single men, industrious and sturdy looking fellows. The other young Englishmen were placed on farms this morning by Mr. Howson. The demand by farmers for assistants is great and exceeds the supply.
